ISLAND SEIZURE PROPOSAL STIRS SENATE STORM

Debate on Embargo Waxes Bitter.

TODAY'S GRAPHIC

In today's Graphic Section—the second instalment of "Road to War," by Walter Millis. Also—an article on how Dictator Stalin of Russia is guarded against assassination.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Tempers flared in the senate today as half a dozen senators engaged in spirited exchanges in the discussion of neutrality legislation. The Saturday session marked the end of two weeks' debate on the subject, which found the chamber little closer to a vote on revision of the neutrality act than when it convened.

Senator Wiley.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's proposal for a ban on sale of offensive weapons to European nations, announced in a radio speech last night, was heatedly discussed. So, also, was a proposal that the United States take over some of Great Britain's island possessions in payment of British war debts. President Roosevelt's failure to proclaim Russia a belligerent nation came in for question.

Call Repeal War Step.

Noninterventionist senators repeated their assertions that repeal of the arms embargo would constitute the first step toward war. The administration group replied bitterly that retention of the embargo aids Adolf Hitler and injures Great Britain and France.

The wrangling finally evoked an outburst from a freshman senator, Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.], who delivered a sharp criticism of both sides amid applause from the galleries.

"There are too many wild assertions being made in this chamber," asserted Senator Wiley.

"Both sides claim their opponents are seeking to lead the nation into war. The people are being stirred into hysteria. It is time to start guarding our tongues. This isn't a debate. No one listens to the other side's arguments. It's merely feeding buncombe to the people!"

Frazier Opens Debate.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier [R., N. D.] opened the debate with a charge that "war lords" in the United States were attempting to push the country into the European war in order to test out the country's "war paraphernalia."

Frazier argued for retention of the arms embargo. "Once we yield to pro-British and pro-French pressure we will find ourselves in war," he declared. "If the arms embargo is lifted it must be conceded that it will favor one side in the conflict against the other—and favoring one side means a step toward war.

"Repeal of the embargo definitely aligns us on the side of Great Britain and France, and when those countries want credit they will get it even at the expense of the American taxpayer. If we really mean what we say and want to stay out of war, why lift the embargo? Why change from our neutrality course if we do not intend to go all the way? The antiquated argument of saving democracy in Europe is no reason for this country to take any action that might involve it in the conflict."

Land Payment Indorsed.

Col. Lindbergh's suggestion that Great Britain and France might turn over some of their island possessions in this hemisphere to the United States in payment of their war debts was indorsed by Senator Ernest Lundeen [F-L., Minn.], who followed Senator Frazier.

Lundeen said the navy ought to take over some of Britain's island possessions without waiting for a voluntary offer which, he opined, would never come.

This statement brought Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] to his feet with a shouted observation that such a move would be reprehensible. He

Bare Warnings to Manteno on Epidemic Peril

The state health department had warned the department of public welfare of a polluted water supply at the Manteno State hospital prior to the typhoid epidemic which has taken 47 lives there in the last two months. More than 350 persons still are ill. Rumors that such warnings had been given have been rife here for several days. Circumstances uncovered yesterday gave evidence of their verity.

The typhoid was traced to one of the four wells which supply the big new institution. None of these wells had been chlorinated against the danger of typhoid. Neither had the precaution of inoculating the 5,400 insane patients and 770 employés against typhoid been taken, except in the case of those who handled food.

"This laxity," said officials of the health board yesterday, "cannot be laid at our door. We are clear. The warnings had been given."

Doctors' Warning Revealed.

In addition to the health department warnings that the water supply at Manteno was polluted, it was revealed last night that a committee of prominent Chicago physicians, in a report completed last June, strongly urged inoculation of all persons at Manteno against typhoid and smallpox, pointing out the danger of an epidemic.

These physicians, under the chairmanship of Dr. Milton M. Portis, studied the administration of medical care in all state charitable institutions. They were appointed by the Institute of Medicine of Chicago upon request of Gov. Horner and A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, that such a study be made.

In part, their report said:

"Routine prophylaxis against typhoid is reported by most of the institutions and against smallpox by all except Manteno where neither is carried out. This, the largest of Illinois state hospitals, should most certainly take these precautions.

Spread of Dysentery Cited.

"Study of procedure relative to other infections and prophylactic isolations shows that it appears to vary with the medical interest of the managing officers. The fact that in some of the institutions bacillary dysentery has become endemic [prevailing] emphasizes the importance of checking and controling the water supply constantly, examining all food handlers regularly, and sterilizing food containers properly after each meal."

Bowen, who supervises all state institutions, admitted yesterday that the wells at Manteno had not been chlorinated until Aug. 19, the day the illness which had struck the hospital was identified as typhoid.

"We chlorinated them when the health department told us there was something suspicious about the water," he said.

Questioned on Warnings.

"Was that the first warning that had been given by the health department?" Bowen was asked.

"It was the first time they came in person," he replied.

"Had you had any previous reports or communications from them that the Manteno water was bad?"

"I don't think so," he said. "None that I recall. They send reports every month. Sometimes they fall into my hands, sometimes they don't."

Efforts to locate Dr. A. C. Baxter, state director of health, to learn the dates when pollution warnings had been given, failed.

Five Typhoid Carriers Found.

Tests to determine the presence of typhoid carriers among the Manteno hospital population were made after the epidemic was discovered, Bowen said, and five carriers were found. Those persons have been isolated, according to Carl Schwab, a health department engineer who has been made assistant managing officer at Manteno and given the job of cleaning up the epidemic.

Bowen said one reason why wholesale typhoid inoculations had not been ordered before the epidemic was that the patients all suffer varying degrees of insanity.

"We try to keep them quiet when they are brought to Manteno," he said, "and vaccinations get them excited. However, they are all inoculated now, old and new patients alike, as well as the employés."

800 SAILORS DIE AS U-BOAT SINKS BRITISH WARSHIP

396 Rescued from Royal Oak.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The British admiralty late tonight announced that 396 men were known to have survived the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak and that only a "further short list" of survivors was expected.

This left about 800 men still missing from the $10,000,000 vessel, which had about 1,200 men aboard when it was sent to the bottom. It was believed the sinking was caused by a submarine. When or where the sinking occurred was not disclosed.

It was indicated that an investigation will be conducted into the loss of the Royal Oak, which was one of England's fifteen capital ships.

Facts Kept Secret.

A naval expert of the Sunday Times, which often reflects government views, said:

"Circumstances in which the loss occurred will be carefully examined by the admiralty. It is, perhaps, natural that official circles should be wary of premature disclosure of facts which may require that they be established legally at a later stage."

Naval experts maintained that a U-boat, not a bombing plane, sank the Royal Oak. In support of this they declared that it appeared certain the vessel was sunk during darkness, which would have made an air attack impossible.

They also said the loss of the Royal Oak had no connection with the sinking of three German U-boats announced by the admiralty yesterday.

Rule Out Mine Possibility.

Since the brief admiralty statements concerning the sinking of the vessel made no mention of mines, it was assumed that this possibility also was ruled out.

Naval experts said the construction of the Royal Oak was such that unless its magazines were touched off by an explosion, no single torpedo would be sufficient to sink it.

[Other dispatches said unofficial reports in London indicated that the Royal Oak went down in darkness, probably early yesterday, with at least two Nazi torpedoes in it. It was indicated that the submarine fired the torpedoes into the battleship's magazines. There was speculation on the possibility that a new type of torpedo might be the mysterious new German weapon of which Fuehrer Hitler boasted in his Danzig speech on Sept. 19. Warning England against its blockade of Germany, the Fuehrer at that time said: "The time could rapidly come when we apply a weapon against which we cannot be attacked."]

Admitted to Be Serious Blow.

The loss of the Royal Oak, coming on top of the loss of the aircraft carrier Courageous on Sept. 17 with the loss of 515 lives, has caused an enormous impression here and is admitted to be a serious blow.

The first intimation of the loss of the Royal Oak came from an admiralty statement at 11 o'clock this morning. It said:

"The secretary of the admiralty regrets to announce that the Royal Oak has been sunk, it is believed by U-boat action. A list of survivors will be published as soon as possible."

A second statement, issued at 4 o'clock this afternoon, announced 370 survivors. Capt. W. G. Benn, the Royal Oak's commander, was among them, as was Commander R. F. Nicholls, second in command.

Text of Second Statement.

The second statement said:

"The secretary of the admiralty announces that, so far as is at present known, the number of survivors from H. M. S. Royal Oak is approximately 370.

"As already stated, lists of survivors will be published as soon as the names have been received. The complement of the ship was approximately 1,200. The above figures include both officers and men."

The Royal Oak at the outbreak of the war was attached to the second battle squadron of the home fleet.

The ship was commissioned in 1916, just in time to participate in the battle of Jutland. Overhauled four years ago, it was a powerful unit of the Mediterranean fleet during the Spanish civil war. Antiaircraft shells fell on its decks during attacks off Valencia.

The vessel belonged to the Royal

FINNS SPURN RED DEMAND, FOREIGN MINISTER HINTS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 15 [Sunday.] (AP).—Foreign Minister Eljas J. Erkko said in a radio broadcast to America early today that Finland could not accept a proposal "which would strengthen the security of one side at the expense of the other" in the present negotiations with soviet Russia.

Eljas J. Erkko.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

As he spoke, Finland's delegation to a conference with Russia, headed by Dr. J. K. Paasikivi, was hurrying home after an unexpected decision to interrupt the Moscow conferences for a report to the Helsingfors government. A government spokesman earlier said the move did not mean negotiations had been broken off.

Erkko said Finland was seeking a solution which would "contribute to the feeling of safety in this part of Europe where we live."

Threat to Integrity of Nation.

"But a solution which would strengthen security on one side at the expense of the other and which would weaken the possibilities of either to assure its vital interests and to protect its free national life or threaten the integrity of nations or its declared neutrality cannot be approved by anyone," he declared.

Observers interpreted his statements as intimating the soviet government had asked not only for territorial concessions to establish naval bases on Finnish islands in the Gulf of Finland and on the Aaland Islands in the north Baltic, but also a mutual assistance pact similar to those with Estonia and Latvia. The foreign minister said:

"A nation's future and fate depend in the end on its own will to defend its elementary rights and freedom against all aggression.

Thanks America for Support.

"I cannot refrain from availing myself of this opportunity to give an expression of the sincere gratitude felt by the people of Finland to the people of the United States as a whole and to President Roosevelt, head of your state and your government, for the friendship and moral support you have shown us which we understand were intended to create circumstances on the basis of which in the present situation could be found a peaceful, moderate solution."

[President Roosevelt, in a message to President Mikhail Kalinin of Russia, asked the soviets not to make demands which would imperil the good relations existing between Russia and Finland.]

Too Sweeping Demands.

A government source left little doubt that the soviet proposals made in the first Moscow sessions were more sweeping in their present form than the Finns were prepared to accept.

The temporary termination of the talks coincided with increased activity among Finland's reservists, strengthening of the government by cabinet changes, and a stiffened front among the northern European nations.

A foreign office spokesman said Dr. Paasikivi's return was "not a surprise." It was unlikely, the source said, that discussions would be resumed before the completion of a conference of northern nations starting in Stockholm Wednesday.

[King Gustaf of Sweden invited Norway, Finland, and Denmark to the conference, which the countries

ENGLAND CONVERTS BIG MERCHANT SHIPS INTO ARMED CRUISERS

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP).—A number of big merchant vessels are being fitted out by Great Britain as cruisers to form a new defensive squadron for the navy. One of the squadron is a 15,000-ton liner launched recently and now completing transformation into an armed cruiser.

From its sides point barrels of powerful guns. Two cargo holds have been converted into ammunition magazines and range finder and fire direction apparatus has been set up.

To lessen the danger of sinking, 19,000 airtight drums and 1,100 tons of wood have been placed on board.

ANTIAIRCRAFT BARRAGE STIRS NAZIS' CAPITAL

Land Blasts Heard; Deny Bombs Fall.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 15 [Sunday].—German officials late last night announced that a plane, believed to be British, was sighted between Oranienburg and Hermsdorf, north of Berlin, at an altitude of 21,000 feet and was fired upon by antiaircraft guns.

It was not announced whether any bombs were dropped, but persons who drove in the direction of the antiaircraft firing, which was still continuing early today, said they heard detonations that could have been caused by bombs.

Flashes from bursting antiaircraft shells were numerous and it was believed such a heavy barrage would not have been directed against one plane only. Spectators were convinced, too, that bursts of light seen against the horizon were caused by bombs.

No Bombing Raid, Say Officials.

Nazi officials said that it was "preposterous to assume that the English would try to drop bombs on Berlin from a height of 21,000 feet, because they can aim at an objective only from a maximum height of 4,000 feet, and the English would not risk missing military objectives because they know this [a raid on Berlin] would call for a terrific reprisal."

The flashes of bursting shells and the muffled sound of firing guns were seen and heard from the offices of THE TRIBUNE in the center of Berlin. The rays of giant searchlights also could be seen playing about the skies.

Radio Station Leaves Air.

No air raid alarm was sounded, but the Berlin broadcasting station left the air. The station said its program had been interrupted by a technical disturbance, but some sources believed it was shut down to make it impossible for the plane to use its waves as a guide.

There also was great activity in Gatow, the air center west of Berlin. Some persons believed this was the goal of the raider.

[Rumors that Berlin had been bombed reached London last night from neutral countries. It was denied in British official circles that the Royal Air force has taken part in any such raid.]

Sea Victory Celebrated.

The air raid excitement came as Germany was celebrating the sinking of the British battleship Royal Oak by a German submarine. This feat, together with other losses which the British navy suffered in the last week, is regarded here as a serious blow to British naval supremacy.

During the world war German submarines were not able to destroy a British battleship comparable with the fighting strength of the Royal Oak. This is seen as proof that the efficiency and striking power of German submarines have been greatly improved.

The sinking of one of Great Britain's 15 capital ships is seen here as a "fitting reply to the British denial of German claims that the North sea now is controled by Germany's sea and air force." Besides U-boats, German torpedo bombers are believed to be especially effective weapons to keep the British fleet out of the North sea.

In day and night shifts, German navy yards are busy increasing German submarine tonnage.

Insist Ark Royal Went Down.

Germans insist that the Royal Oak is the third serious loss the British navy has suffered in this war, the first being the sinking by a German submarine of the aircraft carrier Courageous. All German radio stations and newspapers yesterday asked that Winston Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty, give satisfactory proof of the whereabouts of the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal, which the Germans claim was destroyed by a German bomber.

[The British have denied the Ark Royal was damaged.]

Authoritative sources indicated Germany's next important war move awaited the outcome of consultations with Russia and Italy. Officials said negotiations with Italy and Russia were under way diplomatically and "in other ways." It was taken for granted this meant negotiations on military and economic questions.

It was also stated that small neutral powers are continuing their attempts to bring about contact between German, English, and French negotiators for peace.

Nazis Down Three Planes.

The German high command yesterday reported the war on the west front was marked only by "minor artillery activity." Three enemy airplanes were said to have been shot down by pursuit planes and antiaircraft fire.

One plane was shot down near Schleiden, which is east of the Belgian border south of Aachen. A second was shot down near Idor Oberstein in the Saarbruecken sector, some 35 miles in German territory. The third was felled at Mayen, near Coblenz, 60 miles northeast of Saarbruecken and deep in German territory.

Diplomats Off to Warsaw.

A train filled with international diplomats left Berlin yesterday for Warsaw, from which they had fled, to inspect embassies, legations, and consulates, or what is left of them. They will live on the train and will be allowed to remain only three days.

An official was asked how the German authorities expected the population of more than 1,000,000 to continue to live in Warsaw after its destruction and in view of the destruction of water mains.

"There is not a million left—at most 800,000," he replied. "Thousands died, other thousands fled. There are 80,000 injured civilians in emergency hospitals."

Small Chance for Many.

He indicated there was only a small chance of recovery for many of them since "it is impossible to take care of all needs."

A special food train, the Bayernzug, is in Warsaw, and Germans said it will "distribute 600,000 portions of food there daily." The army is distributing bread, too. Severe cold has set in, aggravating the situation.

GEN. PARSONS URGES ARMY TO MAINTAIN PEACE

Washington, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP).—Maj. Gen. James K. Parsons, commander of the army's third corps area, today declared "this country wants peace, but it must be peace with honor." He told the Pennsylvania National Guard association that to obtain this peace America must be adequately prepared to maintain it.

"Adequate protection," said Gen. Parsons, "means we must have a navy surpassed by none, an air force superior to any air force which possibly might be brought against us, sufficient antiaircraft defense for our vital areas, modern harbor defenses to cover approaches to our cities from the sea, and a mobile army equipped with the latest and best weapons.

"In addition to all this, we must have on hand the arms and ammunition necessary to last us until our factories and arsenals can produce what we require and an ample quantity of raw materials which we do not produce to last at least for a year."

SWEDEN SEEKS LIQUOR TAX RISE TO MEET BUDGET

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 14 (AP).—The government announced today a bill to increase liquor taxes to help pay Sweden's mounting budget deficit, estimated to reach 500,000,000 crowns [about $120,000,000] up to next July 1 because of the European crisis.

The increase would be two crowns [about 48 cents] on the first liter [1.057 quarts], and four crowns on the subsequent three of the four liters a Swede may legally buy each month.

The wine tax also would be increased. The raises would mean an increase of 40 to 80 per cent in the retail prices of the most popular brands of wine and liquor.

MOTORIST DIES AFTER CRASH.

Washington, Ind., Oct. 14 [Special].—Joseph Farrell, 29 years old, of Loogootee, died here today of injuries received in a highway collision. Four other persons in the motor car with Farrell were unhurt. They told police the other driver, whose vehicle was a truck left the scene to get an ambulance and never returned.

Berlin Shells Plane

German antiaircraft guns fired on a mystery plane between two towns (1) north of Berlin last night. There also was great activity in Gatow (2), an aviation center.

CLAIM NAZIS HAVE PLAN TO DESTROY ENGLAND'S NAVY

ROME, Oct. 14.—The German air force has plans to blast the British fleet off the seas by allotting 200 planes for the bombing of each warship, Vie dell' Aria, official newspaper of the Italian air force, said today.

The newspaper said that the plan envisages sinking five warships a month, with an estimated loss of 1,000 planes. It added that Germany has the industrial equipment capable of manufacturing 1,000 planes monthly, while British shipyards require three years to build a warship. It is easy to see, the newspaper said, that in the long run even the largest fleet can be blown off the seas.

Moreover, Britain's strength is based not only on its fleet, but also on its highly organized industrial structure, the newspaper continued. Germany's air attack, therefore, could paralyze or seriously impair the key industries because the estimated loss of German planes would be small in comparison to the damage done.

FASCIST WRITER SAYS BRITISH 'NO' A DANGEROUS ONE

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP).—Virginio Gayda, who often speaks Premier Mussolini's mind, today termed British Prime Minister Chamberlain's reply to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's peace proposals "a dangerous no."

The authoritative editor, writing in Il Giornale D'Italia, said nevertheless "the irreparable has not yet occurred."

"In the same speech of the British prime minister," he wrote, "horizons of a new and more just Europe appear faintly.

Gayda contended that Hitler accepted Premier Mussolini's proposals to negotiate the Polish problem and therefore "Hitler and Germany cannot be blamed for the irreparable."

Gayda also said the insistence on the reconstitution of Poland should be addressed to Germany, soviet Russia, and Lithuania, instead of Hitler alone.

FIRST CANADIAN DIVISION MAY GO WITHIN 2 MONTHS

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 14 [Canadian Press].—Canada's first overseas division probably will proceed to England within two months to complete training and receive service equipment, informed sources said today.

It was reported that, like the first contingent in the world war, the division of about 16,000 men probably will spend the winter, or a large part of it, in England.

It was explained that winter makes the final training of the division impracticable in Canada.

800 SAILORS DIE AS U-BOAT SINKS BRITISH WARSHIP

Sovereign class of five ships. Under the reconditioning four years ago, the Royal Oak was protected with a 13 inch steel belt against submarines and had deep bulges extending up to the batteries to give further protection. [Bulges are armored air spaces designed to explode torpedoes without serious damage.]

Carried Eight 15 Inch Guns.

The ship carried eight 15-inch guns, twelve 6-inch guns, eight 4-inch antiaircraft guns, and four submerged torpedo tubes.

[With the Royal Oak gone Britain has 14 capital ships—11 battleships and three battle cruisers—and France seven. Germany has only five, including three pocket battleships of 10,000 tons each. The United States has 15 capital ships. The tonnage of the 14 remaining British capital ships is 444,550. The American capital ship tonnage is 466,890. That of France is 164,945 and of Germany 82,000.]

The admiralty tonight said there was no truth in Nazi claims that the British dreadnaught Hood, the world's biggest and most powerful fighting ship, was damaged by Nazi bombing planes in the North sea on Sept. 26.

May Threaten Blockade.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP).—Naval experts here viewed the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak as a severe blow to British sea power, but with more serious implications for the future than for the present.

If German submarines should be able thus to trim further the British-French 6 to 1 naval margin over the Nazi fleet, the sea blockade of Germany might be definitly threatened with collapse, experts said.

They were as much interested in the manner in which the 29,150 ton battleship was sunk as in the loss itself.

A battleship at sea normally is safeguarded by a protective screen of light cruisers and destroyers as well as by its own armour and antitorpedo "blisters" along the hull. Additional protection is provided by scouting planes.

Whether a U-boat actually sank the $10,000,000 battleship as indicated by the British admiralty, and whether torpedoes were fired when the ship was at sea or at anchor were questions of importance to the American and other navies which consider the battleship the backbone of a fleet.

Recall Leahy Testimony.

The twelve battleships with the American fleet in the Pacific are little more modern in design than the Royal Oak, tho probably better protected.

The sinking "underscored" official testimony given to congress last year that a battleship is not invulnerable. Admiral William D. Leahy, then chief of operations, said a battleship could be sunk by torpedoes, armor piercing shells, or aerial bombs—"under conditions favorable to the attack and provided it is hit often enough and in the right place."

In the world war Britain lost two dreadnaughts of the same general type as those now in service and eleven battleships of a pre-dreadnaught type, aside from three battle cruisers and scores of lighter cruisers and destroyers. Torpedoes accounted for many; mines and explosions caused other losses.

800 Killed When Germans Sink British Warship

ANTI TORPEDO BULGE

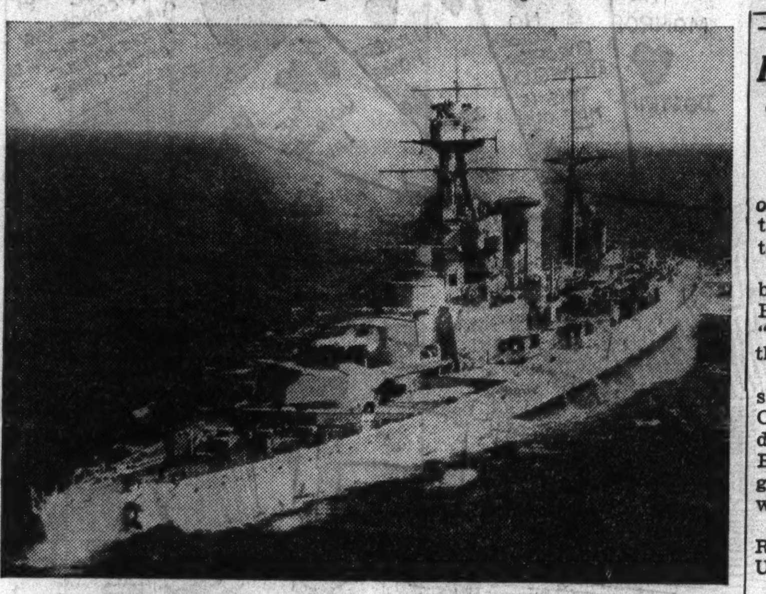
The British battleship Royal Oak, which, according to the British, was sunk by a German submarine with the loss of about 800 of her 1,200 crew members. The battleship, heavily armored, was equipped with special "bulges" designed to protect it from torpedo attack.



The British admiralty denied reports from Berlin last night that the British battleship Hood, the largest and most powerful naval vessel in the world, had been damaged by bombs from German planes.

ROYAL OAK SUNK ONCE BEFORE, IN A MOVIE DRAMA

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—A fantasy of the films became shocking reality today in Europe's war time drama on the seas.

A year ago the $10,000,000 British battleship Royal Oak was lent by the British admiralty to play the rôle of "Heavy," as an enemy battleship, in the film entitled, "Torpedoed."

In the movie story, the Royal Oak shelled a South American republic. One of the closing scenes showed a defense force cruiser [played by the British cruiser Curacoa] arrive to give battle and scuttle the Royal Oak with a torpedo.

Today, it was announced H. M. S. Royal Oak was sunk by a German U-boat.

NAVY SHAKEUP LAID TO FAULTS IN SHIP DESIGN

Twelve New Destroyers Are Involved.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 [Special].—The secret transfer of several high naval officers in a shakeup of two important divisions of the navy department was attributed today to faults found in naval construction. The changes virtually bring a one man control over the bureau of construction and repair and the bureau of engineering.

Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen has been ordered to command of the naval research department and given an additional post as technical aid to Acting Secretary Charles Edison. Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson has been made shipbuilding coördinator and head of the two large bureaus.

Others Affected by Changes.

Other officers affected by the changes are Rear Admiral William G. Du Bose, Rear Admiral Alexander H. Van Keuren, and Capt. Allan J. Chantry. Du Bose is the former chief of the bureau of construction and repair, and is being succeeded by Van Keuren. Admirals Robinson and Van Keuren are arranging details of the combination of bureaus.

There were reports that the navy department decided on the changes because of technical defects in the planning of twelve new destroyers of the Anderson class. These are vessels of 1,600 tons, each armed with torpedo tubes and five five-inch guns.

Tests Indicate Defects.

It was said that the first, the Anderson, performed satisfactorily in tests when launched, but that more severe trials have indicated defects. For one thing, it was asserted, extra weight added during the construction period, by deviation from original plans, caused doubts as to the destroyers' stability under all conditions. The vessels, however, are all regarded as serviceable.

Fireman Saves Girl from Suicide Leap

Taken to Hospital

New York, Oct. 14 [U. P.].—Blonde Helen Kawslek, 16 years old, determined to have a Broadway career or die, stood on a hotel window ledge for 20 minutes early today threatening to jump if her father and brother did not go back home to Bayonne, N. J., and let her alone.

She was saved by Fireman Richard Oliver, who tied a rope around his waist, was lowered from the window ledge directly above her, and seized her in his arms.

One end of the rope had been secured inside the room from which Oliver jumped. He swayed on the other end, smothering the girl against him as she screamed, clawed, and kicked him. Below, firemen held a safety net. Above, Alex Kawslek, the girl's father, and Henry, her brother, poked their heads thru a window and tried to calm her.

The girl and her rescuer finally were let down by the rope to the safety net and she was forced into an ambulance and taken to Bellevue hospital for observation, still shrieking.

AMERICAN SHIP SAVES 39 FROM FRENCH TANKER

Rescued Sailors First Reported Lost.

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—The American freighter Black Hawk reported today it had rescued 39 survivors of the French tanker Emile Miguet, destroyed by fire off the Irish coast Thursday. One was reported dead.

Capt. Raymond Hodge wirelessed the Black Diamond Line, owners of the ship, that he would take the survivors to Boston. He gave his position as 298 miles west of Bishop Rock, England.

The President Harding of the United States Lines reported yesterday she had reached the 14,155 ton Emile Miguet to find the vessel in flames and no sign of the crew.

Delay Is Unexplained.

The line assumed then that the crew was lost, explaining it was customary for ships to notify other vessels proceeding to the scene of a catastrophe when a rescue had been made.

Capt. Hodge did not explain his delay in reporting the rescue.

The Emile Miguet, largest merchant vessel loss in the current war, left Corpus Christi, Tex., Sept. 17 with 160,000 barrels of gasoline blended with crude oil. She presumably was bound for Havre, France.

Claim 17 U-Boats Sunk.

PARIS, Oct. 14 [U. P.].—Authoritative French sources said today that the allied fleets had sunk 17 or 18 German submarines since the start of the war and that several others had been attacked and their fate could not be determined.

GETS 15 TO 30 YEARS.

Ionia, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special].—For stealing used auto parts in Belding he later got only $16 for, George Knowles, 38, Ionia laborer, was sentenced to 15 to 30 years in Jackson prison today on his plea of guilty to a third breaking and entering offense.

'THIS IS WHERE WE STAND,' SAY BRITISH TROOPS

Consolidate Positions on Western Front.

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

ON THE FRONT LINE WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 14 [Passed by Field Censor] (AP).—Inside the blockhouse it was very quiet. The wind rustled the poplars just ahead and flapped a ragged towel hanging on the barbed wire. You could hear the clump of soldiers' feet in the rear and the soft chuck-chuck of a shovel biting moist earth. The Irish sergeant said: "This is it, sir. This is where we stand."

The front line is not an exciting or inspiring place. No shells whine. No machine guns chatter. For a month now men have been working on this line built by the French and now reinforced by the British.

A Cow, at Peace, Eats On.

They will not say that all things are ready, but they will say: "Here's where we stand and Old Fritz will have to be damned good to push us back."

I peered out through a periscope in the blockhouse. Ahead, past the barbed wire which caught the feeble glint of the sun, there was nothing but grass and trees. Off to the left a cow munched solemnly. Overhead larks flew by singing bravely. Inside the reinforced concrete which can stand a heavy shell, the place smelled cleanly of oil and grease on the guns.

Ditches for Tank Traps.

Deep ditches built to catch and hold a tank run along it. Before the tank-traps and in back was more wire. It had a fresh-from-the-factory appearance. It had a solid look.

Twenty years from now many farms will be fenced with this wire. The wire French farmers hereabouts use today was picked up from old battlefields of another war.

Here and there men were digging trenches.

There are guns along the line, but you don't see them unless you look hard.

The whole front is camouflaged. Were it not for the men digging and the occasional sentry, it would look like any country landscape marred here and there by small, irregular hills. These are the blockhouses. Even at 300 yards the wire blends into the picture.

Battery on a French Farm.

Farther back along the roads are the heavier guns. I saw one battery in position on a French farm. The guns were 6 inch howitzers.

The men were drilling swiftly and silently despite the clinging mud when I was there.

A captain said: "They're good. They're itching to have something to fire at. Maybe they will before long. It's too quiet to suit me."

All things point toward the front. The long lines of trucks hauling food, ammunition, and men. The clattering caterpillar carriers which bring guns to the front. The squad learning the intricacies of the guns by the side of a canal, while an old Frenchman fished placidly a few feet away.

Everywhere there is wet, clinging mud. Everywhere the troops are young, but hard looking. Everywhere there is the same feeling:

FRENCH PLANE LANDS WITH 2 FLYERS DEAD, BUT PICTURES INTACT

PARIS, Oct. 14 (AP).—Military authorities announced today that a French observation airplane landed safely behind the lines and that both the pilot and observer were found dead. They had been riddled with bullets.

The ship had been in a dog fight, the authorities said, but the pilot lived long enough to make a landing.

A camera in the plane was undamaged. It was said to contain valuable photographic negatives of German positions.

DESCRIBES PANIC IN POLAND AS RED TROOPS MARCH IN Defenders Wilt; Armies Flee Without Battle.

(This is another of a series of dispatches by Alex Small, who was The Tribune's correspondent in Poland. In previous articles he told of the flight of the government from Warsaw and the flight of refugees ahead of the German invasion. Mr. Small is writing his dispatches from Amsterdam to avoid censorship.)

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Oct. 14.—The young marine whom we met on Sept. 19 at Moroczno during our flight from southeastern Poland toward Pinsk was disgruntled. He wanted to be on a ship at sea. Instead, he had been sent to East Poland to serve on the river fleet around Pinsk. He said he was born at Perth Amboy, N. J., and held an American passport.

He wanted a war to the death with the Germans and was not interested in fighting the Russians. The Germans, he said, had killed his brother, who was a civilian pilot. They had disguised their machines to make them look like Polish planes and had swooped down on him near Kutno.

Marine Secures Food.

The marine led us into a nearby house, where he demanded food. We received hot tea, bread and thin slivers of cheese. Another man was bent over a table, writing. He spoke:

"You people going to Pinsk?"

"We're trying," we answered.

"Then, will you take this letter to my wife? I have no idea when I will see her again. I will give you a note and tell her to feed you. And you need clothes, don't you? I will write her to give you one of my shirts and some socks. I am Lieut. Mandelbaum of the medical corps."

A sentry entered and said the general commanding the district wanted to see us at staff headquarters. In Moroczno's biggest house we found the staff.

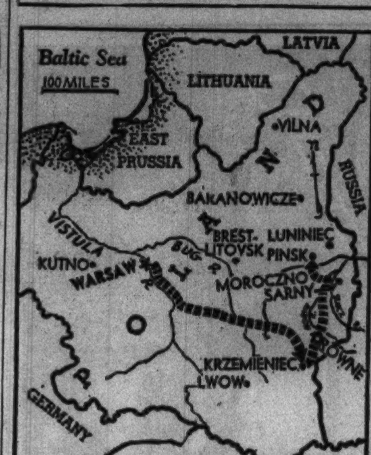
Receive Bad News.

The general, a middle aged man with bold, prominent features, lifted a tired and drawn face toward us. When I told him my plan for getting to Pinsk and making a dash toward the Lithuanian border, he smiled ironically.

"You have a mistaken idea of where the Russians are," he said. "Yesterday they occupied Baranowicze and probably Vilna. You haven't the slightest chance of beating them to the Lithuanian border. It probably is best that you go to Pinsk and then head straight west toward Brest-Litovsk."

The general's words cleared up many points. Now I knew the Russian invasion had been no false alarm; that they were advancing more swiftly than expected, and that the Poles were not resisting. Contrary to my anticipation, there had been no battle anywhere along the fortified line of the rivers Slucz and Horyn.

Writer's Flight



Broken line traces route followed by Alex Small, Tribune correspondent, southeastward from Polish capital and then northward toward Lithuanian border.

General Admits Defeat.

But East Poland was all the general could tell about. He had heard of no general staff communique for five days. Warsaw, he was sure, was holding out and he supposed that the different Polish armies were "in a sack." One such army, he thought, was surrounded by the Germans between Poznan and Warsaw. Probably another army still was fighting in the south, but soon would be in a sack between the Germans and the Russians.

"There is no use disguising military secrets now," he said. "I am assembling the troops we have in this region and will march south or southwest trying to contact some other Polish forces. It is possible we may get a chance to fight our way through to Hungary or Rumania.

"My best advice to you two Americans is to surrender to the Germans if you don't like the bolsheviks. We learn that the Russians so far have been very sweet and reasonable. Maybe they'll treat you all right.

Offers to Arrange Surrender.

"If you want to surrender to the Germans, undoubtedly our officers will arrange to pass you through our lines into the German line. Turn up here at 3 o'clock in the morning and I'll have you ride in an army truck which is taking other refugees to Pinsk. And I will write out an order to the officer commanding Pinsk to give you all the gasoline you want in case you are able to find a motor vehicle. Saving gasoline is one of the least of our concerns now. Good-by and good luck."

The village apothecary offered us hospitality for the evening. We found a dozen village notables listening in the parlor to the radio. The announcer gave little news except that the capital was resisting. Women in the room wept as the announcer recited Polish poetry.

At 11 p. m. we went to sleep on straw heaps. What seemed like two minutes later some one was prodding me and saying it was a quarter to three. We went to headquarters, where we found women and children piling into a truck. The women had huge bundles wrapped in sheets.

It was broad daylight on Sept. 20 when we reached Pinsk. Lieut. Mandelbaum's wife welcomed us and gave me the sad news that she was unable to find any of her husband's shirts or socks. She did provide bread, cheese and honey.

A Miracle—Running Water.

But there was water, and running out of a tap. I looked at it as if I had never seen such a miracle before and realized that for more than 10 days I had gone back about a century and had been living in another age—without running water, sewers, lights, automobiles, telephone, telegraph and railways.

A young man there was introduced to us as Lieut. Mandelbaum's brother. This young man was a doctor and also an army lieutenant. He was sitting in one corner of the best room busy with a scissors cutting the insignia of his rank off a uniform.

"Preparing for the arrival of the bolsheviks?" I asked.

"Not so much the bolsheviks," he answered. "They are army men and likely will treat me no worse than any captured officer, but this town is in an ugly mood this morning. Anticipating the bolsheviks' arrival, a local soviet is being formed and if the mob gets out of hand you can't tell what will happen to a Polish officer."

First Taste of Bolshevism.

On Pinsk's main street the population already was getting a first taste of bolshevism—lines a block long were forming to get into the few open food shops.

Our quest for that problematical car abandoned by some problematical refugee proved fruitless. Garages had nothing and friends of our friend Eltar [a minor soviet official] who lived in Pinsk could not help. So we went to see what the military authorities could do for us.

We had to walk the full length of Pinsk's main street—Ulica Kosciuscki—and I was thoroly glad to reach the end. The shaves we had just had in Dr. Mandelbaum's house and our washed faces were sufficient to mark us as foreigners, and even as "bourgeoisie." My suit, though a shapeless bag and crusted with the mud of eastern Poland, was still immensely better than the rags sticking to the festering sores of the crowds lining the curbs.

Pinsk Poverty Stricken.

I was sure of eager and appraising eyes taking the measure of that suit, as well as my muddy shoes, which still had soles on them. Pinsk always had been a poverty stricken city. Many of these citizens of Pinsk who had never at one time in their lives had five zlotys and never expected to have that much were waiting for their new deal.

The new deal for Pinsk was coming from the east, and it was only a question of hours. Already we had heard a report that the Russians had passed Luniniec, an important junction 35 miles to the northeast. There was a pretty good road between Luniniec and Pinsk, which would make possible a fast advance with tanks.

The local police, who were scattered along the street, looked just as shabby and ill-fed as the rest of the population. Luckily, at the head of the main street in Pinsk's biggest square—the Place of the Third of May—stood an imposing detachment of national police, well armed and with machine guns. So long as those men were there I knew there was little chance of a wholesale riot.

Soldiers Burn Documents.

Inside the military headquarters an air of disaster prevailed. At the head of rickety stairs we saw a porcelain stove built into the wall, after the fashion of central and east Europe, in which a fire was roaring despite the warmth outside. Two soldiers squatted by the stove feeding in documents as fast as two other soldiers brought them from inner offices.

Inside the commander's office, about 50 persons were hopping about like madmen while soldiers pushed them around and the commanding officer occasionally answered one of their frantic and usually idiotic questions.

The floor was strewn with papers, books and maps, some of which the soldiers scooped up from time to time and carried outside. The commanding officer, named Col. Morgenstern, looked blankly at the letter we had brought from the general at Moroczno. Then he stared at me as if I were a man from Mars. He looked like an officer of the American marines as seen by Hollywood.

Colonel Gives Some Advice.

"So you're an American correspondent," he said. "What are you doing in this part of Poland at a time like this?"

Without waiting for an answer, he continued:

"You're out of your mind, of course. And you want a motor car. Well, if you can find one you're better than all the scouts I have had working for me. Produce the car and I'll see that you get plenty of gasoline. But you will have to produce that car inside of about a half hour, because we are evacuating the city. You people obviously are so crazy you'll do as you like, but if you have a glimmer of sense left you'll come with the army.

"If you go north you'll run into local soviets and armed bandits, who already have killed and robbed several fleeing citizens of Pinsk. If you go straight west on the road to Brest-Litovsk you'll have to keep ahead of Russian tanks. The meeting place, if you're coming, is at the bridge at half past nine."

We held a hurried conference out in the street. The idea of continuing north now seemed a lunatic's dream. The Poles were abandoning the region and the Russians were advancing fast. Meanwhile, the countryside was in a state of anarchy. The same probably was true along the westward road to Brest-Litovsk.

Decide to Follow Army.

The time was too short to take chances of finding a motor car for sale, or even bicycles or horses. There seemed nothing for us but to follow the army, and that was our decision.

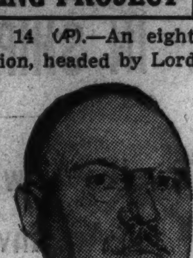
A ragged city employé—practically the entire seat of his pants was missing—shuffled up to a wall beside us, began swabbing paste on the wall, and stuck up a poster. It was a proclamation calling on the veterans of the Polish legion to assemble immediately and constitute a volunteer force for maintenance of law and order.

The implication was plain—the national police were abandoning Pinsk along with the army. I still had some doubts about our decision, but this proclamation resolved them. Pinsk shortly was going to be a very unhealthy place for a man wearing one complete suit of clothes and still more unhealthy if, in addition, he spoke only a few words of Polish or Russian.

Already the big square was filled with soldiers of units which had streamed into Pinsk in front of the Russians from all points in east Poland. Down the main street as far as we could see stretched a line of trucks and farm carts full of soldiers and supplies. Every one was waiting for the signal to start.

MISSION FROM BRITAIN REACHES CANADA FOR AIR TRAINING PROJECT

QUEBEC, Oct. 14 (AP).—An eight man British mission, headed by Lord Riverdale, arrived in Canada today to discuss plans for making the dominion the air training center of the British empire.



Lord Riverdale.

A recent announcement said a training program designed to turn out from 6,000 to 20,000 military pilots yearly would be set up in Canada. Australia and New Zealand missions are expected in Ottawa soon to participate in the discussions.

Before leaving for Ottawa, the British mission issued a statement which said:

"One of the primary objects will be to concert measures for enabling each member of the commonwealth to take over that part of the common task which, by reasons of its industrial capacity, its man power, and its geographical position, it is best suited to undertake."

Swedish Ship Brings 535 Americans from Europe

New York, Oct. 14 [Special].—The Swedish liner Kungsholm docked today with 1,116 passengers, including 535 Americans. Capt. Helge A. F. Ellson reported he was held up for six days by the British on the westward voyage, but was stopped for only an hour by a destroyer on the eastward trip. The Italian liner Saturnia sailed with 113 passengers, of whom six were Americans and six Germans. The American Export liner Excalibur sailed from Jersey City for Gibraltar, Marseilles, Naples and other Mediterranean points. It carried 74 passengers of whom 42 are Americans.

Schooner Skipper to Hunt Pacific for Amelia Earhart

HONOLULU, Oct. 14 (AP).—A new search for Amelia Earhart was announced today by Eric Hanner, who said he would leave Honolulu on Monday in the 55 foot schooner Valkyrie. Hanner said he would spend a year in the South Seas searching for Miss Earhart and Edward Noonan, who were lost July 2, 1937, while on a flight around the world. The Valkyrie will be manned by a crew of four. Hanner said he was convinced that Miss Earhart is still alive, marooned on some South Sea isle.

FEAR NAZI SMASH AS HITLER SETS UP CAMP AT FRONT

French Strengthen Their Positions on Rhine.

PARIS, Oct. 14 (AP).—Sudden and unexplained inactivity on the German side of the front lines was followed today by reports from neutral countries that Adolf Hitler, the German chancellor, and Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, Nazi chief of the high command of the armed forces were establishing headquarters on the western front.

These advices did not say Hitler and Gen. Keitel were at the front, but that Hitler's headquarters was being set up at Aachen, on the Belgian frontier, and that Gen. Keitel had taken command on the front.

As a precautionary move, the French destroyed three of the five railway bridges over that section of the Rhine river that forms the French-German boundary. These were the spans at Breisach, Neuenburg, and Wintersdorf. Of the two left standing one is between Strasburg and Kehl and the other is at Huningue, where the French and German frontiers meet at Switzerland.

Fear Northern Action Is a Feint.

The northern flank of the front between the Moselle and the Rhine rivers has been suspiciously quiet since Thursday. It was along this sector that German patrols made sharp thrusts, which the French said were repulsed.

The French apparently decided to take no chances that German activity on the northern flank might be a feint to distract their attention from an attack in the south. Military dispatches said French engineers dynamited the three bridges on Wednesday after heavy concentrations of German troops were seen behind the Siegfried line fortifications in the Black Forest and near Karlsruhe, farther north.

British Troops Move Up.

British troops moved steadily toward the front and regiment after regiment of French artillery took up their positions against the possibility that Germany might try an offensive before winter sets in.

The French general staff's communique this morning stated:

"A calm night. Artillery fire from both sides in the region east of the Moselle [river]."

Following is the communique issued tonight by the French:

"Enemy patrols have shown themselves active to the west of the Saar [river] as well as to the south of Zweibruecken. They were repelled. Fairly active artillery fire to the southwest of Saarbruecken."

[The German high command yesterday reported: "In the west there was minor artillery activity. In air fights, without any losses of our own, three enemy planes were shot down at Schleiden, Idor Oberstein, and Mayen."]

FINNS CHEERED BY THE PRICE OF MILK IN RUSSIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 14.—A report in Vecherniaia Moskva, Moscow's only evening newspaper, that the price of milk now is 40 cents a liter [1.05 quarts] has cheered Finland more than any news received about the negotiations between Finland and Russia.

Finns consider milk a staple food article and since the scarcity of milk in Russia probably applies to other foodstuffs, they do not think Russia will risk a war on the eve of winter when hunger threatens the majority of European provinces of Russia.

The soviet press also reports the harvest of potatoes, sugar beets, and flax as poor.

GEN. TRUESDELL SHIFTED TO DUTY IN EASTERN POST

Former Roosevelt Aid Expected Successor.

Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell, commandant of Fort Sheridan since April, 1938, yesterday received notice from the war department of his transfer to duty in New York state.

At Gen. Truesdell's office it was expected that his successor would be Brig. Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, former military aide to President Roosevelt, whose appointment as commander of a new streamlined division to be based at Fort Sheridan was announced Friday in Washington, D. C.

Gen. Truesdell will be stationed with the 1st division—his world war division—at Fort Wadsworth, on Staten Island. He expects to leave Monday or Tuesday. He will be on duty at Fort Benning, Ga., for winter training and then will return to Fort Wadsworth.

4 Month Maneuvers Planned.

It was learned that the five new streamlined divisions to be organized will assemble Oct. 21 at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala., and will spend four months in maneuvers before being sent to various posts. It is assumed Gen. Hodges' presence will be required at the training ground during the organization period.

Gen. Hodges, who is 58 years old, is a native of Louisiana. He was graduated from the military academy at West Point in 1903 and served in the Philippines from 1903 to 1905 and from 1908 to 1909.

He saw service in 1916 at Vera Cruz during the Mexican border campaign, then went to France with the 31st division in 1918 as an infantry colonel.

Wins Citation for Service.

He was awarded the distinguished service medal, his citation stating that as acting chief of staff of the division he was largely responsible for its high efficiency, and that later, as a member of the general staff, he helped develop a system of efficiency reporting and personnel classification. He was with the American occupational force in Germany in 1921.

After service with the general staff in the militia bureau and bureau of insular affairs he served as military attaché to Spain and Portugal from 1923 to 1926, and then as commandant of cadets at West Point from 1926 to 1929. He served as military aid to Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt from 1929 to June, 1933.

From 1933 to 1936 he was with the 14th infantry in the Canal Zone, and from August to December, 1936, was chief of staff of the 4th corps area at Atlanta, Ga. Advanced to the rank of brigadier general in December, 1936, he was assigned to command the 14th brigade at Fort Snelling, Minn., the post he held until his present appointment.

BANDIT BROTHERS BUILD UP A HABIT FOR STORE CHIEF

The social habits of two brothers [whose names are known to police] are beginning to irk C. P. Henderson, manager of the Real Shoe store at 107 North Chicago street, Joliet.

Last March one of the brothers, named George, called upon Henderson and robbed him of $800. Last August the other brother, named Raymond, also paid a call and took $500. Last night Raymond paid a second visit, gun in hand. "Hello, Henderson, here I am again," he said.

Henderson recognized him. He protested he had already deposited the day's receipts in the banks, and held up deposit receipts for proof. But the bandit was philosophic. "Just hand over what you have," he ordered. Henderson handed over $70. Then as the bandit left he asked, "Please give me a break, and don't chase me until I get around the corner."

Baby Given Chance to Live After Organs Are Replaced

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 14 [Special].—A girl born here 10 days ago with her stomach and other internal organs protruding from the abdominal wall was given a chance to live today by attending physicians. They described an operation performed within an hour after its birth by which the organs were placed in their natural position inside the body. The physicians in the case were Drs. Bernard Bolotoff, Arthur J. Connell, Carl H. Bartling, and King G. Woodward.

ROB COUPLE ENTERING HOME.

NAZI REPATRIATE SHIP QUITS RIGA ON SEA OF TEARS

Thousands Weep as 480 Sail to Join Germans.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 14.—Departure of the first German ship from Riga harbor with 480 German repatriates failed to result in the enthusiasm expected by organizers of the movement to evacuate German minorities from the Baltic states.

Instead, pitiful scenes occurred, for the passengers chiefly had been residents of homes for old people or poor houses or were aged persons living on pensions. Many collapsed when the ship steamed down the river Dvina toward the Gulf of Riga, leaving several thousand Germans weeping on the quay.

Parents' Grief Quiets Youths.

Even the boisterous youths captured by Nazi doctrines were silent before the grief of their parents, many of whom were going only to keep from being separated from their children.

Advised by their leaders to take textiles, leather goods, and woolen articles because these are difficult to obtain in Germany, German housewives during the last week bought such large quantities that the Estonian and Latvian governments limited the supplies each person might take abroad.

Latvian Press Thanks Nazis.

The Latvian press thanks the German government for its repatriation drive, which the Latvians say is the "wind which is winnowing the chaff from the grain, and those who love Latvia will remain while those leaving must sign an obligation renouncing their citizenship and all rights to return."

Many couples have applied for divorces and the Riga courts have decided to hurry decrees for the Germans. In most cases the wives with small children are refusing to accompany their husbands to a country, where, they complain, the children will not be able to obtain adequate food.

Collect Food for Vilna People.

Preparing to annex the Vilna district of Poland by consent of Russia, Lithuania is collecting funds, clothing, and food for the inhabitants, who are overjoyed to come under Lithuanian rule after 20 years under Poland's administration.

Jews, Poles, and White Russians also are reported pleased at the prospect of escaping soviet Russian administration.

The Vilna district is choked with thousands of refugees, many of whom are near starvation. It is hoped in Kaunas that assistance will be forthcoming from the United States. Otherwise, it is feared, the return of Vilna may become a national disaster.

Kaunas officials are organizing relief measures for the Vilna district, including the parceling of estates of more than 300 acres.

Russians Leaving City.

Soviet troops are reported withdrawing from Vilna and Lithuania is preparing to dispatch troops to occupy the area next week, possibly on Tuesday.

It is unlikely that Vilna will be made the capital of Lithuania since Kaunas, the present capital, is modern, thanks to Lithuania's efforts and the $40,000,000 worth of remittances sent by Americans of Lithuanian descent in the last 20 years. Vilna has remained a provincial Polish town without sewerage and with few modern improvements.

GERMANY SEEKS TRADE CREDITS IN REPATRIATIONS

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 14.—Nazi agents tonight were reported active among the German minorities of northern Jugo-Slavia. They were explaining Chancellor Adolf Hitler's proposal to repatriate Germans of southeastern Europe.

Reports that German minorities in the Baltic region have been forced to dispose of their properties at cut prices and leave for Germany is causing deep anxiety to this country's 480,000 German speaking subjects.

The local German press, calling on Germans to make sacrifices, stated that Germany, unless aided by all Germans, will be unable to maintain the level of her export trade in southeast Europe, which has agricultural products and raw materials it needs. German minorities, therefore, are asked to sacrifice their homes and properties in Jugo-Slavia to release exchange for purchases by Germany.

Sought by Reds

The Finnish foreign minister hinted last night that his government had rejected proposals made by soviet Russia in negotiations at Moscow. One of the Reds' demands is believed to have been for Russian naval bases on three small Finnish islands (1) near Kronstadt and on the Aaland Islands (2), administered jointly by Finland and Sweden.

Report Red-Turk Pact Signed.

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (AP).—Soviet Russia and Turkey were reliably reported tonight to have signed a pact expected to prove another link in the chain of diplomatic bargains by which Russia is extending her power from the Baltic to the Black sea.

Unofficial, but usually informed sources said that while the pact would guarantee certain Russian rights in the Black sea and its outlet, the Dardanelles, its terms were less sweeping than some the Russians sought to obtain.

The Finnish diplomatic delegation headed by Dr. J. K. Paasikivi is returning to Helsingfors for consultations with its government. The arrival of a Hungarian diplomatic mission in Moscow for talks with Russian leaders was announced.

Three Finnish Boats Stopped.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 14 (AP). — The Scandinavian telegraph bureau tonight said three Finnish boats, the Margaretha, Greta, and Pesamo, all loaded with wood pulp, had been stopped by a German submarine west of England.

Ratify Soviet Pact.

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Oct. 14 (AP).—Parliament ratified the newly-concluded Russian-Lithuanian pact today after a speech by Foreign Minister Juozas Urbsys in which he asserted that Russia gave assurances she would not interfere in Lithuania's internal affairs.

The foreign minister declared that Dictator Josef Stalin had shown great sympathy for his neighbor nation during the negotiations in Moscow. Under the agreement, Russia is permitted to establish military bases in Lithuanian territory, and Lithuania received her historic capital of Vilna [Wilno] in northeast Poland now occupied by soviet troops.

GUN TRAJECTORY DETERMINES ITS USE IN BATTLE

3 Types Are Employed in Close Action.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

In the world war, where every yard of ground was bitterly contested, the problem was to dislodge the enemy from cover. Within a few weeks of the outbreak of the war, the conflict had resolved itself into a struggle between two armies of moles, safely entrenched and for the most part willing to stay that way.

Guns, howitzers, and mortars all have their uses in close action, but each category is limited to a certain extent by its trajectory, the arc at which it fires a shell. A simple comparison is to liken the trajectory of a shell fired from a field gun to the flight of a golf ball hit by a midiron; of a shell from a howitzer to a mashie shot, and of the mortar to a lob with a niblick.

Mortar for Close Range.

A gun, with flat trajectory, is of little value against an entrenched enemy. A howitzer, with a higher trajectory, can drop shells into trenches or on troop or gun concentrations behind hills, getting at objects a field gun cannot reach. And a mortar, with the highest trajectory of all artillery, will loft a shell almost straight into the air so it drops nearly perpendicularly on an objective.

It will be readily apparent that the weapons most promising against troops under cover are those with curved trajectory fire—light howitzers and trench mortars. To these, at closer terms, must be added the grenade.

The hand grenade is the most elementary form of artillery: A pear-shaped or cylindrical container filled with high explosive. It is thrown by hand up to a range of 50 yards. A safety pin is first withdrawn, and the release of a finger clamp as the grenade is thrown automatically activates a time fuse set for five seconds. Grenades also explode at impact.

Grenades Used on Tanks.

The grenade is used to drive an enemy from cover of trenches, shell holes, dugouts, or machine gun nests, and to damage advancing tanks.

With advanced works in trench warfare within 100 yards of each other, some weapon is required to cover the area immediately beyond grenade range. The mortar, with a range down to 75 yards, serves this function. It can be operated from front line trenches, but, needless to say, trench troops prefer a longer range mortar located back of the lines, for mortars invariably draw heavy retaliatory fire.

The mortar has a low muzzle velocity, so that only a small propellent charge is necessary. This enables a thin-walled bomb of large capacity to be used. The mortar originally introduced in the world war was the German Minenwerfer, which ejected a 50 pound spherical bomb resting on the muzzle.

The German bomb had a tubular steel "stick" extending down the bore of the piece, which was fired at an elevation angle of from 45 to 75 degrees. When the bomb slid to the bottom of the tube, powder rings were set off which sent it soaring almost straight up.

War mortars grew in size until they eventually reached 9.45 inch caliber, firing projectiles of from 110 to 200 pounds. These heavy mortars were loaded at the breech with shells.

Because the weight of such ammunition was a strain on supply, the British adopted the light Stokes mortar, throwing a 10 pound bomb. This weapon consisted of a light steel tube of 3 inch caliber with a spike projecting into the breech end of the bore. The cylindrical bomb had a small cartridge and percussion cap fixed at its base. When the bomb was dropped into the muzzle, it slid down until the percussion cap struck the spike, igniting the cartridge and blowing out the bomb.

Mortars of Two Sizes.

Typical of modern infantry mortars are the United States 60 mm. and the 81-mm. weapon used by the American, French and German armies. The 60-mm. has a minimum range of 75 yards and a maximum range of 1,913 yards, and the 81-mm. a minimum of 100 and a maximum of 3,280 yards.

Army tests showed that an 81-mm. shell covers effectively with its fragments 85 per cent of the circumference of a circle of 25 yards radius around the point of detonation, while the 60-mm. covers 90 per cent of the circumference of a 15 yard circle. The big mortar put 127 holes in a six foot fence at 10 yards from the point of burst, and the smaller piece 115 holes at the same distance.

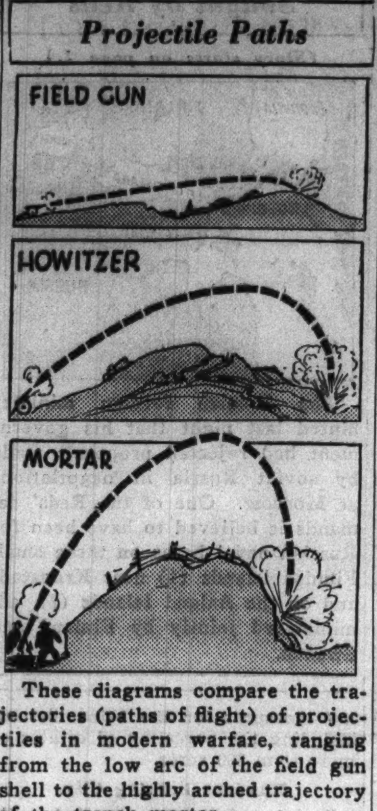
Airvanes now fitted to bombs increase accuracy, and the new mortars are so accurate that a good crew can drop a bomb on a blanket at 3,000 yards.

Support for Infantry.

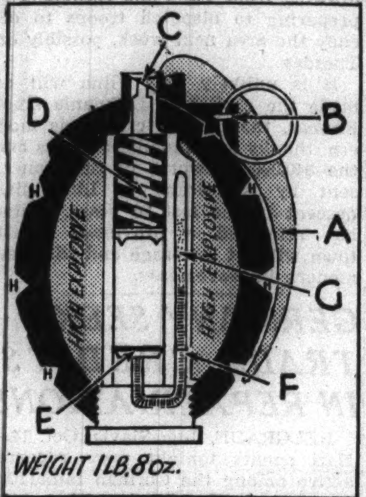
Representative of howitzers now in service to give close support to infantry and to reach objectives under cover with high-angle fire are the British 3.7 inch piece and the German 75 and 105-mm. howitzers.

The German light howitzer cannot only drop shells into fox holes and machine gun nests, but can be converted into a powerful anti-tank gun within a few seconds by swinging down its barrel. The heavier 105-mm. howitzer, almost as mobile as the light piece, is replacing light field guns in almost all armies. The British 105, which is typical, throws a 25 pound shell that will cover a far greater area with explosive destruction than a gun of comparable size.

Germany, incidentally, is well ahead of other nations in infantry support weapons, such as mortars, howitzers, anti-tank guns, and light field guns. Per infantry division the total is around 231. Most other countries average under 100.



These diagrams compare the trajectories (paths of flight) of projectiles in modern warfare, ranging from the low arc of the field gun shell to the highly arched trajectory of the trench mortar.



How a hand grenade works. The thrower holds down the lever (A) with his hand before pulling safety ring (B), which holds the lever in the "safe" position until ready for use. As thrower lets go of grenade, lever falls off, releasing collar (C), which in turn permits striker (D), spring operated, to hit cap (E) that sets off fuse (F). The fuse burns for 5 seconds after being ignited by the cap, and then explodes detonator, which sets off high explosive charge. Segmented grooves (H) insure efficient fragmentation of the grenade.

POLL SHOWS 75% OF BRITISH FAVOR CONTINUING WAR

LONDON, Oct. 14—[U.P.]—A poll by the British Institute of Public Opinion indicated that 75 per cent of the British electorate favors continuance of the war, it was learned today.

The poll was undertaken Oct. 1 at the government's request, it was said, and in reply to a question asking in effect whether they wanted the war continued or immediate peace, one-fourth wanted peace or had no opinion, while three-fourths wanted the war continued.

David Lloyd George, world war prime minister, charged recently that the people were not in sympathy with this war.

BUBBLE BURSTS; SALLY RAND SUES AS A BANKRUPT

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP).—Sally Rand, fan and bubble dancer, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today. She listed her debts at $64,631, with assets of $8,067. The petition listed debts ranging from medical services for her dog to furnishings for her Golden Gate exposition feature "Gay Paree," closed recently by creditors. The petition was filed under the entertainer's real name—Helen Gould Beck.

Sally Rand.

Miss Rand said her gross income for 1938 was $40,273, with a net of $6,027. She said she did not have the figures for this year. She said she had pawned a $2,500 diamond bracelet and a wrist watch for $1,000 and that other pawn tickets totaled $1,000. Other debts included $739 borrowed on her automobile and two notes for $1,000 each.

Another $500, she said, is owed to Ed Morrison of the "Sally Rand Nude Ranch," at the exposition on Treasure Island. Billy Rose, the New York World's Fair impresario, also has a suit pending against the dancer, the petition stated, on the claim "nude ranch" was his idea.

PURGE OF RED DESERTERS IN AMERICA TOLD

Amtorg Used by GPU, Dies Group Witness Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Amtorg, the official trading corporation for the soviet Russian government in America, was described to the Dies committee on un-American activities today as an organization cloaking the operations of Russian secret police agents.

[A. P. Wirephoto.]
Robert Pitcoff testifying before Dies committee.

Robert Pitcoff of New York City, a former official of Amtorg, gave this testimony and also told the committee that, on occasion, Russian secret agents have liquidated deserters from their service on American territory. Sometimes, he said, these deserters were kidnaped and returned forcibly to Russia, and on other occasions deserters suffered a worse fate, disappearing on the eve of their scheduled return to Russia.

He asserted that operatives of the notorious GPU [Russian secret police] gained entrance into American chemical, industrial and military aviation factories as representatives of the trading corporation, acting as would-be purchasers of large quantities of materials for the soviet government.

Expelled by Communists.

Pitcoff was a member of the communist party from 1926 to 1934. He testified he was expelled from the party when he declined a position as a GPU agent, which made him a suspect in the eyes of party leaders.

As manager of the transportation control department of Amtorg for a number of years, he gained a thoro knowledge of the corporation's activities. He made the following assertions regarding its work:

Military officials of the soviet union are in charge of a special department in Amtorg known as the aviation department. This department sent representatives to accompany Russian commissions which came to America to place large orders for chemicals, oil, planes, and machinery.

Says Amtorg Masked Agents.

During the last ten years—under the first and second five year plans of Russia—thousands of soviet agents came to this country, ostensibly to make such purchases. Actually the Amtorg and its representatives were a mask for the operations of the GPU agents who posed as purchasers to cloak their spying activities.

American manufacturers welcomed the Amtorg agents and threw open industrial plants for their inspection. The soviet agents were most eager to penetrate the workings of the American chemical industry, but it took them two years to work their way into positions to get American chemical secrets.

In the rôle of prospective purchasers of airplane engines and a few obsolete planes, the soviet agents gained access to aviation factories, and learned many secrets of airplane manufacture. Members of the communist party employed in these factories were required to aid the agents in obtaining information.

Refuse to Return; Condemned.

Regarding his charges of liquidation of deserters Pitcoff testified that when Russia had its first great purge in 1930 many Russians in this country were ordered to return. They refused.

"Stalin passed a law condemning them to death," Pitcoff asserted. "Many of them deserted here and were at large for some time. Then I heard that many of them were rounded up. The GPU put them on ships and made them return to Russia."

"What do you mean 'rounded up'?" asked Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], "did they practically kidnap them?"

"They practically kidnaped them and sent them back to Russia," was the reply.

"The main purpose of the communist party is to establish 'nuclei in war industries," Pitcoff declared, and, in response to a query from Chairman Dies, added that the nuclei were to be used as espionage centers.

ICKES TO RULE OVER NATION'S ELECTRIC POWER

Named by President to Head Policy Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—President Roosevelt today transferred to the jurisdiction of the national power policy committee the task of developing wartime, as well as peacetime, electric power policies for the nation.

The wartime aspects of the power problem had been in the province of the national defense power committee, of which Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson was chairman. The chairmanship of the reconstructed national power policy committee was given to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who headed the unit before the consolidation.

Feud with Woodring.

The consolidation was considered another setback for Johnson in his feud with his chief, Secretary of War Harry Woodring. The wartime power unit was created soon after Johnson took his office in 1937 and, it is alleged, began working to unseat Woodring so that he could become chief of the war department.

The only other revision in the makeup of the boards was to delete the name of Frederic A. Delano, uncle of the President and chairman of the national resources planning board, and substitute John Carmody, administrator of the federal works agency.

Clarifying the future duties of the single power committee, the President wrote as follows to Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Assistant Secretary of War Johnson.

"The national power policy committee shall devote itself to the development of a national power policy in the interest of national defense as well as peacetime needs.

"Matters of Coöperation."

"It shall consider power problems common to the several departments and agencies represented on the committee with a view to the coördinated development of a consistent power policy. It shall deal with matters of coöperation between the public and private agencies supplying electric power. It shall advise me in matters of national power policy.

"The national defense power committee has completed the major part of its work of estimating the probable power needs of the nation in peace and in war. The national power policy committee should be in a position, therefore, to give its first attention to the immediate concrete steps necessary to assure the meeting of these needs."

CHINESE DESTROY JAP AIR FIELD IN RAID ON HANKOW

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 14 (AP).—Chinese air forces reported today that three successful bombing raids on a Japanese air field at Hankow destroyed "numerous" Japanese airplanes and a munitions dump.

The raids, military sources said, were larger and more vigorous than any carried out by the Chinese air force in 18 months. Destruction of the munitions depot, the Chinese flyers reported, rocked the entire Hankow area, starting huge fires.

[Japanese dispatches said the raids killed 50 Chinese civilians.]

On the last flight the Chinese said they met 20 Japanese attack planes and in running dog fights shot down three of the enemy and lost two of their own ships.

SYLLABLES MEN WIN BY

By CALEB

"THIS man you say you want to emulate" the old gentleman continued. "You have set him up on a spiritual pinnacle of hero-worship, and you insist that you intend to be like him."

The youth beside him nodded. The sincerity in his look, the determination on his lips, left no occasion for doubt.

"Good!" exclaimed his mentor. "Then your course from here on is clear . . . To be like him—this living accomplishment model of yours—you must do like him. For example, he has just scored the triumph of his career: an assured long run on Broadway, after five, ten, fifteen years of commonplace roles, deferred notice, postponed luck, and many a disappointed hope. But today he has arrived—while you're just embarking."

The old man unpocketed a pencil; on the pad in front of him he wrote a word, and pushed it toward his companion. "Two syllables," he pointed out. "Suppose you pronounce the first one for me."

"Try," said the younger man, looking a bit puzzled.

"Exactly. The one indispensable to all success—or even the act of starting toward success. No try, no beginning! I have seen people of genuine talent fail, constantly, for simple lack of trying! I have seen others, scores of them, fail ultimately for lack of keeping on trying! Trying is the touchstone, the acid test, the earmark, the verdict-decider, of every man's labors and undertakings. Even circumstances are called 'trying' only because they are being met by human energies and efforts that will not be downed by them. . . . And now—that second syllable?"

"Umph," replied the young man, openly repressing a grin. "Precisely," twinkled his companion. "Umph: the guttural, but so expressive, term by which we tag a quality that backs up trying until the tryer becomes a winner! First, you try—unremittingly; unsatisfiedly; ever seeking to add to the ability, the knowledge, the skill, exercised in your trying. Then you put behind it the invincible umph that keeps you trying; that preserves you from the occasional temptation to stop trying, and let go. Add 'em up—"

"And you have TRIUMPH," the young man completed. "I see just what you mean! It's what this hero of mine has done, and I can do the same! Never can I thank you enough for showing me these syllables that men win by—no matter where they're hoping to go, or what they're planning to be!"

COLLEGE PILOT TRAINING WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Training of approximately 150 college students under the Civil Aeronautics Authority program to instruct civilian flyers during the next five years is scheduled to begin tomorrow in the Chicago area. Although five colleges and universities near here are to participate in the program, fewer than 40 students are prepared to begin the course.

College students, who alone are eligible to obtain this free instruction at government expense, have been slow in volunteering for the work. Most of the students have indicated they are not interested in learning to fly, even tho the expenses of the $500 course are paid by Uncle Sam.

This has been a surprise to CAA authorities. When they outlined the program they believed they would be swamped by applicants.

Training of 11,000 Planned.

It was their plan to train 11,000 youths throughout the nation during the school year 1939-'40. Fewer than 5,000 have indicated interest in the instruction.

Students From Two Schools.

The only students prepared to begin the course in Chicago are a few from Armour Institute of Technology and 25 from the North Central college in Naperville. These students are the only ones who have passed the physical examination which is required before the start of actual flying.

The North Central college students may begin flying immediately at the Lewis Holy Name Technical school in Lockport, Ill. John Wilson, school superintendent, has six new cub trainers with 50 horsepower Franklin motors and four flight instructors ready to go to work.

Complete Course Offered.

A complete ground school course of lectures on civil aviation regulations, navigation, instruments, meteorology aircraft and engine operation, and theory of flight will be given with the flight courses.

The other Chicago schools which will take part in the training program are Loyola, Northwestern, and De Paul universities. Students who take the training at De Paul and Loyola also will train at Lockport. There have been 55 applicants from Loyola to date and 27 from De Paul, it was said yesterday. At least 200 applicants had been expected from each.

The program is just getting under way at Northwestern, because the school was not approved for the instruction until Oct. 2. Fifty students from Northwestern are to receive the training, and it was reported yesterday that 75 have applied for these places.

LOSES LEG AND ARM IN FIELD.

Osco, Ill., Oct. 14 [Special].—Rolland Carlson, 27 year old farmer, lost his left leg and right hand as the result of a cornpicker accident on the John Sten farm yesterday. Pinned to the machine and too far from the house to call help, he was prevented from bleeding to death when young Mahlon Sten summoned help.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

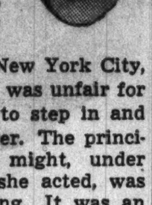
What do you think of the deals by which Russia became a dominating influence in the Baltic states?

Where Answered.

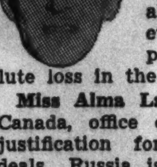
In the Union station.

The Answers.

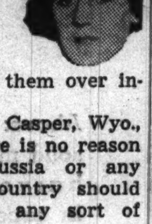
M. R. Norris, Louisville, Ky., service manager, International Harvester company.—I don't think Russia had any right to gain domination over the small countries, by fair means or foul. There's no reason to divide that territory up that way. Why can't they let them live in peace?



Mark Shearer, Aurora, delivery clerk.—Not much. Russia took advantage of those countries by reason of their weakened position. Russia's deals were pure aggression. However, I think it's better to have Russia dominating them than to have that guy Hitler over them.



Lyman J. Weamer, New York City, advertising expert.—It was unfair for Russia to step in and take over. The principle of might, under which she acted, was all wrong. It was an evil gain, and will prove to be an absolute loss in the long run.



Miss Alma La France, Winnipeg, Canada, office clerk.—There's some justification for the deals. Russia is protecting herself. It wasn't a good thing that she gained this new power, but I believe it's better for the inhabitants of the Baltic states she took them over instead of Germany.

Miss Lorraine Ryan, Casper, Wyo., beauty operator.—There is no reason why Russia or any other country should exercise any sort of domination over smaller and less powerful countries. The Baltic states are complete in themselves. Why should any big country push them around?

PREDICTS STAMP TRADE BOOM AS RESULT OF WAR

The present European war will do just what the world war did 25 years ago, members of the Chicago Philatelic society observed yesterday at the 1939 Stamp show in the La Salle hotel. People will become stamp conscious.

For the last six or seven months dealers have been buying large supplies of stamps issued by central European countries, Alfred Diamond, a director, said. In another three months, he predicted, prices will begin to zoom.

No letters mailed from Poland during the German invasion have been received here yet, he said. When Czecho-Slovakia was invaded the prices of its stamps jumped 4,000 per cent in value. Austria's invasion, however, produced only a 1,200 per cent increase in the value of its stamps.

AIRPLANE MOTOR OF 24 CYLINDERS AWAITING TESTS

New Type of Wing Curve Proves Worth.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—The United States Army Air corps has all the ingredients in motors and aeronautical knowledge to give the nation the world's finest fighting planes—craft with speeds in excess of 480 miles an hour. But deep-rooted conservatism in the army high command, it was learned here today, has delayed the placing of orders utilizing these assets.

The army, in conjunction with a private manufacturer, has developed a 24 cylinder double Vee type liquid cooled airplane motor that is said to develop more than 2,000 horse power. This engine is regarded as the most powerful aircraft unit in the world. Yet the motor has never been flown and the army has not as yet ordered even one test plane equipped with it.

New Curve Efficient.

Furthermore the army's civilian engineering section at Langley field, Va., has developed a new type of wing curve that is nearly 33 per cent more efficient than any previously known. This new curve holds the air flow over its surface from the leading edge to the trailing edge, thus eliminating the resistance or drag that occurs when the flow breaks away from the surface.

Engineers guardedly describing the new wing say that it has "laminar flow" over its entire surface. This flow makes the wing roughly a third faster than the fastest previously known aircraft wing and makes possible the attainment of super speeds above 600 miles an hour, roughly the speed of sound.

For years the wisest engineers have held that the speed of sound was the theoretical limit for aircraft speeds. At that limit, the experts held, a "shock wave" would develop at the leading edge of a wing and with air resistance suddenly bounding upward the lift power would disappear. But the new wing has changed all that.

Available More Than Year.

Both the motor and wing have been available for more than a year, it was learned here. Had the army high command ordered the two combined in a fast airplane a year ago there would be no question that the United States would hold the world's speed record at about 480 miles an hour. Laboratory trials are supposed to have indicated this.

As it is, the army's fastest pursuit planes have reached 400 miles an hour only with the assistance of 100 mile an hour tail winds at high altitudes. Some of the latest pursuit planes are supposed to have speeds of 360 miles an hour, but even these craft are in, as yet, a highly experimental stage.

German Holds Record.

The present world's absolute speed record is held by Fritz Wendel, a test pilot for the Messerschmidt aircraft factory at Augsberg, Germany. Last April in a Messerschmidt 109E single-engined pursuit airplane he flew a measured course at an average speed of 469 miles an hour. And the plane was powered with an 1,800 horse power Mercedes-Benz engine.

It is conceded by army air corps engineers that Germany has a number of military aircraft that are considerably faster than their American counterparts. The speed record plane was specially built, but Germany has other standard pursuit ships capable of 430 to 460 miles an hour, it is known.

The Germans are working on a motor of the double Vee type similar to the American engine. The Germans are ahead with their direct fuel injection, which gives them more power for weight and a 20 per cent gain in fuel economy over motors with ordinary carbuertors.

Injected Into Supercharger.

The new 24 cylinder American engine has a modified type of injection carburetion. This injects fuel into the supercharger instead of directly into the firing chamber as do the Germans. Yet the American system gives almost as efficient a performance for a less complicated system.

In addition to the new liquid cooled motor there are three new American radial air-cooled motors that soon may add to this nation's aviation laurels. One is a 42 cylinder engine to deliver more than 3,500 horse power. The motor will have six banks of seven cylinders each. At this time only a test unit of two of the banks is completed.

Motor for High Altitudes.

Still another motor is a new radial of low frontal area but of high horse power. It has 18 cylinders arranged in two banks of nine each. It's power at 20,000 feet is equal to 1,600 horses, making it the most powerful motor in the world for high altitude work. The army has just begun flight tests with this engine.

The new wing curve has not been as much neglected as the 24 cylinder motor. The Glenn Martin factory at Baltimore is utilizing this wing in the new attack bombers that are going into production for the army. Presumably the new curve will receive its flight tests in these bombers.

MRS. ROOSEVELT CURTAILS WINTER SOCIAL PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP).—President and Mrs. Roosevelt intend to hold their usual December reception for the diplomatic corps, despite the war abroad, but have omitted all five traditional state dinners from their winter social program.

Announcement of the schedule by the White House tonight was preceded by an explanation from Mrs. Roosevelt that the President's work just now was too heavy to permit all the usual entertainments. Washington hostesses await the White House dates before making any other plans.

The dinners dropped include one for the diplomats and those honoring the cabinet, the Vice President, the chief justice and the Supreme court, and the speaker of the house. There usually are about ninety guests at each.

WEEK'S BIGGEST WAR NEWS: NAZI PEACE BID FAILS

Empires Scorn Appeals by Hitler for Truce.

Highlights of the sixth week of the present European war are presented by THE TRIBUNE for those of its readers who have been unable to follow events as they occurred.

Saturday, Oct. 7.

Adolf Hitler pushed his so-called peace offensive as French and British sources indicated that the empires were playing a waiting game, hoping to delay a general Nazi advance until winter. In Washington administration leaders in congress urged President Roosevelt to heed the Berlin suggestion that he propose an armistice in the European war.

Finland announced it had agreed to send an envoy to Moscow to discuss political and economic matters.

Sunday, Oct. 8.

Finland rushed troops to its border to resist any possible invasion by Russia. Sweden called several classes of reserves and was reported ready to aid Finland.

The United States' naval strength in Hawaiian waters was ordered doubled as 30 American warships sailed for the islands. An American naval escort reached the American liner Iroquois, which German naval officials had warned was to be sunk in circumstances similar to those of the sinking of the Athenia as she neared the American coast.

[The British liner Athenia was sunk the day England declared war; the British blamed the Nazis, but the Nazis said the British sank the ship to win sympathy.]

German sorties near the Moselle river were reported beaten back by the French. Thirty-seven communist deputies were arrested in Paris.

Monday, Oct. 9.

Hitler and his aides announced the setting aside of a part of conquered Poland for use by German minorities transplanted from other parts of Europe.

Clashes between German planes and British warships were reported in the North sea. Three German planes were said to have been forced down in Denmark. British ships were said to have been unscathed.

Tuesday, Oct. 10.

French Premier Daladier, in a radio address to the nation, called the Hitler peace proposal a ruse and Hitler's promises worthless. The German fuehrer, in a Berlin speech, screamed defiance of all enemies of the reich.

On the western front German suicide squads attacked in waves, hurling hand grenades before falling under withering machine gun fire.

Germans in the Baltic states were reported reluctant to leave their homes and "come home to the reich."

Wednesday, Oct. 11.

A trade pact involving about $48,000,000 worth of goods yearly was announced between Russia and Great Britain.

Capture of the German liner Cap Norte, one of the fastest in the South Atlantic service, was announced by the British.

In Berlin the Nazis pushed both their peace and war offensives, with the statesmen trying to obtain peace on Hitler's terms while the high command issued orders for mass bombing of the British fleet.

The liner Iroquois docked safely in New York.

German pressure on the whole western front was reported increasing, with the French claiming success in beating back all major attacks.

Thursday, Oct. 12.

Hitler indirectly urged the United States to mediate, threatening that unless Britain agreed to a conference he would unleash the war in earnest. Prime Minister Chamberlain in London scorned a peace "based on Nazi conquests."

Four powers asked Russia to avoid war with the Finns. They included the United States, Sweden, Norway, and Denemark.

Heavy artillery roared along the 125 mile western front as a climax to 36 hours of skirmishing. Thirty thousand British troops moved into position beside the French poilus.

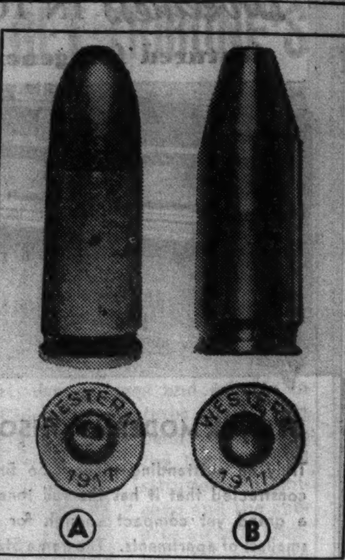
The mysterious disappearance of German ships off the South American coast was reported solved by the British announcement that they had been catching them and taking them to Port Stanley in the Falkland Islands.

Friday, Oct. 13.

The English navy suffered its second major loss of the war when the $10,000,000 battleship, Royal Oak, was sunk by a U-boat. Early reports did not reveal how many casualties were inflicted on the crew of 1,200 nor where the fighting ship went down. The loss was announced shortly after the British admiralty had proclaimed the sinking of three German U-boats, two of them among Germany's largest. England's first major naval loss was the aircraft carrier Courageous.

German underseas craft also accounted for a British freighter, the Heronspool, and a French tanker, the Emile Miguet.

Cartridges Compared



The cartridge (A) found in German pistol on 1918 battleground, and a cartridge (B) as it appeared after its manufacture by American factory. The comparison indicates that American ammunition was captured by German troops in the world war and the shells refilled for use in German guns.

During the world war the enemies of the United States picked up and used the American weapons and ammunition they could find because their own armament was inferior, according to Charles H. Hopkins, director of sales promotion for the Western Cartridge company of East Alton.

Hopkins made the point to explain how Legionnaire E. D. Seaton of Peru, Ill., might have found American ammunition in a German gun. An item printed in THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 26 related that Seaton had found a cartridge marked "Western, 1917" in a German Luger pistol of 7.65 millimeter caliber on a 1918 battlefield.

The cartridge pictured with the article, said Hopkins, was a 9 millimeter one, made by his company, and could not have been used in the 7.65 Luger without reboring and rechambering the pistol barrel.

"These 9 millimeter cartridges," he added, "were made for the Italians, allies of America, in 1917, and the bullet was in the shape of a cone. The bullet in THE TRIBUNE picture was rounded. It is certain the cartridge was reloaded after the original bullet had been fired or otherwise removed."

He then quoted from a test report by company experts: "These Western 9 millimeter cartridges were loaded on the Italian contract and will not function in the German Luger. They have not sufficient recoil to work the action."

was supported by Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], who contended it would be "cowardly" to take advantage of Great Britain while it was engaged in war.

"The senator from Minnesota advocates," cried Connally, with throbbing voice and furious gestures, "that while England is engaged in a struggle with the enemy that we should send the navy down to the Bahamas. He wants to take advantage of England's misfortune at the time Germany has got her down with a knife at her throat."

Proposes Negotiations.

Connally declared he might be willing to negotiate with England for a cession of some of her possessions, but that such negotiations should be conducted around a conference table.

"It seems to me we've been sitting around that conference table for 20 years," Lundeen retorted. "We've demanded and demanded and she has done nothing about it."

Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.] came to Senator Lundeen's support. Since the administration's neutrality program undoubtedly would aid England and France, he observed, it might be well for Great Britain to cede to the United States strategic defense islands in the western hemisphere before repealing the arms embargo.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] suggested that England might convey to the United States as part payment on its war debts the island of Bermuda. Newfoundland, Labrador, and parts of the Bahamas also might be ceded, he remarked.

Help in Paying Debts.

"I want to help Great Britain by being of assistance to her in paying her debts," Reynolds remarked. "Perhaps England would like to take advantage of bargain day."

Col. Lindbergh's speech received praise from the neutrality group led by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], altho his proposed embargo on offensive weapons was deemed of doubtful workability. Too much difficulty would be encountered in distinguishing between offensive and defensive weapons, it was noted.

"If the present embargo is to be struck down, however," remarked Senator Vandenberg, "and war munitions are to be sold on a cash basis, it would be well for us to explore the humane question of whether we do not wish to forego an American bargain counter from which we would sell the instruments of mass death."

As an indication of how Canada regards the effects of repealing the arms embargo, Senator Vandenberg displayed to the senate a paragraph of editorial comment from the Windsor [Ont.] Daily Star of Sept. 24. It stated in bold face type:

"The arms embargo clause of the neutrality act will be repealed, for a starter—and the United States of America will be in the war along about the middle of next January."

Lindbergh's Plan Attacked.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], leader of the administration bloc, was vehement in his criticism of Col. Lindbergh's address.

"The most unfortunate part of Col. Lindbergh's statement," he said, "is that it encourages the ideology of the totalitarian governments and is subject to the construction that he approves of their brutal conquest of democratic countries through war or threat of destruction through war."

Pittman declared there were many inconsistencies in the Lindbergh proposal for an offensive weapons embargo, previously advanced by former President Herbert Hoover recently.

"Apparently Mr. Lindbergh thinks a bomb is an offensive weapon," Pittman declared, "and yet our military experts tell us that bombs carried by airplanes would be one of the strongest defensive weapons against an attack upon our shores by an enemy fleet.

"He evidently does not consider that gasoline and oil are offensive weapons and yet the plane that carries bombs in an offensive against another country could not operate without gasoline and the submarine that destroys innocent merchantmen could not be operated without oil."

Senator Connally, making his second appearance in the debate since it opened on Oct. 2, essayed to sum up all the arguments in behalf of repeal of the embargo which have been advanced thus far by the administration bloc. He declared the embargo essentially is unneutral, because it aids Germany while denying to England and France their natural sea advantages. He remarked that under the present law munitions could be transshipped to Germany through Russia, which technically is neutral.

How About Russia?

Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] jumped to his feet at this point.

"I'd like to ask the senator," he said, "why Russia has not been proclaimed a belligerent by President Roosevelt. Germany was named a belligerent when it invaded Poland. Why has not Russia been so designated since it has done the same?"

"Why doesn't the senator go down and ask the President at the White House?" responded Connally.

Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.] attempted to come to Connally's aid by asserting that Russia technically is not in a state of war with Poland and therefore could not be named by the President.

"The phrase 'state of war' was placed in the neutrality law so a nation could not evade the provisions of the act by invading another country without a formal declaration of war," remarked Clark.

"I still can not understand why Russia, which has seized half of Poland after an army invasion, has not been proclaimed a belligerent by the President."

Discuss Lindbergh Proposal

These senators commented yesterday on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's suggestion that Great Britain and France turn over some of their American islands to this country in payment on war debts. The statement of Senator Lundeen (1) that the United States navy ought at once to take over some of the islands brought quick rejoinders from Senators Connally (2) and Barkley (3).

CHRYSLER UNION EMPLOYES START VOTE ON STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special].—United Automobile Workers' union [C. I. O.] began voting today on whether the "slowdown" strike now under way in Chrysler corporation plants shall be turned into a general strike which would throw 85,000 Chrysler and Briggs manufacturing employés out of work.

Company officials remained firm in their refusal to grant the union's demand for a closed shop and a voice in determining production standards. Plant officials announced that employés were free to return to work on Monday, but that if they persist in curtailing operations production of automobiles will be impossible.

Local membership meetings were held today by the De Soto and Plymouth locals and it was announced that the members had voted to authorize their officers to take a formal strike vote as soon as possible. The local of the Dodge plants, where the "slow up" trouble began, started polling its members today and will conclude tomorrow.

Bridges Demoted by C.I.O.; Loses Rule in Two States

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP).—In a new administrative setup, nationwide in scope, the executive committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations today abolished the west coast district, headed by Harry Bridges and said to have been the only district of comparable size in the United States. Bridges was named California director, and new directors were appointed for Oregon and Washington. John L. Lewis, president of the C. I. O., said the former setup had "been spreading Bridges too far."

PROTESTS WPA 'NO' ON CITY RAT KILLING PROJECT

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the council health committee, yesterday criticized H. K. Seltzer, Cook county WPA administrator, for saying that any city application for a WPA rat extermination project will be denied.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [top] and H. K. Seltzer.

"We are not taking 'no' for an answer," Ald. Ross said. "We are going ahead and apply for a project and we still believe it will be approved. In the meantime we are considering all other means of attacking the rat problem.

"There is no other project by which WPA could do more for Chicago. Rats do about $7,000,000 damage a year in Chicago."

The board of health has suggested that a WPA rat project should require 4,052 workers of which 3,600 would be used for preparing poison and distributing bait. The project is estimated to cost $2,273,896 in government money and $103,170 from the city.

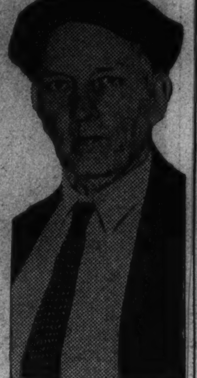
HARLAN BATTLE FIGURE OF 1931 IS ARRESTED AGAIN

Harlan, Ky., Oct. 14 [Special].—W. M. [Bill] Hightower, figure in the battle of Evarts, May 5, 1931, in which five men were killed, was arrested here again this week. He was jailed after Fred Lester, a witness against him at his trial in 1932, filed a complaint. Hightower was convicted of murder and later pardoned. He formerly was president of the Evarts local, United Mine Workers.



W. M. Hightower.

Hightower was held in $500 bond on a warant, issued by Magistrate J. B. M. Howard, which charged that Hightower declared he came back to Harlan county "to settle it with him [Fred Lester]."

Hightower was convicted on murder charges growing out of the slaying of three deputy sheriffs in a fight in 1931. He was convicted on the same charges that sent to prison W. B. Jones, secretary of the Evarts union, and three other union men who still are in the penitentiary. Hightower was pardoned by Gov. Ruby Laffoon.

32 MORE SCHOOLS TO GET TRIBUNE'S R. O. T. C. AWARDS

12,000 Cadets Eligible for Merit Medals.

Thirty-two colleges and schools in five Chicagoland states have just been added to the list of 34 institutions in Chicago and the suburbs already eligible to compete for THE TRIBUNE'S annual awards to outstanding cadets and units of the reserve officers' training corps.

The awards are made to encourage interest in the R. O. T. C. The newcomers, from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin, will compete for the stands of colors presented to the best units.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be presented at the end of each semester to the three cadets cited for merit in each of the 66 schools. Among the new institutions will be colleges which give senior R. O. T. C. training, public schools offering the junior course, others that give partial R. O. T. C. instruction provided by section 55C of the national defense act, and schools of essentially military character, such as Culver and St. John's.

Here Are New Recipients.

Those from which acceptances have been received follow:

Senior—University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Knox college, Galesburg, Ill.; Indiana university, Bloomington, Ind.; Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.; St. Norbert college, West De Pere, Wis.; Ripon college, Ripon, Wis.; University of Iowa, Iowa City, Ia.; Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, Mich.; Rose Polytechnic institute, Terre Haute, Ind.; University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.; Northwestern university, Evanston, and Michigan State college, East Lansing, Mich.

Junior—Mattoon public schools, Mattoon, Ill.; Senior High school, Beloit, Wis.; Campion, Prairie du Chien, Wis.; Grand Rapids High school, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Bessemer public high schools, Bessemer, Mich.; Ironwood High school, Ironwood, Mich.; Calumet public school, Calumet, Mich., and Loras college, Dubuque, Ia.

Schools receiving federal aid for military science courses under section 55C are not obliged [as are standard R. O. T. C. outfits] to have regular army instructors. As a rule they get arms and equipment but not uniforms. The secretary of war grants them help at his discretion, and obliges them to maintain R. O. T. C. standards.

12,000 Cadets Eligible.

This fall's additions to THE TRIBUNE'S award program place nearly 12,000 cadets in competition for honors.

The Chicago area schools that have been receiving Tribune medals and have been eligible for the two annual stands of colors include 27 public and one Catholic school in the city proper, three public schools in Gary, and one each in Waukegan, Evanston, and Joliet. They are:

Chicago [public]—Amundsen, Austin, Bowen, Calumet, Crane, Du Sable, Englewood, Fenger, Foreman, Harrison, Harper, Hirsch, Hyde Park, Kelly, Lake View, Lane, Lindblom, Marshall, Morgan Park [not to be confused with the military academy], Roosevelt, Senn, Schurz, Steinmetz, Sullivan, Tilden, Von Steuben, Waller, and [Catholic] St. Mel's.

The six public high schools in the suburbs complete the list.

The Reserve Officers' Training corps has had a rapid growth in the Chicago schools since the movement began in 1917 before this country entered the world war. By the start of the 1917-'18 school year, however, the United States was in the conflict and the army instructors assigned in the previous semester had been summoned to active duty.

Tribune Backs Program.

Their work was taken over by physical education instructors. Uniforms were supplied by a citizens' committee. There were stubborn protests by pacifists, who likened the high school cadet corps to Europe's compulsory military training for youth, but the movement grew. The following year THE TRIBUNE offered its first silken flag to help keep interest high among the cadets themselves.

In 1920 the R. O. T. C. came into formal being thru an amendment to the national defense act of 1916. This standardized military training in universities, colleges, and schools.

The R. O. T. C. builds character, teaches discipline, and develops leadership for future civil life. Tho some colleges [in the senior R. O. T. C. division] make two years of it compulsory, the training is entirely voluntary in the junior and 55C divisions.

In fact, a boy must obtain his parents' consent in writing to be admitted to the corps.

176,896 Enrolled Last Year.

Only the students of the three upper high school grades are carried officially on the R. O. T. C. rolls. Nevertheless, freshmen may receive the training. At the start of the 1938-'39 school year, there were 176,896 official enrollments in the R. O. T. C. The government supplies uniforms, training rifles, and provides military instruction free.

The head of the Chicago R. O. T. C. is Col. William F. Morrison [field artillery], who was assigned here in 1935. His official title in the schools is professor of military science and tactics.

Under him are four commissioned officers and 34 regular army enlisted men who serve as his faculty. At the end of the last school year there were 7,612 official R. O. T. C. cadets under Col. Morrison's direction and 1,766 freshmen.

Generals Commend Awards.

With the expansion of THE TRIBUNE'S medal award program, its eligible cadets are scattered thru three corps areas of the regular army. The commandants of these areas have under their jurisdiction the R. O. T. C. activities in their respective territories. All are high in their praise of THE TRIBUNE'S contribution of stimulus to the personnel of these far flung units.

In pledging his coöperation, Maj. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis, commander of the 5th corps area [which includes Indiana], wrote: "I trust that your commendable efforts in this respect will meet with ever increasing success.

"I am especially impressed with the fact that the effective interest of THE TRIBUNE in the R. O. T. C. is a most logical step in the broader and fixed purpose of THE TRIBUNE to direct its great influence to the advancement of the education of youth and to the timely provision of a reasonable national defense, both of which are essentials of the first order in the advancement of the welfare of this nation."

Gen. Ford Lauds Program.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 2d army and 6th corps area, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, issued the following statement from his headquarters in Chicago:

"I am indeed gratified to learn that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is extending its coöperation with the Reserve Officers' Training corps. The coöperation which has been extended to the junior R. O. T. C. units in Chicagoland for the last several years has been deeply appreciated.

"THE TRIBUNE'S splendid efforts have not only encouraged the boys by tangible rewards for superior work, but have made it possible for parents and the general public to understand better the great benefit which the R. O. T. C. brings to the individual, the community and to national defense."

Public Is Kept Informed.

From Omaha, Neb., came a statement by Maj. Gen. Percy P. Bishop, commander of the 7th corps area, which includes Iowa. He wrote:

"The attitude maintained by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in many fields has not only been of benefit in the maintenance of high morale among the students pursuing the R. O. T. C. courses of the schools concerned, but has also contributed greatly toward enlightening the public mind in the purpose of these units. I feel certain that expansion of the newspaper's policy of coöperation . . . will be most beneficial to the units concerned."

And from the officials of schools that will receive the awards for their cadets came many expressions of approval.

The medals to be awarded in these schools will be similar to those distributed among Chicago R. O. T. C. cadets. They will bear the inscription "For Merit" and will depict a cadet standing at shoulder arms. There will be a space also for engraving the name of the recipient.

Radio Salute Planned.

Plans now are under way for honoring the successful cadets of Chicagoland. Those to whom medals are awarded next January, at the close of the first semester, are to be invited to attend a coast to coast broadcast from radio station W-G-N on Feb. 22. The broadcast will be a national salute to the R. O. T. C.

A colorful outdoor spectacle has become customary in recent years. Not only the medal winners, but all Chicago's thousands of R. O. T. C. cadets, have assembled at the band shell in Grant park for the ceremony of presenting the medals and the colors, then have marched in martial array on Michigan avenue.

This annual Cadet day is set aside by the board of education for a time near the end of the second semester in the late spring. If present plans materialize, the Chicagoland medal winners may also take part in this military spectacle next spring.

Tribune Widens R. O. T. C. Program

Medal symbols on map locate schools from which acceptances of The Tribune's expanded program of R. O. T. C. awards have been received. Those institutions named but not identified by the key are colleges or universities.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford (left), commander of the 2d army and 6th corps area; Maj. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis (center), commander of the 5th corps area, and Maj. Gen. Percy P. Bishop, commander of the 7th corps area, who have praised The Tribune for its expanded R. O. T. C. award program.

Warmer Weather Today and Tomorrow Forecast

Warmer weather for Chicago, at least for a few days, was promised yesterday by Gordon E. Dunn, government forecaster. The temperature is expected to rise today and remain up for two or three days. Recent heavy frosts in the suburbs have done some damage to eggplants and tomatoes, according to August Geweke, president of the Cook County Vegetable Growers' association. Pumpkins and squash, he said, are nearly all harvested.

DIAMONDS USED IN INDUSTRY CUT OFF BY ENGLAND

Ask American Dealers to Report on Supply.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 14.—American manufacturers are becoming increasingly concerned over their dwindling supply of industrial diamonds, which are essential in many phases of production. The British embargo has shut off the supply from South Africa.

The prices of industrial diamonds demanded by some speculative dealers have risen as high as 35 per cent over prewar figures.

These hard stones are important in many industries and especially in the munitions field, where they are required for delicate processes in tooling guns and airplane motors.

The importance of industrial diamonds in the munitions field is shown by the fact that the government recently sent out letters to all known dealers in the United States asking them to report on their stocks on hand and various grades.

Acts When War Starts.

The British Board of Trade clamped down an embargo on the stones the day after war was declared.

Great Britain holds a virtual monopoly of the world diamond market through her own fabulous fields in South Africa or through contracts with producers in other countries. Nearly 100 per cent of the world's output of diamonds is cleared through the Diamond Corporation of London.

Behind the London syndicate is De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd., of Kimberley, South Africa, which possesses the richest mines in the world for both gem stones, the kind used in jewelry, and the lower grade diamonds for industrial purposes.

Control Brazil Fields.

In 1938 De Beers produced diamonds valued at 2,695,000 pounds sterling, while the Belgian Congo's output is reported at 600,000 pounds, and that of Brazil, principal South American producer, at 300,000 pounds. Through its contract arrangements the London syndicate takes over the output from the Congo and Brazil as well as other fields scattered throughout the world.

Diamond experts here said today that Germany was already experiencing a shortage in her supply of "crushable boart," or the most common type diamonds used in industry. This statement was impossible of verification, of course. One firm said it was selling this type for $1.28 a carat in New York, and agents believed to be acting for Germany were offering $2.

Meanwhile, the 300 or more diamond cutters in this country are being swamped with orders. Ordinarily most of the diamonds go to Antwerp, Belgium, or Amsterdam, Holland, where most of the world's 40,000 diamond cutters are located.

May Ship to America.

Because of allied fears that the Germans might attempt to march through Belgium or The Netherlands and thus possibly intercept diamond shipments, it was said that the United States might become the center for diamond cutting. De Beers, it was learned, is contemplating a plan whereby diamonds would be shipped directly from the South African mines to this country.

More than 50 per cent of the diamonds mined are of "uncuttable" or industrial type. These are diamonds which do not have the potential brilliancy of gem stones. Some are badly flawed and lack luster. However, these stones, the hardest substance in the world, are invaluable for truing of grinding wheels, core drilling, and machining of nonferrous metals.

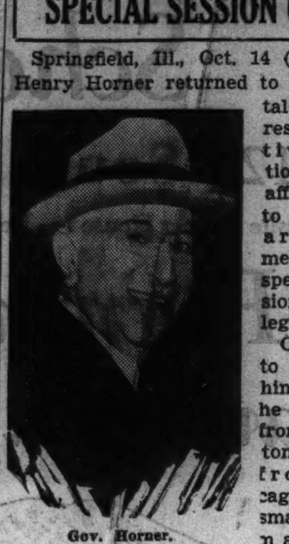
Meanwhile, attempts to allay the growing alarm of manufacturers are being made by Harold T. Dickinson, a director of both De Beers and the Diamond corporation, who is now in New York City directing a campaign for greater use of diamonds by Americans.

Dickinson has expressed the belief the embargo will be lifted shortly and that prices will be stabilized slightly over the normal level.

"It is expected the embargo will be lifted very shortly and exports will be passed through a central committee as was the case in the last war," said Dickinson. "Besides, production of diamonds is continuing in South Africa on the same scale as before the war.

"Operations in the two pipe mines, Wesselton and Bulfontein, and in the alluvial fields, are normal. There is reason to believe that the shipment of diamonds, rough or cut, direct from South Africa to the United States will hold costs at normal level."

GOV. HORNER RETURNS TO CAPITAL; PONDERS SPECIAL SESSION CALL



Gov. Horner.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 14 (AP).—Gov. Henry Horner returned to the capital today to resume active direction of state affairs and to complete arrangements for a special session of the legislature.

On hand to greet him when he stepped from the Alton Limited from Chicago was a small group, made up mostly of state officials. For 11 weeks the governor has been recuperating from his long illness in the seclusion of a leased mansion in Highland Park, overlooking Lake Michigan.

"I'm feeling fine and glad to be back," he told greeters.

Except to say he hadn't decided on the date for the special legislative session, Gov. Horner deferred comment on legislative and political matters until Monday. He told newspapermen he would hold a press conference then.

FORD ATTORNEY RIPS NLRB BAN ON FREE SPEECH

Ruling Perils Democracy, He Contends.

New York, Oct. 14 [Special].—The National Labor Relations board was attacked here today by Frederick H. Wood, attorney for the Ford Motor company, on the ground it interferes with the right of free speech by employers. If one is to believe the NLRB, Wood said, the right to collective bargaining is so superior to that of free speech that free speech must be subordinated.

Wood spoke at the National Conference of Civil Liberties in the Present Emergency, sponsored by the American Civil Liberties union and other organizations, after Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, NLRB regional director in New York, had defended the board's action in prohibiting employers from using oral or written statements to persuade employés not to join unions.

Madden's Views Assailed.

Wood asserted that the views of Mrs. Herrick and J. Warren Madden, NLRB chairman, and the views expressed in the board's decisions, constituted a clear cut violation of the constitutional guarantee of free speech.

"Mr. Madden said recently that an employer would violate the National Labor Relations act if he told one of his employés that the head of a union seeking to organize his plant was a communist, even if the statement were true," Wood said. "I part there with Mr. Madden.

"In the opinion of the National Labor Relations board, the right to collective bargaining is so superior to that of free speech that free speech much be subordinated. I believe the right to free speech may be subordinated to no other right, if we expect democracy in America to go on. When the right of free speech depends on the speculations and prejudices of public officials, then, in a short time, free speech will disappear altogether."

Radio Censorship.

Speaking at a session on censorship of means of communication, Nevile Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, explained that its new restrictions against selling time on the air for discussion of controversial issues was intended to keep wealthy persons or groups from monopolizing the radio.

Full provision, Miller promised, would be made for the discussion of public issues without cost.

NEW SLUSH FUND CLUB PUTS LEVY ON PAY ROLLERS

Democratic Drive Opened in 13th District.

Another drive for collecting campaign funds from Democratic pay rollers has been launched in the 13th congressional district, it was learned yesterday. The new drive is by a group known as the Illinois Roosevelt club. It plans to collect funds from state employés in addition to the 2 per cent levy made by the Illinoisans, a Democratic fund collecting organization.

Democratic political employés in the district, which includes the counties of Lee, Ogle, Whiteside, Carroll, Stephenson, and Joe Daviess, have received letters informing them that they will be expected to contribute to the club.

Officers of Club Listed.

Some of the officers, according to the club's letterhead, are William F. Hogan, chairman of the finance committee, a former postmaster and now a bank receiver under Edward J. Barrett, state auditor; M. J. Judge, an employé of the state highway department, and Edward Mahan, state highway policeman. All are from Dixon.

Hogan said the club is the local organization for the county Democrats and has nothing to do with the Illinoisans. He said that those who contribute to the Illinoisans are expected to pay dues in the club in order to keep the local group in politics. He refused to say what the dues are in the Roosevelt club.

Mahan and several others listed as officers said that they did not know anything about the club and did not know that their names were used.

The letter to the pay rollers read in part:

"Mr. O. B. Peterson will call on you—he will inform you as to the amount of dues and will give you a receipt for them."

Collector Leaves Joliet.

H. A. Stone, an employé of the old age assistance division of the state department of public welfare at Springfield, who has been in Joliet collecting funds from the prison guards for the Illinoisans, checked out of a Joliet hotel late Friday night before reporters could interview him. He had been in Joliet since Oct. 4.

A. L. Bowen, head of the department of public welfare, said Stone has been on a leave of obsence because of illness. He said he had not heard that Stone was collecting for the Illinoisans. The welfare head said he will investigate to learn whether a meeting was held in the prison and employés coerced into joining the political club.

TAKE REPORTED KIDNAP VICTIM'S BODY FROM LAKE

The body of Peter J. Damlos, 44 years old, a beer distributor of Antioch, Lake county, who reported to police Wednesday that he was kidnaped by four men and robbed of $775, was recovered yesterday from Lake Marie, two and one-half miles west of Antioch. The lake was dragged after his fishing pole was found on the bank.

Damlos, in reporting the kidnaping, said his car was stopped west of Mundelein as he was driving to Chicago and that he was robbed and then shoved from the bandits' car near Half Day. Deputy Sherif Stanley Christian, who investigated, said he had driven with Damlos over the route the distributor said the kidnapers took and had found no tire tracks or footprints at the point where Damlos said he was stopped.

Leaves Jail Cell

James K. Matter leaving the county jail yesterday. The sign above the door bears an admonition to prisoners.

James K. Matter, an industrial engineer whose conviction for the murder of his wife, Marguerite, in their Brookfield home was reversed by the Illinois Supreme court, walked out of the county jail a free man yesterday.

He won his release on the failure of the state to prosecute a second trial within the four term court period plus an additional grace period of 60 days as required by Illinois law. Prosecutor Emmett Moynihan told Judge John Sbarbaro that Matter's daughter, Martha Jean, 10 years old, who testified against her father in the first trial, is missing. A second trial without the testimony of the girl would be a waste of time, Moynihan said. As the state's chief witness, Martha Jean had testified she heard her father threaten her mother before the shooting a year ago.

Upon his release Matter said he planned to visit his other two children who are living with an aunt and then try to "pick up the threads of my life."

FORMER CABARET HOSTESS FACES MURDER CHARGE

Isabelle Messmer. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 14 [Special].—Isabelle Messmer, 22 years old, a former night club hostess, left here in the custody of Texas officers tonight. She is under indictment at Odessa, Tex., for slaying Buford Armstrong, pitcher for the Odessa semiprofessional baseball team.

Miss Messmer was arrested in a hotel cocktail lounge here Oct. 6 when police were told she was carrying a gun. It was learned she had escaped last Jan. 20 from a New Jersey reformatory, where she was serving a seven year sentence for assaulting a policeman.

Texas officers said she admitted killing Armstrong in a tourist cabin at Odessa last March 30. Following her arrest, she attempted to commit suicide by leaping from a top bunk in her police cell, and asserted she never would be taken back to the reformatory alive. Under the name of Dolores Martinez, she said, she was a night club hostess in the border town of Laredo, Tex.

RADIO TO DIRECT MORTON GROVE HIGHWAY POLICE

Two Other Stations Will Be Set Up Later.

Operation of two-way radio in ten squad cars of the county highway police in Morton Grove will start this week. The transmitter will broadcast on an ultra-high frequency with 250 watts power.

Preliminary tests during the last ten days have shown that its signals can be heard about 50 miles under normal conditions. Chief Lester Laird of the highway police said arrangements were being made with towns within that radius so that a closely woven road blockade could be set up with great speed.

Towns to Get Calls.

Towns whose police cars already are equipped will receive the county calls and rebroadcast those concerning them. Communities whose police cars are unequipped will be urged to purchase one-way receiving sets. Messages phoned to the highway police will be broadcast for them.

The chief said highway stations at Homewood and Willow Springs for the present will continue to have messages sent to their cars, equipped with one way sets, thru the city police radio. Laird said the total cost for Morton Grove's cars and station equipment was $10,000, and that the two other stations probably will be similarly equipped by February or March.

Has 250 Foot Tower.

The new station has a 250 foot tower and uses the call letters WSCI. The station is now operated under a construction permit, but Laird said he expected a permanent license would be granted soon.

Towns expected to coöperate with the new station are Evanston, Wilmette, Winnetka, Glencoe, Desplaines, Niles Center, and Park Ridge, all of whom already have their own equipment, and Niles, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Glen Ellyn, Northbrook, Northfield, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, River Grove, Wheeling, Elmwood Park, and others, who are expected to obtain sets, if they do not have them, or install direct phone connections with the county station.

SAVE 2 ON LAKE IN SNAPPY STYLE; IT'S A GOOD THING

Two men adrift in a 30 foot cabin cruiser off Jackson park signaled the shore fervidly late yesterday afternoon. First they ran up a distress flag; then they took off their shirts and waved them.

Persons who saw them notified police, who transmitted the message to the coast guards at the park. A crew went out immediately. They found that the boat was the Sea King. After that they were doubly careful to make the rescue in a seamanlike manner.

On board were the owner, Chief Boatswain's Mate Carl Howell, commander of the Jackson park coast guard station, and a guest, Robert Bush. Howell explained to his men that the boat's propeller had been smashed when it struck a submerged log.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

A DEMOCRACY OF VOTELESS MEN.

Parliament in Great Britain is passing a bill suspending all local elections which would have been held in November. The present aldermen and councilors will remain in office. Should vacancies occur they will be filled without popular voting. Suffrage rights, supposedly the dearest possession of the free man, have been suspended in war emergency. The action is part of a general plan which will include the parliamentary elections. The war dictatorship has frozen the government in its existing form. The vote is taken away from the voters. They have been so trained already to the new ideas of government that they submit as of necessity to the liquidation of the democratic process.

The British undoubtedly hope that the spirit of representative government, of universal franchise and local autonomy will survive the disappearance of the form and substance. They are supposed to be fighting a form of government which by force did away with all consent of the governed and made the will of one man the essence of the law and stated its terms in his words.

Parliament still meets and its members may ask questions and debate. They do so in a spirit of such agreement with the ministry that it may well be called submission. That also, it is said, is required by the national front. The individual life of the English, Welsh, and Scotch is controled as to what the person may read as news, may hear on the radio, and may eat; where he may have his domicile and may work. What he may earn and what he may pay, what he may purchase, and how he may amuse himself are pretty much if not wholly within the authority of his government to determine for him. It is war, so what can you do? The French explained everything that way—c'est la guerre. Que voulez vous?

The war censorship, the war prohibitions, war injunctions and commands, and manipulations which march the individual this way and that way are extraordinary departures from and annihilations of the democratic life, but nothing else seems so portentous as the abolition of the electoral system itself. Even if regarded as an extreme measure of a grievous national emergency it destroys the work of centuries. That it should be accepted as an unescapable necessity is not the least strange of the circumstances. Can war now justify the complete extinction of the hard won political rights of nations which call themselves democracies?

From 1861 to 1865 the greatest of all democracies, the truest of them, was in a struggle for its existence as a union. No elections were suspended then. In 1864 Abraham Lincoln as President went into a contest which was regarded at the time as extremely doubtful of issue. A powerful opposing party had declared in its platform that the war was a failure. The fate of the Union seemed to be tied to the political fate of Lincoln and his government. His defeat might mean the separation of the southern states from the northern. The acknowledgment of the right of secession might have been followed by the gradual withdrawal of one section after another from the national bonds which had created a unified nation.

The north, although it was unduly fearful of the military situation and did not know that success was within sight, never dreamed that the democratic process should be abandoned as a means of preserving the government and prosecuting the war. We may imagine that if these northern Republicans had been told they had to give up their votes or give up the Union they might have said if the Union did not preserve their suffrage it failed in its first purpose.

It is of infinitely smaller importance, but it is equally true that in 1900 the war in the Philippines did not prevent its whole issue from being thrown into a presidential election in which William Jennings Bryan led the anti-imperialists against the policy of the McKinley administration and might have changed the course of events. It is of more importance to remember that in 1918, before the armistice and while the country was still in doubt, the congressional elections not only challenged but destroyed President Woodrow Wilson's control of congress and it never entered the minds of an American citizen that that election should not be held. It is within the memory of many of them that it was the most salutary thing that could have happened because the results prevented the continuance of the Wilsonian ideas in American foreign affairs.

Is a war for democracy first to destroy it where its defenders live? It would seem so and Americans may observe what has happened.

When Daladier sought to encourage the people for the war he reminded them that they could not lose because France and Great Britain were the two mightiest empires of the world and controled the seas. They were not the mightiest democracies, but the mightiest empires, with the greatest areas of the world's surface in their possession and the greatest number of people. The king of England is the emperor of India. Men of many colors from Africa and Asia are in the ranks of the empires and all of them, white and colored alike, are under dictatorship, without the vote.

Americans are referred again to the farewell address in which Washington foresaw the future and from his foresight drew the advice and admonition most serviceable to his fellow countrymen, then and now.

THE SUDETEN CRISIS.

Col. Conrad H. Lanza, one of the ablest of American military students, has published an article on the Sudeten crisis which may deserve wider attention than it is likely to receive in the columns of the Field Artillery Journal.

Col. Lanza says categorically, though without citing his authority, that Hitler on May 28, 1938, determined to take the Sudetenland by force if necessary, called a conference on that day with his principal aids and advisers, and committed his reluctant military command to the project, with Oct. 2 as the day when military operations were to begin if war could not be avoided.

Thereupon extensive preparations were undertaken, including the rapid completion of the Siegfried line opposite France and Belgium, and the training and equipment of additional divisions. Toward the end of September troops which had been engaged in maneuvers were moved to battle positions opposite Czecho-Slovakia. The allies, who had been encouraged to think Hitler was bluffing, were suddenly confronted with the reality that he was not. This and its sequel are all more or less familiar to Americans.

Five Polish divisions were moving toward Czecho-Slovakia at the same time that the Germans were doing so. Poland, says Col. Lanza, was aligned with the axis powers. "She wanted her share of any spoils resulting from the disintegration of Czecho-Slovakia." Hungary was playing the same game. The remaining 35 Polish divisions were in a position to meet Russia should she come to the defense of the Czechs. "The allies doubted whether Russia really intended to intervene; they thought that if she did Poland, with German resources at her disposal, might defeat Russia. Had not Poland alone done so in 1920?"

Americans will remember the tone of screaming rage in which Hitler uttered President Benes' name in his radio speech on the eve of the September crisis. Hitler may have had his reasons for that. Col. Lanza argues that Japan and Italy had special grievances against Mr. Benes. Japan remembered that Japanese troops had helped the Czech legion escape through Siberia in 1919 and remembered also that Mr. Benes "in 1932 took a leading part before the league of nations in condemning Japan for her occupation of Manchukuo. Later, in 1937 and 1938, Japan noted that an important part of the material she captured in her war with China was marked, "Made in Czecho-Slovakia." As for Italy, Mr. Benes had taken a leading part in arranging sanctions against her at the time of the Ethiopian war. By directing his tirades against Mr. Benes Hitler was soliciting sympathy for his aggression from Italy and Japan.

A CREAKY STEAMROLLER.

An Associated Press correspondent who viewed the advance of the Russian army into Poland described it as three-fourths Asiatic, one-fourth European. Its bivouacs took him back to descriptions of American civil war armies. He saw more broken down mechanical equipment in sixty hours than has been seen in all the campaigns of the German army since Hitler marched into the Rhineland. Tanks and trucks screamed for grease on rutty roads.

Mechanization was confined largely to heavy artillery, tanks, and armored cars. There were plentiful anti-tank guns, but mostly horse drawn. There was no motorized infantry. The army traveled on foot or horse; hauled most of its supplies in wagons.

The account apparently passed through Russian censorship, which gives it the stamp of considerable authenticity. The picture is of the same old Russian steamroller, except that political commissars are on hand to veto the orders of military commanders.

Twenty-five years ago the steamroller moved ponderously into Prussia to the cheers of its allies, to be shattered at Tannenberg by the smaller but better equipped and better led forces of Von Hindenburg. From that day until its final collapse the Russian steamroller was the least effective in results and the most wasteful of the lives of its men of all the armies of Europe.

If all that Stalin has to offer is another steamroller the recent diplomatic victories of the soviets may prove fleeting. What has been obtained by threat must be held by force. It is not inconceivable that the Russian freebooter and his German partner in the destruction of Poland will some day fall out over the booty. Should that day come, a Russian army such as has been described would prove no more formidable against the Germans than were the Poles. Whatever their defects of equipment and leadership, the latter at least had something more than loot to fight for.

AMERICAN SENTIMENTS.

Feelings which influence and determine opinions over a large part of the United States include aversion to Hitler personally and to Nazi methods, abhorrence of tyranny and its brutalities, and sympathy for peoples who have lost their liberties and have had their countries torn away from them. Most of these people, particularly in the central part of the country where alien influences are not strong, are undivided in their loyalty to their own country. Their protest against what they could not tolerate is instinctive and honest.

These people also are people of peace. They want to keep it. They want to keep their own country out of war unless it is forced to defend itself. In the present situation they are caught between strong and probably contradictory sentiments. Their hatred of Hitler is a hatred of unscrupulous force, violence, and destruction. Their hatred of war is hatred of the same evils. They are reluctant to believe that they might have to make a choice between the two sentiments. A great effort has been made to deceive them on this point which in a moment of national decision ought to have been faced without deception or self-deception.

GEN. FRANCO REBUILDS SPAIN

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID [By Mail].—Spain alone among the countries of the world has cut down her armed forces to get onto a peacetime instead of a wartime footing, and already 9 billion dollars has been allocated for reconstruction in the next 10 years.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco has undertaken to rebuild the nation. Besides repairing all the material damage of the civil war — which by world war standards was fairly light—the Spanish government has decided to reconstruct the nation's life and thought. Tradition and historical bases, combined with totalitarian thoroness and ambition, form the framework of that reconstruction.

There is no place in new Spain for any form of "rugged individualism." Elaborate and detailed plans cover every phase of national activity and deal with all outstanding problems.

Along with labor, housing, finance, industry, raw materials, and other more or less material problems, the government is drafting decrees to govern education, religion, and every form of thought and public expression. All are supervised and tailored to the pattern of the new "national syndicalist" state.

While other countries are calling men to the colors, Spain's attention has been turned to demobilizing the men who fought the civil war and getting them back to normal civil life. With 1 million men under arms and nearly as many more in the defeated Republican armies out of a total population of 26 million, it was no small task.

Franco's government has concentrated on getting the army down to a normal size and finding ways for the former Republicans to redeem themselves in work on reconstruction projects. Roughly 500,000 men of Franco's army have been demobilized.

The reconstruction program involves the whole structure of the state and the party—Falange [Fascist]—the only legal political party in Spain. The setup of Falange—the government, the army, the educational system, and many phases of industry—already has been reorganized.

* *

The program has provided subsidies for shipping, loans to pay for the repair of war damaged buildings, price control and crop control for all basic crops, control of money and securities, censorship of every form of publication down to the words of popular songs, and strict control of food distribution and prices. The church has been restored to its old place and Catholic religious instruction is required for all.

All that has come about within five months of the end of the civil war which lasted three years.

Even defense changes have been carefully arranged. Before the European war began Spain moved her ablest generals to key defense spots.

Lack of strong central authority was the main reproach against the Republican government of 1931-'36. The new government has established strict discipline. If a Spaniard wants to publish a book or a popular song, if he wants to take a truckload of potatoes from Burgos to Madrid, if he wants to travel over that road himself without the potatoes, if he wants to import an automobile or a new tire, he must have a government permit and comply with government regulations.

Conditions, hours, and wages for labor are regulated, with preference in employment given to war veterans. Food supplies are apportioned to go as far as possible. Their distribution is regulated by permits and ration cards, and prices are kept down by government decree.

A huge housing program to replace destroyed dwellings is under way. Cheap homes are being provided [by means of taxes] for low paid laborers and white collar workers.

Industry and trade are supervised so that no new factory or business may be set up in an area where it would overcrowd the field.

* *

Railroads are being aided in the work of repairing damage and replacing rolling stock. Their fares are restricted to the 1936 level—about 2 cents a mile. A minimum list of their immediate needs, drafted by the new government railway service, estimated the cost at 14 million dollars.

Property damage to be repaired will call for more than 2 billion dollars.

Heavy subsidies for construction of new shipping have been provided. "Spain must once again seek greatness on the sea," the government declares. Long term loans are available to ship owners wishing to build new vessels or rebuild old ones.

All these huge schemes are devised to operate without foreign loans and at a minimum cost to the government.

The Credit Institute for Reconstruction, created by decree last March 16, draws its capital largely from funds forfeited by their owners thru fighting the Nationalist movement.

The National Wheat service, founded two years ago to control wheat prices and distribution, is self-supporting and has accumulated a surplus fund of several million dollars from which loans are made to farmers. Its original operating capital was put up voluntarily by a group of banks.

In every case interest—now fixed at 3 per cent—is charged and the government is protected as the beneficiary of insurance policies on collateral, on wheat crops, on real estate, or whatever other security may be available.

To make certain there are loans available for all for immediate needs, reconstruction loans are limited to $5,000 for any one person. The average loan actually is slightly less than $4,000.

In Madrid huge projects are under way. Figures for private enterprise are not available. Damage at first was estimated at 10 million dollars, and now is believed to be higher.

Money is not scarce in Spain, and tho prices are high in foreign exchange, they are not high for the Spanish, except the laboring class. Note circulation, thru the needs of war, has risen to an estimated 50 billion pesetas in paper, but even when there was no gold to secure it its level was kept up.

Recently 26,873,000 gold dollars returned to Spain from France, with an estimated 5 million dollars more in jewelry and other personal valuables. This gives the currency a sounder backing.

Hand in hand with the rebuilding program has gone the work of purging the country of the political opposition. Even now the work of separating the sheep from the goats is going on in government offices, in private firms, and in the ranks of the Falange party itself.

Any person considered doubtful must produce two affidavits from party members vouching for him.

Military tribunals set up when Madrid fell deal with former Republicans. Last June it was reported that in Madrid alone three courts were dealing with more than 200 cases a day. Similar courts function in Barcelona and in other former Republican areas.

To pass on the status of Falange members, special party tribunals composed of veteran members are functioning. Their task is to weed out the thousands who turned Falangist at the moment of victory.

In every profession, in every business, and in every government office the same process of purification is being carried out.

To help run down the enemies of the régime, all travel is strictly supervised. Nobody may move from one town to another without a safe conduct pass. It is issued after investigation and checked by patrols of the civil guard [semi-military state police] at each town along the way.

As a further step toward normalcy, "militant" [full fledged] members of Falange were given permission to travel without safe conduct passes if they carried their membership cards.

Applicants for passports, safe conduct certificates, or visas to enter Spain from abroad are investigated and registered as a further means of tracking down any hidden enemies or spies.

AUTO EXHAUST FUMES ARE DANGEROUS.

NOW is the time to make certain that the gas heater in the home is properly vented and that the exhaust pipe from the automobile is in good order. Why? Because half of the fifty thousand deaths from asphyxia that occur in the United States each year may be laid on the doorstep of carbon monoxide.

With the approach of winter, houses will be less well ventilated and fumes from burners of all sorts must be conducted to the outside. The chief sources of trouble are the exhaust from automobiles [which contains about 7 per cent carbon monoxide], leaky gas connections to heaters and stoves, or unwatched cooking procedures that may boil over and extinguish the flames with the burner wide open. The air within a motor car with the windows shut—particularly during cold weather—may show too high a level. It is always well, therefore—regardless of the elements—to have at least one of the windows lowered partially.

If the air in a closed car contains .03 per cent or more, and if the occupants breathe this material for but one hour, a dangerous concentration will pile up in the blood. Every one should know something about the amount of this gas that can cause mental depression. For example, .02 per cent inhaled for three and one-half hours will bring about a 20 per cent saturation in the circulation. When the blood contains less than 10 per cent few symptoms will appear other than some shortness of breath and a feeling of fatigue. Those taking long journeys, however, in machines which do not admit a light breeze, feel exhausted when the destination is reached.

But when the percentage in the blood rises to 20, distress will become obvious with pressure across the forehead, headache, and marked flushing of the surface of the skin. As the quantity absorbed mounts, throbbing pains will be felt. The victim quickly becomes irritable, snappy, and his judgment is badly askew. With 30 per cent, or slightly more, vision will be affected and a sense of dizziness and nausea will come on. With 40 per cent, collapse is imminent with loss of consciousness and respiratory failure.

Just how many automobile accidents are due to the breathing of carbon monoxide is not known. It is safe to assume, however, that a substantial number of drivers become so affected that control and alertness are completely destroyed. In a group of truck drivers—with the cabs of the vehicles not overly tight—trips which continued for five hours or longer were attended with mental confusion. One-third complained of drowsiness, vertigo, and severe headaches.

Of course, the wise thing to do is to avoid this poisonous but all too common contaminant. The motorist who senses an illness should inquire carefully into the cause, as carbon monoxide may be at fault. The best remedy, of course, is fresh air. Mild cases will recover with 24 hours of bed rest in a well ventilated room.

The unconscious person, however, will need artificial respiration which must be started immediately and continued until breathing is restored. Recoveries have been reported—with the victim "dead to the world" for as long as ten hours. If available, a mixture of 93 per cent oxygen and 7 per cent carbon dioxide should be employed. More of the latter may be added, as this serves as a respiratory stimulant. The reason we need oxygen is because monoxide combines with the red coloring matter of the blood and it is difficult to persuade it to let go. With plenty of this element available, it will surrender far more eagerly.

At the same time, the patient must be kept warm and the circulation must be assisted by vigorous massage with stroking directed toward the body. Caffeine is helpful, as is strong coffee. It goes without saying that with the comatose individual no attempt should be made to give liquids by mouth.

Some years ago methylene blue was hailed as a powerful antidote but it fell into disuse. Recent experiments, however, indicate that it is of value as it aids in releasing the monoxide from hemoglobin.

RHEUMATISM IN CHILDREN.

T. P. writes: 1. Are rheumatism and rheumatic fever the same? 2. What causes this disease in children? 3. What is the best treatment?

REPLY.

1. Yes. Rheumatic fever refers to the acute form.

2. Although the exact cause is not known, the starter is probably a focus of infection somewhere in the body. The tonsils may be the culprits.

3. The child must be under the supervision of a physician, as this is a very serious condition and may leave its mark on the heart.

We have a leaflet giving more information on this disease. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

OVERCOMING NAUSEA.

H. M. writes: Every morning when I try to eat breakfast I become nauseated. What can I do about this?

REPLY.

Rise half an hour earlier and drink slowly two or three cups of weak tea. A moderate amount of exercise [calisthenics] in your room with the window wide open will be helpful. Then take the morning paper and rest five or ten minutes digesting the news. If you are well otherwise the tendency will probbaly vanish.

WON'T CAUSE DANDRUFF.

A. A. writes: Does the use of olive oil on the scalp cause dandruff?

REPLY.

No. The cause is now thought to be a germ.

We have a leaflet on hair and scalp disorders which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BREECH BIRTHS.

N. B. writes: Are breech births common? Do these children die or become crippled in the process?

REPLY.

About 3 per cent of all babes arrive feet first. In skilled hands breech births occasion little if any difficulty.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia. — Australia again is lining up with the British Empire and France in the new war. Automatically she found herself involved once Britain declared war, but the people seem to be going about this conflict with a new purpose.

Feeling that "the war to end war," that of 1914-1918, proved a myth, they have abandoned the nonchalant adventurous attitude with which they approached that conflict and now are out to settle accounts.

Once the war broke out Australia prepared to face an invader. The navy and air force were disposed strategically, all vital land points were guarded and the calling up of the militia began. All political parties converged to common ground on prosecution of the war.

The Labor party, while ready to oppose any move for "military and industrial conscription," has agreed to support legislative measures for the welfare and safety of Australia, including:

Immediate control by the commonwealth of all essential raw materials,

Resumption by the government of factories associated with production of munitions and war equipment,

Readjustment of the monetary system to keep the national debt as low as possible, and action to keep interest rates within bounds, and

Maximum safeguards for the people's democratic rights and minimum interference with civil rights

From the outset war was declared on profiteers. The government pegged prices for proclaimed articles at those ruling on Aug. 31. The premiers of all states promised to help control commodity prices and rents and to prevent profiteering. Price fixing will include rationing of commodities where supplies are deficient. Imprisonment for substantial terms and fines will be provide in the antiprofiteering regulations. The government has said it is determined, through confiscation provisions aimed at profiteers, to recover from them profits made through excess prices.

Government officials are indicated as believing that, while a rigid censorship is to be imposed, it will not curb political utterances, as it was charged was done in the last war.

Only one important surprise, a decision to impose a duty of 2 cents a gallon on heavy fuel oil, was contained in the customs and excise proposals of the federal budget. Duties on other items rose similarly.

Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies has presented a $408,000,000 budget to the national parliament. It provides for a 10 per cent increase in the income tax [personal exertion or property]; an increase of 1 per cent, making the sales tax 6 per cent, and increases in the taxes on beer and other alcoholic liquors, gasoline, company levies, and numerous other items.

Australia further will help Great Britain in the war by increasing her exports to the motherland. The federal government will acquire all wheat stocks in Australia, as well as the forthcoming crop. It is expected Britain will purchase Australia's sugar surplus. Britain's decision to buy the whole wool clip and all surplus supplies of six food commodities may mean Australia will receive 320 million dollars from England.

FRATERNAL INSURANCE.

Chicago, Oct. 5 [Legal Friend of the People].—A, in 1903, joined a fraternal insurance organization. In 1922 this organization raised the rate of payments 100 per cent, causing A to stop paying his monthly dues. In 1936 A died.

1. Can B collect the [2] money paid in from 1903 to 1922? C claims the contract made in 1903 still holds good.

3. Can an organization wait until a member reaches an age where a change in insurance companies would cause payments to be excessive to charge twice the amount originally agreed to, or must this be specified at the time of initiation?

4. C claims that the insurance company must pay entire amount paid in at time of the raise in rates or pay insurance on the amount paid in at the death of its members. Is this right? E. G.

1. We assume that B is either the only heir or is executor or administrator of the estate, so as to be entitled to collect anything that would be coming.

2. The right to recover the payments would depend on the agreement under which they were made. If they merely paid for the current insurance protection which was enjoyed then no recovery would be in order. If, in addition to this protection element, the payments included a contribution to a reserve, then there might be a possibility of collecting a surrender value, but this does not seem likely.

3. There is no such absolute rule.

4. In case No. 37637, decided March 29, 1935, our Appellate court held that in absence of an express provision reserving to the society the right to change the insurance contract, the society had no such right. On the other hand, where the contract is expressly subject to the by-laws, it can, of course, be changed. You should bear in mind that in many cases the change is justified by the fact that the initial payments were not on a sound actuarial basis; in other words, were not large enough to carry the risk. If this last mentioned factor enters into a large enough proportion of the insurance contracts it may mean that the society must default if it cannot increase the assessments.

WASHINGTON'S WISDOM.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Farsighted forecasting by George Washington, in a letter to the earl of Buchan on the principles that should guide the United States in connection with foreign politics. Letter dated Philadelphia, April 22, 1793:

"The favorable wishes which your lordship has expressed for the prosperity of this young and rising country cannot but be gratefully received by all its citizens, and every lover of it. One means to the contribution of which and its happiness is very judiciously portrayed in the following words of your letter: 'To be little heard of in the great world of politics.'

"These words, I can assure your lordship, are expressive of my sentiments on this head; and I believe it is the sincere wish of united America to have nothing to do with the intrigues or the squabbles of European nations; but, on the contrary, to exchange commodities and live in peace and amity with all the inhabitants of the earth; and this I am persuaded they will do, if rightfully it can be done.

"If we are allowed to pursue it, the agriculture and mechanical arts, the wealth and population of these states will increase with that degree of rapidity as to baffle all calculation, and must surpass any idea your lordship can hitherto have entertained on the occasion."

AXEL IN OLD HOME TOWN.

Downers Grove, Ill., Oct. 4.—Last week when I was visiting my old home town I ran into Axel. Axel owns the garage. He was down at the University of Illinois when war broke out. He enlisted, but when he got back from France he went into his father's garage. He'd have made a good engineer, if he had finished at Illinois. War does upset things.

Axel believes now is the time to do some thinking about amending the constitution. His idea is that the people are the country; not the congress nor the President. He thinks that before war is declared the people should be given a chance to vote. "It would prevent mistakes like 1917," he said.

As I walked over the First avenue bridge, I stopped to look at the moon, hanging like a fat topaz lantern over the Rock river. It was so peaceful. I wish, Mr. Editor, you could visit my old home town; see how lovely it is on an autumn night; see how peaceful and friendly the people are. Don't you think Axel has something there?

GRASS FOR HIS LAWN.

Whiting, Ind., Oct. 9.—Perhaps some of your readers could give me information regarding planting grass on my lawn.

All black dirt has been removed and the following put in its place:

Six inches of blue clay and 5 inches of black dirt [mixed with 10 per cent clay].

I have been advised to mix oats, clover, and grass seed to get best results.

Have any of your readers any advice to give concerning the above?

JOHN A. SURDUKOWSKI.

PLENTY WRONG AT HOME.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The newspapers carry a daily headline on the crisis in Europe, but here in Chicago people should turn their attention to the thousands of hungry, even starving, persons right here in this country of plenty. A family of four gets about $32 a month; those living on the south side pay about $20 a month for rent, leaving a balance of $12 to feed four people one month, which is exactly 10 cents per person per day.

A RELIEF WORKER.

COPPER PRICES.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Answering the charges made by President Roosevelt warning against profiteering in copper: I want to acquaint the public with the facts. I am a worker who makes a living from the sale of copper products.

With few exceptions, the firms engaged in selling copper, and metals derived from copper, have been unable to make any profits for the last 10 years. They have suffered severe losses, in which the workers have had their share in successive wage cuts.

When Mr. Roosevelt made the charge that copper prices were too high the copper industry was slowly recovering from the depths of the depression. After his statement copper buyers believed him and acted on that belief, with the result that the price of copper fell from a high of 16 cents to a low of 10 cents a pound.

I agree that prices ought not to be allowed to run away with the market. If that condition is permitted, the reaction downward will follow the same course it did in 1929, which would probably be disastrous. I do, however, say that when the opportunity presents itself to make a reasonable profit there ought not to be an immediate outcry against the copper companies — that they are engaged in profiteering. COPPER WORKER.

A COURTEOUS POLICEMAN.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 7.—Last Sunday I was involved in a minor motor accident. Motorcycle Officer Walsh, No. 676, happened on the scene, and I wish to highly commend him as a courteous and considerate police officer, and the west part district for employing such a man.

He, personally, tried out my car to see if it was safe to drive. His calm courtesy enabled me, in spite of slight nervous shock, to proceed on my journey with confidence.

ELEANOR R. BLUMER.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Why all this ballyhoo from England about wanting to restore Poland? Why didn't they do something while it was being destroyed?

BATTLE FOR END OF DICTATORSHIP ON IN LOUISIANA

League Seeks Removal of District Attorney.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Oct. 14.—Good government forces thruout Louisiana were lining up tonight for a week of battle in which they will make their supreme effort to free the state of the dictatorship that has gripped it since Huey P. Long came into power in 1928.

"This is the time," declared T. Hale Boggs, chairman of the People's league and spearhead of the attack upon the Maestri-Leche-Long political machine. "Never has the dictatorship been so vulnerable nor the people more aroused."

It was disclosed that the federal grand jury in session here has taken over the records of the Louisiana state banking department and the state moratorium commission. The latter body was created to protect private property from seizure during the depression.

More Indictments Forecast.

United States District Attorney Harvey G. Fields, who revealed the information, said that several indictments will be returned Tuesday. Altho he termed the indictments "political in nature," Fields would not say whether the jury's interest in the records was based on income tax matters, federal banking regulations, or possible misuse of public funds.

The attack on the Maestri-Leche Long political machine will open Monday in two courts. The first objective will be the removal of Charles A. Byrne, district attorney of Orleans parish [county].

In the Criminal District court an inquiry will be launched into the high handed removal and arrest of two grand jurors earlier in the week, after they had attempted to denounce Byrne as having blocked their investigation of wholesale political corruption.

Jurors Make Charges.

The inquiry will go into the jurors' charges that Byrne, a leader of the machine forces, withheld documents, refused to summon witnesses, and stalled in the presentation of evidence upon which indictments would have been based. The two jurors, meanwhile, have appealed to the state Supreme court for reinstatement, and Judge P. Platt, who removed them, has entered a motion asking that the court refuse their plea.

The machine, headed by Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans, appears to be preparing for a finish fight. The first machine maneuver was by Attorney General David M. Ellison, who superseded Byrne and appointed his first assistant, James O'Connor, to conduct the inquiry. This action caused a storm of protest.

O'Connor attempted unsuccessfully in 1934 to supersede District Attorney Eugene Stanley when Stanley launched a grand jury investigation in New Orleans. Huey Long's legislature shortly afterward changed the state law, which now makes supercession possible.

Plan Impeachment Action.

In the Civil District court Monday impeachment action against Byrne will be started, upon the petition of a group of members of the People's league. Special Prosecutor John E. Jackson, foe of the administration, will act as special prosecutor of the charges of malfeasance in office, which grew out of the grand jury indictment.

And outside the courts a petition demanding Byrne's recall is being circulated. Approximately half the necessary 104,000 signatures have been obtained. The petition is directed to Gov. Earl Long, brother of the late Huey.

But the new and striking aspect of the Louisiana situation is the intense resentment and open denunciation by the people of Long, Maestri, and former Gov. Richard W. Leche, who resigned after the embezzlement scandals at Louisiana State university last summer and the barrage of federal indictments that have hit not only him, but other leaders of the Maestri-Leche-Long combine.

Thousands Attend Meetings.

Beginning with a tumultuous massmeeting attended by 10,000 last Tuesday, thousands have thronged every meeting of political aspect and have hissed and booed the name of Gov. Long and demanded that the dictators be turned out.

The dark public mood recalls previous uprisings in Louisiana's history. In September, 1874, a bloody uprising put an end to the carpetbaggers.

In 1933 and 1934 citizen groups made repeated efforts to unseat the Huey Long-Gov. Oscar Allen dictatorship, but their meetings were halted by militiamen.

It is the absence of troops in the present situation which has given heart to leaders of this revolt. The successors to Huey Long lack his nerve, they believe, especially in the face of the federal grand jury investigation now in progress.

Back Long for Governor.

Maestri, it is believed, hopes to establish a dictatorship just as strong as was Huey's, but without the harsh methods Huey employed. On Friday Maestri ordered the Old Regulars, the Tammany of New Orleans, to support Earl Long for governor next January. They did so, issuing a statement drawn in Maestri's office. [The mayor, under one of Huey's dictatorial laws, may remove any city office holder without trial. Leaders of the Old Regulars all are city and parish jobholders.]

Today several of them declared: "We did it—but with a knife in our pocket."

FIREMEN LAUDED FOR SKILL WITH ROARING NOZZLES

Underwriters Pleased by Distance Tests.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Praise for the effective manner in which Chicago's fire department operates its high pressure equipment was voiced yesterday by Col. Clarence Goldsmith, assistant chief engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. He had just studied results of tests conducted last week.

Wednesday night the department, coöperating with the underwriters' board, shot more than 500,000 gallons of water into the air to see how far effective streams can be thrown by high pressure nozzles mounted on trucks. New high powered pumpers projected the water.

Continue 1897 Experiments.

The purpose was to continue with larger nozzles and greater pressures scientific experiments conducted with hand hose lines in 1897. At that time the maximum fire hose was one and one-quarter inches in diameter.

Last week's tests were conducted with nozzles of three sizes—one and one-half inch, one and three-quarter inch and two inch. All were elevated to 32 degrees. Pressure, at the tips of the nozzles was stepped up from 80 to 240 pounds per square inch in the tests with the first two and up to 220 pounds with the two inch nozzles.

Col. Goldsmith said the test with the two inch nozzle indicated that distance would have been lost instead of gained had the pressure been increased to 240 pounds.

At 240 pounds the stream from the one and one-half inch nozzle was effective at a maximum distance of 175 feet. Engineers found that above that the core of the stream began to break up and spray decreased its effectiveness. A totale of 1,034 gallons of water each minute was pumped.

At the same pressure the one and three-quarter inch nozzle threw an effective stream 192 feet, pumping 1,405 gallons per minute.

Nozzles Especially Ground.

At a pressure of 220 pounds the two inch nozzle projected a 205 foot stream of 1,760 gallons per minute; the inch and one-half nozzle was effective at 170 feet and the inch and three-quarters nozzle threw a forceful stream 187½ feet.

The nozzles used were especially honed and ground for the purpose in the fire department shops. Col. Goldsmith said this gave them an added advantage of about 15 feet over standard fire nozzles.

Tests with the same nozzles at the same pressures but at elevations of 45, 70, and 90 degrees will be conducted in the future. Eventually the three inch nozzles of the fire boat Busse will be tested at the same angles under the same pressures and then stepped up to 340 pounds per square inch at the nozzle.

FIREBUG BLAMED FOR ROCHESTER'S $200,000 LOSSES

Rochester, Ind., Oct. 14 [Special].—Evidence that a firebug is responsible for blazes that have caused $200,000 damages in the community during the last year was discovered today during investigation of a fire that caused $3,000 damage last night in a three story building in the heart of the business district.

A carpet runner soaked in kerosene was used as a fire trail. The blaze was touched off in the second floor office of Dr. Mark Piper in the Barnhart building, owned by Mrs. Henry Barnhart, widow of the former congressman.

William Hindle, deputy state fire marshall, summoned from Indianapolis by Fire Chief Claude Rouch, found that the runner leading from Dr. Piper's waiting room into his consultation room had been soaked in the inflammable fluid. The fire, however, was checked at the door between the rooms.

Marshal Hindle and Chief Rouch said they had no clew to the identity of the firebug, but they expressed belief that he was also responsible for other recent fires.

Hurry, Boys! Says Fireman, and He Has Good Reason!

Fireman Andrew Kormos was lounging in engine house No. 1 at Gary, Ind., yesterday when an alarm came in that sent him into action. He exhorted his comrades to hurry, and the engine clanged away to 712 Harrison street. So energetically did Fireman Kormos and his company work that a small chimney fire was extinguished with practically no damage to the house or Householder Kormos' pocketbook.

CITY TO INDUCT NEW VOTERS AT RALLIES TODAY

10,000 to Join in Citizen Day Ceremony.

The first annual Citizenship day for those who have come of age or been naturalized within the year will be celebrated thruout Illinois today. Among downstate communities which will observe the day are Elgin, Joliet, Aurora, and Mokena.

The celebration is to honor the new voters and to impress on them the importance of their new responsibilities. Gov. Horner proclaimed observance of the occasion in accordance with a bill passed by the recent general assembly. Sponsors of the bill were Senators George C. Dixon [R., Dixon] and Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia].

"Loss of individual liberties over nearly all the earth gives Citizenship day added significance," said Senator Dixon. "It is a time not only to start the new citizens out right on the path of helping to govern this county but also to rededicate older citizens to the republic."

Park Celebration Planned.

The greatest celebration will be held in Jackson park, near 63d street and Stony Island avenue at 2 p. m. Others in the city and state will follow a similar pattern.

Ten thousand persons are expected to take part in the Jackson park program, 200 of them having reached the age of 21 or having been naturalized during 1939. Organizations participating will include 30 posts of the American Legion, Sons of the American Legion, Daughters of the American Revolution, and 36 business, and civic organizations.

The program will open with the massing of colors by uniformed marching units and the singing of "America." Speakers will read from the Declaration of Independence, Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and the preamble to the Constitution.

Hutchins Expected to Speak.

The new voters will repeat the pledge to the flag and the constitutional oath. After they receive certificates to commemorate the occasion there will be speeches and the program will close with singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Among those expected to speak are Dr. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, Fred Schlotfeld, director of immigration in this area; Rufus C. Dawes, United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, Judges David F. Matchett and Hugo M. Friend of the Circuit court, and Dr. Philip Fox, director of the Museum of Science and Industry.

In case of rain the ceremonies will be held in the University of Chicago fieldhouse at 56th street and University avenue.

36 NEW YORK STATE INDUSTRIES UNITE TO AID WORKERS OVER 40

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP).—Thirty-six Rochester industries, coöperating to eliminate discrimination against middle aged workers, today announced a new hiring policy based on the proportions of employable population under and over 40 years of age.

The plan of the industrial group, which employs more than 35,000, was made public thru a joint New York state legislative committee set up in 1938 to study unemployment as it affects those over 40.

Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth, chairman of the committee, asserted the plan's general adoption could be expected to eliminate discrimination against older employables. He explained that if it is found that 40 per cent of the total employables are over the age of 40, and 60 per cent are under 40, these industries will attempt to keep the same percentages employed.

JUDGES FORGIVE AND FORGET; SO DOES MR. HORAN

Heal Breach Over Firing of Bailiffs.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Albert J. Horan.

War, strife, and feuds may rage elsewhere but in our Municipal court, it was stated yesterday on the high authority of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, peace reigns. That means, the jurist explained, that the solidly Democratic bench of 37 judges is no longer trying to jail its Democratic aid, Bailiff Albert J. Horan, nor are judges and Bailiff Horan fighting over patronage.

On July 27, 1938, 27 of the judges met in solemn conclave and pronounced Horan guilty of contempt of court by a vote of 25 to 2. He must go to jail until he obeyed the court's order to rehire 55 deputy bailiffs he had fired as a claimed economy move, Chief Justice Sonsteby ruled.

Put on Special Pay Roll.

The judges, by virtue of authority vested in them by law, then rehired Horan's discharged deputies and had them reporting en masse to Sonsteby's office every morning. And the judges arranged that the city controler put them on a special pay roll so they were not short of cash.

The dispute started when rival Democratic forces clashed in the 1938 primary fight between Judges Edmund K. Jarecki and John Prystalski for the county judgeship nomination. Horan was with Jarecki; the Sonsteby-Kelly forces were with Prystalski. The 55 had given their support to Prystalski.

Observers, who were barred from the first stage of the trial of Horan behind locked doors, noted that the discharged and rehired bailiffs were of the Kelly-Nash variety of Democrats while Horan was affiliated with the Horner-Courtney forces. The valiant 55 had delivered their votes and were ready and waiting for further orders.

"No," said Horan.

"Yes," said Sonsteby and 24 other Municipal court judges.

Matter Rests for a Year.

Horan appealed the order committing him to jail, which was given to Police Lieutenant Richard Barry, an ex-officio bailiff of the court, to serve. For nearly a year the matter was in the bosom of the Appellate court, without any action.

"Horan dismissed his appeal last summer," Chief Justice Sonsteby said yesterday. "Inasmuch as it was his appeal petition he had the right to dismiss it."

"But what about the jail sentence?"

"O, that," the jurist explained. "It wasn't necessary for him to go to jail since he complied with our order. The language of the order was that he should be kept in jail until he obeyed. Since the deputy bailiffs are back at work, that is all there is to it."

Mrs. Eunice Essig Brach Brewer, 40 years old, told in a deposition yesterday how her second husband, Robert C. Brewer, who was chief engineer on a steamer when she met him while taking a cruise, was quite content to conserve his own savings after their marriage while living on her income of $2,000 a month.

"He had at least $6,000 saved up and after he left the sea he got a job for about $300 a month," Mrs. Brewer said. "But when he needed a car, I made the down payment, and he even used gasoline from my tanks. I thought he might pay for his pressing or something, but he didn't. He did send me white roses three or four times, but that was all."

Mrs. Brewer said that after several discussions about finances which made her husband "either sulk or fly into a rage," he decided to pack up and leave her $300,000 mansion at 175 Sheridan road, Winnetka. Now Brewer is suing for homestead rights, and his wife's deposition was taken by Notary Public Joseph M. Baron in connection with his action.

DOWNTOWN RIVER BRIDGES OPENED LESS THIS YEAR

Lock Believed Cause of 9 Month Decline.

Chicago river bridges in the downtown area have opened 3,961 fewer times so far this year than in 1938, a report of Harbor Master William J. Lynch showed yesterday. The 17 bridges on the river from the Outer Drive to Van Buren street and the small bridge across the Ogden slip at the Outer Drive opened 18,949 times during the first nine months.

The decrease has been attributed to the lock and control works installed at the mouth of the river by the Sanitary district. It is reported that freight and excursion boats now use docks outside the river, some at Navy Pier, to avoid the lock.

Trafic Loses 1,133 Hours.

Opening of the bridges blocked trafic and pedestrians for 67,960 minutes or 1,133 hours, compared to 1,431 hours last year. The average time motorists were delayed for each opening was 3.6 minutes, the same as the average last year.

The longest delay was caused at the new Outer drive bridge, which was open 1,561 times for a total of 7,848 minutes, or an average of 5 minutes each time. Last year its average opening was 5.2 minutes.

Following is a table showing the number of times each bridge was opened and the average time from opening and closing during the first nine months of 1938 and 1939:

Police Seek to Identify Victim Hurled from Auto

Chicago avenue police yesterday sought the identity of a man about 45 years old who was thrown from a moving car at La Salle and Oak streets earlier in the day. He was unconscious when taken to Henrotin hospital. It was said his condition is serious. There was no identfication on his person.

FRITZIE SUCH A RAKE GUS CAN'T TURN OLD LEAF

Since it is now autumn, the open season for raking leaves, Gus, the keeper on monkey island at the Brookfield zoo, has been busily engaged with his rake. But the keeper complains he has had anything but coöperation in his work from Fritzie, the boss baboon of the island.

"When I start to rake," says Gus, "he comes over and takes the rake away from me. If I give him an argument, he lets out the baboon distress signal and five other baboons gang me.

"Sometimes Fritzie lets me keep the rake. These are the times he feels like riding on my back and shaking me back and forth as I try to rake. What can you do with a kibitzer like that?"

Gus has presented his grievance to Director Edward H. Bean. He said the other baboons probably would behave if deprived of the leadership of this antic ape. Mr. Bean is considering keeping Fritzie in close confinement during sessions of raking.

BARGE LINE BOATMAN DROWNS.

Ottawa, Ill., Oct. 14 [Special].—Fred Bandy, 22 years old, of Livingston, Ill., drowned in the Illinois river today when he fell from the federal barge line boat Montgomery on the Illinois waterway between Marseilles and Seneca. Plan Big Development of Low Priced Homes in Markham

FRED J. WALSH PLATS 725 ACRES INTO HOUSE SITES

Designed to Sell Below $3,000 Mark.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

One of the largest building programs in the low price bracket in the Chicago area was announced yesterday by the Fred J. Walsh company. A tract of 375 acres in the northwest section of the suburb of Markham has been platted into 750 "small farm" homesites. Semiprefabricated homes costing $2,525 to $2,850 for building and lot are contemplated.

They can be fabricated at a large shop on the grounds and set up and made ready for occupancy, all within a week, according to Walsh. This estimate is based on the time it took to build the first of the expected 750 small homes.

Houses Built to Order.

With the exception of the initial half dozen or more the development will consist of built to order units—that is, houses will be built after they are sold, not before.

The nearly half acre homesites will be 60 by 265 feet. The houses will have four rooms, a 14.4 by 11.8 foot living room, a 9 by 8.8 foot kitchen, two bedrooms, one 10.4 by 11.8 feet and the other 10.4 by 8.4 feet, and a bath. There will be no basement.

Heating will be by stoves except where an owner prefers to pay more and have a utility room for a central heating plant. Cooking will be by electricity or with packaged gas. Markham has Lake Michigan water.

Several models will be available for the home buyer, some with upstairs bedrooms, it was said.

Composition Walls.

The walls are built of a patented fire resisting composition of wood pulp which comes in large sheets. They will be cut and made into walls at the workshop on the grounds. There will be no laths or plaster. The outside wall sheets will be painted with two coats of sand paint, giving the effect of stucco. The inside wall sheets will be painted or papered as desired.

"Thousands of folks around the edge of Chicago, located on little farms, are not only providing everything necessary to feed their families but are deriving a goodly income by specializing in some small farm activity," said Walsh. "Some produce poultry and eggs for the market; some go in for mushroom culture, and others keep bees, raise cut flowers, and engage in any number of additional activities which give them substantial yearly incomes."

Three Days to Erect.

According to Walsh, it required four carpenters and two laborers about three days to erect the first house. It is on the east side of Millard avenue, 200 feet west of Brennan highway, and 100 feet north of old 159th street [now U. S. highway No. 6].

Workers in the shop began cutting the prefabricated sheets of wall material on Monday morning. By Tuesday night they had finished fabricating all the walls and had laid subfloors.

On Wednesday morning workmen started to put up the walls and partitions, and finished the job by noon. In the afternoon they put on ceilings and started on the roof. While all this was going on plumbers were installing the plumbing, and electricians the wiring.

Finish the Job.

All day Thursday workmen put on shingles, trim, and laid and waxed oak floors throughout. Then painters began on the exterior.

On Friday the inside of the house was painted and odd jobs finished.

According to Walsh, the first house built will be ready for inspection this morning.

To date Walsh has built and sold 430 houses in his 1,400 acre Markham development. These have ranged from $3,500 to $6,500 and were financed by Title Two FHA loans.

The lower price homes now contemplated will be financed with the new Title One 15 year FHA loans made through the Bell Savings, Building and Loan association. A house and lot costing $2,525 will require a down payment of $127 and monthly payments of $19.50 for 15 years, it was said.

U. of C. Professor Buys University Avenue House

Prof. Otto F. Bond of the University of Chicago yesterday purchased the old English style residence, containing twelve rooms and three baths, at 5307 University avenue, from Mrs. Walter Cahill. The lot is 100 by 165. The house was built by George Preston Barton, patent attorney. According to the Orr Realty company, which represented all parties, the purchase price was $18,500.

Build Complete House in Five Days

It took two days to fabricate the walls and floors of the house shown in the above architect's sketch, and three days to erect and paint it, and install plumbing, wires, etc. This is the first of several hundred houses expected to be built in the norhtwest section of Markham by the Fred J. Walsh company. They will cost $2,525 to $2,850 for house and site. This house was finished yesterday and will be open to the public today. It is on Milland avenue, 200 feet west of Brennan highway and 100 feet north of 159th street. It occupies a 60x265 foot site.

Five Houses Are Under Way in Glen Acres

Five homes have been completed and are occupied, five more are under way, and it is expected that several others will be started shortly for May 1 occupancy, in Oliver Salinger & Co.'s Glen Acres development, adjoining Des Plaines. All homes are built to order. There is no speculative building, Oliver Salinger said.

This 80 acre subdivision is on the south side of Touhy avenue, about half a mile west of the River road. It extends south to Pratt avenue. It has been platted into lots 50 by 180 feet.

This residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, on Estes avenue, Glen Acres subdivision of Oliver Salinger & Co., cost a reported $3,295, plus $345 for the site, or a total of $3,640. The down payment was $600 and the loan is to be paid in 11 years and 7 months with monthly payments of $30. Taxes and insurance are extra.

According to Salinger the development already is 50 per cent sold. All who have bought, he said, contemplate building in the near future. Glen Acres is said to be restricted as to size and character of building and all structures must be finished before being occupied.

Houses costing $3,295 and up are being built, it was said. All have four rooms and bath, with utility room on first floor, and with finished stairway leading to two unfinished rooms upstairs which can be completed when needed.

National Aviation Club Rents Chicago Quarters

The National Aviation club, a newly formed organization, has leased space in the Petroleum building, 616 South Michigan avenue, through Hogan & Farwell, Inc., managing agents. The club, of which David Barton is president, uses its membership fees to provide free scholarships for training young Americans in aviation, Barton said.

State Highest Court Affirms Racial Bans

The Supreme court of Illinois on Oct. 10 handed down an opinion which sustains the restrictions in force against Negro occupancy and ownership in the old Washington Park subdivision, between 60th and 63d streets and Cottage Grove and South Park avenues. It also affirmed injunctions restraining a white owner from selling or leasing his property to a colored family.

"As this is the first case decided by the Illinois Supreme court affirming a restrictive agreement against Negroes," said Charles A. Churan, attorney for the property owners, "the decision will have an immediate and lasting effect on real estate values not only in Woodlawn but in other areas in Chicago where similar racial restrictions have been recorded.

"Brokers and property owners now know that the courts of Illinois are in line with the decision of the United States Supreme court and the Supreme courts of New York, Michigan, California, West Virginia, Missouri, and Louisiana, where similar restrictions have been held legal and binding."

The law firm of Schuyler & Hennessy and Angus Roy Shannon, for many years attorney for the Chicago school board, were associated with Churan as attorneys for the plaintiffs in the case.

SEARS-ROEBUCK BUYS LAND FOR STORE PARKING

Sears, Roebuck & Co. yesterday took title to part of the block north of their Irving Park-Cicero store, for use as additional parking space. The company bought the southwest corner of Kilpatrick and Belle Plaine, fronting 100 feet on Kilpatrick and 250 feet on Belle Plaine, from Archie C. Smith, trustee, for $53,500, according to revenue stamps on the deed.

Another parcel south of the corner lot, 100 by 150, and the southeast corner of Cicero and Belle Plaine, 50 by 133, were bought from Sidney J. Levin for $24,500. These sales give Sears 383 feet of frontage on Belle Plaine, 50 feet on Cicero, and 200 feet on Kilpatrick. All this space will be used for parking.

The company recently bought 500 by 150 feet of land in the block east of the store on which 300 cars can be parked at one time.

SELLS NINE FLAT BUILDING.

The First National Bank of Chicago sold the nine apartment building at 1015 South Hermitage avenue to Harry and Rose Mazursky for an undisclosed price. Wells-Chinberg & Co. and Laube & Gordon were brokers.

A. I. A. STARTS ATELIER ON THE NEAR NORTH SIDE

Designated Chicago School of Architecture.

Elmer C. Roberts, president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects, yesterday announced that after a year of planning an atelier, so-called, has been established on the near north side. It has the temporary name of Chicago School of Architecture and is under the directorship of Paul Schweikher, nationally known architect.

Workrooms of the school have been established in the Pelouze building, 230 East Ohio street. These will be open daily from 7 a. m. to 12 p. m. except on Saturdays and Sundays, when the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 12 p. m.

States Workshop's Function.

The committee of members of the A. I. A. which has been working on the establishment of the school for many months comprises Earl H. Reed, Robert Allen Ward, Thomas Mulig, and Jerrold Loebl.

"The function of the workshop will be to provide space and equipment at night for the continuation of work, study, and discussion of architecture and its pertinent subjects," said Schweikher.

"It is not the intention of this group to be in any way in direct competition with any architectural school. This program has appealed to the younger architects, both licensed and unlicensed, of this city, who feel the need of associating with their fellow architects at night for further discussions."

Two Series of Lectures.

There will be two series of lecture-discussions: one on the arts and one on theory of structural engineering. These will be augmented by talks from trades mechanics, materials manufacturers, contractors, engineers, architects, and authorities on city planning and other subjects related to architecture.

The tuition for eight months, Schweikher said, will be $40.

Suburban Construction Climbs to 10 Year Peak for September

MONTH'S PERMIT VOLUME RISES TO $3,761,228

Building of Homes Runs Above Year Ago.

Building construction in Chicago suburbs last month was on a larger scale than during any September in the last decade. Permits were issued in 75 communities for buildings valued at $3,761,228. This total compares with $3,081,000 during September, 1938; $2,163,000 in 1937; $2,425,000 in 1936; $1,557,000 in 1935; $1,436,000 in 1934; $450,000 in 1933; $638,000 in 1932; $1,166,000, 1931; $2,561,000, 1930.

Not only was last month's total larger than any September since 1929, but it was slightly more than the preceding month of August, which had a total of $3,693,628.

Nine Months Show Gain.

The total amount of building for the first nine months of this year was $28,189,168. This is an increase of 24 per cent over the corresponding months of 1938, which had a total of $22,683,740.

Home building continues the outstanding feature of the Chicago suburban area construction activity. Last month permits were issued for 303 new homes costing $1,857,804, as compared with 229 homes, valued at $1,676,892, during September of last year.

Last month's residential figures showed a falling off in both number and cost of homes as compared with the preceding month of August. The same decline occurred last year in September compared with August.

Average Home Cost Drops.

The average cost of homes dropped from $7,053 for 1938 and $6,627 during the first half of this year to $6,131 for September.

According to Arthur T. Erdmann, president of the Bell Savings, Building and Loan association, which made the suburban survey from which these figures were taken, the recent amendments to title one of the national housing act will accentuate this downward trend in average costs of homes.

Built in Southwest Side Suburb

This five room house recently was completed for Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Johnson by the Robert Bartlett Building corporation at 12312 South 70th court, in Palos Heights. Part of the $5,750 construction cost was financed with a 25 year FHA insured mortgage thru the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation. The price of the site was not disclosed.

Suburban Building

The following table, compiled by the Bell Savings, Building, and Loan association, shows the estimated value of building permits of all types issued last month in seventy-five suburban towns, with comparative figures for August and September, 1938:

Goodrich Electric Buys Northwest Side Factory

The Goodrich Electric company, 2935 North Oakley avenue, yesterday purchased the northeast corner of Kilpatrick and Belle Plaine avenues, improved with a factory building, 150 by 410 feet, for an indicated consideration of $57,500. Charles H. Albers, receiver for the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, was seller.

Details of Phone Lease on West Side Announced

Details of the ten year lease by the Illinois Bell Telephone company of space in the building to be built at the northeast corner of Cicero avenue and Monroe street, were disclosed yesterday by John F. Jones of Jones & Kerfoot, brokers for all parties. The lease commences April 1, 1940, and ends April 30, 1950. The phone company, he said, will pay $250 for the first month and $750 monthly, or $9,000 yearly, for the balance of the term. The company will occupy all of the second floor and one store on the first floor. The building is owned by the Cicero-Monroe Building corporation, of which George D. Cherones is majority stockholder.

FITCH ELECTION AS REALTY HEAD SEEMS ASSURED

Member Opposition Slate Is Withdrawn.

With the withdrawal of the members' or opposition ticket, Morgan L. Fitch, who heads the regular ticket, is practically assured of the presidency of the Chicago Real Estate board at the Nov. 1 election. It was learned yesterday that the board group backing the members' ticket had announced they would withdraw their candidates for election and leave the field to Fitch and the regular ticket.

The members' ticket was headed by Walter R. Drennan, president of the South Shore Investment company. The other officers on the ticket were to be the same as the regular ticket. Leo Hogan and Frank O'Brien were to be named as directors instead of Frederic Kirschner and Henry T. Holsman.

Other Officers on Ticket.

Other officers on the regular ticket are: Thomas J. Fleming of Ross, Browne and Fleming, for vice president; Frank C. Wells of L. J. Sheridan & Co., for secretary, and Herman O. Walther, First Federal Savings and Loan association, for treasurer.

Directors nominated were: Frederic P. Kirschner, Henry T. Holsman, Edward F. Boyle, John F. Butler, F. H. Halvorsen, and Russell C. Smith.

Following are the members of the board of governors and the divisions of which they are chairmen: R. G. Knight, renting and management division; Charles A. Whetston, industrial division; Leo Hogan, brokers' division; Albert F. Keeney, home builders and land developers; Roger P. Minwegen, appraisal; Irving T. Gillick, savings and loan; Harold J. Betty, mortgage and finance; William C. Bender, Torrens; H. Lawrence Hendrickson, insurance.

Was 1938 Candidate.

Fitch is vice president and treasurer of the Charles Ringer company, 7915 Exchange avenue. He was a candidate for the presidency last year on the regular ticket. He was defeated by Paul C. Loeber, who headed the members' ticket, after one of the liveliest election battles in the history of the board.

It is understood that Loeber was instrumental in persuading the withdrawal of the opposition ticket and thus assuring a harmonious election situation.

Drennan, who headed the 1939 members' ticket, was vice president of the board in 1938 under president Arthur Kruggel.

There is now no other except the regular ticket in the field. No opposition is contemplated, according to prominent members.

At Real Estate Boards

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Oak Park Real Estate board, tomorrow noon at the Oak Park Arms hotel. His subject will be "Real Estate in Wartimes, at Home and Abroad."

Earl H. Macoy, executive secretary of the Landis Award Employers association, will speak before the South Central Real Estate board next Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, at 6:30 o'clock, at the New Michigan hotel. His subject will be "Chicago's Greatest Problem and How to Solve It."

110,000 WILL GET A REBATE ON 1934 REAL ESTATE TAX

County Prepares to Make $900,000 Refund.

County officials prepared yesterday to make refunds totaling $900,000 to more than 110,000 small property owners on a portion of their 1934 real estate taxes which had been paid under protest. The Illinois Supreme court ruled on Friday that these taxpayers were entitled to the rebate, which amounts to about 5 per cent of their bills.

Judge Harry M. Fisher.

The high court upheld the ruling of Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court in dissolving a temporary injunction restraining County Treasurer John Toman from distributing the refunds.

Others Charge Discrimination.

The injunction had been sought by other taxpayers who contended there had been discrimination against those property owners who paid without protesting.

"The group which wanted the injunction still has twenty days to ask the Supreme court for a rehearing," Toman said, "so we won't send out the rebates until we are sure there will be no further litigation and until I have conferred with State's Attorney Courtney.

"We have the money ready, however. Those taxpayers who didn't protest on their 1934 taxes are out of luck. There are probably two hundred thousand of them, who might have been entitled to rebates of several million dollars if proper objections had been filed."

Suits Filed Three Years Ago.

The blanket objection suits were filed three years ago by attorneys for the Chicago Real Estate board. The purpose of the suits was to gain for small taxpayers who could not afford to carry on litigation the same reductions as those won by large property owners. The contention in the suits was that part of the 1934 levy was based on illegal rates.

Early in 1938 County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki ordered the blanket refunds. The injunction suit was then filed in Circuit court. Last Dec. 19 Judge Fisher issued a temporary order restraining Toman from making the payments. He dissolved the injunction last April and the case was appealed to the Supreme court.

Alameda, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP).—Tex Rankin, Hollywood stunt pilot, risked his life today to land his burning plane after it caught fire above downtown Oakland. Rather than bail out and endanger lives by letting the ship crash, he cut off the gas lines feeding the ship fire, sideslipped the plane into the wind and landed the ship at the Alameda bay airdrome. He was burned about the face, chest, and hands.

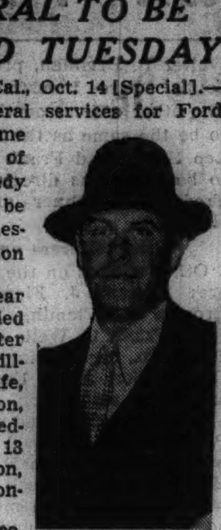
FORD STERLING FUNERAL TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 14 [Special].—Episcopal funeral services for Ford Sterling, one time Keystone Kop of slapstick comedy films, will be conducted Tuesday. Cremation will follow.



Ford Sterling.

The 52 year old actor died last night after a 16 months' illness. His wife, Teddy Sampson, was at his bedside. After 13 years' separation, they were reconciled in 1932.

In June, 1938, Sterling entered the hospital following a heart attack. The illness developed into thrombosis, and last August surgeons amputated the comedian's left leg in an effort to halt the disease. A heart attack was believed to have been the immediate cause of death.

Sterling first entered films in 1912 at the Triangle lot to play with Charlie Chaplin and Mabel Normand. With the advent of sound films Sterling found a few acting rôles until illness forced him to retire. His legal name was George Ford Stitch.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP).—Dean Henry Clay Anderson of the University of Michigan college of engineering died of a heart attack at his home today while listening to a radio description of the Michigan-Iowa football game.

A native of Morganfield, Ky., and graduate of the University of Kentucky, he came to Michigan in 1900. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Harley A. Haynes of Akron, O., and a son, John G. Anderson of Saginaw, Mich. Anderson's wife died in 1920.

ALEXIANS SEEK HOSPITAL HELP FOR FIRST TIME

In 1467, a quarter of a century before Columbus discovered America, the monastic order of the Alexian Brothers was shouldering the burden of medieval Europe, caring for the sick and deranged during the scourge of the Black Death.

Last night, the Alexian Brothers, who operate a hospital at 1200 Belden avenue, received the public in the Stevens hotel in the hospital's first public appeal for aid in carrying on its charitable activities.

Last night's reception and dance marked the anniversary of the order's 73d year in Chicago. The monks built their first Chicago hospital at what was then Market street and North avenue. It was razed by the fire of 1871. Rebuilt by friends, it soon became too small for the men and boys who sought medical aid there. The present structure, occupying a square block, is said to be the largest privately owned hospital in the United States.

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 14 [Special].—Albert Ritter, 56 years old, a Manteno farmer, died today in St. Mary hospital here of injuries incurred last night when he lost control of his car on the Dixie highway, three miles north of Momence. The machine ran off the road and struck a culvert.

CITY IS EXPECTED TO GET LEEWAY ON TRANSIT RULE

John M. Carmody, federal works agency administrator, indicated yesterday in a letter to Mayor Kelly that the city will not be penalized on its $18,000,000 subway grant if progress is made by Nov. 1 toward a unified traction ordinance. The original grant specified that the ordinance must be completed on that date. Negotiations between the city and traction companies are under way and a report of the outline of the ordinance is to be made to the federal court tomorrow.

Weather permitting, the giant twin fabricated steel tubes, which will compose the subway tubes under the river, will be towed through the lake to the State street bridge tomorrow. They were constructed at 101st street and the Calumet river.

FASHION'S STILL SPINACH, JUNIOR LEAGUE IS TOLD

Elizabeth Hawes Speaks at Open House.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Elizabeth Hawes.

It is too soon to know whether the Chicago Junior league's second open house is as successful financially as the first one held four years ago [it netted $12,000 for the league's charity funds], but yesterday's open house wasn't half over before every one there knew it was a huge success from the guests' standpoint.

The atmosphere on the entire main floor of the Drake, where the benefit was held, was electric with excitement from the moment one stepped inside a little before 11 o'clock to hear Elizabeth Hawes, fashion designer and author, discuss "Is Fashion Still Spinach?" until one left 12, 13, 14, or even 15 hours later, at the conclusion of the dinner-dance.

The 600 women and one man who assembled in the ballroom for Miss Hawes' discussion heard an entertaining and amusing but, at least to some, irritating talk about fashions. Fashion still is spinach—it hasn't even risen to be broccoli—according to Miss Hawes.

A Provocative Speaker.

She is a provocative speaker. She makes those who listen to her want to challenge many of her statements. She is a believer in individualism in dress, and altho she often is inconsistent in her public statements she at least is an individualist in her own clothes. Yesterday she was garbed in a bluish gray full skirt of a fairly heavy woolen material, a blouse of the same material in a darker shade with a red arrowish sort of insert shooting from waist to neckline, as the only trimming, and a navy blue beret almost falling off the back of her black-haired head.

After the lecture five luncheon parties started, one for Miss Hawes, at which the fashion group was hostess in the French room; one for men in the International room; one for those who played bridge later in the Gold Coast room; and smaller ones in the Tower and Cape Cod rooms. Miss Hawes' morning audience was a smart one, composed of the women of all ages best known in social circles. But her smaller audience at luncheon was an even smarter one, for it included the clever women whose business is fashion and a couple of men who are among Chicago's best known State street retailers.

Prettiest Hat Chosen.

From the fashion group luncheon Rhea Seeger of THE TRIBUNE, Joyce Fenley of another Chicago newspaper, and Robert Purcell wandered thru the rooms where women were playing bridge to choose the prettiest hat. They considered "suitability, style, and charm," according to Mr. Purcell, who made the award—on a red feathered hat with black veiling—to Mrs. Arnold Kirkeby. Her hat was an enchanting, glamorous one of velvet, red in color and trimmed with black Spanish lace.

It was Mrs. Kirkeby's lucky day for she won four bottles of champagne in the bridge game. Among other prize winners in the 800 players were Mrs. Samuel D. Rowe, who was awarded a round trip to French Lick Springs for herself and Mr. Rowe; Mrs. Telfer MacArthur and Mrs. Townsend McKeever, each of whom won wrist watches; Mrs. Calvin Fentress Jr., who won a gas stove which is a white elephant to her because she has a new one in her Lake Forest house; Mrs. Lyle Harper, whose prize was a radio; Mrs. Allen Clement, who won a gold mirror; Mrs. Charles Fitzmorris and Mrs. John McDonough, who each won a dress; Mrs. Stanley Wiley and Mrs. William Tracy Alden, who were awarded bags; Mrs. Edward Rich, who carried away a hamper of wine; Mrs. Glendon Gerlach, who won a hamper of canned goods; Mrs. Townsend McKeever, who now has another wrist watch, and Mrs. Henry B. Voorhees, who took home to her husband, a collector of etchings, a very fine one.

International Room Luncheon.

The few women who ventured into the International room for luncheon had many beaux, for most of the men were there. Among them were Robert McKenna, whose wife was chairman of the committee that planned the open house; Marshall G. Sampsell and Gordon Loud, whose wives were Mrs. McKenna's co-chairmen. Also there were Roger Q. White, Eugene Swigart, Herbert De Young, Morrison Waud, Robert Wales, Cyrus G. Hill, Gardner Brown, Press Hodgkins, Robert F. Carr Jr., and Sidney S. Gorham.

One Good Hat Wins Another

OPERA 'MARTHA' GETS ALONG IN ANY LANGUAGE

San Carlo Company Is Still Using Two.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The principals of the San Carlo Opera company have never been able to reach a full accord as to the language to be employed in their performance of Flotow's "Martha." A year ago it was Sir Tristan, a minor courtier of Queen Anne, who did not know a word of English and had to express himself in Italian.

Yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium theater the situation had changed, for while Richard Wentworth, the Sir Tristan, spoke and sang fluent English, poor lovesick Farmer Lionel, as Dimitri Onofrei represented him, sang in Italian.

It Makes Little Difference.

"Martha" is not so complicated, however, that such vagaries make much difference. Nor was it too disturbing when an apparently disembodied hand closing some French doors at the right of the stage created some of the atmosphere of "The Cat and the Canary." For Lucille Meusel, Charlotte Bruno, Mr. Onofrei, and Stefan Kozakevich sped lightly thru the music and the action consistently capitalizing upon whatever diversion "Martha" still affords in 1939.

Miss Meusel sings her part with exceptional grace, and makes one pray for the day when she will succeed in making her voice less white.

Handicapped by Illness.

Mr. Onofrei is recovering from a recent illness and begins to sound well again, tho he evidently is not yet strong enough to support his upper voice adequately.

A ballet, "Viennese Life," conspicuously patterned after the Ballet Russe "Le Beau Danube," followed the opera. In the evening Verdi's "Il Trovatore" enlisted the services of Morina Greco, Lyuba Senderowna, Pasquale Ferrara, and Mostyn Thomas. Carlo Peroni conducted both afternoon and evening performances.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, Oct. 14 (AP).—The village of Timbang on the island of Java, Dutch East Indies, was reported today to have been destroyed by a volcanic eruption and earthquake. Twenty villagers are reported missing.

INDIANA FLYERS NEARING RECORD; OTHERS PASS IT

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 14 (AP).—Endurance flyers Kelvin Baxter of Richmond and Robert McDaniels of Muncie will claim a new record for light planes if they still are in the air at 6:39 p. m. tomorrow.

Their ground crew today said the flyers would ignore the claim of Wes Carroll and Clyde Schleiper of Long Beach, Cal., to a new record because the California plane is equipped with pontoons. They contended the mark of 343 hours 46 minutes established by Hunter and Humphrey Moody of Springfield, Ill., still is the record for light land planes.

Baxter and McDaniel have been in the air since 11 a. m. Oct. 1.

Schleiper and Carroll took off on Sept. 29. They passed the Moody brothers' record time yesterday. They are still flying. At Santa Ana, Cal., two other flyers were nearing the 240 hour mark.

At Sacramento, Cal., William Eddy and John Schumacker were forced down today after remaining in the air for 189 hours 20 minutes.

CATHARINE REQUA JOHNSON WEDS ALEXANDER BELL

Simple Ceremony Is Held in Winnetka Church.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Christ church, the little Episcopal house of worship on the top of the hill on Sheridan road in Winnetka, has been the setting for many pretty weddings. None has been simpler nor more dignified than the ceremony held there yesterday that united in marriage Miss Catharine ReQua Johnson and Alexander Chartis Bell.

The charm of the church was completely its own. No decorating had been done except for the addition of a small vase of lilies on either side of the candle lighted altar. The bright sunlight that filtered thru the large stained glass window at the back and thru other smaller ones was augmented by the church's own indirect lighting shining softly from the oak beams overhead.

Great-Grandmother's Veil.

The bride, the daughter of Mrs. Stewart Johnson, was given in marriage by her uncle, Haven A. ReQua. She wore a wedding gown of flowing satin, just off-white in color, and carried a round bouquet of creamy white roses. The lace in her cap and on her gown was first worn by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Luther Haven, in 1853. Her grandmother, Mrs. Charles H. ReQua, and Mrs. Johnson had worn the lace, too. The orange blossoms all three wore at their weddings were fastened to the folds of the train of yesterday's bride's gown.

The bridesmaids and the maid of honor, Miss Mary Hale, wore autumn shades of old rose. The frocks had bodices of satin and skirts of tulle over taffeta. They carried roses and chrysanthemums in rusty rosy shades and their little matching skull caps of coq feathers were trimmed with tiny birds in flight.

Mrs. Johnson and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Allen C. Bell of Lake Forest, wore street length gowns. The former was in green with sable furs. The latter wore gray and silver fox.

Small Reception Follows.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception in the home of the bride's mother and grandmother a few blocks south on Sheridan road. Among the members of the bride's large family who went on to the reception were many uncles, aunts, and cousins, among them the Ayres Boals, the George B. Masseys, the junior Charles Howard ReQuas, Mrs. Raymond Hardenbergh, Miss Sue and Raymond Jr. of New York, the Stewart Boals, the George Ryersons and the junior Philip W. Moores.

Others at the ceremony were the John C. Mechems, whose daughter, Miss Barbara, and son, John, were among the bridal attendants; the James B. Forgans, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, the William S. Millers, the Ernest S. Ballards, Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Adams, and the Edgar Stantons.

Mr. Bell and his bride will live in Lake Forest.

Thanks Cleaners for Quick Call; Out $690, That's All

Mrs. Hugh N. Mac Kechnie, 5805 Dorchester avenue, was surprised yesterday when a truck driver practically anticipated her call to a firm of cleaners to come over and pick up her oriental rugs. As the driver packed them off, she said: "That's real service. I only called your store a few minutes ago." When the truck was gone, another driver drove up and said he'd come for the rugs. Mrs. Mac Kechnie learned that an imposter had made off with the rugs, valued at $690.

THREE NEGROES RELEASED AFTER PEONAGE VICTORY

Three Negroes who won their fight against extradition to a Georgia plantation Friday were released yesterday from the county jail. They are Otis Woods, 46 years old, his son, Dock, 23, and Solomon McCannon, 39. They were held in jail pending consideration by Gov. Horner of their right to remain in Illinois. The governor refused to permit their extradition after witnesses testified to whippings and other brutal treatment and William D. Huff, their attorney, charged a burglary complaint against them had been trumped up to force them to return to peonage.

MAYOR ASKS CRA REPORT ON RELIEF CRISIS IN CHICAGO

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that he had asked Leo M. Lyons, head of the Chicago Relief administration, to give him a detailed report tomorrow morning on the relief situation in Chicago. The mayor said he will present the report to Gov. Horner in the event of a call for a special session of the legislature.

Lyons could not be reached last night for questioning. However, these facts concerning the Chicago situation were known:

1. Lyons has sent City Controler Robert B. Upham a report showing that the CRA has $1,033,000 as an available resource on its books, but that it has none of the money to spend.

2. Because of this "paper" resource the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been cutting the CRA's estimate of its needs for state funds about $700,000 a month since July.

3. The IERC reduction, in turn, has caused a steady downward trend in relief grants to Chicago's needy.

4. Coal and the need for clothing are expected to increase relief needs during the winter months.

5. Downstate relief authorities and Lyons agree there is no chance at this time of getting the 102 legislative votes necessary to make additional funds available for the CRA.

6 The Work Projects administration and private employment may relieve the relief rolls to some extent, but the latter, especially, may require months to have any real effect.

Debt Payment Disallowed.

During 1937 and 1938, the records show, the CRA borrowed money each year from the general funds of the city to make relief payments. On Jan. 1 of this year, because of this borrowing, the CRA owed the city $1,910,000, which it was forced to pay into the city treasury out of its 1939 local relief tax fund of $4,383,000. However, the IERC does not allow the use of funds from one year's local relief tax for the payment of debts incurred in previous years. Thus the IERC considered the $1,910,000 paid the city as an available resource for this year.

The CRA had spent all its 1939 funds by the middle of April and reborrowed $877,000 from the city treasury to finish out the month. When this money was spent, the IERC reduced the CRA's available resources to $1,033,000. [The $1,910,000 less the $877,000].

How IERC Cut Grants.

The following table shows the CRA needs as estimated by its own staff each month, the needs as adjusted by the IERC, and the amount of state money given to the CRA each month since July:

July	$4,270,619	$3,535,229	$2,865,948
August ..	4,063,368	3,476,494	2,786,917
Sept.	3,905,599	3,120,025	2,582,749
October .	3,844,418	2,992,225	2,572,810

The IERC cuts the CRA's estimate of its own needs each month because, the IERC says, the CRA has money of its own to spend and won't spend it. But the CRA contends it can't get cash except through another loan from the city, and Controler Upham won't make any more loans because he needs all his available cash to finance the subway.

Wholly Dependent on State.

The CRA is now wholly dependent upon state money. As the state grants decreased the CRA grants to each relief family dropped from $28.69 last April to $21.77 in July, and $23.54 in August. In past years the relief load has grown in size with increasing cold weather. This factor will tend to reduce the grants to each family in coming months.

Legislators and downstate overseers of the poor have advised Lyons that there is no pressure downstate which would force downstate legislators to vote more state relief funds—primarily for the benefit of Chicago. The downstate votes would be needed to get the 102 votes necessary for emergency legislation in the house of the state legislature.

JAS. SIMPSON JR. READS LAW AND PASSES BAR TEST

James Simpson Jr., who was representative in congress from the 10th district in 1933 and 1934, has been admitted to the Illinois bar after an old-fashioned course of law reading. Attorney Werner Schroeder said yesterday that Simpson had followed a course outlined by the state board of law examiners. He added that he had given the former congressman weekly tests and that the state board gave him annual examinations in addition to the final quiz. It was reported that Simpson has not determined whether he would practice law.

This has been the thrilling experience of scores of men and women who have come to our office to hear with the new Sonotone.

In a small, easy-to-wear unit, the Sonotone laboratories—largest in the world devoted exclusively to hearing aid research—have combined the acoustic qualities of expensive radios and the specialized knowledge of complex hearing problems obtained from helping thousands of cases over a period of years.

That is why this new Sonotone is different from any other hearing aid. You hear the difference in its greater power, greater clarity, greater distance range. You experience the difference in greater dependability and economy. It costs as little to operate as a carbon type audicle—and less than any other vacuum tube aid. It may be used with 20—30—40 or 60 volt batteries giving a far greater range of power. It is equally efficient with BONE or AIR CONDUCTION. It incorporates a patented BALANCED TONE CONTROL which makes an enormous difference in the quality of hearing you obtain.

All these and many other better hearing qualities you get with the Sonotone 520 audicle and with no other wearable vacuum tube hearing aid. We invite you to see and hear with it—to compare it. (Picture on Page 3, Sports.)

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 14.—Johnny Kelleher kicked the point after Notre Dame's third touchdown in the fifth minute of the fourth quarter. Jack Sanders, poor kid, failed to kick the point—it was wide only by inches—after the Southern Methodist's third touchdown, which came in the last minute of play. And so the Irish won their third close game of the season today, 20 to 19, while S. M. U. suffered its first 1939 defeat.

The Mustangs, of course, left the field bitterly disappointed but dead game sports. Their famous swing band and jitterbug cowboys even lingered to entertain half of the crowd of 45,000 for many minutes after they had witnessed Sanders' personal tragedy. The Mustangs put on a great show. So did their lingering jitterbugs. They can go back to Dallas unashamed, however skimp consolation that may be.

Mustangs Start Scoring.

Southern Methodist scored in four minutes and fifty seconds of the first quarter when Preston Johnston, sophomore back, went over. Only seconds before he had recovered Joe Thesing's fumble on Notre Dame's 15 yard line. This time Sanders added the point from placement.

The Mustangs' 7 to 0 lead was short lived. The second kickoff of the game was a foozle. The kick went out of bounds on Notre Dame's 41 yard line. On the first play Lou Zontini failed to gain. Then a pass, Harry Stevenson to Budd Kerr, was good for twenty-seven yards. On the next maneuver Stevenson passed to Zontini in the end zone for a touchdown. Zontini fattened his accomplishment by tying the score with a kick from placement.

The Mustangs resumed the lead after seven minutes in the second quarter, continuing a big parade and aerial circus which got under way late in the first period after Capt. Chelsea Crouch had intercepted a pass on his own 32 yard line.

S. M. U. Overcomes a Penalty.

At one juncture in the advance Ray Mallouf completed a pass to Bobby Brown from Notre Dame's 43 yard line that seemed good for a touchdown. But the ball was called back and S. M. U. was penalized for offside. Undaunted, Mallouf again completed a pass to Brown on the first play after the penalty. This one stuck and was good for 23 yards. With Mallouf doing the heavy work the Mustangs kept going until Mallouf took a lateral from Bob Belville and scored a touchdown. Belville's placement was wide, but the Mustangs led, 13 to 7.

Notre Dame tied the score with two minutes left in the first half, the climax of a journey which began after an out of bounds kick on Notre Dame's 34 yard line. Bob Saggau and Zontini warmed up the project with good gains, then Milt Piepul staged a sprint of twenty yards to get things sizzling hot. Saggau got the ball up to a fourth down and a yard to go count for Zontini who made it first down. Saggau and Piepul teamed up and Piepul made the touchdown after Saggau had advanced to the 1 foot line. Kelleher rushed in to add the point but his kick was a failure.

Irish Lead for First Time.

There was no scoring in the third period, the only quarter in which either side did not count. There

Lou Zontini, Notre Dame right half back, gains hard fought yard thru center late in first quarter of yesterday's battle with Southern Methodist at Notre Dame. Notre Dame maintained its undefeated record with a 20 to 19 triumph as a kick proved the margin of victory for the third time this season. The Mustangs scored with less than a minute to play, but Jack Sanders' try for the extra point missed.

Columbus, O., Oct. 14.—Ohio State's gridiron warriors, clad in their vivid scarlet jerseys and silver pants, were slow to start today but once under way were as dazzling as their colorful clothes. They worked up gradually and just as gradually wore down the resistance of a stubborn but futile pack of Northwestern Wildcats. Then with the enemy resistance gone, the Buckeyes burst forth with a brace of fourth period touchdowns for a 13 to 0 triumph before a crowd of 55,622.

The Wildcats, figured as possibilities for a comeback after their defeat at the hands of Oklahoma, were mere babes in the hands of warriors. The Ohio line was invulnerable. The Purple wall was pierced time and again. There was so much speed in the victors' back field that the ball carriers were seldom stopped until they had been run out of bounds. And the Purple's anticipated aerial attack didn't materialize. They didn't connect on their first pass until after less than a minute of struggling remained.

Ohio Turns On Power.

The Buckeyes' superiority was evident from the outset but the Wildcats broke up various threats. The last few minutes of the third period brought the break in the scoreless struggle. Don Scott, Jimmy Strausbaugh and the line-splitting Jim Langhurst were turned loose. They literally shot down from the Purple's 44 yard line to the one foot mark where the end of the period forced a pause in their march. But one play in the final quarter was enough to carry them over. The other touchdown wasn't exactly as legitimate as the first. Jack Ryan fumbled as he was about to pass and the Buckeyes accepted the invitation.

Bill De Correvont, the Purple's back field sensation, was in complete eclipse along with his mates. The Wildcats tried to make use of his elusiveness at the very start, but the Buckeyes were right on his heels. Finally they bruised him late in the first period and he retired. He was back twice, once in the third period, and again in the fourth, but the enemy continued to keep him under cover. The tow headed lad carried the ball twelve times but his net gain was only three yards. Trying to return one punt he lost three yards. He carried back one kick off twenty-five yards. He threw two passes but they didn't connect.

Wildcats Nearly Score.

The Purple made only one serious bid for a score. It was just one of those reckless last minute efforts when there was no need for caution. With Soper passing and running, they traveled from their own 20 yard line to Ohio's 6. Ryan then passed to Butherus for a three yard gain, making their third successful aerial. They were penalized five yards for too much time out and with only three seconds of play remaining, Soper tried to pass again, but failed.

In first downs Ohio made its class evident by a total of thirteen, all by rushing. The Purple accomplished nine, two on their last minute for-

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 14.—Michigan's football men today gave their followers further assurance that they will be in there playing when the Western conference championship is at stake. In beating Iowa, 27 to 7, they did just about everything a team could be asked to do. As the crowd of 28,000 marched home under the flaming oaks and maples that line Ann Arbor's streets, they knew that Michigan had not only a splendid football machine but also an individual hero.

Tom Harmon was the fellow they were talking about. Thruout the afternoon this big half back dominated the game. He set up the first Michigan touchdown with a long and spectacular pass to the 2 yard line. Then he scored it himself on a quick, deceptive thrust which carried him into the end zone standing up, after which he kicked goal. This reassured the crowd which had begun to worry when Iowa had gone into a 7 to 0 lead in the first five minutes of play.

Worried, but Not for Long.

But still the Michigan fans were a bit worried. They had seen a demonstration of Iowa's scoring punch, the Hawkeyes having struck from their own 30 yard line on a long pass from Nile Kinnick to Floyd Dean. Michigan knew the courage of the Iowa boys who had come from behind twice to beat Indiana on the preceding Saturday. So the crowd grew more and more anxious as the Hawkeyes received the third kickoff of the game and advanced to Michigan's 14 yard line.

Here again it was Harmon who took control. Maneuvering alertly, he broke up two successive passes into the end zone, intercepting the latter on fourth down for a touchback.

Harmon Passes, Too.

Midway in the second quarter, Harmon led another scoring drive when the Wolverines got possession of the ball on the Iowa 26 yard line after their adversaries had been forced to

45 Yard Run by Byelene Ties Gophers, 13-13

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 14.—Mike Byelene did it again today.

With only four and a half minutes remaining of the game that opened the Western conference season for both teams, Byelene raced off Minnesota's right tackle, sidestepped two tacklers and finished a forty-five yard sprint that gave Purdue a 13 to 13 tie with the Gophers, defending Big Ten champions.

Byelene broke up the Wisconsin game at Purdue's homecoming last year. He failed by half a step to get away two weeks ago at Notre Dame when the Boilermakers were beaten 3 to 0. So when this youngster, who runs with the verve of a dervish, flashed past Minnesota's defenders today, he only accomplished that which the Gopher partisans had feared would happen.

Its a Just Result.

Thirty-five thousand watched the brilliant battle between the rivals and when the game ended with Purdue in possession deep in its own territory, the consensus was that the tie adequately represented the caliber of the two squads.

Each team made nine first downs; each compiled approximately the same record from scrimmage. And Byelene's touchdown dash followed the pattern set by Minnesota's George Franck, whose fifty-two yard run on the fifth play of the third quarter had sent the Gophers ahead.

Indeed, Minnesota professed to be well satisfied with its team, remembering the humiliating defeat last week at Nebraska. Minnesota had power and, with Marty Christiansen crashing the line, appeared as dangerous as any Minnesota team since 1934. Minnesota also had speed. Franck, Harold Van Every, and Bruce Smith backed Marty's strength.

And There Was Montague.

Purdue depended primarily on sweeping runs and passes. In Byelene, Lou Brock, Jack Brown, and Johnny Galvin, the Boilermakers have a quartet of backs any squad

SO. CALIFORNIA POWER CRUSHES ILLINOIS, 26 TO 0

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—The University of Southern California football squad turned the second half into a three touchdown scoring spree to whip the University of Illinois, 26 to 0, today. The Trojans' array of starring quarter backs overwhelmed the light invaders with surging ground play, taking to the air for only one scoring drive. The game was played before 50,000 in a 90 degree temperature.

Doyle Nave, boomed as one of the best passers in the country, proved his all around ability, pacing the Trojans to their first touchdown in the second quarter, while Granville Lansdell and Ambrose Schindler poured thru the tiring Illini for second half scores.

A Drive Bogs Down.

The Illini had only two possible scoring chances. In the first quarter Capt. Mel Brewer recovered Full Back Bob Peoples' fumble at midfield. Ralph Ehni followed with a quick kick, but the ball sailed over the goal line instead of going out of bounds and U. S. C. took over on the 20 yard line.

Illinois again seemed to have the making of a touchdown when George Rettinger intercepted Quarter Back Lansdell's pass and ran it back to the U. S. C. 48. A penalty and a line play made it second down on the Trojan's 39, but Ehni's pass was intercepted by Bob Hoffman.

After a listless first quarter in which Lansdell, starting U. S. C. quarter back, matched Ralph Ehni in a punting duel, the Trojans came to life in the second period when Troy's second string with Nave at quarter back, entered the game.

Nave Goes Over.

A break set up the scoring opportunity when Charles Purvis, Illini safety man, lost Nave's punt in the sun and the ball was downed on the 2 yard line. Ehni punted out to his 45, where Nave received and returned to the 34.

A five yard penalty on the visitors

Alert Indiana Eleven Drops Badgers, 14-0

BY ARCH WARD.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 14.—Indiana's alert football team got a break in the first two minutes of today's game with Wisconsin's vastly improved eleven and that was all it needed. It converted the Badgers' mechanical error into a touchdown and with four minutes remaining in the final period it added another to win its first Big Ten victory of the season, 14 to 0, before 22,000.

Indiana kicked off to Bill Schmitz, Wisconsin's right half back, to start the game and the Badger brought the ball back five yards to his 26. On the first play Tony Gradisnik, left half back, let the ball squirt out of his hands and Archie Harris, Indiana's Negro end, pounced on it on the Badgers' 19 yard line.

Badgers' Secondary Beaten.

The Hoosiers tried three times to gain with running plays, but the big Wisconsin line closed in like the Red sea on Pharoah's legions. On fourth down Harold Hursh, Indiana's left half back, faded deep and pitched a forward pass to Eddie Herbert in the end zone for a touchdown. The perfection of the maneuver caught the Badger secondary out for a row on Lake Mendota and nobody was within a couple of yards of Herbert when he grabbed the ball for what proved to be the winning score. Herbert place kicked the extra point.

From that moment until the last five minutes of the fourth quarter Wisconsin was in control. The Badgers always were threatening to go somewhere, but invariably their marches were braked down by fumbles, penalties or forward pass interceptions. Twice they were halted on Indiana's 9 yard line, once in the second quarter and again in the third.

Maddox Runs 80 Yards.

Then came the play that decided the game. Indiana got the ball on its 20 yard line after an exchange of punts. On the first play Clee Maddox from Kokomo swept to his right, cut back inside the Badgers' left end who had been blocked out of the

HARVARD BACKS PARADE AGAINST MAROONS, 61-0

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

College days being reckoned among the happiest in a young man's life, the 1939 Harvard university football players can now add to all the pleasant hours of their undergraduate careers the dandy afternoon they enjoyed yesterday on Stagg field. They played 60 minutes of football. There were four honest-to-goodness officials. Before the game and between the halves, a number of beauteous majorettes twirled batons. The weather was ideal. And after the timer's impolite gun had put an end to the sport, the score board on the wall of Bartlett gym read:

Harvard, 61; Chicago, 0.

'Twas a grand afternoon, indeed—for the Harvards. The Maroons? Well, those hard working lads at least obliged by filling out the other eleven places required in a gridiron competition.

Only Nine Touchdowns.

The Harvard squad returns to Cambridge with a well-nigh perfect report card for their performance. They fulfilled all of the game's rudimentary assignments in apple pie order. They scored nine touchdowns, two each quarter until the final period when they went over three times. Not once did they call upon their captain and star, Torby MacDonald, but they did exhibit in Joe Gardella and Fran Lee, two backs who can be expected to play hob against any ball club, including Penn, Yale, and Princeton.

Yesterday's game ended a two game

Cleveland at Detroit.
Philadelphia at New York.
Pittsburgh at Washington.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon in Wrigley field the Cardinals and Bears, bitter rivals since the days of hobble skirts and near beer, open their annual two game series for the professional championship of Chicago. It will be their 37th meeting.

Three other games share the spotlight on the National Football league's schedule for the day. Philadelphia's Eagles, led by little Davey O'Brien, go into New York to tackle the Giants and in Washington the Redskins and Pittsburgh Pirates open a two game series which ends the following week in Pittsburgh. The fourth game of the day is between the Cleveland Rams and Detroit Lions in Detroit, where Dutch Clark returns home as an enemy to the field where he won acclaim as quarter back and coach of the Lions.

Offensive Treat Promised.

The Cardinal-Bear game promises to be an offensive treat for Chicago professional fans, who will be getting their first peek of the season at football in the daylight. The Cardinals have the leading pass pitching touchdown maker of the league in Jack Robbins, who has accounted for four touchdowns with his tosses, and the league's leading scorer in Bill Smith, unaminous choice of coaches as the finest end in the league.

Over on the Bear side Joe Maniaci and Bill Omanski, a pair of hell bent full backs, are first and second among the league's ground gainers and the veteran, Bernie Masterson, leads all passers for efficiency with a mark of 56 per cent. Mix these all together, drop in two excellent lines, a little help from the weatherman, and the result is likely to be a steady procession of ball carriers across the goal line.

Halas Will Start Luckman.

George Halas, owner and coach of the Bears, announced a change in the Bear lineup last night, starting Sid Luckman, the former Columbia triple threat star, in place of Bob Swisher. Henceforth Luckman, for whom the Brooklyn Dodgers offered a record sum of money two days ago, will be the regular left half back. Swisher, 148 pounds, is too light to operate effectively in the Bears' powerhouse alignment. He will be saved for spots where his speed can be utilized without endangering the young man's well being.

Another change in the Bear lineup sends Eggs Manske, a veteran, to right end in the regular lineup in place of George Wilson. After Manske, Luckman and associates have pitched their weight around in the first quarter the Bears will send forth the Light Brigade composed of a reserve line and the fastest back field in the league.

All-Stars Form Unit.

Billy Patterson of Baylor, Bob MacLeod of Dartmouth, and Osmanski of Holy Cross, all members of the Tribune's All-Star team, will compose this unit with the veteran and burly Gary Famiglietti at the quarter back position. This is the combination that scored three touchdowns against Cleveland in the second quarter last week to wipe out a 14 point deficit.

The Cardinals have not had a great deal of luck in the series. They have won only six times. But no meeting between the two has been without its spectacular action and surprises. The Cardinals lost both games last year, 16 to 13, and 34 to 28. The margin of victory in the first was a pass that had been broken up by three Cardinal backs, but dropped into the arms of Bill Karr, who had fallen on his back in the end zone. In the second game it was that 65 yard run by Dick Bassi with a fumble between halves.

Prepared to Preserve Traditions.

With an offense that will permit Marshall Goldberg to stay in the lineup even when it becomes necessary to take to the air and, with half a dozen rookies finally becoming adjusted to professional football, the Cardinals are prepared to preserve the best traditions of the series with some more oddities, among which might even be the defeat of the Bears if the proper circumstances prevail.

Another free scoring battle is anticipated in Detroit where the Lions and Rams match offenses in the most severe test Detroit has yet encountered. Detroit will be striving to remain undefeated and retain its lead.

Washington and New York also are undefeated, although they played a scoreless tie. Neither figures to be beaten today, but the Gaints have been having their troubles since their two all-star victories late in the summer. A Philadelphia victory would be less of a surprise than a Pittsburgh triumph over the Redskins.

Gaffke of Colonels to Marry Milwaukee Girl

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14 (AP).—Fabian Gaffke, 26 year old outfielder of the Louisville Colonels, Boston Red Sox farm club, and Miss Alice Sokolowski of Milwaukee applied for a marriage license today. Miss Sokolowski gave her age as 24. They are to be married Oct. 28.

ALL-AMERICANS DOT LINEUPS OF CARDINALS AND BEARS

The Cardinals and Bears bring professional football home to Wrigley field today as they meet in the first battle of their two game series. Today's battle is also the first afternoon pro game of the year for Chicago fans. In the Cardinals' lineup will be Frank Patrick, former Pittsburgh star, at quarter back. He was the nation's leading scorer in 1935.

The Cardinals' leading rookie light of the new season is Marshall Goldberg of Pittsburgh, member of The Tribune All-Star squad this year. He played full back for Pitt, but is a left half with the pros.

Free Kick Goal for Marquette Wins, 17 to 14

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special.]—A field goal by Robert Kemnitz on a free kick from Michigan State's 15 yard line late in the fourth quarter gave Marquette university a 17 to 14 victory this afternoon over the Spartans before 12,000 in Macklin field.

With the score tied, 14 to 14, Wyman Davis dropped back of his own goal line to punt and kicked out to his own 30 yard line. But Bill Batchelor, State center, interfered with whatever opportunity Harry Leysenaar, Marquette safety man, may have had to signal for a free catch and the Spartans were penalized fifteen yards and Marquette given a chance for a free kick from the 15 yard line. With Bill Phillips holding the ball, Kemnitz kicked the goal that gave victory to Marquette.

Spartans Score First.

After both teams had been held to a standstill in the first quarter, Bruce Blackburn, Michigan State end, recovered Warren Hall's fumble on State's 48 yard line. After two plays Bill Kennedy shot a 39 yard pass to Wilford Davis who was downed on Marquette's 19 yard line. An end around play moved the ball to the 5 yard line. On his second attempt Wyman Davis crashed over for the first score. Les Bruckner added the point from placement.

Marquette tied the score in the next few plays after Doug Renzel recovered Kennedy's fumble on the Marquette 44 yard line. John Maltsch shot a 54 yard pass to Don Vosberg, who was downed on State's 3 yard line, and then Renzel went over for Marquette's first score. Kemnitz added the extra point from placement.

Marquette Leads, 14 to 7.

In the third quarter Renzel intercepted one of Davis' passes and lateraled to Will Phillips, who raced forty-six yards to a touchdown. Kemnitz added the extra point from placement, giving Marquette a 14 to 7 lead.

Following the next kickoff, Michigan State advanced sixty-three yards to its second touchdown. Wyman Davis sparked the State drive with a twenty-one yard run and then shot a thirty-two yard pass to Stan McRae. Roman Kaman went over from the 1 yard line. Bruckner added the extra point from placement to tie the score.

Huskers Whip Iowa State in 10 to 7 Battle

Ames, Ia., Oct. 14 (AP).—Iowa State's strong finish against Nebraska today failed, the Cornhuskers winning, 10 to 7, in their opening drive to regain the Big Six conference football championship.

Iowa State, behind 10 to 0, came back with a fourth quarter score after Douglas Graves, Iowa State end, blocked Harry Hopp's punt and Bob Kirkpatrick recovered for the Cyclones on the Husker 29, from where the Cyclones drove to a touchdown.

The Huskers scored in the first quarter on Herman Rohrig's twenty yard field goal and in the third quarter when Walter Luther cut thru the right tackle for fourteen yards.

KANSAS WINS, 7 TO 0.

Fort Collins, Colo., Oct. 14 [Special].—University of Kansas turned a daring play by Colorado State into a 7 to 0 victory in the final three minutes of play today.

Dick Cavanaugh of Colorado threw a pass from his own 29 yard line, which was intercepted by John Navamore, Kansas center. The Jayhawkers then drove to a touchdown, the scoring play being a short pass from Eldreth Cadawalader to Jim Morris who ran over from the 13 yard line. Caet Gibbens, third string half back, drop kicked for the extra point. Each team threatened earlier in the game, Colorado at one time marching to the 8 yard line.

MISSOURI VICTOR, 14 TO 0.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 14 (AP).—Paul Christman and his understudy, Dick Gale, led the University of Missouri to a 14 to 0 victory over Washington university here today.

Gale, junior quarter back from Chillicothe, Mo., passed twelve yards to Half Back Clay Cooper for a touchdown in the first quarter.

In the fourth quarter Christman tossed a touchdown pass to Jim Starmer on a fake place kick play. Bill Cunningham kicked both extra points.

BUCKNELL WINS, 15-0.

Lewisburg, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP). — Bucknell got a break in the first minute of play today and capitalized on it to defeat Albright, 15 to 0.

Palo Alto, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP).—Coming to life after two defeats, Stanford battled the highly touted University of California at Los Angeles to a 14 to 14 tie today.

In the second period, Tim Groves fumbled and Frawley, U. C. L. A. right guard, recovered on the Stanford 42. Bill Overlin charged around right end to the Stanford 31. Kenneth Washington passed to McPherson on the Stanford 11 and then Overlin raced around end to make the first touchdown. Frawley converted.

Stanford scored shortly after when Albert passed to Groves for the 18 yard line for the touchdown, and also converted the point. In the third period Robinson punted from U. C. L. A.'s 29 yard line. The ball hit midfield, took a queer bounce and landed on U. C. L. A.'s 25 for a net loss of four yards. Standee brought the ball to the U. C. L. A. 2 yard line, but there Stanford lost the ball.

Gilmore's punt from the end zone went out on the U. C. L. A. 14. Albert threw a short pass to Hugh Gallarneau, Stanford right half back, who raced ten yards to a touchdown, and Albert converted to put the Indians ahead, 14 to 7.

In the fourth period, a pass by Albert was intercepted by Robinson on the Bruins' 28, who ran fifty-one yards to Stanford's 21. Full Back Cantor scored from the 2 and Robinson converted to tie the score. Lineup:

OREGON, 6; CALIFORNIA, 0.

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP).—One big power thrust of seventy-six yards and University of Oregon today defeated California, 6 to 0, before a crowd of 35,000. It was Oregon's first victory over California since 1926 and marked California's third defeat of the season.

Pullman, Wash., Oct. 14 (AP).—A sophomore quarter back's punt that rode a strong west wind for sixty-five yards in the opening minutes of the game, put the University of Washington in the hole today and set the stage for a 6 to 0 Washington State victory before 20,000.

The kicker was Bill Sewell. State struck thru the air when that first quarter opportunity came. Laterals and forwards carried the ball to the Washington 5, and seconds later R. Bantz went across for the touchdown.

TEXAS STARTLES OKLAHOMA, BUT GOES DOWN, 24-12

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 14 (AP).—The clock struck midnight for Texas' Cinderella Kids today, Oklahoma defeating them, 24 to 12, before 28,000.

The Rangy Sooners, who upset Northwestern last week, had everything again today but an antidote for Cowboy Jack Crain, Texas sophomore who made two runs of sixty-eight and seventy-one yards for fourth quarter touchdowns to cut down Oklahoma's 17 to 0 lead.

Then the Sooners rumbled back with a sixty-three yard touchdown march with three minutes to play.

On running plays Oklahoma gained 186 yards to Texas' 196, while Sooner passes, with Beryl Clark, L. G. Friedrichs and Orv Matthews, pitching, picked up 173 yards to Texas' meager 25.

PITT WINS FROM DUKE, 14-13, ON KISH'S KICKING

Two Extra Points Provide Victory Margin.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 14 [U. P.].—Ben Kish, Pitt's big quarter back, directed and kicked the Panthers to a 14 to 13 victory over Duke university today before 49,000. Playing all the game, Kish's accurate place kicking was the margin of victory for the Panthers.

Both Panther scores were made by Dick Cassiano, on a nine yard pass from Emil Narick in the second period and again on a pass from Narick—good for twenty-seven yards—in the third period.

The Blue Devils, outrushing the Panthers 168 yards to 155 and gaining 114 yards on passes, were led by a real triple threat quarter back, George McAfee, who ran the Panthers dizzy in the first half. He made two runs for thirty-three and thirty-seven yards to set up the first touchdown play. His thirty-seven yard run in the last two minutes of the first period put the ball on Pitt's 7 yard line. Rodger Robinson, full back, pushed it over left tackle for the first score. Tony Ruffa converted the point to give Duke a 7 to 0 lead.

George McAfee put Duke out in front again when he took a touchdown pass from Ruffa after the running attack had failed on the Panther 7. Ruffa attempted the placement, but it was wide. This was the first he had missed in 12 straight attempts. Pitt then came back to score its second touchdown on Narick's pass to Cassiano, and Kish won the game by making the extra point again.

TEMPLE, 13; T. C. U., 11.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP).—An outclassed Temple team that turned into an aggressive, alert eleven between halves first made good on a break, then put on a forty-one yard scoring march, and finally threw up a goal line defense to defeat Texas Christian today, 13 to 11.

Before a crowd of 20,000, Temple compressed all of its scoring into the third quarter. In the closing minutes of the final period the Owls took the ball on downs after a pass interference penalty had given T. C. U. a first down on the Temple 1 yard line.

CORNELL, 20; PRINCETON, 7.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14 (AP).—Cornell piled up three touchdowns in the first half today, then coasted to a 20 to 7 victory over Princeton before nearly 35,000.

Whit Baker got loose for scoring gallops of twenty-five and eighty-three yards in the first five minutes of play. Cornell added a 49 yard touchdown sprint by Kirk Hershey on an end-around dash in the second period.

Princeton threatened with air raids in the closing two periods. One of these overhead drives finally clicked in the third period, and with Dave Alerdice throwing.

A MINUTE TO GO—S. M. U.'S MISSED KICK SAVES IRISH

was plenty of action but no serious threats.

The Irish took the lead for the first time early in the final quarter. A fifteen yard penalty was added to a punt by Mallouf to set the Irish back to their 33 yard line. Ben Sheridan and Steve Bagarus shook off the penalty by making it first down on two plays and an off side penalty on S. M. U. moved the ball to midfield. Five yards by Piepul and fifteen by Bagarus put the heat on the Mustangs and there was no easing by the Irish. Piepul added ten, Sheridan nine, and then Piepul banged his way thru right tackle for ten yards and a touchdown. It was at this juncture that Kelleher, whose field goal beat Purdue, 3 to 0, negotiated the point that eventually whipped the Methodists.

The Mustangs were more air minded than ever after they had dropped behind but it was a blocked punt that enabled them to click for their third touchdown.

Saunders' Kick Fails.

Notre Dame was nursing the ball for time and it was fourth down when Stevenson punted after the ball had been placed in play on Notre Dame's 19 yard line. Ray Pope blocked the punt and McLain Clinton fell on the ball on the 3 yard line. Johnston went over left tackle for the touchdown. Sanders then failed to tie the score from placement. His mates tried to cheer him up but he was a sick fellow.

The first down tabulation gave the edge to the Irish, 13 to 10, 10 to 6 in rushing, with the passing, 3 to 3.

The Irish had a big edge in yardage from rushing, with 205 to 96, but were a shade behind on passing yardage, 98 to 96. Notre Dame tried 7 passes, completing 4, and S. M. U. completed 7 out of 17.

Johnston and Mallouf were the hardest working ball toters in the game. Johnston carried it 16 times for fifty-eight yards and Mallouf 15 times for thirty-eight yards. Piepul, however, covered the most ground. He went seventy-three yards on 12 tries.

Frank Lee (No. 45), Harvard back from New Haven, picks up twelve yards against Chicago's Maroons in first quarter of yesterday's game on Stagg field. The easterners rolled up a 61 to 0 score to sweep their two game series with Chicago. No. 26 is Don Wilson, Maroon tackle, and No. 41, Baird Wallis, guard. No. 47 (in center) is Vern Miller, Harvard tackle, and No. 56, Ralph Richardson of Maroons.

series between the two in which 121 points were scored, the Maroons losing last year's opener in Cambridge, 47 to 13.

Start Friendly Enough.

The first quarter made it obvious that the Harvards were going to have no difficulty solving the Maroon defense or offense. The Crimson went at it leisurely, exchanging the ball with Chicago in friendly fashion until after 10 minutes of play, when they proceeded to score their first touchdown in two plays.

Jampolis intercepted a Harvard pass to stem a threat, but Letts' timid punt went only fifteen yards to the Harvard 44 yard line. On the first play, Lee flipped a lateral to Spreyer, who ran thirty-six yards before Jampolis caught him from behind. On the next play Gardella went around his right end for the touchdown. Spreyer made good the point.

Less than three minutes later Letts got away a sixty yard punt to the Harvard 15 yard stripe, whence Spreyer toted it eleven yards. Lee got three yards at left tackle, then Gardella swept around his right end to the Crimson 47 yard line. On the next play Spreyer sifted thru the line, then ran to his right and outran a flock of pursuing Maroons fifty-three yards to the goal line. Spreyer's try for the extra point struck the right goal post.

The Parade Is On.

In the eighth minute of the second period Harvard took a Maroon punt on the latter's 48 yard line and traveled across the Chicago line a third time in seven plays. Spreyer started it with a ten yard romp over tackle and then, after allowing Lee to advance it twelve yards before he fell, Spreyer returned to contribute another fourteen yards at his right tackle. Gardella picked up three yards, Lee got seven, and then went over in two more plays. The score remained at 19 to 0 after Spreyer's placement skinned the underside of the bar.

Chicago took the ensuing kick-off, produced seven yards in three plays, then Letts punted forty yards to Lee, who returned to the Crimson 32 yard line. On the first play, Lee broke off his right tackle and, picking up a couple of blockers as he approached the Maroon secondary, kept sailing along the right side line until he had scored the fourth Harvard touchdown. This time Spreyer made the kick good and the score was 26 to 0.

Three Yard Pass? They're Fooling.

The Crimson took the ball after a Maroon punt to the Chicago 42 yard line. A three yard pass, Spreyer to Gardella, and two nineteen yard sprints through the line by Gardella brought the ball to the Chicago 1 yard line, whence Lee crashed over center. Spreyer kicked the point and it was 33 to 0.

Shortly before the end of the quarter Kelly intercepted a Maroon pass and in no time at all the count became 40 to 0, the customers meantime resorting to long division to break up the parade of touchdowns. Buckley and Gardella dashed to the Maroon 9 yard line. On fourth down Buckley fired a pass to Kelly for another touchdown just as the quarter ended and Spreyer again delivered on the point try for a 40 to 0 score.

Gardella Goes Galloping.

The slippery, hard running Gardella dashed forty yards along the side line for another touchdown early in the last period, and the kicking routine was varied when Buckley booted a drop kick for the extra point. [FLASH—Harvard, 47; Chicago, 0.] Brown and Devine then entered the Harvard lineup and after Harvard took the ball on the Maroon 25 yard line they collaborated on a third down pass which produced another touchdown. Curtis' place kick was good. [EXTRA—Harvard, 54; Chicago, 0.]

After the kickoff Letts' pass was caught by Summers of Harvard, who rolled up to the Maroon 12 yard line before he was shoved out of bounds. On the next play, Buckley dashed to his right for another touchdown and Brown added the point. [ED. NOTE—At this point, the count was lost but it was reliably reported to be 61 to 0 for Harvard.]

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special].—Hillsdale college defeated Kalamazoo college, 6 to 0, today to drive the Hornets out of the M. I. A. A. title race as the Dales annexed their 11th straight victory. Last year's champions scored in the first three minutes with Larson taking a fourteen yard pass for the touchdown. Kalamazoo twice held Hillsdale for downs inside the 10 yard line.

TULANE DEFEATS FORDHAM, 7 TO 0, BEFORE 43,000

New Orleans, La., Oct. 14 (AP).—Tulane scored its third consecutive victory of the season today, defeating Fordham, 7 to 0, before 43,000 spectators on a fifty yard sweep to the only touchdown of the game early in the first quarter.

Four times thereafter Tulane advanced to within the Fordham 10 yard line, but lacked the punch to score. Tulane rolled up sixteen first downs to Fordham's five.

Tulane's successful drive started after seven minutes of play when Jim Blumenstock of Fordham got off a punt that sailed only ten yards to the Tulane 48 yard line. Burton [Buddy] Banker gained ten yards and fumbled, Ray Riddick recovering for Fordham. Then Dominic Principe fumbled and Tulane recovered on its own 48 yard line. Banker gained nineteen yards in two plays and took a pass from Fred Gloden for five more. Banker added four yards and then Gloden, Banker, Kellogg, and Gloden alternated in carrying the ball, the latter scoring. Kellogg kicked the extra point from placement. Lineups:

TENNESSEE WINS, 28 TO 0.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 14 (AP).—Tennessee's Volunteers played under wraps today to defeat Chattanooga, 28 to 0, before 8,000 spectators.

After one punt exchange, George Cafego sparked a sixty-five yard march for a touchdown, Leonard Coffman plunging over from the 2 yard line. Thereafter the attack of Tennessee's varsity bogged down completely, but it was revived when a new team started the second quarter.

In quick succession, the reserves reeled off three scores, one coming as the result of a recovered fumble and the other after a blocked kick. The first came on Bob Andridge's forty yard sprint around end. Buist Warren tossed a nineteen yard pass to Andridge for the second after Ike Peel recovered a fumble on Chattanooga's 25, and Fred Newman crashed over from the Chattanooga 6.

GEORGIA TECH WINS, 35-0.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 14 (AP).—Georgia Tech defeated Howard today, 35 to 0, before 8,000 spectators, winning with ease and piling up nearly 500 yards in gains. The only surprise was conversion of five consecutive points after touchdowns.

ALABAMA, 20; MERCER, 0.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Oct. 14 (AP).—Alabama's vaunted Crimson Tide, hoarding its tricks and deception for its battle with Tennessee a week hence, employed straight football and occasional passes today to blast the Mercer Bears of Macon, Ga., 20 to 0, before 5,000 spectators.

L. S. U., 7; RICE, 0.

Baton, Rouge, La., Oct. 14 (AP).—Louisiana State tonight defeated Rice, 7 to 0, before 30,000 in a game marked by costly fumbles.

Ernie Lain's goal line fumble in the first quarter cost Rice a touchdown and paved the way for the Tigers' eighty yard touchdown drive thru the air for the only score, delivered by the usual route—Leo Bird to Ken Kavanaugh across the goal line.

path, threaded his way expertly thru all cross traffic, worked his way into the open and streamed eighty yards to a standup touchdown. He had a ten yard lead on the nearest Wisconsin pursuer when he reached the goal. Herbert place kicked the extra point.

Wisconsin fought the good fight to the best of its capabilities and has no reason to hang its head. There was a lot of luck involved in today's game, but as far as the Badgers were concerned it was all bad. They had one touchdown nullified by a five yard penalty because of the offside of a man who wasn't involved in the execution of the play. Two of their forward passes were intercepted after the ball had bounced from one Hoosier to another.

Paskvan Is Badger Star.

Wisconsin unveiled a full back who will cause future opponents no end of trouble. He is George Paskvan, junior from La Grange, who last year was kept in the background by Howie Weiss. He accounted for ninety-one of Wisconsin's 147 yards from scrimmage today. It usually took two Hoosiers to bring him down. It was Paskvan who bowled over all opposition in the play which would have given his team a touchdown except for an offside penalty.

Joe Tofil, hard hitting full back, was the ground gaining star for the Hoosiers. He rammed the Badger line for a total of fifty-five yards. It was Hursh, however, who gave the fans their greatest thrills. His passes were a constant threat. He completed one to Herbert for twenty yards, one to Maddox for ten, and one to Dumke for fifteen. It was no fault of his that others didn't connect.

Penalty Nullifies Score.

Wisconsin supporters got their first chance to cheer when Don Miller returned a punt nineteen yards to the Hoosiers' 39 yard line in the second quarter. Paskvan made two yards through left tackle and Miller added four at center. Cone passed to Gile for a first down on Indiana's 26. Paskvan ripped through his right tackle for three, then found a hole at center that was good for fifteen. Miller picked up two yards and then Paskvan crashed through center for a touchdown. The head linesman's horn, however, canceled the gain and the Badgers were set back five yards for offside. After this adverse break the Wisconsin attack bogged down and Indiana held for downs on the 9 yard line.

It looked as if the Badgers were on their way again in the third quarter after John Tennant, substitute half back, intercepted an Indiana pass and returned it twenty yards to his 28 yard line. Paskvan and Gage hammered the line for a first down on the 40. A forward pass, Tennant to Paskvan, and a penalty gave Wisconsin a first down at midfield. Tennant then connected with a toss to Miller on Indiana's 19. Tennant ran wide to his right and cut back for six yards. Paskvan in three line plunges gained only four yards, however, and the Hoosiers took the ball on their 9 yard line.

Badgers Win Statistics.

Neither team had a real scoring opportunity thereafter until Maddox broke away for his eighty yard touchdown sprint.

Wisconsin made ten first downs to five for Indiana.

The Badgers tried 18 forward passes, completed 6, and and had 8 incomplete and 4 intercepted. Indiana tried 9 passes, completed 4, and had 3 incomplete and 2 intercepted.

Wisconsin gained a total of 224 yards from scrimmage, 147 yards on running plays and 77 yards on passes. Indiana gained a total of 170 yards, 125 on running plays and 45 on passes.

Ripon, Wis., Oct. 14 [Special].—Ripon and Carroll played to a 6 to 6 tie here today. Croft's attempted placement for the extra was wide.

Carroll scored at the beginning of the fourth quarter after a consistent running and passing drive from its 25 yard line. Demming tossed a shovel pass to Barry, who lateraled to Binder for the score.

PENN BEATS YALE ON 51 YARD PASS MANEUVER, 6 TO 0

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14 [Special].—Pennsylvania defeated Yale before 32,500 today, 6 to 0, on a 51 yard pass play just before the first half ended.

Once, also in the first half, Yale had fumbled away a chance for a score at the 1 yard line, and Penn also lost the ball on Ed Allen's fumble at the Yale 14 yard line after Francis Reegan broke loose for 50 yards to the 25 yard line.

The Penn victory came three plays after it had seemed that Yale was on its way to a score. Fred Burr of Yale threw a long pass to the 11 yard line and Reagan, Penn quarter back, intercepted. He returned 38 yards, almost to midfield. Two plays later came the score.

Reagan, winded and stunned by the tackle, went out, and Paul Wexler came in to move into the spotlight. Wexler tried one pass that failed. Then he launched another and Harlan Gustafson, Penn's captain, caught it on the 20 yard line, and swept on to a touchdown.

Yale outrushed Penn, 107 yards to 77, and had more first downs, eleven to five, but Penn, during much of the second half, seemed content to play safe, never penetrating Yale territory. Twice in the second half Yale advanced to Penn's 25 yard line.

and a line plunge by Nave made it first down on the 23. Nave then tossed a pass to Al Krueger for a first down on the 12. Replacements for the center of the Illinois line were sent in, but Nave stormed thru for a touchdown on the next play. Bob de Lauer, sub right tackle, missed the placement.

Lansdell tallied for the Trojans in the third period after a touchdown drive carried the ball fifty-eight yards in six plays. Phil Gaspar failed to convert. Schindler scored two more touchdowns, once on a thirty-nine yard run off his own left tackle and again after a series of pass plays from Lansdell to Winslow, Fisk and Peoples had put the ball on the 3 yard line. Gaspar and De Lauer made the conversions.

Too much Trojan line power and too much heat contributed to the Illini defeat. The visitors were outplayed in the first half, but managed to stand off the Trojan power. Southern California's superior reserve strength took its toll in the last two periods.

Ehni Illinois Star.

Ehni was a standout for the invaders with his punting, defensive work and all around performance. He played most of the game and received a nice hand from the crowd when he left the field. Ralph Hathaway, last minute starter at center, was impressive in the line. Full Back Clifford Peterson played good defensive ball until taken from the game injured in the first quarter.

Southern California made 323 yards from passes and scrimmage against forty-six for Illinois and made thirteen first downs to two.

ILLINOIS PUPPY WINS SPRINGER ALL AGE STAKE

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 14 [Special].—Coldverdale Zipper, the youngster that triumphed yesterday in the English springer spaniel puppy stake, today won the open all-age stake in the eighth annual field trial of the Albany Spaniel club.

Owned by C. B. Dushane of Wadsworth, Ill., and handled by Clifford Wallace, Zipper impressed the gallery by his stamina, courage and consistent performance. Less than 18 months old, the American bred son of Buck Bruining of Asahaba and Drakes Dixie Belle, appeared to be going just as strong at the end of his third series as when he started in the puppy stake.

Second prize was awarded to the famous field trial champion Trex of Chancefield, owned by Mrs. and Mrs. Francis J. Squires of Norwood, Mass., and handled by Mrs. Squires. Third place went to Solo Event, owned by James Simpson Jr., of Wadsworth, Ill., and also handled by Clifford Wallace.

JEWEL ENS IS HANDED RELEASE BY FRANK FRISCH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP).—The Pittsburgh baseball club announced today Frankie Frisch, new manager of the National league Pirates, had released Coach Jewel Ens.

Ens had been with the Pirates for 15 years as player, coach, and manager. He was named manager on Aug. 27, 1929, and continued in that position until the end of the 1931 season. He returned as coach in 1935.

Frisch announced earlier this week he had selected Mike Kelly of the Boston Bees as one of the two Pittsburgh coaches. The new manager, who succeeded Harold [Pie] Traynor, said another coach would be signed, but did not disclose whether Johnny Gooch, a coach under Traynor, would be retained.

A BUCKEYE SETTLES FOR 20-YARD GAIN

Jim Langhurst, Ohio State full back, is stopped by Half Back Ira Kepford of Northwestern during the scoreless first half of yesterday's game in Columbus after gaining twenty yards to the Wildcats' 30 yard line. James Smith (No. 12), Northwestern end, is in the background. Ohio State won, 13 to 0, for its first western conference victory of the season.

Northwestern Loses, 13 to 0, to Ohio State

ward passing. The Ohioans piled up two hundred and fifty-seven yards by rushing to ninety by the Purple. The Wildcats added forty yards on their three completed passes. The Buckeyes tried ten passes, didn't complete one, and lost one by interception. The Ohioans fumbled twice, recovering once, but the Wildcats fumbled five times and three of these were gobbled up by enemy hands.

De Correvont Averts Score.

The Buckeyes turned on some threatening power right at the outset of the battle. The Purple took the opening kickoff but two plays netted only a seven yard loss, so De Correvont kicked into the wind to Northwestern's 49 yard line. With a drive which included a sixteen yard march thru tackle by Langhurst, the Ohioans crowded up to the Wildcats' 25 yard line. Needing six yards for a first down, Ohio State made its first attempt thru the air. Scott passed to Clair, who was on the 3 yard mark, but De Correvont reached over the receiver's shoulders and slapped the ball to the ground.

Taking the ball on the 25 yard line, the Wildcats tried two plays without success, whereupon De Correvont booted a beautiful quick kick to Ohio's 18 yard line. The Ohioans evenually kicked back to Northwestern's 12 yard line. Kruger lost seven yards, so De Correvont punted from his own end zone to his 34 yard line. Unable to gain a foot, the Buckeyes again resorted to a pass, but Scott, when about to make the toss, was jolted by a Purple warrior, the ball slipped from his hand, and Guritz recovered for the Wildcats on his own 41 yard line shortly before the conclusion of the period.

Hahnenstein Gets Going.

Coming into the game with a flock of other Wildcat replacements just before the first period ended, Hahnenstein gave the Ohioans a few worrisome moments. In the last play of the period Hahnenstein skipped thru right tackle for six yards. In the first play of the second quarter, Chambers shot thru for a first down on the Purple's 45 yard line. After an exchange of punts, Hahnenstein got loose in a big way. He went thru left tackle to Ohio's 36 yard line, a gain of twenty-one yards. In two more plays he added four more yards. Then the drive ended as suddenly as it started. Purtell fumbled and Marino recovered for Ohio on his 30 yard line.

For a time it looked as if the Buckeyes might convert the fumble into a touchdown. With a varied attack featured by Zadworney's twenty-five yard smash at left tackle the Wildcats were shoved back to their 30 yard line. Langhurst lateralled to Strausbaugh for six yards. Langhurst smashed center for a first down on the Purple's 20 yard line and five Purple regulars came tearing back into action. The Ohioans tried for the rest of the distance by passing, but the throws found no receivers and Northwestern regained possession of the ball on its 20 yard line.

Kruger Intercepts Pass.

Just before the period ended Ohio made another bid through the air. After taking a Purple punt they were 58 yards from the latter's goal. A pass by Scott was incomplete. He tried another — a long one — and Kruger intercepted it for the Purple on his 20 yard line.

Preliminary to the big push in which Ohio finally tried to settle for a placement in the third period was a quick kick by Scott. De Correvont let the ball roll toward the goal and finally picked it up only to be caught from behind by Strausbaugh on the Purple's 9 yard line. Kepford failed in one play and De Correvont picked up three yards before punting to Ohio's 45 yard mark. In another instant Strausbaugh had dashed through his right tackle and traveled twenty-three yards before being nudged out of bounds by Kepford on the Purple 32 yard line.

The march continued with Scott going through left tackle for five yards. Langhurst lateralled to Scott who went to the 20 yard line for a first down. Strausbaugh shot through right tackle for eleven yards and followed with a plunge for one yard. Langhurst took care of the next two thrusts for a four yard advance.

Ohio Field Goal Fails.

Then the Ohioans decided to abandon their smashing tactics. With Langhurst holding the ball on the 13 yard line, Scott attempted his placement, but the ball sailed under instead of over the cross bar. But the Ohioans were just getting warmed up.

After escaping the placement threat the Purple took the offensive on their own 20 but couldn't dent the Buckeyes' defense. Nine fresh Wildcats were sent into the lineup and Hahnenstein punted to his own 44 yard line. This was where the touchdown parade started. Strausbaugh sprinted thru right tackle for seven yards. Langhurst lugged the ball to the 35 yard line and on the next play Strausbaugh swung wide around right end for a first down on the Purple 30.

Scott wanted to pass, couldn't locate a receiver, so started to run thru a confused Purple defense and was brought down on the 6 yard line only because he tripped over Hahenstein. Three more yards wilted away when Langhurst hit tackle. Scott smashed center for two yards and plunged to the 1 foot line as the period ended. On the first play of the final quarter Scott plummeted thru right tackle for the first touchdown and Maag kicked for the extra point.

Ohio State Scores Again.

With the final period about half elapsed the Ohioans paid another visit to Purple territory. They smashed, lateralled, and ran their way to the 32 yard line. Scott tried to pass to the goal line. A pair of ground plays picked up a few yards. Scott tried another pass, didn't complete it, and the Wildcats took possession of the ball on their 26 yard line.

Desperate for a few points, the Wildcats tried the aerial route and it proved disastrous. Sarkkinen slapped the ball from Ryan's hand as he had his arm back to make the toss. Sarkkinen fell on the oval on the 15 yard line. The second touchdown wasn't delayed. Langhurst scooted around his left end and was headed for six points until chased out of bounds on the 3 yard line.

Langhurst then squeezed his way thru right guard and crossed the enemy goal to make it 13 to 0. Scott tried to harvest the extra point by a placement but it was blocked.

HARMON LEADS MICHIGAN IN 27-7 ROMP OVER IOWA

punt from behind their own goal. Taking the ball on a reverse, Harmon stamped his way thru to the 15 yard line. On the next play he threw a pass to Forest Evashevski, who went to the 4 yard line. After Bob Westfall had made two yards, the Wolverines worked the same maneuver that had scored before, the play starting to the left and turning sharply into the line. Again Harmon pranced into the end zone standing up. This time he missed the try for extra point.

Just before the end of the half, Michigan blocked a punt and took the ball on Iowa's 37 yard line and again Harmon began to move. Behind a screen of blockers, he weaved his way to the 8 yard line. Then he ran right end for a touchdown. His place-kick for the extra point was good, giving Michigan a 20 to 7 lead.

Intercepts; Runs 90 Yards.

But there was more to come. As the third quarter progressed, the Hawkeyes threatened again. Two successive fifteen yard penalties against Michigan forced the Wolverines to punt from behind their goal line, the kick being downed on the Michigan 16 yard line. Again the crowd began to worry. The Iowa boys didn't know when they were beaten. If they scored now they'd be only one touchdown behind and anything might happen. Here again Harmon stepped in.

Kinnick took the ball and drifted back, looking for a receiver. Gerald Ankeny, the Hawkeye quarter back, was racing toward the left hand corner of the field. Swiftly Harmon sized up the play and covered Ankeny. Kinnick let the pass go but Harmon beat Ankeny to the ball. Taking it at full speed on his own 10 yard line, he went 90 yards for a touchdown without a hand being laid on him. Once more he kicked goal, thereby accounting for every one of Michigan's 27 points.

And There Were Others.

The spectacular work of Harmon was just one item in the smooth performance of the Wolverines. The fast charging linemen took care of stopping Kinnick, the fleet Iowa half back who had performed so well against Indiana. The Michigan ends swooped down on punt receivers to tackle them in their tracks. The team as a whole showed the spark to turn every break into a touchdown.

The first of these breaks occurred as Kinnick fumbled on his own 40 yard line when tackled after catching a punt. Roland Savilla recovered for Michigan. Five plays later came the first Michigan touchdown.

The second opportunity came when Kinnick was thrown on his 3 yard line after intercepting a long pass. Fred Trosko took the return punt on the Iowa 35 yard line and ran in to the 26. Four plays later came the second Michigan touchdown.

Block Kinnick's Punt.

A third opportunity came when the alert Michigan linemen blocked Kinnick's fourth down punt, the latter recovering it on the Iowa 37 yard line just short of a first down. This time Michigan required only two plays for that third touchdown.

Then came the last break — that intercepted pass — which Harmon turned into a touchdown at one swoop.

The Hawkeyes played heads-up football. They never looked bad at any stage of the game. They actually gained more yards than Michigan, totaling 209 to 170. That touchdown pass of Kinnick's accounted for a good deal of this, the Hawkeyes having an edge of 144 to 46 in the aerial department while Michigan led the running game, 124 to 89. The Wolverines tried only six passes, completing two. The Hawkeyes threw 20, completing 6.

OF HAVANA, CUBA, SAYS

"Your new cigars have a real Havana flavor . . . and my opinion in this is also shared by several of my friends who have tried them. I do not know how much Havana leaf you have blended into these new WHITE OWLS, but it is certainly sufficient to give them a good Havana taste."

José García Ruiz

WE TOOK our new Blended-with-Havana White Owl all the way to Havana to test it. For where else but Havana itself would smokers know better the taste of Havana? We selected prominent Cubans—real connoisseurs of cigars—gave them some of the new White Owls to smoke. Without exception, they all praised the rich Havana flavor of this new cigar.

We're proud of the Havana tobacco we use in this new cigar . . . it's a really good grade. Does that sound unbelievable for a 5¢ cigar? Well, we are America's largest buyers of Havana tobacco, and we know what we are talking about. Fact is, it's the same type of Havana tobacco used in popular cigars costing 10¢ and more. And there's a generous helping in each new White Owl, too.

How long has it been since you've tried a White Owl? If you haven't tasted the NEW White Owl, you haven't found that 5¢ now buys a cigar with a 10¢ flavor.

Your choice of 2 shapes

Another "10¢" feature—now yours for 5¢ . . . a choice of shapes to suit your smoking taste. A long, trim, new Invincible. And a rich, full-bodied, new Club House shape. You get the same amount of tobacco—the same mild blend in either size—only the shape varies.

COLUMBIA LIONS ROAR IN TOUCHDOWN MARCH AND TIE WITH ARMY

Purdue Ties Gophers, 13-13, on 45 Yd. Run

might envy. It was Galvin, the sophomore playing his second college game, who tossed the accurate first half pass to Dave Rankin that sent the teams to the intermission tied. And while we are picking heroes one cannot overlook Fred Montague.

Montague kicked the point after Byelene's touchdown. But that isn't the reason he is singled out for particular mention. It was Montague who staked the result of this game on a fourth down play on Minnesota's 49 yard line with two yards needed. He sent Byelene slashing through Minnesota's defenders for a first down on the 45 yard line. Time was called at this point to check the clock. Adjustments showed 4 minutes 34 seconds. Then Purdue went back to work.

Franck Misses Mark.

Byelene took the pass from center, scooted off Minnesota's right tackle, Howard Parkinson, who had replaced Capt. Win Pedersen, cut back to step around the defensive right half back, and straightened out down the field. The safety, Franck, overshot the mark and was lost as Byelene turned on his final burst of speed.

It may be that Minnesota will credit Van Every's second period fumble with deciding the issue. Van Every dropped Galvin's kick and it was recovered by Al Rossi on Minnesota's 16 yard line. But if this misplay is considered, one must also consider the fumble recovered by Bob Bjorcklund, Gopher center, that checked Purdue's second march in the opening period. That relieved the pressure when it seemed Purdue would drive through.

The Boilermakers, perhaps remembering that Minnesota was the only team to beat them last year, started with a rush. They made four first downs before the Gophers could get them under control. Then Minnesota went to work.

Gophers Start Rolling.

Taking the ball on its own 24 yard line, Minnesota paraded to Purdue's goal in 14 plays. Van Every started with a twenty-two yard sprint at the end of which he dropped the ball as he was tackled from behind. But Referee Frank Lane ruled his knee had touched the ground before the error.

On the next play Van Every lateralled the ball to Bruce Smith and the sophomore half back swept around Purdue's right end for 24 yards and a first down on Purdue's 30 yard line. Christiansen and Van Every hammered through to the 19 yard line as the first quarter ended.

These same men, Marty hitting the guards and Van Every scooting off the tackles, went to Purdue's eight yard line in four more plays. Then, Christiansen tried to overpower the Boilermakers, but he gained only four yards in three attempts. On fourth down, Van Every handed the ball to Smith, who swept around Rankin for the score. John Bartelt, replacing Bob Paffrath at blocking back, missed the attempt for the point.

Purdue Strikes Back.

Purdue received the kickoff and seven plays later had the tying points. On fourth down Galvin punted, but Purdue, because of Van Every's fumble, kept possession on Minnesota's 16 yard line. Byelene raced outside right end for three yards. A fumble cost five yards and then Galvin arched his pass to Rankin, who jumped above the outstretched hands of two Gophers to get the ball and the touchdown.

Franck's fifty-two yard run came on the fifth play of the third quarter. After it, Joe Mernik placekicked the point. It then was Minnesota's task to defend the lead, for the Gophers never threatened thereafter.

Purdue's first bid was manufactured from the superior kicking of Brock. And when Byelene ran twenty-three yards to Minnesota's 30 yard line he served notice of his later success. This drive, although it progressed to the Gopher 6 yard line, failed as Rankin, on an end around, missed a first down by inches when tackled by Van Every on the first play of the fourth period. Two passes had set up the opportunity, the first being caught by Byelene and second by Bill Combs, sophomore end.

Up Steps Mr. Byelene.

Minnesota kicked out and when Purdue, with the ball on the Gophers' 30 yard line, was penalized for holding, it seemed that Minnesota might escape completely. But Byelene, always threatening, finally outsprinted the Minnesota boys to deadlock the issue.

The Gophers rallied briefly after this touchdown. They linked together two first downs and reached Purdue's 28 yard line on a pass by Van Every to John Mariucci, but an attempted pass by Mernik failed and he was thrown for a nine yard loss. Eventually Mernik attempted to place kick from Purdue's 46 yard line, an impossible feat, and Purdue ran the ball back out of danger.

Columbia Tied by Army, 6-6, on Long Pass

Taking the opening kick-off, Columbia scored in ten plays. Les Stanczyck smashed over from the 2 yard line for the touchdown. Leonard Will's place kick was wide. Then there was scarcely any excitement until Army's one scintillating pass.

After Art Frontczak missed the placement for the extra point that would have won the game Hatch again passed from midfield to Yeager on Columbia's 18. Ivan Sattem came in and missed a field goal from the 30 yard line. It was a feeble attempt.

NAVY, 0; DARTMOUTH, 0.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14 [Special].—Navy and Dartmouth left the victory list today, but remained among the dwindling ranks of the unbeaten by playing an uneventful scoreless tie before 34,000 in Baltimore stadium.

The result of the second gridiron meeting between the Indians and Middies was something of a disappointment for both squads, especially for Navy, which had entered the game a slight favorite to record its third triumph of the campaign. Dartmouth kept Navy well in hand thruout.

Navy held a slim edge, statistically, but Dartmouth twice penetrated to Navy's 20 yard stripe, whereas Navy's best bid stalled the Green's 33.

Both reeled off considerable yardage, but their offensive effectiveness dissipated in enemy territory. Including the punt runbacks, Navy was credited with carrying the ball 303 yards, while the Indians ran up 278.

NORTH CENTRAL WINNER, 33 TO 0, OVER CONCORDIA

The first touchdown came in the first quarter when Hayden ran around his own left end from the 12 yard line. His second came when he caught a Concordia punt on his own 20 yard line and ran 80 yards. In the second quarter Hayden again scored from the 1 yard line on an end run. Bob White went over from the 5 yard line in the last two minutes of the half for the fourth touchdown. The last North Central touchdown came in the last quarter after Barrett Saville had run 55 yards around end to the Concordia 20 yard line. Walter Anderson then went over for the score.

DOLLY VAL PUTS OVER SURPRISE AT SPORTSMAN'S

Filly Wins $1,500 Event and Pays $16.20.

Dolly Val, a 4 year old filly making her first start in over three months and only her fourth of the year, raced to a surprise triumph in the $1,500 Great Lakes handicap, feature of a program which attracted a crowd of 10,000 to the half mile track yesterday.

Dolly Val, under a vigorous ride by Al Bodiou, was off well and rated along in second place until the stretch run began. Here Bodiou brought the filly past Mo, which had set the early pace, and won drawing away. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:47.6.

Dolly Val paid $16.20, $9.80, and $5. Mo, also lightly held in the wagering, saved the place from the fast finishing Gray Jack and paid $13.40 and $4.60. Gray Jack, coupled with Chance Star and the favorite, returned $2.80.

Well backed choices again dominated the program and held up Sportsman's park's high percentage of winning favorites. Ducmiss took the first at a payoff of $4.40, and Billie Day the second at $10.60 to complete a daily double worth $32.40. A confidently supported choice went down in the third event, however. Ariel Bomb, played down to almost even money, ran last as Xanthien, ridden by T. P. Martin, scored and paid $9.60.

James Pilots Two Jamaica Stake Winners

New York, Oct. 14 [Special].—The Pacific coast representatives, Speed to Spare and Don Mike, ran one-two today in Jamaica's Interborough handicap.

Henry F. Guggenheim's War Dog prevented a sweep of the money places in this six furlong, $7,025 stake as he ran third to head Preceptor II., another western representative.

In the secondary feature, the Long Island claiming stakes, grossing $4,190, there was an all eastern finish with Parker Corning's Chip In, W. C. Whitney's One Jest, and Herman Philips' Fair Stein in that order.

Basil James, who rode brilliantly at Belmont, only to lose the top place at this meeting to Don Meade, cheered his followers anew by riding both stake winners.

In Speed to Spare, James kept going a horse which almost every one thought would stop. The horse is the former Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt sprinter which now races for the Circle M ranch of Edward Moore. He didn't stop today, and returned 8 to 1. He had a length advantage at the end, running the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5.

Don Mike and Preceptor II. were coupled in the betting as the Binglin Stock farm entry, but of the two Don Mike flashed the most speed. He and War Dog went along in pursuit of Speed to Spare, but neither could get up.

SUN EGRET WINS

Laurel, Md., Oct. 14 (AP). — Sun Egret, A. C. Compton's speedy little chestnut sprinter, raced to a five length victory in the $7,500 added Laurel mile today, running the distance in 1:37 4-5 for his fourth stake triumph in a row.

Sun Egret, made the favorite by the 15,000 fans, ran easily under Jockey Al Shelhamer and was only four-fifths of a second off the track record, set last year by Jacola when she whipped Seabiscuit. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Nedayr closed with a rush to beat out Gustave Ring's Lady Maryland for second place in a photo finish.

The victory, Sun Egret's sixth in 14 starts, was worth $7,125. He paid $5.40, $3.60, and $2.70.

Challamore and Abrasion, juveniles, owned by J. W. Y. Martin, young Baltimore sportsman, ran one, two in the supporting feature, the $5,000 added Maryland Futurity, a six furlong dash for 2 year olds bred and raised in Maryland.

Challamore, a son of Challenger II., sire of W. L. Brann's 3 year old champion, Challedon, finished three lengths ahead of Abrasion. A head back, in third place, was Brann's Yarnith, a daughter of Challenger II.

Martin picked up $5,000 on the one, two performance of his entry, which paid $5.20, $4, and $2.50.

HOW DID ZUPPKE LIKE S.C. VICTORY? WELL, YOU GUESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—"How did you like the game?" asked a bold and zealous reporter of Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois at the end of hostilities in the Coliseum this afternoon.

"It looks better and better for Michigan in the Big Ten," replied Bob after due reflection.

"O, I mean the game here—between you and Southern California—you know, the one where S. C. beat you, 26 to 0," insisted the reporter.

Bob reflected some more and struck a Napoleonic attitude.

"It was mighty nice of those officials," he began, "to come over and inform me that my boys were too small to be playing with those big Trojans in your unusual hot weather and that I ought to make some substitutions.

"That's why," and Bob was warming up by this time, "I had guards playing in the back field and quarter backs subbing for linemen."

A year later, Fromhart was graduated from Notre Dame and accepted the head coaching position at Mount Carmel.

Weber Wins Two Straight.

Pilney's team holds an edge over the squad coached by his former teammate. Weber has won two straight games, while Mount Carmel, defending league champion, triumphed in its first contest, but was held to a scoreless tie by Leo last Sunday. Weber in winning the first two games on its schedule scored 34 points to its opponents' 15.

Two other unbeaten teams with championship hopes, Fenwick of Oak Park and St. George of Evanston, will meet for the north division lead in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. Based on scores in their first two games, Fenwick and St. George are evenly matched. St. George has scored 38 points to opponents' six.

Chesapeake Bay retrievers won both the field trial stakes held yesterday by the Midwest Field Trial club on the Bateman estate, Barrington. The event brought together nine Labrador, Chesapeake, and golden retrievers in the Derby stake and 15 retrievers in the amateur all-age.

Gynnar II., a Chesapeake, owned by R. N. Crawford of Chicago, won the Derby, scoring his sixth victory in eight trials since spring. Glenairlie Comet, black Labrador, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Garlock of Barrington, was second, and Pat of Symington, yellow Labrador, owned by Armin Schlesinger, Milwaukee, third. Judges were Arthur Moecher, Aurora; Arthur Welch, Milwaukee, and Henry Christian, White Bear Lake, Minn.

The amateur all age stake was won by Superior Joy, Chesapeake, owned by E. C. Sawyer, Chicago; The Second Cocoa, Chesapeake, owned by Fred Bunte, Evanston, was second; Langbourne Darkie, Labrador, owned by Fletcher Garlock, third, and Patricia of Roedare, golden, owned by Richard Ryan, Minneapolis, fourth. A certificate of merit was awarded to Nell of Barrington, Labrador, owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Free, Barrington.

The most important stake of the trial, the open all age, will be held today. Twenty-five dogs will be tested on pheasants and ducks.

Budweisers Roll 1,227 Game, 3,350 Series for Two Records

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The Budweisers of the Randolph Bowling league, rolling at Bensinger's, set two records for the season last week when they hit a 1,227 game and 3,350 series. Starting with an ordinary 980, they hit 1,143 in their second game and finished up with 1,227 to sweep a series with the Jolly Jacks. The Jolly Jacks' total was 3,001.

Mike Marinello of the Nonebetters was high man for the night, putting together games of 186, 269 and 254 for a 709 total.

Windy City Major League.

The Budweisers rolled high series, 2,973 in the Windy City Major league this week, but by losing 1 of 3 games to the Whitecaps, dropped into a first place tie with the Joseph Gills. The Gills, rolling second high series, 2,966, took three games from the Vogels. The Budweisers and Gills each have won 12 games and lost 3.

The Blazeks registered the league's high game, 1,074, but that 1 game was their only salvage from a series with the McKessons. By dropping 2 the Blazeks fell 2 games behind the leaders and into a tie with the Mineralites, each with 10 won and 5 lost. The Mineralites took 2 from the O'Keefes after opening with an 814 game. The Quality five won 2 from the Betinis to bring its season's record to 9 won out of 15. Other teams with better than a .500 average in the standings are the Vogels and G. and W.'s, each with 8 won out of 15 played.

W. Nartin of the Blazeks was the week's individual star, rolling high game, 264, and high series, 663. Jerry Skovie of the O'Keefes hit second high series with 661.

Shawnee Country Club.

A record total of more than 200 men and women bowlers have been enrolled in the bowling leagues of the Shawnee Country club of Wilmette for the 1939-'40 season, it is reported by James Ferguson, bowling chairman, following the official league organization and opening matches. Mrs. Creighton Whiting has been appointed chairman of the women's bowling league.

In the Shawnee Men's league, 16 teams will compete weekly for championship awards to be made on Jan. 9, 1940, for the first half of the season. Team captains include Bud Lange, A. J. Rolle, L. W. Sherwood, A. B. Hussander, L. J. Graf, C. R. Simmons, Elis Larson, Paul W. Cook, A. R. Houle, Jim Watson, E. R. Mons, L. Walker, O. W. Clifton, Vernon Beebe, Cal Turner, and J. W. Day.

Stevenson's Major League.

The Budweisers and Chatham Post each won 2 out of 3 games to go into a tie for first place with the Edens in Stevenson's Major league. The Edens dropped 2 to the Mr. Newports in registering a 2,824 series. Each team now has won 15 games and lost 6. Chatham Post beat the Wesley Smiths by 19 pins in the first game and by 21 in the second game to gain its first place tie. The Budweisers won their first game with the Svendsens by 8 pins, lost the second by 21, and took the third by 84.

Classic League.

The Pabsts and Monarchs, deadlocked at the top of the Sunday division of the Classic league with 10 games won in 15 played, will face the eighth and seventh place Ambrosias and Pragers, respectively tonight. They bowl at the Schueneman-Flynn Logan Square recreation, 2552 Milwaukee avenue. The Michelobs and Schlitz, tied for third place, will meet, and the Koenigs meet Power House. Standings:

Greater Chicago Traveling League.

The Schlitz took the lead in the Greater Chicago Traveling league by sweeping a series with the Mohawk Recreations to bring their record for the season to 7 games won and 2 lost. The Kruse and De Luxe Recreation teams lost an opportunity to tie for the lead as they took only two games each in their series with the Cragin Recreations and Merits, respectively. Kruse and De Luxe have won six of nine games. Avondale Recreation took two from Sunkist in the other league match.

Stanley Pasciak of the Schlitz tops the individuals with an average of 208. In second and third places are two Kruse stars, George Eland with 203 and Pat Panzek with 202.

North End Traveling League.

Ray Blanck, anchor man for Samuelson's Kids, established a new North End Traveling league record last week when he hit a series of 736 on games of 267, 257, and 212. His accomplishment helped the Kids win three games from the Curtiss Jolly Jacks, which, coupled with their sweep over the Foxes pulled them up into a tie for third place with the Jolly Jacks.

Koenig Brau dropped two to the Foxes, but retained its one-game lead when the Schambergers could take only the odd game from De Luxe Recreation. The champion Birks dropped close to the bottom when they lost two to the Pepi-Colas. The Budweisers defeated Chapin and Gore in two games.

Ray Koopman of Fox boosted his average on series of 666 and 660. Matty Kass registered 688 for the Jolly Jacks. Joe Gratz maintained his individual lead of 204, but Blanck pulled up to second place, one pin behind.

Budweisers at Samuelsons.
De Luxe vs. Chapin and Gore at Faetz and Son.

Flo Waterman was high in Bruck's Ladies' major league, winding up an otherwise mediocre series with a 279 game for a 586 total. Carrie Enders was runnerup with 557.

The Southside News, Southside Couriers, and Sorensens, each with 12 games won of 15 played, pace the Stevenson Friday Ladies Major league. The C. and M.'s and Flowers No. 2 are a game behind the leaders with 11 won and 4 lost.

Spotting the Pins.

The Irvine Coals of Stevenson's league won two out of three games, one on a roll-off, after having taken only one of their first 18 games. Their 2,877 series topped those of two of the three teams tied for the league lead. . . . Ad Carlson's 211 is high average in the Windy City league. John Small and A. Jarosik each have a 208 mean.

DUCK SEASON IS ONLY WEEK OFF IN CENTRAL ZONE

Reports Promising for Illinois River Shooting.

BY BOB BECKER.

In just one more week waterfowl hunters in Illinois and other states in the intermediate zone will burn their powder in the duck marshes. Impatient duck hunters from coast to coast will be able to paddle into the marshes next Sunday morning Oct. 22 to open up on both ducks and geese, according to the federal regulations on waterfowl shooting.

In Illinois the shooters rightfully have every expectation of some grand fun on the opening day. Reports from the famous Illinois river marshes tell of a large number of ducks on hand. Moreover, the demand for hunting facilities is so great this year that many of the day shooting places hung out the "Filled Up" signs several weeks ago.

Reports Induce Hunting Fever.

When Illinois duck shooters read the reports from the Illinois river valley on the number of birds that have come down from the north, they are bound to get a touch of hunting fever. For example, here is a report from J. B. Rinehart Jr., describing conditions on a day shooting spot not far from Crane lake. He writes:

"In the five years I have been shooting in this area I can't remember, nor can any of the boys who live down here remember the time when there were so many ducks down by the early part of October as there are now. There are literally thousands of sprigs and blue winged teal all over the area and with the abundance of grain that we've had during most of the summer plus the prolific growth of all sorts of vegetation, we ought to have [for the first time in years] feed for the ducks. The water levels while not high are good and with the normal rainfall that we may expect, hunters should have no difficulty in getting good shooting grounds."

Geese Move In.

Some geese have moved into the Cairo, Miller City, Olive Branch country, but, as is always the case, the big flocks of honkers are not expected down there until later.

Wisconsin hunters have had their best duck hunting in years. Every report from the Green Bay region, and the Lake Poygan and Butte des Morts section tells of a big early flight and good shooting. The vanguard of the 1939 migration has come down and more are behind these big flocks. After seeing this early flight, hunters can appreciate what Ducks Unlimited, the organization of American sportsmen, has done in Canada to increase the waterfowl population. Millions of birds which are coming south this fall have been raised in marshes that were rehabilitated by Ducks Unlimited projects, all of which were financed by contributions from American sportsmen.

STOCKS POINT DOWNWARD IN SMALL TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 14.—Stock prices moved in a narrow range today with the trend toward lower levels. Losses generally did not exceed fractions.

Fewer traders were in the boardrooms than at any time since the outbreak of the European war and volume was the smallest in about two months. Sales dropped to 248,850 shares from 585,770 last Saturday.

Steel stocks were down fractionally at the beginning of trading and showed little change in price for the remainder of the session despite preliminary estimates showing further improvement in the operating rate of the industry. United States Steel finished with a small fractional loss.

The opening of the automobile show failed to stimulate the motor shares. Chrysler, beset by labor troubles, had a loss of more than a point at one time, but cut its loss later to a major fraction. General Motors lost less than a point. Utilities just about held their own. Rails lost minor fractions. Aircraft issues were a bit easier.

COTTON

Trading in cotton futures yesterday was light. Mill buying largely offset the effect of hedging sales. The market was easily influenced. Closing sales were unchanged to .05 cent a pound lower.

Consumption of cotton by American mills in September aggregated 625,000 bales, the department of commerce reported. This is the second largest consumption during the month in the last 10 years. Mills used 628,000 bales of cotton in August and 533,000 bales in September, 1938.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .04 cent lower with New York, 9.16 cents; New Orleans, 9.07 cents; Galveston, 8.63 cents, and Houston at 8.60 cents a pound. Prices follow:

UNION ASKS RAIL AUDIT AS RESULT OF CUT IN WAGE

Urges Court Make Change in C., A. & E. Receiver.

A petition asking an audit of the financial condition of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad was filed in the United States District court yesterday on behalf of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, an organization of the road's union employés.

The petition also asked that A. A. Sprague Jr. be removed as receiver or at least that a co-receiver be appointed.

Richard Plum, financial secretary of the union, said that last spring the employés signed a contract under which they took a wage out. The contract provided that wages be restored on a proportionate basis to increases in revenues. He said many items in the balance sheet as given on May 31, 1939, are not understandable to the union.

Want Expenses Explained.

Specifically, Plum said, the union would like an explanation of a $363,996 item listed under general and miscellaneous operating expense. He said that since a financial burden has been placed on the employés they should be given an explanation of the details. He said the union wants to get a copy of the balance sheet every month.

The union also suggested a number of economies. Among others it urged that land not required by the road be sold, that leases with the elevated road over which the road enters Chicago be reëxamined and that duplication of offices be eliminated. It said there is duplication of work by supervisors and asked that the purchasing agent's office be investigated.

Criticize Sprague as Receiver.

With respect to Sprague, the union said that he has a contractual relationship with the elevated line with which the Aurora and Elgin does business and has numerous important positions which do not give him time to pay full attention to the Aurora and Elgin. It urged that he either be removed or a co-receiver with powers be appointed.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson set Nov. 1 for a hearing.

The reduction in pay last May was 10 per cent. After the company's balance sheet appeared on Sept. 1 there was a 2 per cent restoration in pay. Sprague has been receiver since 1932.

GRAINS DRIFT; TRADERS AWAIT EVENTS ABROAD

Wheat and corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade held within narrow price limits yesterday. Trading was at a minimum with speculators awaiting further developments abroad before taking a decided stand on either side of the market. Closing trades on wheat futures were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Corn declined ⅜ to ⅝ cent and closed at the bottom.

Soy beans developed independent strength and closed ½ to ⅞ cent higher. Buying by brokers who frequently act for exporters and light offerings accounted for the upturn. Outside markets were reported to be outbidding Chicago for offerings of beans at country loading stations in Illinois and Indiana.

Dry weather prevailed in the west and southwest yesterday and the weather bureau long range forecast indicated little or no moisture would be received in the main producing areas in the winter wheat belt during the current week.

Lack of storage room at country points is reported to be forcing the Commodity Credit corporation to ship a liberal amount of cash corn to Chicago for storage purposes.

CHICAGO STOCKS LITTLE CHANGED IN LIGHT TRADE

Chicago stocks showed little inclination to move in either direction yesterday. Transactions totaled only 10,000 shares.

Northwest Bancorporation aroused interest by advancing fractionally to a new 1939 peak of 10½. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, closed unchanged at 29⅞ on a turnover of 1,150 shares. Swift rose a minor fraction and United States Steel declined slightly.

Transactions during the week totaled 121,000 shares, compared with 188,000 in the preceding week and 212,000 a year ago. Five issues registered new high marks for 1939.

NEW INDUSTRIAL BUYING BOOSTS PLANT ACTIVITY

More Ships and Rail Supplies Ordered.

The war accentuated industrial expansion gained momentum yesterday with orders for additional ships, still more railway equipment, new business from Latin American countries, and announcements of increased production personnel at many manufacturing plants.

The maritime commission at Washington awarded contracts for the construction of two more ships for the American merchant marine, raising to 139 the number ordered since the government's billion dollar program got under way two years ago. Construction of the new vessels will be started at once by the Moore Drydock company at Oakland, Cal. They will cost $2,753,000 apiece. Twenty-five of the maritime commission ships have already been launched.

Equipment Plants Busy.

Railway equipment builders, operating at the fastest rate in several years as a result of the railroads' vast rehabilitation program, prepared for further expansion.

The Wheeling and Lake Erie, which recently ordered 500 freight cars, added 200 cars to the order and placed construction contracts with the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company and the Ralston Steel company. The carrier asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $1,200,000 of 2½ per cent equipment certificates to finance part of the construction cost, placed at $1,648,363, and announced the certificates will be sold through competitive bidding rather than placed privately with railroad bankers.

The railway equipment market was stimulated by new inquiries for more than 2,500 freight cars which are to be constructed for various railroads. The carriers are also shopping for twenty new locomotives, and within the last few days placed orders for 75,000 tons of rail.

South America Buying.

The department of commerce at Washington, relaying information from commercial attachés at various points, reported several South American countries have placed large orders with American manufacturing companies and have made numerous inquiries regarding imports. Their inquiries have been directed to American companies because the war has shut off shipments from European countries, principally Germany.

Orders have been particularly large from Peru and Chile, according to the department, which also announced Portuguese commercial houses have shown more interest in American products since the start of the war.

The A. O. Smith corporation announced employment at its Milwaukee plant has been increased about 1,300 in the last 60 days and now totals 4,900. Some departments are operating at capacity with three shifts working daily, it was said. The company is a large fabricator of automobile frames and other equipment.

Operating at New Peak.

Louis Ruthenburg, president of Servel, Inc., announced the company's production of refrigerators and other products since July 1 has been at the highest rate ever reached.

The upturn in automotive operations was reflected in a report that employment at 51 major plants in the Toledo district had broken thru previous 1939 highs for the third consecutive week. The plants now employ 20,665 workers, or 1,335 more than in the preceding week and 5,722 more than a year ago. Total employment at all Toledo area plants was reported the highest since 1937.

The Alton Boxboard company announced its plant at Carlyle, Ill., closed for two years, will be reopened as a result of increased demands for paper, and that 60 workers will be employed.

Because of a larger volume of products moving into consumption, manufacturers' stocks of raw materials recorded a further decline of 4.7 per cent in August, according to the National Industrial Conference board, a private statistical agency. The decline in inventories since April 1, 1938, has been widened to 23 per cent, reducing the board's index to the lowest point in seven years.

INSURANCE MEN DENY DODGING JURY SUBPENAS

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 14 (AP).—Nine eastern fire insurance executives missed by Jackson county deputy sheriffs serving grand jury subpenas would be willing to appear at any time "convenient," their attorney, Homer Berger, said today.

Berger said the nine, including four who chartered an airplane to return to their eastern homes, had "no intimation" that Attorney General Roy McKittrick "wanted any one from the companies to appear before the state grand jury" investigating a $9,000,000 rate compromise.

"There was no reason," Berger added, "if he [McKittrick] had advised us, why they wouldn't have appeared yesterday or today if he had wanted them."

Canada Finds America Best Cattle Market

Canadian and Mexican cattle raisers are finding the United States a more profitable outlet for their beef animals than warring nations in Europe, department of commerce reports on foreign trade of the two countries show.

Latest data on imports disclosed yesterday that Canada continues to be a heavy seller of cattle in the United States markets despite the fact that England has been at war with Germany for a month.

During the seven day period ended Oct. 5 Canada shipped 5,404 beef cattle compared with 482 the preceding week and 814 the corresponding week last year.

The sharp rise was due partly to the fact that tariff rates were lowered Oct. 1 on imports from Canada as provided in the reciprocal trade agreement between the two countries. The lower rates will be in effect until the 1939 quota permitted under the agreement has been filled.

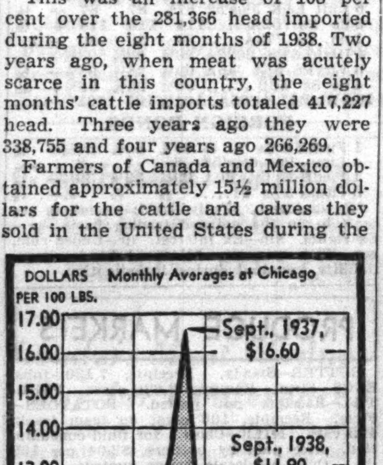
Cattle and calves have been pouring over the two borders of this country all year in the largest volume since 1914. In fact, 1914 is the only year when imports of live cattle and calves reached a larger volume. The latest official complete figures on imports from Canada and Mexico are for the first eight months of 1939. Imports during that period totaled 587,040 head of cattle and calves.

Sharp Increase Over 1938.

This was an increase of 108 per cent over the 281,366 head imported during the eight months of 1938. Two years ago, when meat was acutely scarce in this country, the eight months' cattle imports totaled 417,227 head. Three years ago they were 338,755 and four years ago 266,269.

Farmers of Canada and Mexico obtained approximately 15½ million dollars for the cattle and calves they sold in the United States during the eight months of 1939. Although a large share of their shipments went for immediate slaughter, they found a wide market for thin stock to the farmers of this country who are well supplied with grain and other animal feeds which they are anxious to convert into beef at current cattle prices. Cattle are making money for the farmers at existing price levels of fat stock and feeds.



This graph of cattle prices in recent years shows that the market has declined steadily since early March.

No Live Cattle to England.

No cattle are being loaded out of Canada for shipment alive to England, according to the department of agriculture of the dominion. Only 1,161 beef cattle have been exported to England so far this year, the department reports, with data complete up to Oct. 5. Shipments of cattle to England for the same period last year totaled 25,262 head. During the same period Canada sold 146,205 beef cattle in the United States this year and 40,470 last year.

England has turned large buying orders for beef to Argentina and is getting less meat from Canada. During the first eight months of 1939 Canada shipped 845,000 pounds of beef to England, a decrease of 55 per cent from the 1,901,000 pounds exported in 1938.

Chicago Cattle Prices Lower.

The general level of cattle prices in the Chicago stockyards last week was the lowest in six weeks. The six day steer average at $9.75 showed a loss of 10 cents, compared with the preceding week, and it was $1 under a year ago. Two years ago the steer average was $13.35.

There was a recovery of the market late in the week, with final prices of best steers strong with a week earlier. The bulk closed weak to 25 cents lower.

Price trends in other branches of the live stock markets also were uneven. The six day hog average at $6.95 showed a gain of 30 cents, but final rates in the various classes were unevenly 10 cents lower to 20 cents higher than the close of the preceding week. Final rates for lambs showed gains of 25 cents. However, the six day average was off 5 cents, at $9.35.

AUTO BUILDERS DISPLAY WARES FOR 1940 DRIVE

New York City Show Opens Today.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 14.—The 1940 motor cars are arrayed on display floors for the opening of the 40th annual national automobile show tomorrow in the Grand Central Palace here. The dates for the Chicago show are Nov. 4 to 12.

It's the kickoff in a new year's merchandising campaign of a magnitude of concern to national economics. The "big shots" assembled here from the factories are optimistic, encouraged by reports of a 33 per cent output gain during the production year just ended. The production had a wholesale value of nearly 1¼ billion dollars.

It's a display of the latest vehicles for individual transportation, a display of another year's accomplishments by automotive engineers and stylists backed by venturesome capital in a competitive industry.

Better Cars at Old Prices.

Probably the No. 1 accomplishment is the production of a better car for 1940 without adding to the price tag. Some prices have been shaved. Other firms have made no price additions to cover new equipment.

Probably the outstanding engineering improvement is the 1940 headlamp with the reflector and a lense sealed in the bulb to assure virtually a uniform performance for the life of the bulb. Also electrical, bigger generators are on most of the cars.

The trend in bodies, as seen in a preview this afternoon, is toward longer and wider lines, with brighter colors, larger windshields and windows for better visibility, low radiator grilles, and a wider use of plastics for interior ornamentation. More models have directional signals. There are more convertibles with power operating the top. Mechanically, a number of the makes have a higher horse power attained by means of higher compression or better carburetion and manifolding. More makes have moved the gear shift lever from the floor to the steering column. A redistribution of weight by moving the engine forward, and a rigid frame have enhanced comfort and safety.

Changes in Cars.

BANTAM — Its name is still descriptive although horse power has been stepped up 20 per cent. Two convertibles added to line.

BUICK—Two entirely new series, a 50 super and a 70 roadmaster, make a total of eight groups for the 1940 market. Wheel bases range from 121 to 140 inches. Two engine sizes, one developing 107 and the other 141 horse power. Performance features refined.

CADILLAC—A new series, making five in all, is added to General Motors luxury line. Called the 72, the price is just above the medium field. Fleetwood bodies on 139 inch wheel base.

CHEVROLET—New styling. Overall length extended 4⅜ inches. Engine relocated 1½ inches farther ahead in frame for better balance. Larger capacity oil pump. Valve mechanism refined. Three series of models.

Car Longer and Heavier.

CHRYSLER — Longer and heavier. Better weight distribution for riding comfort. Overdrive and fluid drive available outside the luxury model. Six models in all, comprising 26 body styles.

CROSLEY—This 1940 "baby" has a two cylinder engine on an 80 inch wheel base. The line consists of a convertible coupe, a convertible sedan, a station wagon, and a delivery car.

DE SOTO—Engine output boosted to 100 horse power with standard head and to 105 with a higher compression head. Direction signals and other accessories are stock equipment. Lower and sturdier frame.

FORD — Finger tip gear shift mounted on steering column. New interior ventilation system. A torsion bar adds to road stability. De luxe models have metal covers for springs. New interior decorative schemes.

Has Better Driving Vision.

HUDSON — Restyled with longer and lower lines. Better driving vision with 17 per cent deeper windshield. New linkage to mechanical half of double brake equipment.

LA SALLE—Engine output boosted to 130 horse power, with a reported reduction in fuel consumption due to better carburetion and manifolding. A second series added to the line has the appearance of the Cadillac 60 special.

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR — Larger and more powerful. A new styling adds 22 per cent to the glass area for better visibility. Gear shift on the steer-

Coal Advance Declared Too Burdensome

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday assailed the proposed soft coal price increases as a move which will saddle upon coal users in the state an additional burden of 30 to 60 million dollars a year.

The association submitted its protest to the bituminous coal commission of the department of the interior, which has charge of the proposed new schedules. The manufacturers declared that the increase in the cost of coal in the Chicago district alone would be at least 15 million dollars a year, and might reach 30 millions.

W. Homer Hartz, president of the association, outlined its stand in a letter to Percy Tetlow, chairman of the coal commission.

Explains Illinois Situation.

"Illinois industries manufactured products valued at $5,304,282,629 in 1937, employed 668,841 wage earners, and paid wages amounting to $862,793,453," Hartz wrote. "The Illinois industries paid $2,985,246,895 for materials, fuel, electrical energy and contract work in 1937. The cost of fuel represents a substantial proportion of operating charges.

"Because of the importance of fuel as a cost factor in manufacturing operations, the industries of this state are deeply concerned with the determination of prices for coal in which the coal commission is now engaged."

Hartz said it was estimated that the increase in coal costs under the schedules being considered would amount to 50 cents to $1 a ton, the larger increase applying to smaller sizes of coal, including screenings, such as are used in industry.

Means Serious Burden.

"We submit that the tremendous increase in the cost of fuel contemplated by the prices under consideration would impose a serious and unwarranted burden upon the industries of this state," Hartz said.

"This proposed increase is particularly objectionable at this time, when many factories are idle, when a large number of industries are operating on a greatly restricted production schedule, and when approximately 812,000 persons are involuntarily unemployed in this state."

AIR LINES REPORT NEW PASSENGER EXPRESS MARKS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP).—Scheduled air lines established new highs in August in the total of passengers and express carried and miles flown, the civil aeronautics authority reported today.

The 17 domestic carriers handled 179,051 revenue passengers during the month, compared with 170,913 in July and 122,735 in August, 1938. Revenue passenger miles flown totaled 68,118,164, compared with 66,054,539 in July and 46,171,246 in August, 1938.

The air lines carried 933,965 pounds of air express in August, compared with 725,922 in July and 623,770 in August, 1938.

AMERICAN PRODUCTION OF FERROMANGANESE BOOSTED 30,000 TONS

The steel industry's capacity for the production of ferromanganese, an essential in steel manufacture, was increased by 30,000 tons annually yesterday when new facilities were placed in operation by the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company at its plant in Birmingham, Ala.

Approximately equal to the amount of ferromanganese now being imported, the increase is significant at a time when shipments from abroad face mounting wartime dangers, the announcement said.

The company said it would utilize a newly developed process for the treatment of low grade ores, and get its supplies from Cuba, where deposits have been developed with American capital. This development, according to the announcement, contributes to the self-sufficiency of the American steel industry, which uses about one ton of managanese ore in the production of 160 tons of steel.

The short ocean voyage from Cuba to Mobile, Ala., involves less danger than the voyage from European countries, the announcement said. Norway, Holland, and Czecho-Slovakia contributed most of the 26,258 tons imported in 1938.

BUILDING CODE REFORM NEEDED, FHA CONTENDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP).—The Federal Housing administration said today that the majority of the 1,500 building codes in effect in the United states should be examined critically to determine how far they are impeding standardization of home construction and retarding building activity.

"Codes could and should show fewer divergencies in their requirements," the FHA said in an official publication. "Greater economies in building costs could be effected thru a complete correlation of codes, without impairing their primary purpose of protecting the public health and safety."

Stewart McDonald, administrator, announced FHA mortgage insurance involving new small homes last month exceeded the September, 1938 total by 6.5 per cent. During September, 13,710 mortgages aggregating $64,633,965 were selected for appraisal covering homes to be built under FHA inspection.

SURVEY SHOWS CHICAGO PRICES AT LOW LEVEL

Only two of 32 major cities in the United States studied have a lower average cost of items purchased by wage earners than Chicago, the Illinois Manufacturers' association reported yesterday on the basis of information received from the department of labor.

The cost of living for all items, based on an average of 100 for the years 1923-1925, was 78.2 in Chicago. In Los Angeles it was 77.7 and in Birmingham it was 75.7. Seattle living costs were the highest in the group at 87.1.

In Chicago the cost of food was 77.1 per cent of the 1923-1925 average; clothing, 74.2 per cent; rent, 60.5; fuel and light, 89.1, and house furnishing goods, 74.3.

British Pound Rallies; Other Moneys Steady

Chicago Steel Output to Set 10 Year High

Chicago district steel operations will push up 1.1 points this week to 87.3 per cent of theoretical capacity, establishing a 10-year record for the second consecutive week. Operations last week were at 86.2 per cent of capacity, a month ago they were at 76.6 per cent, and a year ago the rate was 45.3 per cent.

Virtually all mills in the district are operating at or close to practical capacity. Similar conditions were reported in the Pittsburgh district, where this week's operations are scheduled to advance 1 point to 89 per cent of theoretical capacity. This compares with 67 per cent a month ago, 40 per cent a year ago, and 85 per cent in the corresponding week of 1929.

Flow of Orders Continues.

Pittsburgh producers said a steady flow of orders continues to roll into sales offices. Current orders were reported about heavy enough to equal present steel production. Export inquiries were described as "heavy," but little of that type of business is being taken by the mills.

Workers continued to go back to the mills in increasing numbers as the industry, pushed as much more equipment into service as possible. Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation was reported to have added 8,000 workers to its Pittsburgh district forces during September.

Steel mill employment in the Youngstown district has about equaled the record high mark established in March and April of 1937, a Dow-Jones dispatch said. Mills are still adding to their forces, and with a large amount of overtime being paid it is possible that October pay rolls in the district will be the largest on record, the dispatch said.

Output Highest in 10 Years.

The district's operating rate this week is scheduled to hold at about 94 per cent of theoretical capacity, the same as last week and the highest since 1929.

Steel making in the Birmingham district advanced 4 points to 90 per cent of capacity last week, with 21 open hearth furnaces active.

Indicative of further increases in operating schedules were reports that many mills that had idle steel plate capacity until about a week ago now find their plate production rapidly being filled. Tin plate output for the fourth quarter is expected to be the largest for any quarter in history, although estimates as to the possible production were not available.

Sales of No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap were made at $23 a ton in Pittsburgh, a reduction of $1.50 from the last reported transaction.

Regard Reaction Technical.

Brokers said the reaction was technical, and cited the fact that scrap prices enjoyed an unbroken advance of more than $9 per ton in recent weeks. Some mills placed an embargo on scrap due to the high price and this tended to lower the price, they said.

Meanwhile, the University of Pittsburgh's bureau of business research reported that shipments of iron and steel products from the Pittsburgh district actually declined last week. Steel men said the decrease was due to a "real car shortage in spite of railroad denials," and also to the fact that mills were about cleaned out of accumulated steel supplies by last week and were shipping mostly current production.

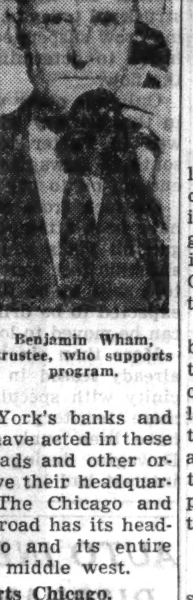
Chicago Fights for C. & E. I. Finance Jobs

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.



Benjamin Wham, trustee, who supports program.

With the reorganized Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway expected to pass from court control into the hands of private management before the end of the year, Chicago financial houses indicated yesterday that they will press their efforts to bring to this city the positions of trustees, registrars, and paying agents for the new securities to be issued by the road.

Chicago's financial houses, including banks and investment banking houses, have long complained that New York's banks and investment houses have acted in these capacities for railroads and other organizations that have their headquarters in Chicago. The Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad has its headquarters in Chicago and its entire operation is in the middle west.

Wham Supports Chicago.

Support for the Chicago institutions was promised yesterday by Attorney Benjamin Wham, who recently was appointed trustee of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois to succeed Charles M. Thomson, who was made trustee of the Chicago and North Western.

"I am entirely in sympathy with the efforts made by middle western enterprises to control business that properly should be theirs," Wham said. "I feel that Chicago financial houses should be given the trusteeships and other positions connected with the obligations of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, which is a Chicago road. However, the reorganization committee which will be in charge when the road passes out of the hands of the federal court will have the say. Inasmuch as the Reconstruction Finance corporation is to take over $11,000,000 of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois bonds under the reorganization, Jesse Jones probably will have a great deal of influence on the subject."

May Be First Reorganization.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois is expected to be the first road in the country to emerge from federal court control through reorganization under section 77 of the bankruptcy act. Federal Judge John P. Barnes approved the reorganization plan for the road last June after the Interstate Commerce commission also had sanctioned it.

The holders of the road's securities are voting on the plan—a lengthy operation. If two-thirds approve it the plan becomes effective. If two-thirds do not vote in favor of it, the court may still make it effective after another hearing.

Kenneth D. Steere, chairman of the board of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, who is expected to be a member of the reorganization committee, was noncommittal when asked in New York last week as to his attitude toward the Chicago financial houses getting the trusteeships and other positions.

Up to Committee.

"The reorganization and all other matters pertaining to it will be controled by the reorganization committee which will not begin to function until the plan is approved by the securities holders and gets the final blessing of the federal court in Chicago," he said.

Thomson before giving up his position with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois to take a similar position with the North Western was outspoken in stating his opinion that Chicago banks and trust companies should be given the trusteeships for the securities of Chicago companies.

Of nine middle western railroads —six of which have their headquarters in Chicago—being reorganized, trustees for 81 securities issues with a par value of $1,709,000,000 are located in New York. An exception is a trustee in St. Louis. New York banks hold the trusteeships for all the Chicago and Eastern Illinois issues.

Seek to Win New Business.

Chicago banks and trust companies have been waging a campaign to bring business to Chicago which they believe belongs here. In addition to providing direct revenues, the location of trustees, registrars, and paying agents increases the city's prestige as a financial center and indirectly brings other business here, they say.

The CHICAGO TRIBUNE has long advocated that the middle west have control over business that properly belongs to it. It has urged the holding of directors' meetings of Chicago companies in Chicago instead of in New York.

BUSINESS BUCKS HANDICAPS TO PRESS FORWARD

October Activity Is Best Since 1929.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

American industry barely managed last week to push the average level of production a notch higher than in the preceding week. The small gain was enough, however, to carry indices of activity to the highest October mark since 1929, according to some estimates.

One influence which acted as a brake on the rate of recovery was the Columbus day holiday, but other causes were at work. These included labor strife in the automobile industry, a cooling of the war buying fever, and the tendency in some quarters to move cautiously with expansion programs until congress has settled the embargo question.

Some Plants Near Capacity.

In addition, some plants, as in the steel industry, have been expanding operations so rapidly in recent weeks and have approached so near to capacity that any increases now will necessarily be less spectacular than those which immediately followed the declaration of war.

The national average rate of production in the steel mills at the beginning of last week was estimated by the American Iron and Steel institute at 88.6 per cent of theoretical capacity, up 1.1 points as compared with the 87.5 per cent level of the preceding week. The latest average, the highest since May, 1937, compared with 70.2 a month earlier and 51.4 a year ago.

Steel Rate Reaches 90 Per Cent.

Iron Age said the rate reached 90 per cent of capacity later in the week. The publication reported tin plate mills were striving to meet the heaviest demand they ever have experienced at this time of year. It said that buying of steel scrap at Buffalo in the last few days has been the most active since the world war.

A "slowdown," a lockout, and strikes or threatened strikes beset the automobile industry, and production declined to 75,860 units, from 76,095 in the preceding week. In the corresponding 1938 week output was 43,540 units. Ward's Automotive Reports predicted that fourth quarter production in the industry will establish a new high mark for such a period.

Other Indices Move Higher.

Freight loadings, engineering construction awards, cotton textile production, and residential building were among the indices which rose last week. Loans to business by Chicago and New York City banks also increased.

The Associated Press composite index of industrial activity advanced to 106.7 per cent of the 1929-'30 average. It stood at 106.3 per cent a week

NAZIS' NORMAL IMPORTS CUT IN HALF BY WAR

Trade with Some Nations Is Impossible.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP).—Germany's normal inflow of supplies from foreign sources has been cut in half by the war, the commerce department estimated today.

An analysis it prepared in response to general speculation on the effects of the Anglo-French blockade said that the reich has been all but isolated from countries which supplied 50.1 per cent of its import needs in the first six months of this year.

"German assertions that, unlike 1914-'18, the reich is now 'blackade proof,'" said the statement "are largely based on the presumption that it will be in position to keep up normal communications with these [contiguous and neutral European] countries, and that they will be able to supply Germany at least with the same quantity of foodstuffs and raw materials as in time of peace."

Other Trade Difficult.

German imports from those countries during the first half of 1939 however, represented only 43 per cent of total imports, the department said. Trade with other countries has been made difficult or impossible because of the war and the consequent docking of nearly the whole German merchant fleet.

Imports from countries with which Germany is at war amounted to 19.8 per cent of the total. Included in that percentage were such essential raw materials as rubber, tin, and wool, the department said.

Imports from neutral oversea countries, including the United States, Spain, and Portugal—from all of which Germany virtually is cut off—aggregated 30.3 per cent. Trade with Spain and Portugal, however, may be carried on to some extent through Italy, as long as that nation remains neutral, the report said.

Loses Valuable Markets.

With the loss of imports, the department said, Germany also lost valuable markets. Her exports to the three groups of countries from January through June were divided as follows: belligerents, 22.9 per cent; oversea neutrals, 22.9 per cent, and European neutrals, 53.5 per cent.

The department did not explain the source of minor percentages of imports and exports not included in the total figures.

THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY.

The automobile industry, now bringing out its 1940 models, holds a position of great importance in our national economy. Drawing its raw materials from practically every state in the Union, the industry's welfare affects millions of people directly.

Eighty-seven per cent of cars sold in the United States and Canada last year cost under $750 wholesale; 15.5 per cent cost under $500; only 2.3 per cent cost more than $1,000.

The standard four door sedan is easily the most popular car model. Out of all cars sold last year, 45.39 per cent were of this type. Two-door sedan sales amounted to 35.72 per cent of the total and coupés to 14.81 per cent.

California has more cars for its population than any other state in the Union. That state has a car for every 2.8 persons. Illinois ranks thirty-first, with one car for every 5 persons. In last place is Mississippi, with one car for every 12.3 persons.

The average passenger car is driven 13,000 miles in its first year. Each year thereafter it is driven less miles. The average car goes 11,800 miles in its second year, 10,600 miles in its third year, and 9,600 miles in its fourth year.

The motor industry consumed 4,828,000 pounds of turpentine, 680,000 bushels of soy beans, 15,422,000 pounds of wool, 18,590 pounds of beeswax, 1,115,000 bushels of corn, and 590,000 tons of cane sugar last year.

The automobile industry ranks first as a consumer of steel [all forms], gasoline, rubber, plate glass, nickel, lead, and mohair.

Ranking second to the United States in automobile production last year was the United Kingdom. Germany was third, Canada fourth, France fifth, and Russia sixth.

Out of all cars sold in 1928, 50.7 per cent had 4 cylinder engines, 45.0 per cent 6 cylinder engines, and 4.3 per cent 8 cylinder engines. Last year only one-eighth of 1 per cent of cars sold had 4 cylinder engines. The 6 cylinder engine was most popular, 62.8 per cent of cars having this type. The 8 cylinder engine was in 35.4 per cent of cars sold, and the 12 or 16 cylinder engine in 1 per cent of cars sold.

There is $1,300,652,000 invested in car and truck factories in the United States. The industry [including parts factories] employed more than 300,000 wage earners last year. In addition, many thousands are employed in companies supplying the automobile industry with materials. There are 41,700 motor vehicle dealers in the United States.

New Michigan Oil Find

Dowagiac, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special].—Drillers on the Lee Flynn farm three miles northwest of Dowagiac in section 23, Silver Creek township, struck oil today at 806 feet. The drilling crew suspended operations for 24 hours to determine the quantity of the flow.

Only one other well in Cass county in this century has shown oil. That was in Porter township, 15 miles south of Dowagiac and did not show enough oil to pay to pump it.

Oil men from Bloomingdale lately have been attempting to trace Michigan oil fields south from that field and this test well is the first in the township to be drilled. Others are expected to be drilled as soon as rigs can be moved to locations.

More than six thousand acres are already leased in the immediate vicinity with speculators busy seeking more territory. Several dry holes have been sunk east and south of Dowagiac during the last year and interest had lagged until today.

WILLYS—Lightweight car with 61 horse power engine. Two series, designated as "de luxe" and "speed way" models.

In New York, the Ford Motor company, which is not a member of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, does not exhibit with the others, but has a separate show. The company's cars are in the Chicago show, which is under the auspices of the Chicago Auto Trade association rather than the manufacturers' organization.

TITLE TO RICH OIL AREA RESTS ON COURT RULE

Involves Lake Centralia Field in Illinois.

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 14 (AP).—A court suit to determine ownership of 433 acres of oil land in the rich Lake Centralia-Salem oil field of Marion county shared interest with field operations in the Illinois oil basin this week.

The suit was filed in Circuit court at Salem by stockholders of the defunct Centralia Water Supply company, naming as defendants the Texas company which drilled 33 wells on the acreage and the city of Centralia, which leased the land to the Texas company. The stockholders contend the company which acquired the acreage as a site for Lake Centralia and developed a water works system, later to present it to the city, was unlawfully organized and, therefore, could not give a legal deed for the land to the city. The suit argued only the stockholders had such authority.

More Wells Completed.

Other developments in Marion county included completion of four new wells in the Devonian lime in the pool north of Sandoval. They were the Big Four Oil and Gas company's No. 1 and No. 2 Chaffin, and two by the Menhall corporation, the No. 2 Robinson, with production estimated at 1,000 barrels per day, and the No. 4 Benoist, a 1,450 barrel well. Another deep test, a half mile southeast of production, was reported to have recovered six feet of saturation in the Devonian.

The Shell Oil company led wildcatting activity in Marion county by setting casing to the top of nine feet of Benoist sand saturation at its test between Sandoval and Patoka on the Lutz farm. A drill stem test indicated a potential daily production of 130 barrels without a shot of nitro. Total depth of the well is 1,439 feet.

Active in Fayette County.

Fayette county had a spurt of activity with 24 new locations for tests and 14 completions. The Carter company continued to lead in exploration, but nearly all the major companies with productive acreage had operations under way. Max Pray's Devonian test, the No. 1 Ferguson, was drilling below 1,000 feet and was holding the interest of all operators.

Five new producers were completed in the tri-county area, all in Wayne county, with a total initial production of 2,210 barrels. Three wells in Richland and five in Clay were in stages of completion.

YOUNG BUSINESS MEN PUSH FIGHT FOR NEUTRALITY

Directors of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, representing 100,000 young business and professional men thruout the country who would be called into service if the United States were drawn into the European war, yesterday pledged a continuance of their fight for neutrality.

At their annual meeting in the Stevens hotel, the young business men, 21 to 35 years old, decided action on the neutrality bill now under discussion in Washington is not of primary importance in determining whether the United States will remain neutral.

"Far more important [illegible] keeping the United States out of the war," they resolved, "is that the American people recognize and intelligently evaluate the propaganda coming from belligerent countries. The most serious of all dangers is the creaton of emotional bias in the public mind encouraged by the propagandists."

EVERY FOURTH FAMILY BUYING ON INSTALMENT

Furniture and Autos Are Given Preference.

An analysis showing one-fourth of the nation's self-supporting families is committed to pay for goods on the instalment plan was made public yesterday by the National Bureau of Economic Research, Inc.

The study, which covered a one year period in 1935-'36, showed among other things that:

The number of families buying furniture on the instalment plan was larger than the number buying automobiles on payments, the latter classification ranking second. The number purchasing electrical equipment, including refrigerators, ranked third. However, the dollar volume of such purchases of automobiles far exceeded that of furniture.

Farm Families Owe Less.

Only one out of nine farm families had an instalment debt, but one of every three families living in large cities was paying for something in instalments. In the villages the ratio was one in four.

Instalment buying by farmers was confined largely to automobiles and farm equipment. Farmers, facing an irregular income which was said to discourage ordinary instalment purchases, arranged special types of credit better suited to their purposes.

The families which most frequently use time payments are those which have incomes of $1,750 to $2,000 a year. One-third of such families use the plan. Less than 10 per cent of the lowest income group, having annual incomes of less than $250, used instalment credit.

Buying by Income Classes.

Only slightly more—15 per cent—of the families in the upper bracket, with incomes of $5,000 to $20,000 a year, bought anything in this manner.

Among families with incomes of less than $1,000 a year, furniture was the most frequently purchased item, with radios next and electrical equipment third.

In the $1,000 to $1,750 class, furniture was bought on payment by the most families using credit, but refrigerators ranked second and radios third. In the $1,700 to $2,000 group furniture still was the most frequently purchased item, but automobiles were second.

Above the $2,000 income level, the number of automobile credit purchases was first, with furniture second and refrigerators and other electrical equipment next.

RESUME HEARING OF WHEAT CLAIM ON GOVERNMENT

Testimony was resumed here yesterday in the United States Court of Claims hearing on an action brought against the federal government by the North Dakota and Montana Wheat Growers' associaation. The association is seeking payment for losses allegedly suffered in 1929 and 1930 during the stabilization operations of the federal farm board.

George S. Milnor of Chicago, former vice president and general manager of the Grain Stabilization corporation and the Farmers National Grain corporation, testified that the "fundamental purpose" of the federal farm board was to help the coöperatives.

Commissioner G. W. Ramseyer presided at the hearings, which were previously held in Grand Forks, N. D. The Court of Claims, aside from determining the question of loss, is to decide whether there is any obligation on the part of the government to pay for the loss.

FEDERAL BONDS' ADVANCE LEADS OTHERS UPWARD

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Bonds worked up a fair amount of buying interest after hesitation at the beginning of today's brief market. United States government loans continued to push ahead and their rise tended to stiffen support for the general run of top flight corporate liens. A number of speculative issues, down in the early trading, finished even or a little higher, but this division also was subject to week-end realizing.

Advances in the treasury group ran from 3-32s to 29-32s of a point. Dealers were reported to be buying in belief the market may be bolstered by absence of new issues, the treasury having indicated all near-term requirements would be met through issuance of treasury bills.

War news from abroad caused the usual vibrations in the foreign sector. A little selling brought wide declines in Belgium 6½s, and Denmarks 4½s. Italian and German loans gave up fractions.

Exhibitors Reserve Space for Showing Motor Trucks

Between 75 and 100 exhibitors have reserved space at the motor truck show to be held at Navy Pier, Nov. 8 to 16, John F. Winchester, president and general manager of the national motor truck show, announced yesterday. Most of the exhibits will be devoted to trailers, parts and accessories, and other items of interest to the trucking industry of which Chicago is the center.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A headline on an item which appeared in THE TRIBUNE on Oct. 14 incorrectly indicated that the Western Springs State bank is closed. The bank is open. It has just completed the repayment of all deposits that were waived at the time of the bank moratorium in 1933 to permit it to reopen soon after the moratorium ended.

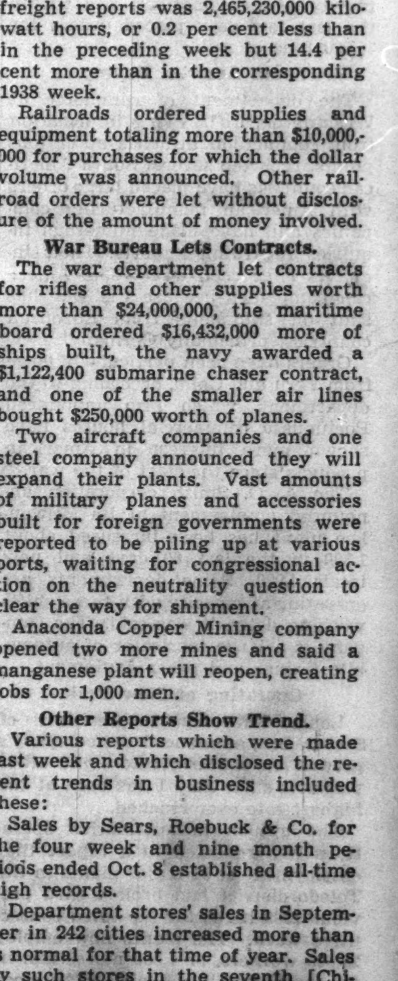
Railroad freight loadings in the week ended Oct. 7, the latest period reported upon, were 834,694 cars, the largest volume since the week ended Oct. 2, 1937. The total was 54 more cars than in the preceding week and 132,078 more than in the 1938 week.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in the last four weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, and shows the corresponding activity a year ago (1929-'30 average equals 100).

Production of electricity in the same week as that covered by the freight reports was 2,465,230,000 kilowatt hours, or 0.2 per cent less than in the preceding week but 14.4 per cent more than in the corresponding 1938 week.

Railroads ordered supplies and equipment totaling more than $10,000,000 for purchases for which the dollar volume was announced. Other railroad orders were let without disclosure of the amount of money involved.

War Bureau Lets Contracts.

The war department let contracts for rifles and other supplies worth more than $24,000,000, the maritime board ordered $16,432,000 more of ships built, the navy awarded a $1,122,400 submarine chaser contract, and one of the smaller air lines bought $250,000 worth of planes.

Two aircraft companies and one steel company announced they will expand their plants. Vast amounts of military planes and accessories built for foreign governments were reported to be piling up at various ports, waiting for congressional action on the neutrality question to clear the way for shipment.

Anaconda Copper Mining company opened two more mines and said a manganese plant will reopen, creating jobs for 1,000 men.

Other Reports Show Trend.

Various reports which were made last week and which disclosed the recent trends in business included these:

Sales by Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the four week and nine month periods ended Oct. 8 established all-time high records.

Department stores' sales in September in 242 cities increased more than is normal for that time of year. Sales by such stores in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district in the week ended Oct. 7 were 8.8 per cent larger than in the 1938 period.

September production of meat in the nation was the largest for that month in the packing industry's history.

Sales of cars and trucks by members of the Automobile Manufacturers' association [the Ford Motor company does not belong] in September were 94 per cent larger than in August and 124 per cent larger than in September, 1938.

Subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation shipped more finished steel products in September than in any other month since September, 1937.

Talk About Fudge and Frills

When autumn twigs crackle in the fireplace and the pungent odor of outdoors comes inside, then camping takes on a special atmosphere. GARBAGE! CITY'S AGED PROBLEM, AGAIN TO FORE

Leaders Meet Wednesday for Conference.

Chicago's garbage collections and disposal, a civic problem that is as old as the city itself, will be discussed by leaders of neighborhood improvement associations from all sections Wednesday noon at a luncheon meeting sponsored by the Metropolitan Housing council.

The meeting, to be held in the private dining room of the Chicago Real Estate Board, 32 West Randolph street, will be called to seek ways and means of obtaining better methods of garbage disposal. The discussion will be led by Kendall Lingle, executive secretary of the Citizens' association, and a representative of the commissioner of public works.

Long a Problem.

According to D. E. Mackelmann, executive director of the Metropolitan Housing council, garbage has been a problem that has vexed the city for nearly 100 years. Announcing the meeting, he recalled that back in 1848 Long John Wentworth and William B. Ogden fought a mayoralty campaign on the issue. At that time Wentworth said in all seriousness, "A dozen hogs will take care of it all."

The Wednesday meeting will be one of the monthly gatherings of the neighborhood conference of the council. It is made up of active improvement associations in all parts of the city which work together on such questions as better enforcement of zoning ordinances, demolition, real estate taxation and other improvement problems.

Will Take Part.

Organziations taking part in the conferences include Bryn Mawr Improvement association, Calumet Civic council, Central Uptown Chicago association, Hyde Park Property Owners association, Lake View Community council, Lawndale Chamber of Commerce.

Milwaukee Avenue Chamber of Commerce, Oakland-Kenwood Property Owners association, South Central association, Southown Planning association, Southwest Civic federation, Van Buren Street Improvement association, West Central association and the Woodlawn Property Owners league.

OCTOBER BRINGS SHARP DECLINE IN TRAFFIC TOLL

15 Deaths in 10 Days; 50 Per Cent Drop.

There was a sharp falling off of fatal traffic accidents in Cook county during the first 10 days of this month as compared with the corresponding periods in the two previous months, records of the coroner's office reveal.

From Oct. 1 to 10 inclusive 15 persons died of injuries suffered in traffic in Chicago and surrounding Cook county suburbs. This compares with 30 deaths in the first 10 days of last month, and 27 fatalities in the corresponding period in August.

The reduction was greatest in Chicago, where normally about four-fifths of the county's traffic victims are killed. The city's ratio fell to two-thirds in the first 10 days of this month.

City's Toll Halved.

In that period Chicago was the scene of only 10 of the 15 fatal accidents. In the same period last month the city had 23 of the 30 motor vehicle deaths. In the opening 10 days of August Chicago had 20 of the 27 deaths. The city's toll for the year, as of Oct. 11, was 495 deaths, compared with 150 for all other territory in Cook county.

The type of accident that saw the greatest reduction in the early days of this month was that involving pedestrians. Only six of the 15 victims were walking when struck by motor vehicles.

In the first 10 days of last month there were 21 pedestrian deaths. In the like period of August there were 20 such deaths.

If vehicular accidents continue for the remainder of the month at the rate established in the first 10 days, there would be only 45 traffic deaths in Cook county in October. That would be far below the monthly average of 70 for the first nine months of 1939, and it would be a new low record for an autumn month since the automobile came into general use.

Show Need of Elevations.

Those who observe traffic accident trends were not overly hopeful, however, that the fatal accident rate would continue at the slower pace. They poined to accident records to show that there are sudden surges in the traffic death rate to compensate for most of the periods of reduced fatalities.

A study of the 83 fatal accidents last month indicated that none could have happened on elevated superhighways such as are now under consideration for various parts of Chicago and surrounding suburbs.

This circumstance is in substantial agreement with the statement appearing daily in THE TRIBUNE'S "massacre" clock: "More than 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway."

Alumni to Meet.

Visitation High school will hold a special meeting for alumni members tomorrow evening in the school, 900 West Garfield boulevard.

CHURCH TO LAY CORNERSTONE OF NEW SANCTUARY

Trinity Edifice Has Gothic Style.

As the result of a successful campaign for funds conducted last spring the cornerstone of a new Gothic sanctuary will be laid at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon by the congregation of the Trinity Methodist church, 99th street and Winchester avenue. The church was erected 15 years ago.

Linking the past with the present, the cornerstone ceremony will be the same used in 1870 in the laying of the cornerstone of the congregation's big church which burned in 1899. The same hymns will be sung, and the contents of the old cornerstone, saved from the fire, will be placed in the new one along with other mementoes.

Prophecy of Merger.

The articles will include copies of the Evening Post-Republican and Chicago Journal describing the ceremonies, a copy of the Christian Advocate from a southern district containing an article written in 1869 suggesting the possibility of a union of the various divisions of the Methodist church which became a reality this year, and a scroll listing the names of all who made financial gifts toward the new sanctuary.

Participating in the ceremony, which will begin at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, will be Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, Blair S. Latshaw, district superintendent; Dr. Ira G. McCormack, pastor; Dr. Martin J. Magor, Dr. A. Turley Stephenson, and Dr. L. E. W. Lesemann, former pastors; E. L. Griffith, Charles H. Smith, John W. Jolly, W. H. Fleming, Dr. H. C. Newton, Paul Mitchell, A. C. Crawford, and Roy S. Spalding, trustees; and Phillip S. Harper, F. L. Mowry, A. T. Wenner, J. F. Brown, and Albert J. Vogele, members of the construction committee.

The sanctuary, which will be completed by April, will be of traditional Gothic proportions with a long and narrow nave, as in the churches of England which have stood for centuries. The nave will be 93 feet long from the chancel arch to the rear, with a width of 27 feet. It will have a seating capacity of 410. In addition there will be transepts on each side which have an additional seating capacity of 70.

Provide for Future.

No balconies have been included in the present construction program, but provisions have been made so that a balcony over the narthex and balconies in each transept can be added whenever needed.

There will be a central aisle and two side aisles which are usual in the Gothic church, but each side aisle will be separated from the nave by an arcade consisting of six Gothic arches. These arches and supporting columns will be carved of Indiana limestone with the walls finished in tile. The outside of the building will be of brick and Indiana limestone.

The cornerstone for a large Trinity church was laid on Indiana avenue near 24th street on Oct. 5, 1870. The church flourished at this site until the building was burned in 1899. Due to changes in the neighborhood the church assimilated the Beverly Hills Methodist church at 99th street and Prospect avenue in 1920. The latter church had been organized in 1893 as an outgrowth of a little preaching service begun in the Longwood station of the Rock Island railroad.

After the union of the two churches the building proved inadequate and in 1924 the present site located on the Ridge was purchased. A structure of brick and stone in the Gothic style was erected. It housed an assembly hall, kitchen, numerous classrooms, a womens' parlor, men's clubroom, and a gymnasium. Owing to lack of funds the building of the sanctuary was deferred until the present time.

NEW SEA SCOUT SHIP FORMING IN ROSELAND AREA

Because the Northern Light Sea Scout ship in the Roseland area cannot accommodate all the boys who wish to join, a new ship unit is being formed by the Roseland Kiwanis club, according to an announcement made by Racine Thompson, president.

Each unit of the Sea Scouts can have only 35 to 40 boys. There have been twice as many applications made by older boys in the Roseland district.

Mr. Thompson has appointed a committee to supervise the organization of the new unit. The committee will be composed of Dr. Edwin B. Tharp, chairman; Felix Sutken, Carl E. Johnson, Dr. Horace J. Tharp, and Edward W. Valentine. The committee has already selected Claude Helland as skipper of the new ship, which will be called the "S.S.S. Roseland Kiwanis" and will meet at Fenger High school, 112th and Wallace streets.

CANAL ST. SPAN IS SOUTH AREA'S MAJOR PROJECT

Traffic Light Funds Also Sought.

Allotment of $1,502,628 of Chicago's share of state gasoline tax revenue for the construction, repair and maintenance of seven south and southwest side bridges next year has been asked by Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt.

Mr. Hewitt made his request in a report to Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the city council subcommittee on motor fuel taxe funds, which determines how Chicago's share of this revenue shall be spent.

A possibility was foreseen that the state may be asked to supply at least part of these bridge funds from its share of the fuel tax. This request would be founded on the argument that the seven bridges carry arterial highways and that if they were on arterial routes in country areas the state would provide all money for their maintenance.

Asks Funds for Signals.

Commissioner Hewitt also asked that part of the Chicago share of gasoline tax funds be made available for traffic control signals. He gave Ald. Kells a list of such projects completed, started, or planned thus far this year, to be used as a guide in making allotments.

The largest of the proposed south side allotments calls for $1,455,000 for a new bridge to carry Canal street traffic over the south branch of the Chicago river and the railroad tracks immediately to the south. This allotment was approved by the city council last month.

Mr. Hewitt also asked a continuing allotment of $30,128 for completion of rehabilitation of the Roosevelt road viaduct and its Clark street approach. The original allotment of $100,000 was made in June, 1937.

It was estimated that repair and maintenance of five south and southwest bridges that carry arterial traffic will require $17,500 next year. The bridges and the suggestions and estimates for each are:

New Bridge Houses.

[illegible] street bridge. Purchase of materials, electrical equipment, and fixtures for two new bridge houses and inclosure walls that are now being constructed with the aid of Works Progress administration labor, $10,000.

35th street bridge. General maintenance, $1,000.

Damen avenue bridge and viaduct. Repair concrete paving on viaduct and general maintenance repairs, $5,000.

106th street bridge. General maintenance, $1,000.

Kedzie avenue bridge, general maintenance, $500.

Halsted street bridge. General maintenance, $1,000.

Commissioner Hewitt's list of traffic control signal projects showed that on the south and southwest sides four projects have been completed and 19 are in progress.

Those completed and the actual cost of each are:

State and 51st streets, $1,980.

Halsted and 62d street, $2,446.

Western avenue and 51st street, $2,518.

Other Lights Approved.

Those for which plans have been approved, but which are not yet completed are:

Cicero avenue and 63d street, $3,467.

Halsted and 103d streets, $3,887.

Halsted and 111th streets, $5,163.

Indiana avenue and 18th streets, $4,885.

Pulaski road and 55th street, $1,795.

Western avenue and 95th street, $3,521.

Ashland avenue and 46th street, $2,241.

Canal and 26th streets, $1,850.

Halsted and 95th streets, $4,915.

Halsted and 107th streets, $4,769.

Halsted and 115th streets, $4,797.

Hyde Park avenue and 55th street, $228.

Racine avenue and 76th street, $1,460.

State and 39th streets, $1,286.

State and 87th streets, $1,761.

Vincennes avenue and 87th street, $1,792.

The cost of the necessary traffic survey and other engineerin costs are included in the above figures. Most of the projects consist of stop and go lights.

EXPLAINING A TITLE.

In your issue of Sunday, Oct. 1, a story concerning the Nu Sigma Kappa smoker included a statement that this fraternity is affiliated with the Woodrow Wilson Junior college, 6800 Stewart avenue. Perhaps the release which we sent in mentioned that we were students at the college but we did not mean to give a false impression.

Although we do attend the college, we as a fraternity have no legal sanction from the school to operate. The fact is we have never met in the college but gather outside Wilson for weekly meetings. Neither do our plans include any member of the faculty as a sponsor.

Therefore, we do not have the right to use the name of Wilson Junior college in connection with our organization.

SEYMOUR PLOTKIN,
Publicity Chairman.

CAR RIDER PROTESTS.

Will some one connected with the Chicago surface lines tell me if the passengers on a Wentworth avenue street car marked in front, 81st and Halsted, are required to get off at 81st and Parnell or 81st and Union, or wherever the street car crew sees fit at 1:30 a. m.?

The unfortunate passengers are obliged to walk two or three blocks in the rain and darkness in an unprotected neighborhood. If they do not step lively or they protest, they are told to shut up and give no back talk. It seems to me that in times like these when there is so much unemployment these men should be glad to have well paid jobs and treat the passengers with a little decency and politeness. J. J. DWYER.

DANGEROUS CORNER.

A dangerous corner for pedestrians is at Cottage Grove and the Midway. Street cars do not stop at the customary side of the corners here but keep going past it to the opposite side. Any one unfamiliar with this fact could get hurt by a car or auto. The solution is double stop lights at all eight corners.

TOM CROSS.

3 COMMUNITIES HOLD PATRIOTIC MEETINGS TODAY

Citizenship day will be celebrated in three southwest side communities today. In Chicago Lawn a special celebration will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Marquette park fieldhouse, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue, under the chairmanship of Dr. M. J. Hoffman. Participating will be civic associations and American Legion posts. Edward Clamage, past commander of a Legion post, will be guest speaker.

Riley A. Bender, recording secretary of the Northeast Business Men's association, will be general chairman of the Englewood citizenship program this evening in the Ogden park fieldhouse, 65th street and Racine avenue. Athletic, patriotic and service clubs in the community will take part. Certificates will be awarded to newly declared citizens and young men and women who have reached the legal age for voting.

The Mokena Civic association, of which Robert Bechstein is president, will sponsor a meeting in the auditorium of the school today. Nick Heiman, chairman of arrangements, has announced that there will be a parade participated in by the Boy and Girl Scouts, the P.-T. A.'s, the Civic association, the American Legion and the high school band.

OPEN CAMPAIGN TO ENLIST AID FOR RED CROSS

Hope Is for 40 Pct. Gain in Enrollment.

"Keep Your Red Cross Ready," the Chicago chapter of the American National Red Cross is urging its workers. The slogan is the campaign cry for this year's roll call drive, which will get under way on Armistice day to continue until Nov. 30.

To meet the greatest demands made upon it since the world war, the chapter is organizing a band of volunteers in more than 150 neighborhoods throughout Chicagoland. Twenty-nine roll call organizations have already been completed on the southwest side.

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American National Red Cross, hopes there will be a 40 per cent increase in enrollment this season because the Red Cross, in addition to domestic services, is receiving appeals for the relief of war victims in Europe.

To reach this goal, every adult in Cook and DuPage counties as well as in the southern part of Lake county will be urged to join the Red Cross. James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, is appointing roll call chairmen in city and suburban communities. JUDGES, BISHOPS PLANNING VISIT TO ST. IGNATIUS

Old Grads to Have Reunion Saturday.

[Walinger Photo.]

In 1857 a Jesuit priest came as a missionary to a muddy, swampy town on the shore of Lake Michigan to found a parish. He located to the westward of the town called Chicago, then only 24 years removed from its begining as the stopping off place and trade center for the middle west. The missionary, the Rev. Arnold Damen, built a parish in a prairie which was to become, by 1890, the largest in the city. But as the parish was growing he undertook a startling innovation for the middlewest, a school of higher education for Catholic boys.

With funds raised in the east, Father Damen in 1869 founded Chicago's first Catholic parochial high school and college in a small brick building at 1076 West Roosevelt road. It was named St. Ignatius college.

Turned Out Leaders.

It was built for the sturdy sons of Irish and German families who settled in the west side of the city and built homes. These sons, who studied Greek and Latin lessons at St. Ignatius, were to grow up to become Chicago's judges, physicians, and doctors.

Seven sons of the old high school and college were ordained to the priesthood and later became bishops of the church.

With a proud record of growth and success, St. Ignatius grew and the west area became crowded with factories, flat buildings and the prairies were gone. Two years after it was built a fire started on DeKoven street five blocks away. The wind fanned the flames to the northward and St. Ignatius was saved. For days after the Chicago fire, the school doors were kept open and food and shelter were provided the homeless.

The old and new graduates of St. Ignatius will come back to walk through familiar halls on Saturday evening for a festival and homecoming celebrating the 70th anniversary of the school's founding. To accommodate the expected crowd of alumni the festivities will be held in the 132d armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

Planned by Fathers' Club.

The program has been planned by the Fathers' club of St. Ignatius High school under the direction of the Rev. Joseph C. Bilstein, faculty director. Leaders in Chicago's political and religious life will be in the assembly.

The seven bishops who have been invited back to their old classrooms are Bishop William O'Brien of Chicago, Bishop James Griffin of Springfield, Bishop Edward Hoban of Rockford, Bishop William Griffin of La Crosse, Bishop Joseph A. Murphy, resigned bishop of British Honduras, Bishop Paul Rhode, Green Bay, Wis., and Bishop Edmund M. Dunn of Peoria.

The judges invited back are Judge Tom J. Lynch, Judge Philip Finnegan, Judge Justin McCarthy, Judge Michael J. Flynn, Judge Lambert K. Hayes and Judge John Sbarbaro. Hosts to all the alumni will be the 640 boys who comprise the present classes.

No College Now.

There is no longer a college division of the school in Roosevelt road. In 1924 this department was moved to the campus of Loyola university and the high school remained, occupying all three wings of the building which had expanded to meet increased enrollment.

Officers and members of the Fathers' club planning the festival are Joseph Gladstone, William P. O'Brien, William Griffin, Joseph A. Graber, Eugene Harrington, Sid Doheny, John K. Moore, Charles Scott, and Edward A. McCarthy.

South and southwest chairmen of divisional groups on the planning committee are John Pender, John Wright, John Schmidt, Lee Merrion, Charles McErleane, J. Leo Lenihan, Edmund Sullivan and Edward F. Kemper.

The course for elementary teachers will be "Growth of Christian Personality during Childhood." Miss Alethea Kose, instructor for the Baptist Missionary Training school, will be in charge. The course is planned to aid teachers and leaders of elementary children to discover some of the bases of character and the influences which affect the growth of Christian personality during childhood.

SEEK EMERGENCY FLOOD PUMPING AT 9 SUBWAYS

MotorGroupSaysRains Impede Traffic.

The South Area council of the Chicago Motor club recently requested Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, for emergency pumping of nine subways during heavy rainfalls on the south and southwest sides.

Inadequate drainage in the underpasses and inadequate capacity of storm sewers, cause flood waters to back up, according to council members at a subcommittee meeting of the organization. They added that the state highway department pumps out many of its subways and grade separations in the Chicago area.

Larger Sewers Aid.

Construction of larger storm sewers in the last four or five years probably has made possible better subway drainage in many sections of the city, George Barton, motor club engineer, explained. He added that arrangements for pumping at the city subways undoubtedly could be made.

The nine underpasses on which complaints were registered are at 89th street and Vincennes avenue, 83d to 85th street on Vincennes avenue, 79th street and Lowe avenue, 75th street and South Chicago avenue, 82d street west of Woodlawn avenue, 79th street west of Woodlawn avenue, 67th street and South Park avenue, 63d and State streets, and 59th street and Stewart avenue. Roy F. Healy, chairman of the council, said that motorists frequently are forced to detour for many miles during heavy downpours.

Traffic Signals Retimed.

The Indiana state highway department has retimed the signals at 141st street and Indianapolis avenue, permitting a longer left turn movement, according to word received from the Indiana state highway department. This change will help relieve congestion at a heavy traffic intersection, council members asserted.

Continuing its campaign to eliminate the use of stop-and-go lights on Indianapolis avenue at the spur of the New York Central railroad in Hammond on Sundays, members discussed plans for a conference with Hammond officials. They said that the lights, erected for the protection of workers in nearby plants, have been effective in saving lives on week days, but they are an unnecessary hinderance to traffic on Sundays.

HOLY NATIVITY CHURCH RECALLS START IN BARN

Episcopal Group Marks 40th Anniversary.

The Rev. Thomas Bellringer Jr.

The Episcopal Church of the Holy Nativity, 95th street and Longwood drive, which received its name because the congregation was founded in a stable, will celebrate its 40th anniversary this week with a full program of activities. A unique communion service will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the old barn at 9412 Longwood drive, where the congregation held its first communion worship.

The anniversary program will begin, however, at the 11 o'clock worship this morning when the Rev. G. Carlton Story, rector of the Church of the Mediator, will be guest speaker. An anniversary dinner will be held tomorrow evening with Bishop George Craig Stewart as guest speaker and clergy from neighborhood churches as special guests.

Minstrel Show Tuesday.

An old time minstrel show will be staged Tuesday evening in Ridge park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive. Wednesday will be anniversary day with a communion service at 10 o'clock in the morning and a guild reunion at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Thursday will be church school night and Friday is scheduled to be given over to the young people of the congregation. An anniversary sermon will be preached next Sunday morning by the Rev. Thomas Bellringer, rector.

It was in the old barn, now converted into a garage, that a small group of men and women who founded the church held their first communion service. They had previously attended services at the Episcopal Church of the Mediator, which was the closest Episcopal church on the south side. Limited transportation facilities, however, made church going difficult and so services were held in homes.

As the congregation increased, larger quarters were necessary. A room was rented in St. Paul's Evangelical church, 94th and Howard streets, where afternoon services were conducted. Financial obligations proved too burdensome and morning services were desirable, so in 1899 the congregation took advantage of an offer of the use of the old barn, rent free.

Packing Box Altar.

In a short time a chapel had been equipped. At first a packing box served as an altar, surmounted by a gilded wooden cross. It was soon replaced by an oak altar carved by a member of the church. This altar is still in use in the present Church of the Mediator. The first service was held in the barn on Oct. 18, 1899.

Late the same year, the chapel was organized as a mission by Bishop William Edward McLaren and the first meeting was called by the Rev. Harold Morse, rector, with 18 members responding. The nucleus of a Sunday school was formed and 12 children met for several years each Sunday at the home of one of the members.

Five years after the picturesque little church had been established it was necessary to seek larger quarters. A site was purchased at 95th street and Longwood drive and the church erected. The doors were opened on Feb. 12, 1905.

Becomes Church in 1921.

Since then, two additions have been built, one in 1910 and the second in 1929. In 1921, the mission was organized into a parish. Today the church is still one of the most picturesque out on the southwest side and when snow lies on its peaked roof and belfry, it presents a typical Christmas card scene.

The Rev. Mr. Bellringer, rector, is the seventh to serve the church. He is assisted on the anniversary committee by Mrs. Titus LeClair, Edward Baker, Bernice Baker, Morton Howell, W. C. Steffa, and Franklin Huddleton.

SET OUT MILLION TULIP BULBS FOR SPRING SHOWING

Park District to Have 115 Varieties.

Tulips, the flowers now being planted in profusion by the Chicago park district, did not originate in Holland, as is commonly supposed, but were first found in southwestern Asia. This was disclosed by August Koch, chief horticulturist for the district, who announced that his crews are now planting a million and a quarter tulip and and other flower bulbs in some sixty parks and along boulevards and parkways.

Holland offers ideal soil and climate for the growth of tulips and thus has become the world's chief producer, Mr. Koch said. Most of the bulbs used by the park district are produced in the Netherlands.

"Tulips grew wild until about 400 years ago," Mr. Koch said. "There is evidence that they were native to Turkey, Macedonia, Persia, and Asia Minor.

Taken to Hungary.

"In 1554 the Hungarian ambassador to Turkey, a man named Dusecz, took some of the tulip bulbs to his home in Hungary, where they thrived. A visiting Hollander took some of the Hungarian bulbs to his native land. There their beauty and abundance, aided by the ideal growing conditions, increased yearly. Soon ladies of the nobility were wearing tulips instead of jewels.

"From 1634 to 1637 tulips were the subject of wild financial speculation. Numerous new strains had been bred. At the height of the tulip boom the bulbs were sold by troy weight. One bulb of the Admiral Van Encknyzen variety sold for the equivalent of $4,600.

"Eventually the Dutch government stepped in and halted the price inflation. Then for a time the Hollanders used tulips as a medium of exchange."

Tulips have become one of the most popular flower varieties in the United States because of their early blooming habit and the size and variety of their blooms, Mr. Koch said.

Will Have Million Bulbs.

The park district's plantings will contain a million tulip bulbs, representing 115 varieties and virtually every color except pure blue, which thus far tulip growers have been unable to produce.

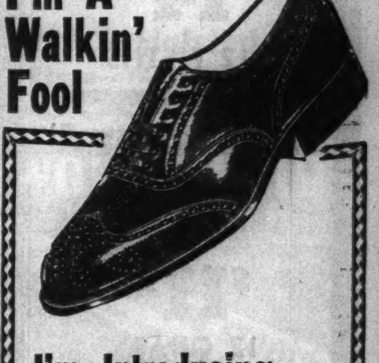
I'm A Walkin' Fool



I'm Introducing Myself as Something New in Men's Shoes—and No Foolin' I'm the Hottest Thing in Town

I am what I am because Nierman got a swell idea.

He figured that every man has a right to wear a shoe with lots of comfort and class—just like voting or free speech. And to get it he shouldn't have to shell out a half week's pay.

To turn the trick he fell back on that old economic theory of selling a lot of items at a small profit and passing the savings on to the consumer. No one in Chicago had ever done it with a quality shoe.

I'm the result!—the best man's shoe in town at savings of $1.50 to $3 over any shoe of equal quality.

I've got outer soles that won't take back talk from any sidewalk, and the thickest inner soles you've ever seen to keep me in shape. And my uppers?—why hang it all, they throw away 20 skins before they find one good enough for me.

Rough and ready, that's me, and yet—

I'm just an old softie on the inside, really I am. Slip me on your foot and you get the softest, smoothest feeling.

And when I'm out walking I have that singing, swinging rhythm. A sport at heart—and just as up-to-date.

I'm built for men hard to fit in sizes up to 15, and in widths from AAAA to EE.

No doubt about it, I'm worth coming miles to get.

Come and get me!

In four price ranges—
$9.85—Hand Made (a $13.50 value)
$7.85—Custom Bilt (an $11.00 value)

WAR MAPS HELP TO CLARIFY NEWS IN BROADCASTS

W-G-N Installs Detailed Plats of Europe.

A complete set of European war maps, now totalling more than thirty-five, has been installed in the studios and offices of W-G-N for the use and convenience of the station's newscasters and writers.

The largest of these maps, which is one of all Europe, is eight feet square. Both military and naval positions are indicated by pins, which are changed daily, in accordance with developments on the fronts.

Other maps in the group include separate ones of each nation, some of them as large as five feet square. Some maps show rivers, railroads, fortifications, mountain ranges and other physical features of the old world's battlegrounds.

A large list of pronunciations of foreign names has also been installed in the studio from which all news broadcasts are made.

At the present time, W-G-N has regularly scheduled news broadcasts at 8 a. m., 11:30 a. m., 6:30 p. m., 8:30 p. m., and 11 p. m., Mondays through Saturdays. Local newscasts are also heard on Sundays at 12:45 p. m., 8:30 p. m., and 11 p. m.

Red Grange, Illinois' "Galloping Ghost," isn't the only winner of the "I" in football to be heard on Football Gossip, a new program broadcast each Friday over W-G-N from 5:30 to 5:45 p. m., CST. Jess Kirkpatrick, W-G-N announcer, who played under Coach Bob Zuppke in 1918, is the announcer on the show.

Both Grange and Kirkpatrick are on Coach Zuppke's mythical all-time Illini eleven. During the 1918 season, Kirkpatrick made the first score in each game that the Champaign aggregation played.

On the Football Gossip show, Grange discusses college, high school and professional football prospects and personalities. While he does some predicting on the outcome of the coming week-end's games, Grange is primarily concerned with the players themselves.

STEELMAKERS TO MARK 65TH HOUR ON THE AIR

The broadcast of "The Musical Steelmakers" today will mark the completion of 65 full hours on the air for the unique program. The show is heard over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 4 to 4:30 p. m. Today's broadcast, which is the second of the new season, is the 132d session of the show to be aired.

This time does not, the producers of the show said, take into consideration th etime amassed during rehearsals of quartets, headliners, orchestra, choruses, and so on. Regular rehearsals, they said, total more than 60 hours a week. All members of the cast and musical units are either employed by the sponsor, the Wheeling Steel company, or are members of the families of employees.

Program rehearsals are held in the evenings throughout the week, because many of the performers are on the job in the offices or plants of the company during the day time hours.

RADIO WARBLERS RETURNING FOR W-G-N SEASON

The American Radio Warblers, the first birds to sing over the air, return for the new season on W-G-N and the Mutual network today from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. They will be heard each Sunday at the same time.

The feathered stars will be heard this week in their 335th radio program. The Warblers have often been referred to as "singing teachers to the canaries of America" because each Sunday thousands of birds in homes throughout the country listen to them and sing along with them.

No mechanical devices or trained whistlers are employed on these programs. The Warblers do all their own singing with an organ accompaniment.

Curtis Tribute to Poets Next Gem of Eloquence

A re-creation of a speech made Oct. 2, 1880, by George William Curtis on "The Greatness of the Poet," will be heard on "Gems of American Eloquence" on W-G-N next Saturday, from 7:15 to 7:30 p. m. The talk was delivered by Curtis at ceremonies attending the unveiling of a statue of Robert Burns in Central park, New York City. The part of Curtis will be portrayed by Burr Lee. The program is produced by Blair Walliser.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Oct. 16.

Violas and pansies may be propagated by means of cuttings this month. As a rule, there are plenty of side shoots with a few roots attached which can be found on the plants at this time of the year. If they are taken off and inserted in sandy soil in a box they eventually will make nice plants. Snapdragons which have bloomed this summer may be cut back and given a protective covering. There are various types of wax paper protectors which will bring them thru the winter safely.

Tuesday, Oct. 17.

Dig dahlias after the first killing frost. One of the best methods for wintering tubers is to dry them somewhat after digging, then pack them in a box with peat moss. Store in a cool place. Dahlias will not winter well in a cellar where there is furnace heat. If you have no cold cellar, pack them as far away from heat as possible and then cover them well. If possible, open a window near where the tubers are stored. The first few days in the house are the critical period for indoor plants which have been brought in from the garden, such as heliotrope, coleus, geranium, lantana. Use care in watering the plants at first and keep the foliage sprayed to prevent too rapid evaporation.

Wednesday, Oct. 18.

Take the tender waterlilies in and store them in a dry cellar in a box of soil or peat moss. Another method of wintering is to bury the tubers deep in the soil. Hardy waterlilies will go thru the winter safely if the pool is drained, filled with leaves, and covered with boards. The boards then should be covered with a thick layer of straw or leaves. Beds of strawberries would bear much longer than they do if they were gone over regularly at this time of the year, all weeds and runners removed, the soil loosened, and a coat of manure laid between the rows. See that no manure comes in contact with the crowns of the plants.

Thursday, Oct. 19.

The window boxes should be attended to now. Overhaul the boxes thoroly. They should be emptied, repainted if necessary, supplied with new drainage material, and fresh loam and leaf mold added to a portion of the old soil before refilling. Evergreens may be used for winter decoration or bulbs planted for early spring bloom. Flowering dogwood, redbud, and other spring blooming trees should be transplanted in the fall. The soil is warm and easily worked and the roots will make some growth before freezing weather. Early spring blooming perennials such as phlox, bleeding heart, columbine, canterbury bells, and globeflower should be transplanted now.

Friday, Oct. 20.

Among the shrubs which may be planted now for early spring bloom are vernal witch hazel, goldenbell, February daphne, flowering almond, and winter honeysuckle. For a good hedge plant growing two to three feet tall and which is seldom used, try dwarf ninebark. It is hardy, stands shearing well, and grows in any soil. When hedges become very old and have spread out so widely that they are taking up too much space, do not prune to the soil, but cut one side back this fall, the other next fall, and gradually cut back the top. When so treated the hedge keeps its accustomed appearance from year to year. Established hedges will benefit by a complete fertilizer and a mulch of decayed manure thru the winter.

Saturday, Oct. 21.

In combination with evergreens in the foundation planting, select shrubs with small, graceful leaves which will harmonize with the finer evergreen foliage. Among such shrubs are potentilla, littleleaf, peashrub, Japanese barberry, slender deutzia, regel privet, cutleaf stephanandra, and rose daphne. To screen out an unsightly view use the Russian olive. It reaches a height of 15 to 18 feet and the small flowers have a sweet fragrance. In a shady spot try the curious oakleaf hydrangea. Other good varieties for a shady border are snowberry, fragrant sumac, sweetshrub, fiveleaf aralia, gray dogwood, coralberry, jetbead, and chokeberry.

FIVE ROOM HOME WELL DESIGNED FOR NEWLYWEDS

Simple Plan Utilizes Space for Living.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

At 501 East Ryan place, Lake Forest, there has been just completed a gracious, inviting small home. It is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, who were married Oct. 7. Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Mary Elizabeth Siemans of Oak Park.

The architects of the new house are Lind and Luckman, 720 N. Michigan avenue, Chicago.

The California Colonial type of this home blends beautifully with the site, which is on a diagonal street, the dwelling standing as if on a corner lot, with the entrance on one side.

White Clapboard Walls.

The house has its own individuality, with exterior walls of white clapboards and white flush siding on the gables, gray-blue shutters [with a phantom tone of green] and a dark, wood shingle roof. No pretense, but finely and intelligently designed to meet the needs of the owners and the standards of today.

As you look at this small home and study its plan, you see that much of its success depends on the intelligent way its inner spaces have been inclosed, with each room planned for all the performances a house can furnish. According to modern building philosophy a house is not the most beautiful which has the most elaborate exterior or interior. A house claims beauty and deserved attention for the intrinsic virtues it possesses, with charm more than half dependent on its capacity to do the task assigned to it.

Wide Bay in Front.

The house front, with its wide living room bay, gives a pleasant distinction to the façade, and the roof lines in no way overshadow the home.

Sturdy walls, restful balance between windows and walls and an interesting, but simple entrance complete the exterior picture.

The floor plan includes a living room which is 13 by 21 feet, with attractively papered walls above dado and trim, which is eggshell white. The same trim and dado are seen in the dining room, which is 10½ by 11¾ feet, and in the hall. Shutter treatment is used between living room and dining room, and the latter room also has a sunny bay.

Has Two Bedrooms.

In the kitchen, 9½ by 10 feet, there are white cabinets and a blue rubber tile floor, a yellow ceiling and yellow linoleum walls under the cases.

The bathroom has linoleum wainscot in coral shade, with papered walls above a navy blue linoleum floor. It is between two bedrooms; a master chamber which is 12 by 12 feet and a second chamber, 12 by 10⅝ feet.

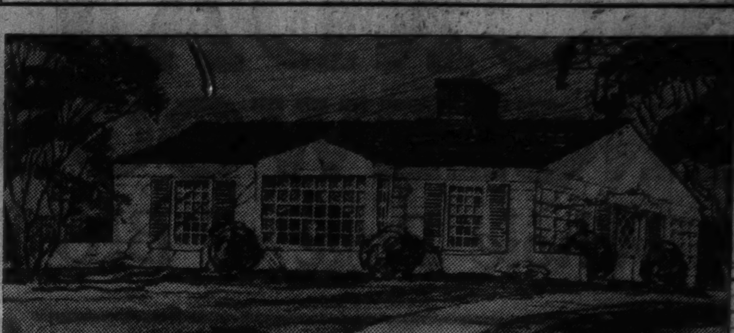
In the basement, where there is a gas fired, warm air heating system, with provision for winter air conditioning, there is also a large basement recreation room, with handsomely timbered ceiling and a patterned, colored, concrete floor. There is a niche, which extends out under the living room, that is used for a refreshment counter.

The house has been thoroughly insulated. Four inches of mineral fill is in the ceiling, and blanket insulation plus insulating board in the exterior walls.

Phi Alpha Phi Dance.

Phi Alpha Phi fraternity will give its annual informal dance Nov. 3 in the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Shoreland.

Wisely Planned Cottage



With all the charm of the California Colonial manner, this five room house at 501 East Ryan place, Lake Forest, is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, newlyweds. This wisely planned little home promises many happy returns for money spent. Architects, Lind & Luckman, 720 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.

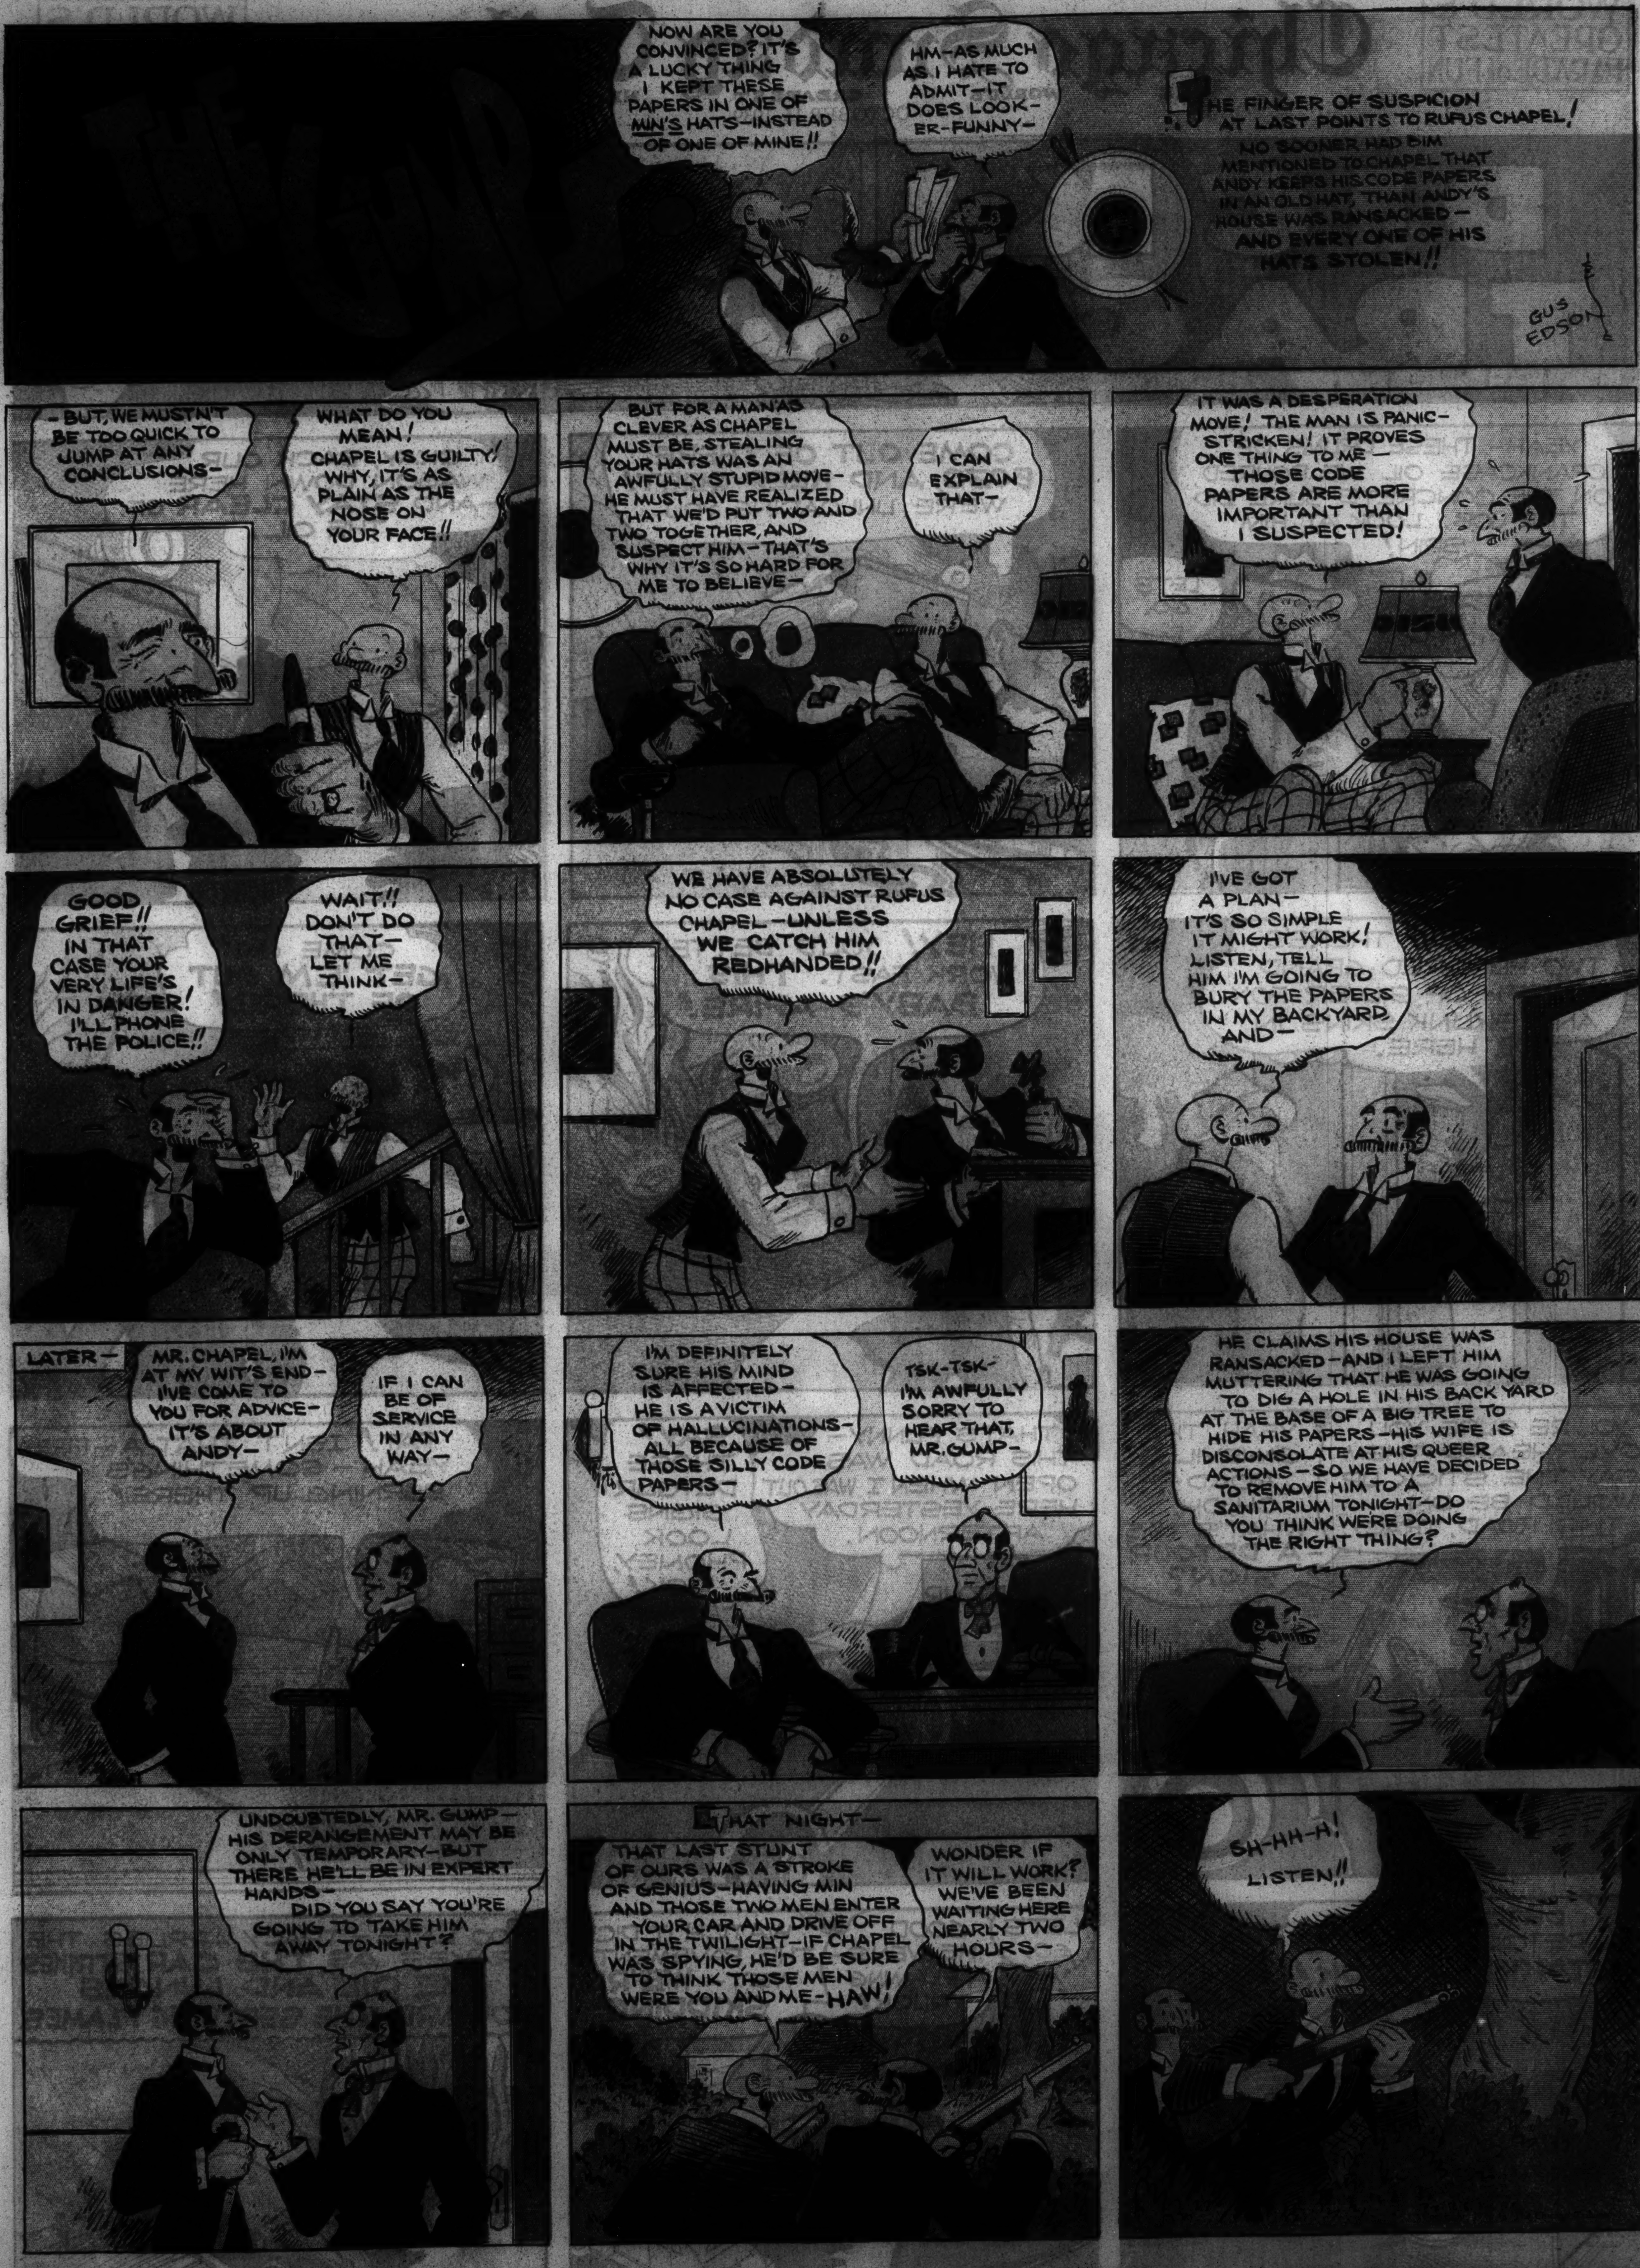
TOO LATE - TRACY APPLIES THE BRAKES AS THE CAR STRIKES THE OIL AND LUNGES TOWARD THE SEETHING FLAMES.



NOW ARE YOU CONVINCED? IT'S A LUCKY THING I KEPT THESE PAPERS IN ONE OF MIN'S HATS—INSTEAD OF ONE OF MINE!!
HM—AS MUCH AS I HATE TO ADMIT—IT DOES LOOK-ER-FUNNY—
NO SOONER HAD BIM MENTIONED TO CHAPEL THAT ANDY KEEPS HIS CODE PAPERS IN AN OLD HAT, THAN ANDY'S HOUSE WAS RANSACKED— AND EVERY ONE OF HIS HATS STOLEN!!
GUS EDSON
—BUT, WE MUSTN'T BE TOO QUICK TO JUMP AT ANY CONCLUSIONS—
WHAT DO YOU MEAN! CHAPEL IS GUILTY! WHY, IT'S AS PLAIN AS THE NOSE ON YOUR FACE!!
BUT FOR A MAN AS CLEVER AS CHAPEL MUST BE, STEALING YOUR HATS WAS AN AWFULLY STUPID MOVE—HE MUST HAVE REALIZED THAT WE'D PUT TWO AND TWO TOGETHER, AND SUSPECT HIM—THAT'S WHY IT'S SO HARD FOR ME TO BELIEVE—
I CAN EXPLAIN THAT—
IT WAS A DESPERATION MOVE! THE MAN IS PANIC-STRICKEN! IT PROVES ONE THING TO ME— THOSE CODE PAPERS ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN I SUSPECTED!
GOOD GRIEF!! IN THAT CASE YOUR VERY LIFE'S IN DANGER! I'LL PHONE THE POLICE!!
WAIT!! DON'T DO THAT—LET ME THINK—
I'VE GOT A PLAN— IT'S SO SIMPLE IT MIGHT WORK! LISTEN, TELL HIM I'M GOING TO BURY THE PAPERS IN MY BACKYARD AND—LATER—
MR. CHAPEL, I'M AT MY WIT'S END— I'VE COME TO YOU FOR ADVICE— IT'S ABOUT ANDY—
IF I CAN BE OF SERVICE IN ANY WAY—
I'M DEFINITELY SURE HIS MIND IS AFFECTED— HE IS A VICTIM OF HALLUCINATIONS— ALL BECAUSE OF THOSE SILLY CODE PAPERS—
TSK-TSK— I'M AWFULLY SORRY TO HEAR THAT, MR. GUMP—
HE CLAIMS HIS HOUSE WAS RANSACKED—AND I LEFT HIM MUTTERING THAT HE WAS GOING TO DIG A HOLE IN HIS BACK YARD AT THE BASE OF A BIG TREE TO HIDE HIS PAPERS—HIS WIFE IS DISCONSOLATE AT HIS QUEER ACTIONS—SO WE HAVE DECIDED TO REMOVE HIM TO A SANITARIUM TONIGHT—DO YOU THINK WE'RE DOING THE RIGHT THING?
UNDOUBTEDLY, MR. GUMP— HIS DERANGEMENT MAY BE ONLY TEMPORARY—BUT THERE HE'LL BE IN EXPERT HANDS— DID YOU SAY YOU'RE GOING TO TAKE HIM AWAY TONIGHT?
THAT NIGHT—
THAT LAST STUNT OF OURS WAS A STROKE OF GENIUS—HAVING MIN AND THOSE TWO MEN ENTER YOUR CAR AND DRIVE OFF IN THE TWILIGHT—IF CHAPEL WAS SPYING, HE'D BE SURE TO THINK THOSE MEN WERE YOU AND ME—HAW!
WONDER IF IT WILL WORK? WE'VE BEEN WAITING HERE NEARLY TWO HOURS—
SH-HH-H! LISTEN!!

Mothers—understand now what often causes those ugly pimples that mean so much misery to young people:

FIRST—Between 13 and 25 the skin is oversensitive. Then sluggish intestines may cause pimples to break out.

SECOND—Your boy or girl may not be getting enough Vitamin A—a vitamin important to help keep the skin free from blemishes.

The new Fleischmann's HIGH-VITAMIN Yeast is helping to solve these two problems for many young people. The fresh yeast helps stimulate intestinal action. And 2 cakes a day now supply over 6000 units of Vitamin A.

Have your boy or girl with poor skin eat 2 cakes of High-Vitamin Yeast daily—one ½ hour before breakfast or lunch, one ½ hour before supper. Many report results in 30 days or less!

Read how this* boy got help

"My skin was so broken out," he says, "I was ashamed to have people see me. Then I ate Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast. I sure am grateful for how it helped me."

MEET THE WINNERS!

HERE'S THEIR Tip TO GET TO THE Top

Sy Nielson

the Sand Hog who became a successful Tunnel Engineer, says: "Working on under-water tunnel jobs takes it out of a man. That's why sand hogs eat lots of nourishing food—food that quickly replaces the energy they've used up. My wife always makes my lunch box sandwiches with Ward's Tip-Top Bread. There's a bread packed full of the kind of energy I need—and the swell flavor makes me reach for an extra slice every time."

CHICAGO MOTHER AGREES

Mrs. Watson Bishop Perry of 8855 Dante Avenue says: "My boys will never be anything but winners to me . . . and I keep them strong and healthy so that they can be winners in the years to come. I know all of our energy comes from the food we eat and so I serve plenty of good, nourishing food and a heaping platter of Ward's Tip-Top Bread at every meal.

"They just can't resist that grand Tip-Top flavor . . . and I give them all they want. No one has to tell me that Ward's Tip-Top Bread gives them the kind of energy they need for success at school or at play."

DON'T EVER FOOL YOURSELF! It isn't good luck that makes a winner—it's good health. And, it takes food that's packed with nourishment—packed with a flavor that stirs the appetite—to give you the energy to win. The kind of extra energy that makes children grow sturdier—makes women more alluring—makes men work better.

YOU MUST BE HEALTHY TO WIN!

So, take a Tip from these Top winners: eat plenty of Ward's Tip-Top Bread with every meal. See for yourself why "Winners Eat Ward's"—the bread with the winning flavor! Millions of happy, successful people have discovered the difference. Ward's Tip-Top is crammed from crust to crust with flavor that makes you reach for another slice. It contains the vitalizing nutrition that gives you extra zip and the will to win.

Start now to enjoy the extra goodness—the extra benefits—of Ward's Tip-Top Bread. All winners make a quick start! Why not get a loaf of Ward's Tip-Top Bread from your neighborhood grocer?

Dick Merrill

ACE PILOT

Captain Dick Merrill, world-famous ace pilot of the Eastern Airlines who has nearly 2,000,000 flying miles to his credit, says:

"Nobody knows better than we pilots that perfect condition is more than half of any job, because we have to pass a rigid physical examination every ninety days to hold our envied transport licenses.

"That's why I make sure to get plenty of sleep, exercise, and good, nourishing food like Ward's Tip-Top Bread. Its rich, wheaty flavor beats any other bread I've ever tasted. I know that Tip-Top Bread is packed with the kind of energy every pilot needs to win."

MY DEAR, I WAS STUNNED... THOSE DINGY GRAY LINENS AND TOWELS. IT'S A SHAME NO ONE EVER TOLD HER ABOUT HIGH-TEST OXYDOL.

AND THERE I WAS RIGHT BEHIND THEM AND HEARD THE WHOLE THING. I TELL YOU I'M SIMPLY FURIOUS!
WELL, IF YOU DON'T MIND A LITTLE SISTERLY FRANKNESS, YOUR WASH DOESN'T SEEM TO COME OUT VERY WHITE! WHY NOT TRY HIGH-TEST OXYDOL?
BUT I'M USING A PACKAGE SOAP ALREADY! HOW CAN HIGH-TEST OXYDOL MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE?
ALL THE DIFFERENCE IN THE WORLD! HIGH-TEST OXYDOL HAS A BRAND NEW INGREDIENT IN IT... WASHES CLOTHES AS MUCH AS 9 TO 11 SHADES WHITER!
HONESTLY, IT'S A MIRACLE THE WAY IT SOAKS DIRT LOOSE WITHOUT SCRUBBING OR BOILING. WHAT'S MORE, HIGH-TEST OXYDOL IS ONE SOAP THAT'S REALLY SAFE FOR WASHABLE COLORS AND HANDS.
NEXT WASHDAY FRANCES TRIES HIGH-TEST OXYDOL
I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! ONLY 10 MINUTES.. AND THE CLOTHES ARE WHITE AS SNOW ALREADY!
WELL, SIS... I GUESS NO ONE CAN ACCUSE YOU OF GRAY TOWELS AFTER THIS!
GRAY? THEY FAIRLY SPARKLE! I NEVER DREAMED ANY SOAP COULD WASH SO MARVELOUSLY WHITE!
TRY HIGH-TEST OXYDOL FOR DISHWASHING, TOO. IT GETS RID OF GREASE SO FAST-- AND LEAVES YOUR HANDS SO SMOOTH!

The NEWER "NO-SCRUB, NO-BOIL" LAUNDRY SOAP THAT'S REALLY SAFE

Wash Clothes As Much As 9 to 11 SHADES WHITER

With This New, SAFE Miracle-Ingredient Soap!

WHY put up with dingy, "off-white" clothes when there is now an utterly new type of laundry soap that gets clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter? A soap that contains an amazing new ingredient that was totally unknown in laundry soap until introduced in New High-Test OXYDOL.

Fortified by this new "miracle" ingredient, New High-Test Oxydol combines whiter washing with SAFETY in a way that scientists have sought for years. When first you try it you'll find it does these amazing things:—

First:—Soaks dirt loose in as little as 10 minutes. No back-breaking scrubbing, no boiling. Even "extra-dirty" spots come clean with a few quick rubs. Clothes last 2 to 3 times longer, from a standpoint of washday wear and tear.

Second:—Gets white clothes up to 9 to 11 shades whiter than other soaps lacking High-Test Oxydol's new ingredient—actual Tintometer shades, as proved by our laboratory tests.

Third:—Cup for cup, it gives up to 3 TIMES THE SUDS—suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Fourth:—SAFE for hands—safe for washable colors. In scientific washing tests, gay cotton prints, given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—still came out brilliant and fresh as new!

Also important, High-Test Oxydol brings you a new kind of soap economy. Cup for cup tests demonstrate that it goes up to ¼ again as far as less modern soaps.

So if you haven't yet tried the New High-Test OXYDOL, we urge you to do so without fail. Ask for a package today. Procter & Gamble.

Look into your canary's cage! Is the little fellow hopping 'round—filled with glorious, happy song? Or, is he sitting on his perch, listless and droopy, with only a squeaky 'peep-peep' now and then?

If he isn't full of life and singing merrily—there's something wrong! Remember, it's natural for canaries to be healthy and to sing! Maybe you're feeding him an improper diet. It so often happens!

So, why take chances—when, perhaps, all your canary needs is the lift in French's Bird Biscuit! Yes, the vitamins and minerals plus the health factors in yeast, that will lift his diet in much the same way that fruits and vegetables lift your own. You'll find a French's Bird Biscuit (in itself worth 10c) included in every package of French's Bird Seed—at no extra cost!

French's Bird Seed is a balanced diet of clean, air-washed seeds—laboratory-tested for nourishment. Encourages your canary to sing! Keeps him fit! Do what thousands of other canary-owners have done: change to French's! Then you, too, will find the way to keep him in song!

"Remember . . . there's a French's Bird Biscuit in every package of French's Bird Seed!"

The IDEAL PROFESSION for the AMBITIOUS who will not be content with less than $50.00 a week

IT'S BEAUTY CULTURE—The profession which offers everything to a woman.
POSITIONS ALWAYS AVAILABLE! Look in the "Help Wanted" columns. Note how many more advertisements there are for Beauty Operators than for stenographers, typists, office workers.

LIFE LONG SECURITY! Beauty Culture is a profession where advancing years help, where a girl's advancement does not depend on the favor of some man.

"The pot of gold house" is under way in Ivanhoe. It's different. We've already poured the concrete foundation; the fireproof first floor is already in too; the walls are going up; why not see how this 6 room house and attached garage is built? Follow it through to completion. We are justly proud to have been chosen to build the first "pot of gold house" in the Chicago area.

I Want to Hand

Somebody $2,200.00

That sounds unbelievable, but it is true. I have just finished building a modern 5 room brick house on an FHA 20-year loan in a south side suburb, 36 minutes by Illinois Central train from the loop, on a corner lot beautifully landscaped, just off a thru boulevard, which cost $9,700, small monthly payments. This home was built on one of 42 lots I own in this subdivision. Others associated with me owning a number of lots also built homes. We did this to stimulate the sale of lots. I do not want to carry this house any longer, as I am not in the real estate business, so I am willing to take a $2,200 loss—money I have paid out. Address F P 327, Tribune.

Day by Day on the Farm by BOB BECKER

Wild Crab Jelly.

Oct. 14, 1939.

THIS is the season for making wild crab jelly on the Du Page county farm. One of the farm wives has made a dozen glasses of this tempting delicacy, and when we visited her kitchen the other day she showed us a small basket full of the green apples which also were to be converted into jelly. Another of the farm wives has made several jars of wild plum jelly. There are a number of wild plum trees on the farm which produced fruit this fall.

The average city dweller doubtless would be surprised to see how much fruit grows wild on a farm that has not been cleaned up too thoroughly with an ax. The wild plum, crab, cherry, and thornapple trees which are abundant on the Du Page county farm produce so much fruit that they have a definite economic value. The farm wives utilize these wild fruits by making hundreds of jars of delicious jelly and preserves. Then there are wild blackberries, wild grapes, elderberries, and other products of the wood lots and the fence rows which reach the farm kitchen.

Waits for Frost.

Although the farm wives already have been making wild crab jelly they are not through with this pleasant autumn job. There is one young woman on the farm who waits until heavy frosts have caused the fruit to fall from the trees before she uses them. The apples then have a better flavor for jelly, she says.

Some of the farm wives have a complaint against the Hereford steers which are being fattened on the farm. They had found a clump of wild crab trees which were heavily loaded with fruit, and were waiting for the "apples" to ripen. But when they went back to get the fruit there was none. The wind had blown the wild crabs to the ground and the grazing steers had eaten them! It's hard to account for the steers' tastes, because wild crabs are anything but appetizing. They are so bitter when uncooked that no one can eat them. But the steers evidently found them good.

Several of the men on the farm were looking for bushel baskets this week and we heard one of the men ask a co-worker about a barrel. This conversation was enough to tell us that the apple cider season is just about here. It won't be long until the apples will be hustled to a nearby mill for processing. The crop of apples is pretty large this year. Late in August the first picking of early cooking apples was made. At that time some of the older trees with gnarled branches already were so loaded with their fruit that they could hardly bear their loads.

Rain Helps Wheat.

The men on the farm cheered the rain which fell early in the week because moisture was needed for the new seedings of winter wheat. But aside from its value to the fields, it also served one other purpose—that of bringing a whole family of guineas into the barnyard. The guinea hen which heads this family of birds hatched and raised her youngsters along the roadside. The chicks are more than a month old, and until the heavy rain they hadn't been inside the barnyard at all. They lived on insects and weed seeds along the road. But during the rainfall this family evidently looked through the fence, saw all the chickens and guineas going into the chicken houses for shelter, and decided to join the procession. After the rain the flockmaster pointed out this family of guineas chasing through the yard with the other birds as though they had lived there for 10 years instead of only a couple of hours.

MR. C. wrote: "I am pleased with your service: it's fair and square."

This case: He had bought a house on contract came to us for a loan to get his owner's deed, pay back taxes and repair the house thoroughly. We got him the largest 15 year loan possible; had our lawyers straighten out the seller's title, which was a mess "from 'way back" and, because even our top loan was not enough, we got the owner to cut off a few hundred dollars and paid him out. Mr. C. has no more mortgage worries on this house—ever.

We lend up to 15 years on homes, 2 to 4 flats—frame, stucco, brick—up to 30 years old on large apartment buildings, stores, factories, and garages; [2] place 20 to 25 year 80% to 90% FHA loans at 4½% interest; [3] advance funds to settle estates heirs' interests, taxes, liens, redeem property under foreclosure; [4] if even our top loan won't do, we will negotiate with Trustees, Mortgagees, Bondholders' Committees, Banks to cut down overly large debts to present day levels.

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE CORPORATION.

Can You Set Aside $1.34 to $1.52 Per Week FOR A $100 LOAN?

That's actually all you need to pay off in full a $100 cash loan, including all charges on a 20 month loan at Personal Finance Company. And we take no wage assignment.

$1.34 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $100 borrowed on Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1½% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $1.52 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $100 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less, and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note, or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.

DEALERS, ATTENTION!

100 USED CARS AT WHOLESALE. Chevrolets, Plymouths, Dodges, Buicks, Fords, Chryslers, various other makes and models, from 1931 to 1938; lowest prices. MURPHY, DODGE DLR., 2720 N. Cicero.

PACKARDS.
Extra Dollar Values.

1937 and 1938 models—almost all body styles. A selection of 22 cars. Every one an extra value. A car you can be proud to drive up in front of your home, office, or anywhere. A car that you can be sure will perform as it should for many more miles. We believe we give more dollar value at Cadillac in our used cars than you can get elsewhere, car for car. Not all cars are alike even in the same make, and when your purchase a car from Cadillac you know what you are getting. We have duplications of the same make and body style that are priced differently because their value is not the same. Come in and see our Packards today. Sample Value—1938-1601 touring sedan, $695.

GERMAN SHIPPING LINE SUSPENDS BOND INTEREST

New York, Oct. 14 [Special].—The North German Lloyd Line, owner of the Bremen and other German ships, announced today that no additional interest would become due and payable on Nov. 1 on its $11,322,500 of sinking fund bonds due in 1947.

These bonds were issued to refund 20 year 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds due in 1947 under a plan of adjustment. There originally were offered $20,000,000 of the 6s by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the guaranty company, and Lee Higginson & Co. in 1927. Of the 6s only $2,098,000 is outstanding now.

As of June 1, 1938, holders of $14,434,000 of the 6s had consented to change their annual interest to 4 per cent in fixed interest and 2 per cent in contingent interest. As compensation it was provided that the North German Lloyd should appoint a United States subsidiary to collect the gross dollar revenues of the line from United States sources and to pay the new interest charges on the bonds subject to the plan direct to an American paying agent for the benefit of coupon holders.

On assent to the plan, security holders received $20 for each $1,000 bond, representing the payment of fixed interest at the rate of 4 per cent due Nov. 1, 1938.

PRICES OF MOST COMMODITIES CLOSE LOWER

Wool and Coffee Sales Especially Weak.

Commodity prices declined in New York trading yesterday. Wool and coffee futures were outstanding in quiet dealings. The former dropped 1.2 to 1.7 cents a pound and cash raw wool lost 1 cent at $1.22. Spot Santos coffee weakened for the first time since the price was advanced in September. Yesterday's quotations were 7⅝ to 7⅞ cents a pound compared with 7¾ to 8 cents Friday. Coffee futures declined slightly.

Fluctuations in most instances were limited to small fractions. Slightly higher were zinc, domestic sugar, rubber, cottonseed oil, and copper. Cocoa and hides advanced. Lead, tin, and world sugar were irregular.

Week's Trade Irregular.

Trading during the last week was erratic and price trends were mixed. Some cash commodities declined, including coffee, tin, and wool. Silk and rubber were higher.

September consumption of crude rubber by United States manufacturers was estimated at 50,150 long tons by the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, Inc. This was 24.8 per cent larger than in September, 1938, but slightly less than 1 per cent smaller than in August this year.

Tin export quotas for the third quarter were raised to 120 per cent of standard tonnages with retroactive effect. The quotas were originally set at 60 per cent.

MOTORS—TRAFFIC HIGHWAYS

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL MEETING TO DRAW 10,000

BY HAL FOUST.

Ten thousand delegates will convene in Atlantic City, N. J., tomorrow for the opening of the 28th annual congress of the National Safety council. Meeting with them tomorrow and Tuesday will be members of the Institute of Traffic Engineers, technicians in a field responsible for a large portion of America's accident toll.

The council's headquarters, in Chicago Civic Opera building, announced that motor mishaps will be the main theme in a week of discussions. Five hundred speakers are on the programs of 140 divisional sessions, which will also cover accidents in homes and in industries. Scheduled for the opening meeting are Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts; Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, D. D. Fennell, president of the council, and W. H. Cameron, managing director of the council.

Will Report on Research.

Special committees will report on three years' research in subjects particularly promising for accident reduction efforts. Heading these is pedestrian education and regulation. In larger cities, including Chicago, about 70 per cent of the auto victims are walkers. Leslie J. Sorenson, Chicago traffic engineer and president of the engineers' institute, is chairman of this committee.

Drinking drivers is another subject receiving special study. An outstanding authority, who will deliver a committee report, is Judge Harry H. Porter, chief justice of the Evanston Municipal court.

Tomorrow morning Murray D. Van Wagoner, Michigan highway commissioner and president of the American Road Builders association, will lead a discussion on survey methods used in planning construction to meet anticipated traffic requirements. In the afternoon, a prominent paper will be one to be delivered by Roger L. Morrison, University of Michigan professor of traffic engineering, entitled "Where are we going in traffic safety?"

M. N. Halsey to Preside.

On Tuesday morning, Maxwell N. Halsey, associate director of the Yale university traffic research bureau, will preside during discussions of the following subjects: aids to night driving from reflector and illumination units; minimizing rear end collisions and passing accidents through changes in road design; separating opposing streams of traffic and helping to control speed by engineering means.

On Tuesday afternoon, the engineers will concentrate on city problems, preventing pedestrian accidents in residential neighborhoods, coördinating foot and wheel movements in business districts, reducing night accidents on busy streets, ameliorating parking difficulties in particular blocks or areas, and relieving congestion by means of one-way streets. With the gavel for this session will be Harold F. Hammond, secretary and treasurer of the Institute of Traffic Engineers and director of the traffic division of the national conservation bureau.

Chicago experts to attend the meeting, in addition to Judge Porter, Mr. Sorenson and the technical staff from the headquarters of the National Safety council, will include Otto K. Jelinek, Chicago park district traffic engineer; Taylor Soper, manager, Illinois Road Builders association, and George Barton, Chicago Motor club engineer. Mr. Barton is chairman of the institute's program committee.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

HAZARDOUS AND UNLAWFUL.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—I wish to call your attention to the double and triple parking in the vicinity of Ashland avenue on Chicago avenue. The double and triple parking causes quite a bottle neck for trafic to move through, especially on Saturdays.

Double parking on Chicago between Pulaski road and Central Park also is a hazard to trafic movement.

I have noticed a number of accidents along this street due to this type of parking and have had a number of close calls myself due to the confusion and congestion caused by these erratic parkers.

Chicago avenue has been recently widened and the pavement improved, making it a very good east and west artery—were it not for the parking abuses.

W. G. ECHOLS.

ORDINARY DRIVERS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Not all automobile tragedies are caused by reckless drivers. Many ordinary drivers from habit keep on doing some things, that they know they should not do, which cause tragedies. Such as

1. Driving too close to the car ahead.
2. Failing to signal well before they turn or stop.
3. Taking one or two drinks before driving.
4. Failing to keep a firm hold on the steering wheel.
5. Passing cars near curves or hills or corners or when a car is approaching from the opposite direction.
6. Cutting back into line too soon after passing a car.
7. Letting brakes, tires, or lights get into an unsafe condition.
8. Failing to watch closely for children.
9. Driving too fast at curves and corners or on loose gravel or wet or oiled roads.
10. Driving too close to parked cars or other obstructions.

Be a first class safe driver.

A. L. POTTER.

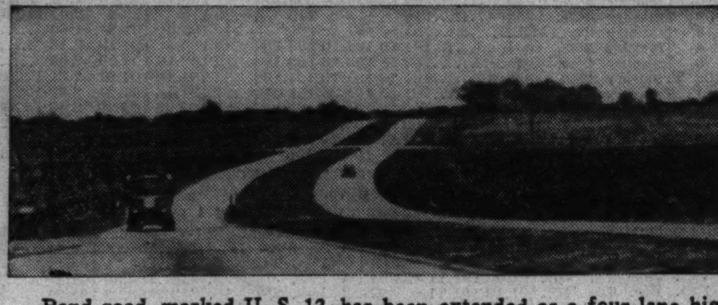
WHY THE SIGNS?

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Why don't they: Remove the "No Parking at Any Time" signs on South Park avenue just north of 63d street? Make it legal for the cars that are parked at this point twenty-four hours every day.

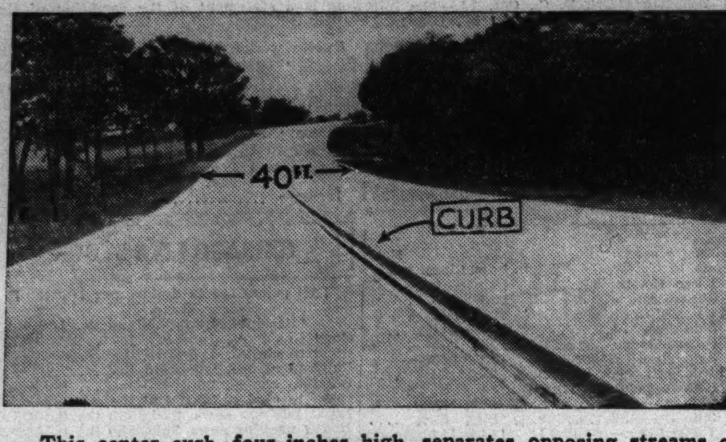
Remove the signs "Speed Limit 25 M. P. H." on South Park avenue and make it legal to drive fifty miles per hour? They do drive that fast anyway.

ROLAND CORNELIUS.

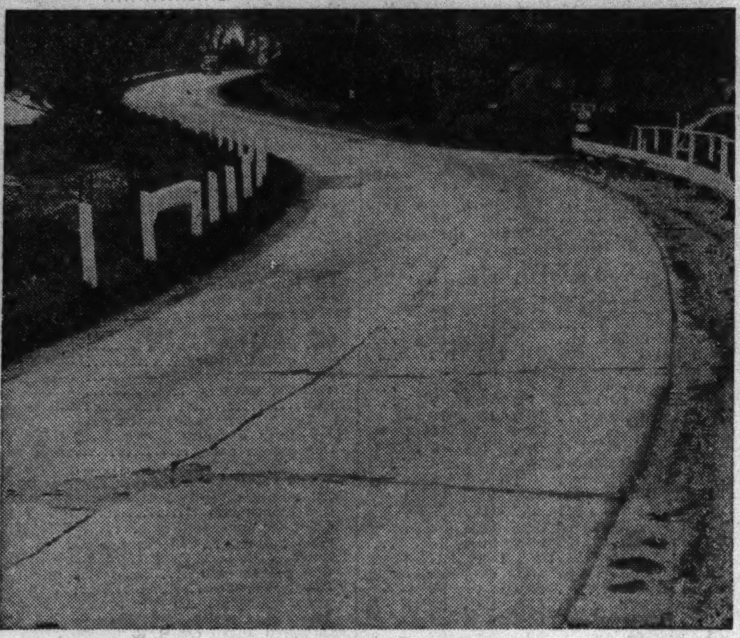
Rand Road—Old and New



Rand road, marked U. S. 12, has been extended as a four lane highway to beyond Lake Zurich. To be open to trafic today was the last section in $630,000 worth of construction in Lake county in the last two years. Here is a view of a section with a center parkway.



This center curb, four inches high, separates opposing streams of trafic, two lanes in each direction, on part of the Rand road job. As further protection from accidents, reflector buttons are to be imbedded in this curb. Also, the two lanes in the same direction are to be marked with a stripe painted on the slab.



This is a view of an old section of Rand road to be relegated to local usage. Its narrow and winding pavement on the east side of Lake Zurich, was the scene of many blockades in summer week-end trafic. The new route for through trafic is on the west side of the lake, by-passing the village of Lake Zurich.

A Better U. S. 12

NEW SECTION OF LAKE ZURICH BYPASS OPENED

A new section of Rand road of superhighway design, by-passing the village of Lake Zurich, Lake county, was to be open to traffic today. This completes a $630,000 improvement of the U. S. 12 highway for 5.5 miles north from the Cook county line.

The first 1.75 miles north from the county line was opened to traffic late last fall. It has a four inch curb dividing the 40 foot slab. There have been several accidents on the route. Charles H. Apple, district engineer for the state highway department, said that reflector buttons will be installed in the center curb and that the two lanes for each direction are to be marked with pavement paint to aid drivers in keeping to the right except when passing.

The design on the newer 3.75 miles, passing to the west of the lake, incorporate a 3 0foot parkway with a pair of one-way 20 foot slabs on a right of way of 150 feet. It is to be landscaped.

The Rand road section through the village of Lake Zurich will be retained for local traffic only. It is a narrow and winding pavement, on the east side of the lake, and has been a bottleneck, causing jams in recreational traffic during the summer season.

ONLY 35,000 DRIVERS APPLY FOR O. K. STICKER

Of 120,000 Chicago automobiles due for inspection by the city in October only 35,000 received their O. K. stickers during the first half of this month. John A. Szumnarski, city vehicle license commissioner, said the 10 public testing stations have been operating during the last two weeks at only half their capacity but that he anticipated that they might be overcrowded, involving delays for patrons, during the last few days of the month.

Police are arresting an average of 150 motorists a day for failure to have O. K. stickers due before Oct. 1. The summonses are returnable to the cafeteria court with a $2 fine. Patrolmen have been ordered to look for the safety sticker whenever they stop a motorist for a reprimand or a traffic offense.

A. S. Hatch, who for the last 11 years has been head of the Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr division of the Ford Motor Car company in Detroit, is back in Chicago as manager in charge of the company's large plant here. Before going to Detroit, Hatch was head of the Lincoln division in Chicago and was also former assistant branch manager here. He took the place of H. C. Indicating the trend toward roomies cars, Pontiac says that in the period from 1936 to 1939 the bodies of the 8 cylinder cars have been lengthened 6 inches and widened 6 3-16 inches. However, the previous achievements have been surpassed in the 1940 line where the Pontiac Torpedo Eight body has been lengthened 7 1-6 inches and widened 3⅞ inches compared with corresponding 1939 models. This has been made possible by recent technological and metallurgical advances which permit the use of larger and fewer parts.

A new Pontiac agency has been opened at 552 Lincoln avenue, Winnetka, by Fred W. Lewis.

Plymouth has added a new four passenger de luxe coupe to its 1940 line. It will be introduced at the automobile shows in Chicago and New York.

B. J. Brady, Chicago zone manager for Chevrolet, last week presented the 1940 models to 700 dealers preliminary to the formal introduction of the cars to the public at the end of this week. The new Chevrolets were shown to the dealers in the Eighth Street theater. A banquet in the Stevens hotel concluded the program. Brady said that Chevrolet is entering the 1940 model year in the most favorable position it ever has enjoyed.

J. J. Gallagher of Marquette Motor Sales has been elected president of the Oldsmobile Dealers of Metropolitan Chicago. Other officers named were H. Youngquist of Kailer-Youngquist Motors, vice president; George Kallal of Parkway Motor Sales, secretary, and Sam Slavin of Northtown Motors, treasurer.

The more than 10,000 dealers and other members of the automotive industry in Chicago will be given a preview of the exhibits and the "Dame Fashion" spectacle of the 40th annual Chicago Automobile Show on the evening of Nov. 3, M. J. Lanahan, chairman of the executive show committee, announced yesterday. The show will be opened publicly Nov. 4.

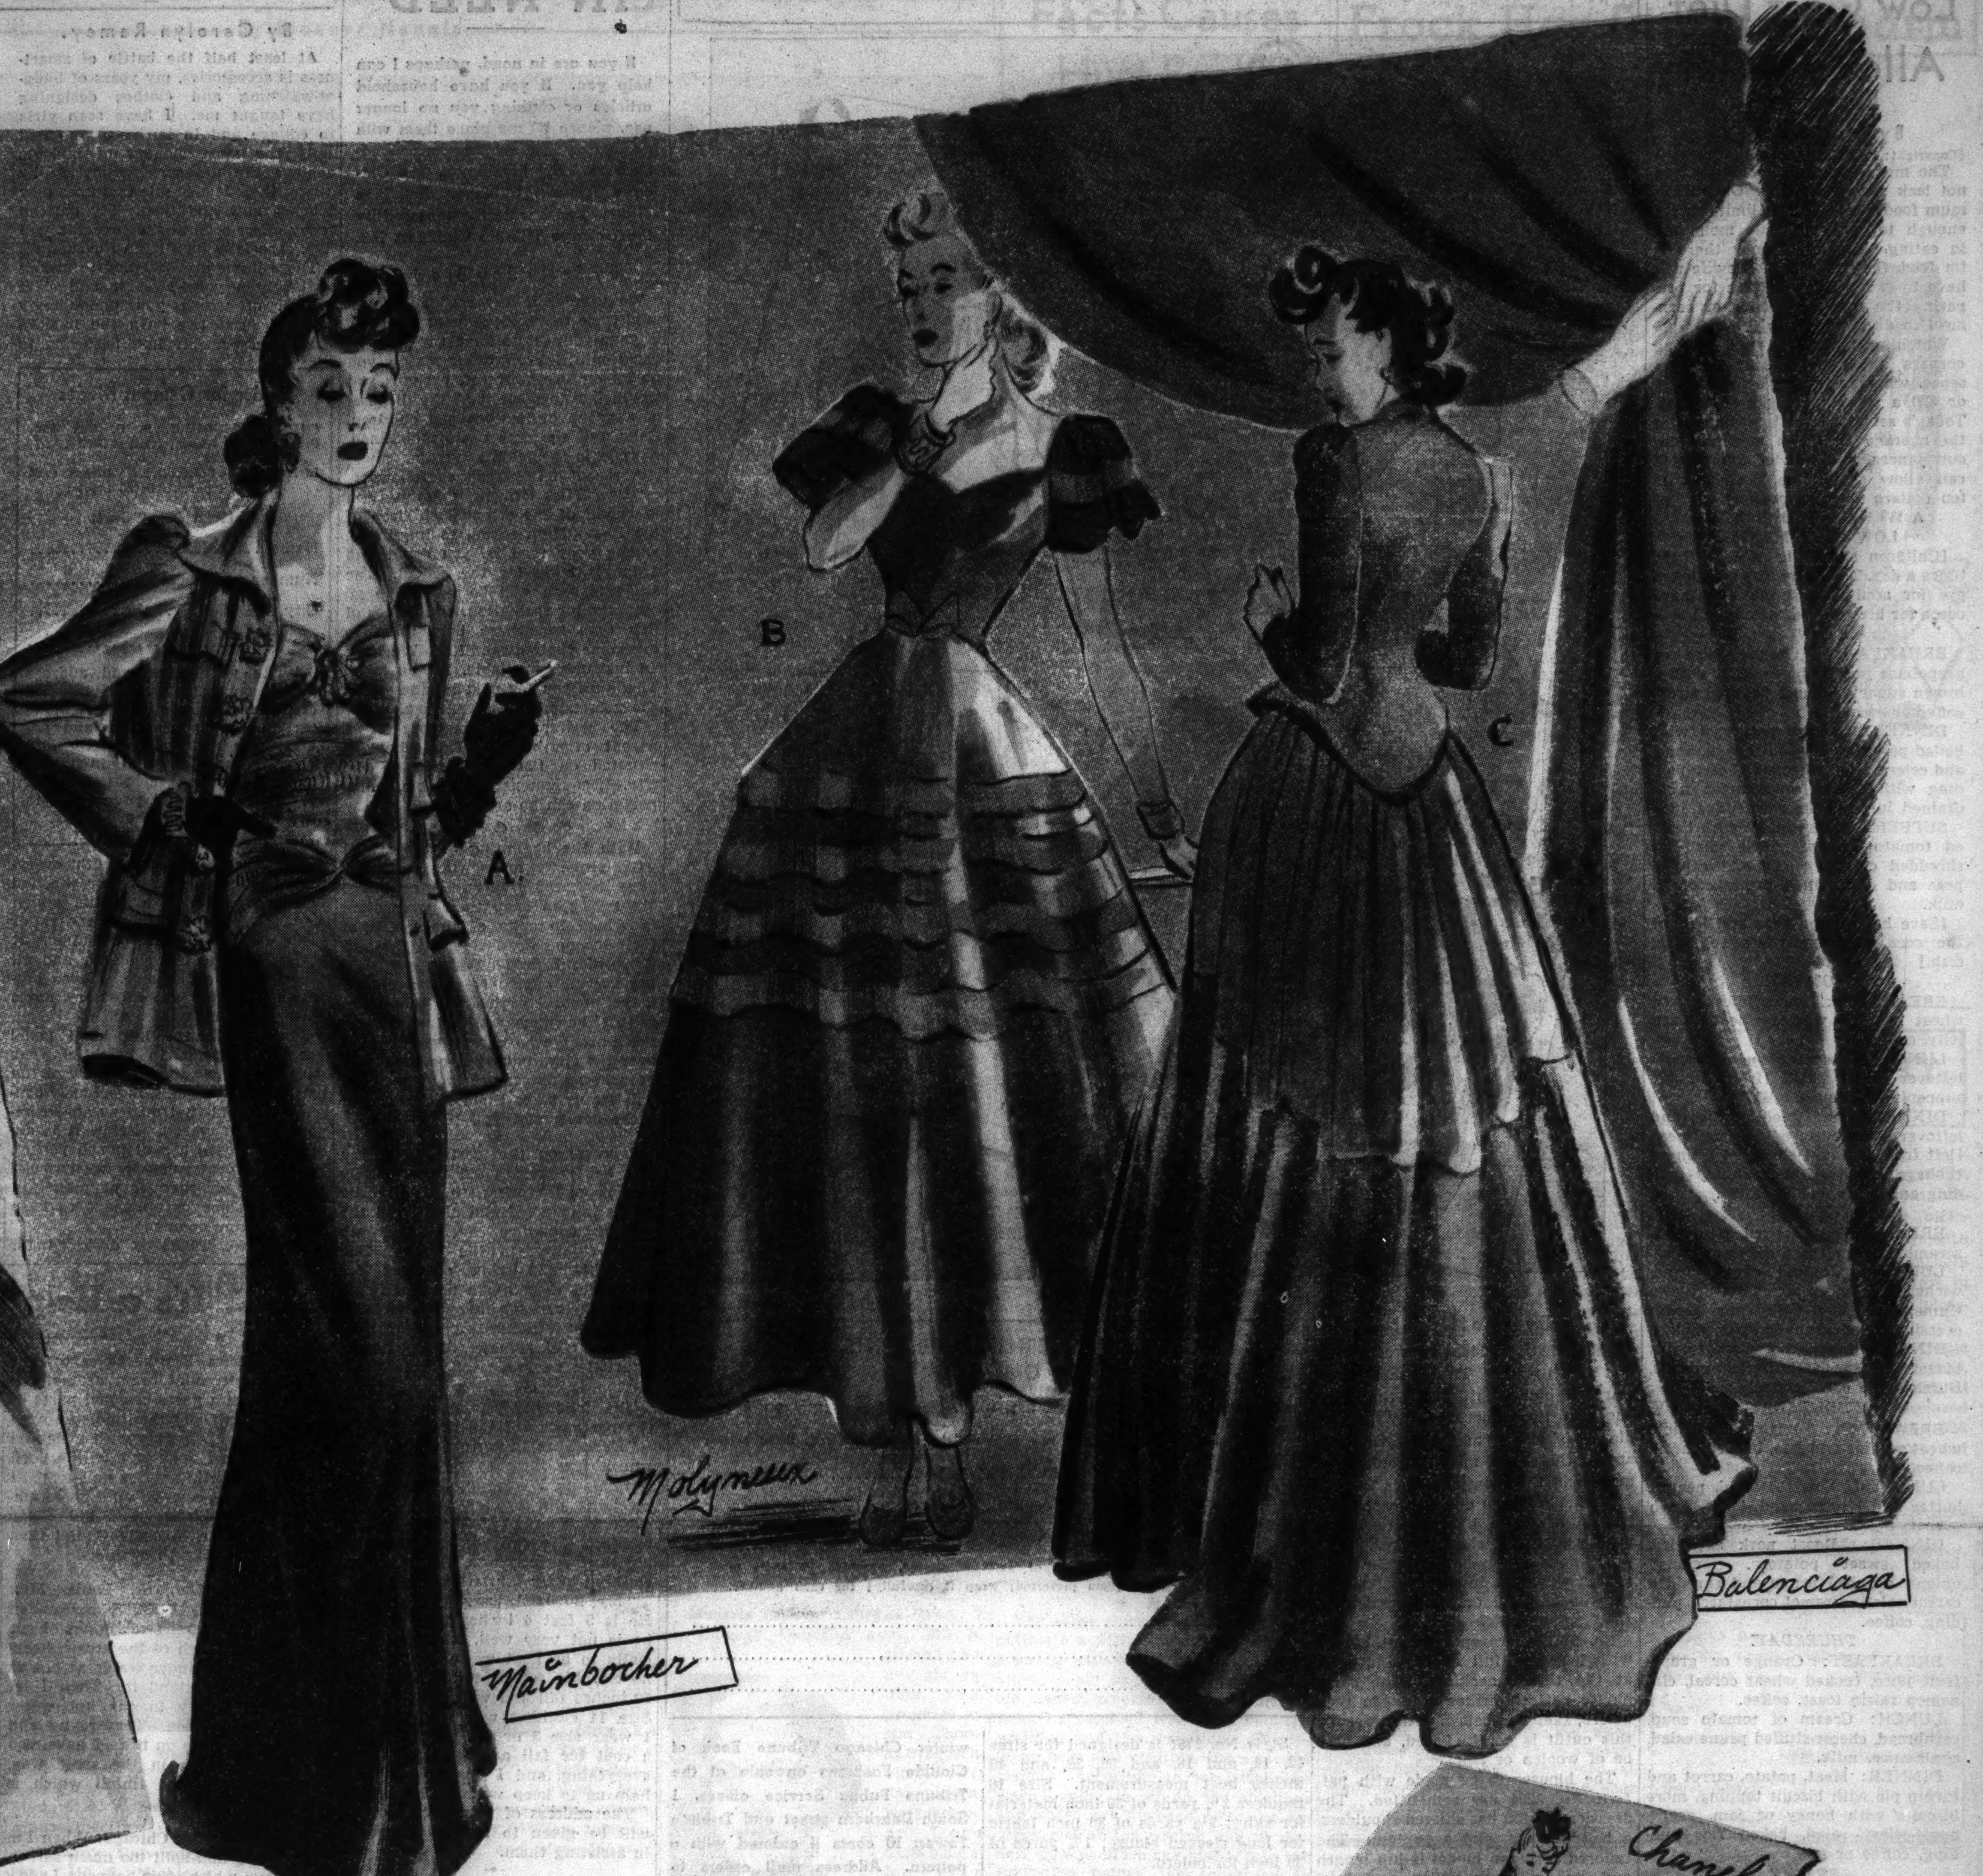
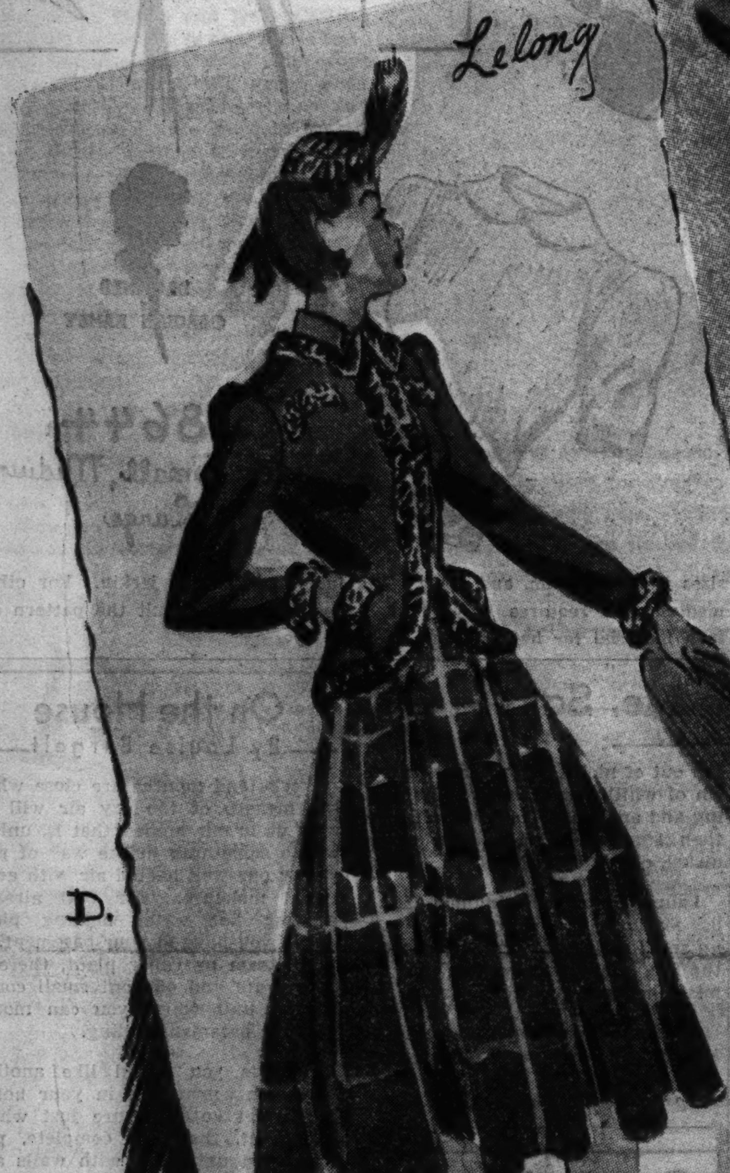
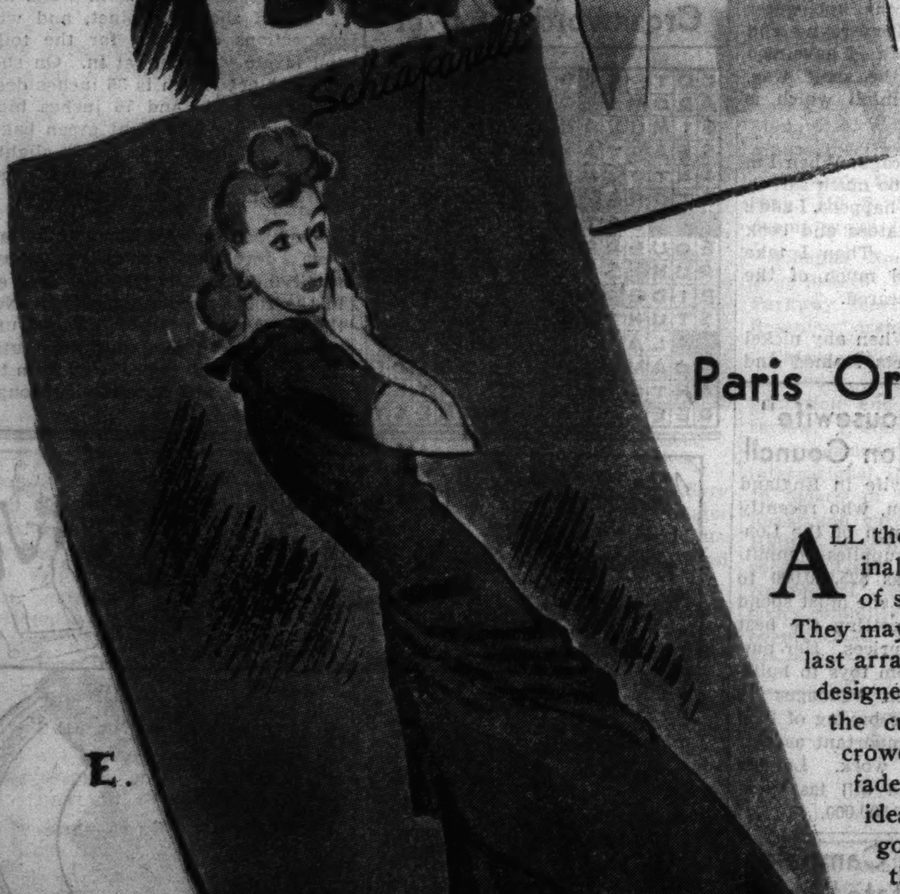
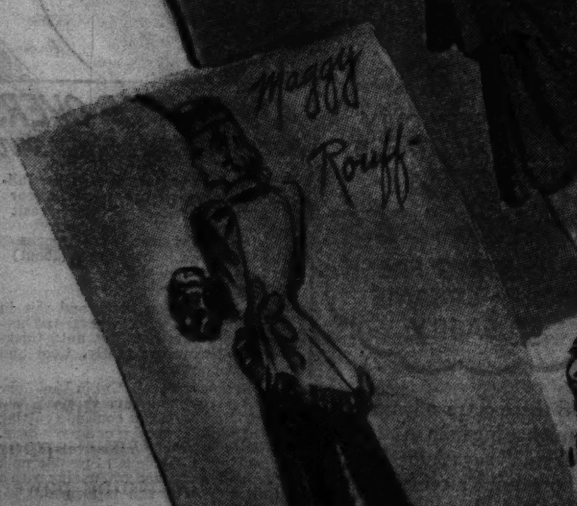
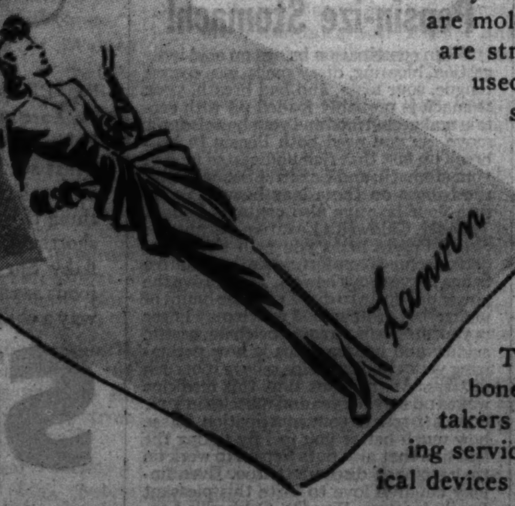
French Designers Stress New Silhouettes

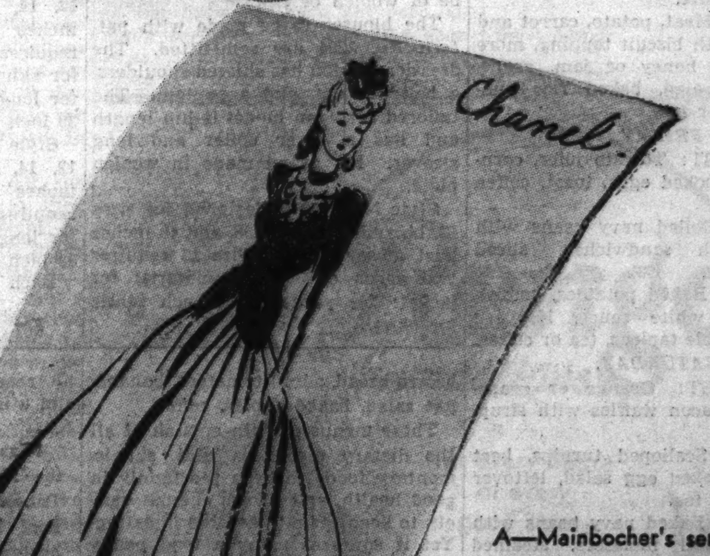


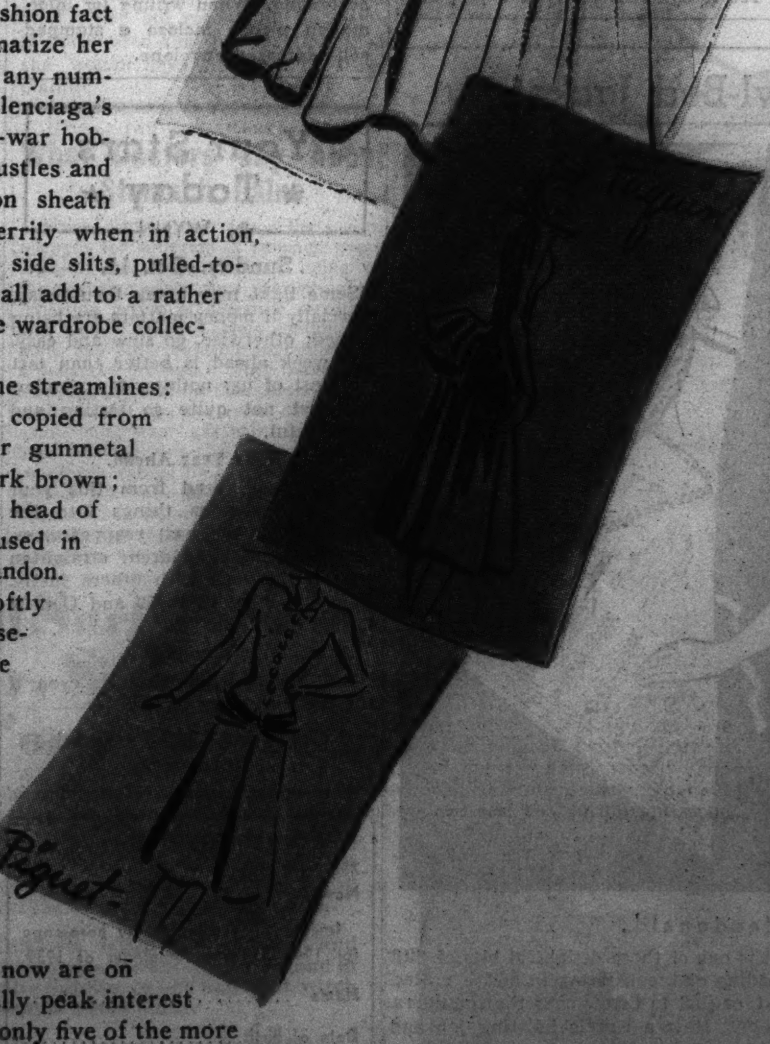












Paris Originals Revive Picture Book Modes, Beautiful Fabrics and Opulence of Colors

By RHEA SEEGER

ALL the fashion showings of Paris originals are paraded in an atmosphere of somewhat tearful sentimentality. They may be the last excitement for some time, the last array of significant new creations to have been designed in serenity and peace. So for this reason the current attractions are drawing record crowds. After the first look that knowledge fades because of the blaze of glory of the new ideas in silhouette, the revival of picture book gowns, the fascination of beautiful fabrics, the opulent array of color, and the yardage used for daytime costumes as well as evening gowns.

Ring-size waistlines and the back interest in bustle, polonaise, or involved drapery still are the spotlight stealers. Suits, coats, dresses, and ball gowns all are cut with slenderized emphasis on the waistlines. Gone for quite some time to come are indiscriminately shaped dresses. Bodices are molded to the bodyline, hips are stressed, and everything is used to accent that fragile, small circle. The human form is glorified, with all the curves carefully emphasized. Hips are anything but hidden, and corsets, the laced models, are responsible. They are not the old-time bone-crushers, the breathtakers that required the pulling services of a maid or mechanical devices of the old cartoons, but painless versions of 1939 corsetry, the proper, smooth foundations for any and all of the newest fashions.

Another good bit of news, the fashion fact that each woman can dress to dramatize her own particular personality. There is any number of different silhouettes, from Balenciaga's Spanish infanta hoop skirts, the pre-war hobble skirts, and the peg tops to the bustles and the Egyptian mummy plastered-on sheath effects. Short skirts that swirl merrily when in action, pencil-slim and straight skirts with side slits, pulled-to-the-back models, and tiered effects all add to a rather formidable list of possibilities for the wardrobe collector this fall.

New colors are as different as the streamlines: Outlaw green and red combination copied from the Robin Hood costumes; sinister gunmetal glint of bronze; much deep, deep dark brown; a lot of bronze green; black at the head of the list, and flaming, blazing red used in every collection with spectacular abandon. Huge out-size plaids are featured, softly blurred, not strident or ordinary. Passementerie, fringe, braid, and ribbon are favored trim. Fur also is a luxury accent, used for plastron formations, all kinds and widths of bands and deep cuffs, but many small collars. Flat furs such as Persian, mink, together with the fluffy fox pelts in copper red, silver and smoke gray, provide most of the contrasts.

Originals, copies, and adaptations now are on parade, with the original imports really peak interest in every fashion show. Sketched are only five of the more significant imports.

A—Mainbocher's sensational dinner suit, the dress a form-revealing sheath suavely draped to the body. Over the dress a boxy, long jacket to match the top. ● B—Molyneux's "last youth" dress, a dress parade or afternoon costume of soft velvet cut with fitted bodice and wide, full skirt. Bands of harmonizing grosgrain ribbon encircle the skirt. ● C—Balenciaga borrows the stiff splendor of Velasquez, famous painter. This original makes an unusual combination of black and seal brown. ● D—Patchwork plaid is this brain child of Lelong. Tiny fitted wool jacket is trimmed with bands of Persian lamb. ● E—Schiaparelli's apron dress for daytime wear, a foundation model with which to play the game of costume accessories.

A Moderately Low Cost Diet Allows Variety

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The moderately low cost diet need not lack variety in food. Only minimum food budgets must limit variety enough to cause possible monotony in eating. The less money there is for food, the more the housewife will have to exercise her talents for preparing the same old beans or cornmeal in different ways.

Watching food costs and cutting corners on them is only common sense, whether you have five dollars or $20 a week to spend on eating. Today's set of menus is designed for the average family in moderate circumstances, a family of four which can allow something like eight to ten dollars a week for food.

A WEEK'S MODERATELY LOW COST MENUS.

[Children should have milk three times a day. The beverages mentioned are for adults. Children may have cocoa for breakfast occasionally.]

SUNDAY.

BREAKFAST: Orange juice or grapefruit juice, French toast with a brown sugar or maple flavored sirup, coffee or cocoa.

DINNER: Spanish pot roast with boiled potatoes, mashed squash, apple and celery salad, steamed cherry pudding with cherry sauce made from drained juice of cherries, coffee.

SUPPER: Cheese rabbit with broiled tomato halves, jellied salad of shredded carrot, celery and canned peas and corn, filled prune cookies, milk.

BREAKFAST: Tomato juice, cooked wheat cereal, whole wheat toast, jelly, coffee.

TUESDAY.

WEDNESDAY.

BREAKFAST: Tomato juice, whole wheat muffins and jam, broiled bacon, coffee.

THURSDAY.

BREAKFAST: Orange or grapefruit juice, cooked wheat cereal, cinnamon raisin toast, coffee.

DINNER: Meat, potato, carrot and turnip pie with biscuit topping, more biscuits with honey or jam, grape-apple-celery salad, baked rice pudding, coffee or tea.

FRIDAY.

SATURDAY.

DINNER: Baked navy beans with salt pork and molasses, steamed brown bread, sliced tomatoes, banananut salad, baked apples, coffee.

These menus contain enough of all the dietary essentials and supplementary foods to keep the family in good health, and allows enough variety to keep them interested in eating. Yet it squeezes many a food penny by repeating vegetables and fruits and utilizing leftovers.

We wonder if any reader has unused table tennis equipment on hand. If your youngsters have tired of the game or if, for any other reason, you no longer use your set, perhaps you would like to place it at the disposal of a group of handicapped children. Balls and recquets can be obtained. A table is the main requisite.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am writing in behalf of the crippled children of the X—— High school to inquire if, among your readers, you could find a tennis table for the school. The students soon will be unable to go outdoors for recreation, and games of this type sometimes help them to overcome their disabilities. We have an instructor available, but no table. Thanking you for past kindnesses to the youngsters . . . Mrs. W."

The writer is a member of a parent organization. The school is situated on the south side of the city. If equipment is available, transportation can be arranged.

With the beginning of the school year, requests for sewing machines have increased greatly. Mothers who are trying to keep their youngsters in school in spite of the fact that their incomes do not permit the purchase of sufficient clothing, are making valiant efforts to repair and remake apparel. Much of this work cannot be done without a sewing machine. We have requests from all over the city, and we hope that readers who no longer use their machines will let us place them with some of these needy mothers.

A nurse on the west side of the city has requested aid for a family she is endeavoring to help. The father is crippled and blind, and the mother a cardiac case. There are three children in the family. She has obtained living quarters for them, but they are in need of furniture. Their needs include two beds, a rug, and living room furniture. Miss R. will arrange transportation of articles offered.

The following letter comes from the north side of the city.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am writing you a few lines to inquire if you can help us. We are an elderly couple receiving old age assistance. However, we do not get enough to buy clothing. We can pay our rent and buy a few groceries, but we need clothing badly for fall and winter.

"My husband wears size 37 suit. He is 5 feet 4 inches tall. Because he is not very well, he needs especially to be kept warm, and he has no clothing for winter. I am 4 feet 10 inches tall and weigh 105 pounds. Size 14 clothing would fit me, and I wear size 3 or 3½ shoes. I need a coat for fall and winter, in fact, everything, and I do hope you can help us to keep warm. Mrs. G."

The address of this elderly couple will be given to readers interested in assisting them.

Mrs. C. and her husband and baby are living on his salary of $8 a week. On this income it is impossible for them to provide winter clothing for themselves or the 2 month old child. Mrs. C. needs apparel, size 16, and shoes, 5½. Can some south side reader assist them? Mrs. C. is able to sew and remodel clothing and will be glad to do so.

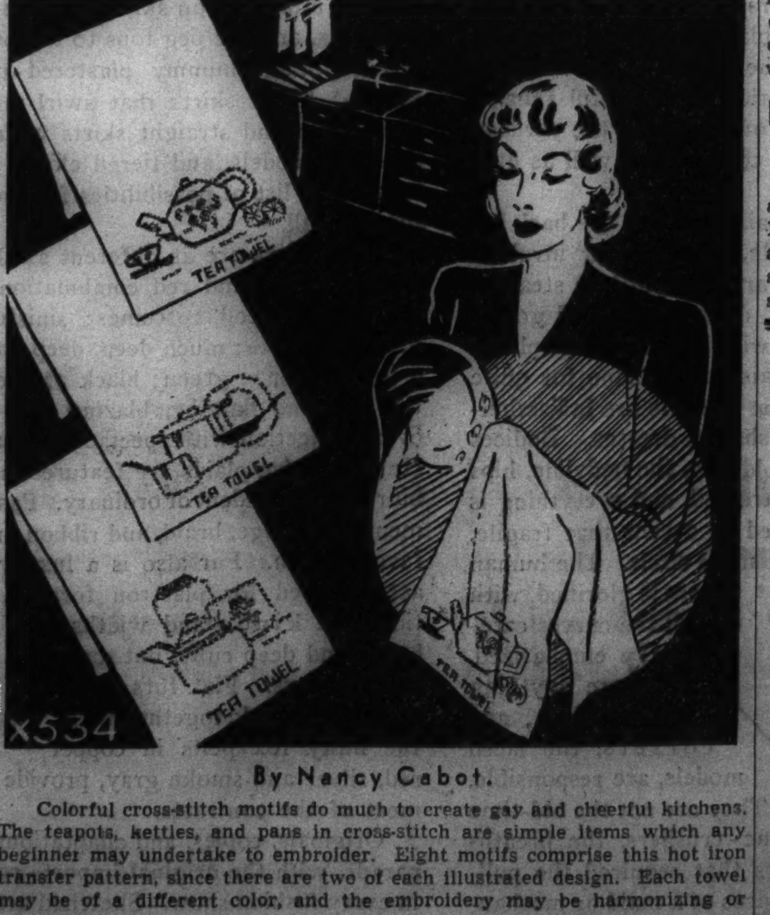
Cross-Stitch Pot and Kettle



By Nancy Cabot.

Colorful cross-stitch motifs do much to create gay and cheerful kitchens. The teapots, kettles, and pans in cross-stitch are simple items which any beginner may undertake to embroider. Eight motifs comprise this hot iron transfer pattern, since there are two of each illustrated design. Each towel may be of a different color, and the embroidery may be harmonizing or contrasting.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the cross-stitch towels in the pot and kettle design, No. X-534, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey.

At least half the battle of smartness is accessories, my years of budget-watching and clothes designing have taught me. I have seen girls in college and in business who had only the most slender of budgets achieve the utmost chic merely by giving their few simple costumes new touches now and then. My pattern today offers several I'm sure you will like, especially for life on the campus.

These items are designed primarily to brighten your sweater and skirt outfits, of which you undoubtedly have at least two. On the model's head is a pork-pie hat, flattering to the face and wearable with everything tailored. Over her knitted sweater she wears a jerkin, which may be made of suede leather or suede cloth, velveteen, or flannel. It buttons on the left shoulder and all the way down the side. These buttons themselves are accessory notes of the first order.

Sketched in the left hand panel are other items to brighten your sweater. Below the back view of the hat is a twotone belt, ingeniously contrived to lend that modern air so important this season. Below it is another belt with a mail pouch pocket. With the sweater may be worn a brief little shirtwaist collar of piqué, in white or some pastel shade to keep your sweater company.

Style No. T-8644 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires ½ yard of 54 inch material for hat; ¾ yard of 54 inch material for jerkin. For other requirements consult the pattern envelope.

It's a Help to Me, Says—

Mrs. James Frank, Chicago: For cleaning pieces of brass around my home, make a paste of equal parts of flour and salt and then moisten with vinegar. I apply this with a flannel cloth and then follow up with a good washing with hot water and soap. I also find that a weak solution of ammonia cleans brass well, but I dry very quickly with chamois and then polish with a fresh chamois.

Katharine Lee, St. Louis, Mo.: Here's the way I revive my wilted flowers which aren't really old. I cut off about an inch of the stems, keeping the stems under water as hot as my hand will stand it. Then I let the flowers stay in the hot water until it had cooled. They revive and take a new lease on life. I have also revived corsages in the same way, first removing the tinfoil which is around the stems.

Mrs. Daniel M., Chicago: When I'm in a hurry and spill too much salt in my gravy, which often happens, I add 2 or 3 raw cut up potatoes and cook them a few minutes. Then I take the potatoes out and much of the salty taste has disappeared.

* *

Sadie T., Duluth: When any nickel around my house gets stained and I'm out of nickel paste, I make a polish of whiting and kerosene or whiting and ammonia. I let this dry and then I polish. For dull or rusted nickel, emory cloth helps.

* *

Laura Thomas, Springfield, Ill.: I use my household spray gun to paint up small articles around the house in the fall. The paint goes on in a fine mist and does the work.

Woman Is "Housewife" for the London Council

The busiest housewife in England is Mrs. Monica Felton, who recently was appointed chairman of the London county council supplies committee. Mrs. Felton has $25,000,000 to spend every year, but she must spend it wisely and well, getting the best things at the lowest prices. Her purchases will range from toys to building equipment, from bandages to X-ray apparatus. The buying of food is one of the most important aspects of the committee's work. London county council's food bill last year was approximately $7,500,000.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. On the House

By Louise Bargelt

Weeks and months are close when the menace of too dry air will be with us in our homes, that is, unless we do something in the way of providing our well heated air with additional moisture. For that already existing hot water heating plant which you have in your basement, or that steam or vapor plant, there is a separate and efficient small conditioning unit which you can mount on your basement ceiling.

In case you would like another bathroom somewhere in your home, but aren't entirely sure just where to put it, there's a complete, prefabricated unit bath with walls and floor and shower cabinet, and with connections all made for the toilet and lavatory to bet set in. On such unit cabinet which is 36 inches deep, 90 inches wide and 76 inches high, comes in standard light green baked enamel, or in other colors at slightly higher cost. There is a leak-proof, sanitary floor for the entire unit.

Manufacturers for some time have been developing numerous ways, small and large, by which we can aid in the room circulation of air. Now there's a nice, portable electric unit which you can plug into any outlet and it will draw the cold air from the floor, heat it, and circulate it throughout the room.

That catch phrase, "life begins at forty" may be only a humorous expression to some women, a libel to others, a challenge and a fine accomplishment to more than a few others of us. But we modify the last count on the grounds that the women whose lives appear fullest, richest, and most beautiful after forty are women who never lost their grip of youth, physically and mentally.

We point to two of what some choose to call "miracle women" of our day in support of the foregoing fact, Billie Burke and Irene Castle, because we happen to have seen them both recently and, along with the rest of the world, are agape and agog over their extraordinarily youthful appearance. We point to them, too, because neither of these amazing women tries to conceal her years, but brings to them the gorgeous fruits and honors due them, and the grace, beauty and charm of mature decorativeness. We point to them because of the beauty of silhouette each has maintained, and more because of the mental flexibility that is theirs, facing change with optimism and vigor.

Without the optimism borne of vigor and flexibility, vigor with which to face change, and flexibility with which to adjust happily, life begins to slide downhill at 40, not up and on.

Vigor, therefore, is the great asset of the 40-plus. The catch phrase about life beginning at 40 begins with a body 40 years old. That's the catch for a good many women in the hackneyed phrase. They like to think of themselves as still possessing a body of a 21 year old, a 30 year old, although drooped heads, rounded shoulders, protruding abdomens and double chins are there to be reflected back at them from their mirrors.

If life is to begin at 40, one has to be honest and face these ravages of face and figure squarely. There may be plenty of time for repair. There is time. But thinking young thoughts alone will not work the repair, as some seem to think.

During the 40's certain structural changes often appear which, disregarded, will become established at 50. Up to 35 heads remain pretty well erect. Shoulders and neck still are good. Abdomens are kept flattened, and feet are agile enough. But during the 40's these are the structural changes that belie life's beginning with mid-years. In addition there are fat pads in definite areas. A dowager's hump or a "spare tire" is registered. With the muscles becoming flabby, circulation, digestion and elimination tend to become sluggish. Flabby muscle prescribes to the desire to ride rather than walk, sit rather than stand, sleep rather than be up and going, and eat rather than be reasonable about food intake. On top of this, the unguarded 40's present a whole string of frayed nerves, petty tempers, and, eventually, a feeling of inferiority.

A check-up by her physician should be the 40 year old's first move, advice from him on the extent of exercise and general activity to be followed. Bodily fitness must be sustained if you would escape dread of the 50's, 60's, and 70's. A program of prescribed physical activity is the greatest help. The tension common to the years is avoided, the nervous irritability, the fatigue. Outdoor sports and a prescribed daily dozen of some kind should be established as an imperative rite. Your daily dozen, so-called, need be but a half dozen or so good exercises a day that will prevent deterioration of unused muscles.

To prescribe to bodily fitness wisely along with the activity of which we speak, there are times when relaxation should be substituted for activity until tenseness is gone and fatigue eliminated. One cannot drive that 40-plus body, no matter how apparently young and vigorous, with the continuous energy output that is the privilege of the 20's.

Nor during these years should one permit herself to become a health faddist or fanatic. Such persons are mentally unhealthy and often physically so.

Where life ends at 40 the ossified condition of age already has set in. Optimism is gone and, without this fine possession, each new year sees the head bowed lower, the structural changes more and more marked over the entire body. Since vigor, which means good sound health and nothing else, routes age, the moral of this little sermon is that every woman of the years under discussion should make, or have made for her, a sane appraisal of physical assets and liabilities, and go on from there.

While earlier in our discussion we pointed to two outstanding women in professional life, we do so because their vocations make them spectacular figures. We could just as well point out women who have carved out careers for themselves, women who have borne and raised children, who are equally gloriously vigorous, optimistic and young because they have health and the optimism that never says die.

Through the Looking Glass

The elegance of the new season extends even to hair arrangements. This coiffure, created for evening wear, has the old-fashioned effect that is so decidedly new. Interest is centered in the front, where hair is arranged in two studied rolls. Ears are revealed to show the essential jewels, and hair is quite low in the back, with the crown perfectly smooth. This is the type of hairdress that can be dramatized effectively by a snood. Miss Nangle also writes about lipstick application today. See the Graphic Section. Clotilde Children's Patterns

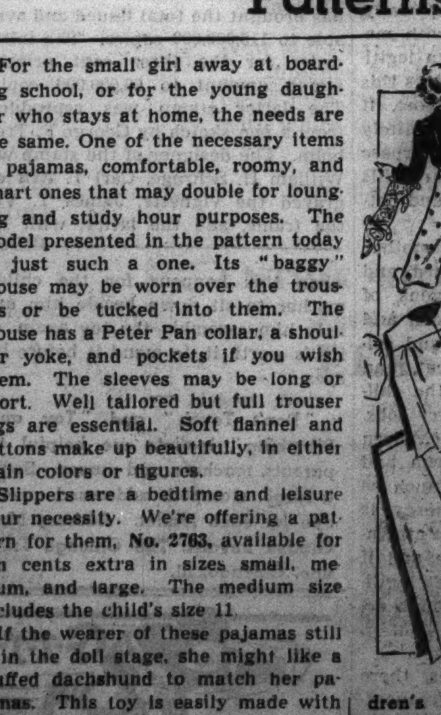
For the small girl away at boarding school, or for the young daughter who stays at home, the needs are the same. One of the necessary items is pajamas, comfortable, roomy, and smart ones that may double for lounging and study hour purposes. The model presented in the pattern today is just such a one. Its "baggy" blouse may be worn over the trousers or be tucked into them. The blouse has a Peter Pan collar, a shoulder yoke, and pockets if you wish them. The sleeves may be long or short. Well tailored but full trouser legs are essential. Soft flannel and cottons make up beautifully, in either plain colors or figures.

Slippers are a bedtime and leisure hour necessity. We're offering a pattern for them, No. 2763, available for ten cents extra in sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size includes the child's size 11.

If the wearer of these pajamas still is in the doll stage, she might like a stuffed dachshund to match her pajamas. This toy is easily made with embroidery pattern No. E-701, available for ten cents extra.

Style No. 2971 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of binding.

Each of these three patterns costs ten cents.



Address orders for Clotilde Children's Fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Ignorance of Facts Causes Hurt Feelings

Does the bride's father receive guests at the reception? For answers to this and many other questions about wedding customs, read Helen Bartlett's valuable booklet, "The Wedding Reception or Breakfast." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents; by postpaid mail, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

It isn't often that etiquet columns find persons to rail against because they are too sensitive. Etiquet editors have so much fodder for their cannons in the common offenders of the code who make themselves offensive and conspicuous by their very lack of sensitiveness, that they neglect those who need a little gentle guidance. There have been two cases of the supersensitive individual disclosed in the mail this week. Their problems are not identical, but they both are suffering from hurt feelings because of imaginary slights by persons whom they loved. Such needless suffering! Surely there are enough justifiable hurt feelings without whipping up nonexistent, fantastic offenses just so one can feel sorry for himself.

One woman complained that she and her husband had received a formal engraved invitation to their son's marriage. It is customary, of course, to send these formal invitations to the members of the wedding party, and even to the immediate family, because it is assumed that they would like to have them as mementoes. But what was upsetting this woman was the fact that the parents of the bridegroom were not mentioned on the invitation. The bride's parents were named, but no mention of themselves. And she was hurt, insulted, offended, angered . . . she had accused their son of denouncing them.

She was wrong, of course, but I doubt whether I convinced her or made her feel any better. There isn't any form—accepted form—for a wedding invitation or engraved announcement that includes the names of the bridegroom's parents. The bride's are there because they are host and hostess, and the invitations are issued in their names. The mother and father of the bridegroom are merely guests at the wedding, altho it is true they are honored guests and will be given special treatment.

Newspaper notices of the announcement of an engagement or marriage very often identify the bridegroom by mentioning his genealogical and geographical background, but the engraved invitations or announcements never do.

The other individual who needs to cultivate a little breadth of vision is a young wife whose husband was invited to act as a best man for an old friend, whereas the only invitation she received was to attend the wedding and the reception. Besides being hurt and insulted, she also was jealous. According to her letter, she wasn't going to sit on the sidelines and watch her husband escorting another girl at the church and at dinner. She would make him refuse the invitation before she consented to that.

She, too, was all wrong, but she also was pretty determined to stick by her decision whether right or wrong. Nobody was going to slight her publicly and get away with it.

In the case of weddings, people too often lose sight of the fact that the bride invites her best friends to act as her attendants, and the bridegroom chooses his from among his friends. They are not necessarily mutual friends of both bride and bridegroom. And because either a husband or wife is not included in the actual wedding party doesn't give that member of the partnership the right to feel offended and neglected. Should she not receive an invitation to the church and the reception, then she would have grounds for complaint.

What Doctors Say About Stomach Pains

Many doctors now favor the use of bismuth for sufferers of stomach pains. Bismuth coats the stomach lining on the sensitive parts, thus preventing the irritating action of digestive secretions and foods. Udga Tablets contain bismuth and other valuable ingredients in a balanced formula. They have been used and praised by thousands. Try a package of Udga for relief of stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, for heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Sensible, Wearable French Frock Has Simple Charm

By Bettina Bedwell.

NEW YORK [Special].—In all the furore over bustles and other such gewgaws with which most of the latest Paris dresses are presented, the more sensible and more wearable styles haven't been forgotten. One of the most outstanding of these latter modes is a model sketched today. You can make it easily with the help of pattern No. 5316, which I've had copied faithfully from the original.

The most important feature of this simple, smart gown is the shoulder yoke and the gay bow under the chin. Deft shirrings, a leading feature of most of the new styles, is used at the tops of the sleeves and directly under the yoke. Otherwise the dress is severely plain, especially in the bodice. The skirt has moderate flare.

This plain dress may be dressed up or down with accessories. The original used no jewelry, but the maker faced the bow and cuffed the sleeves with dull-surfaced ribbon to contrast the satin used for the model itself.

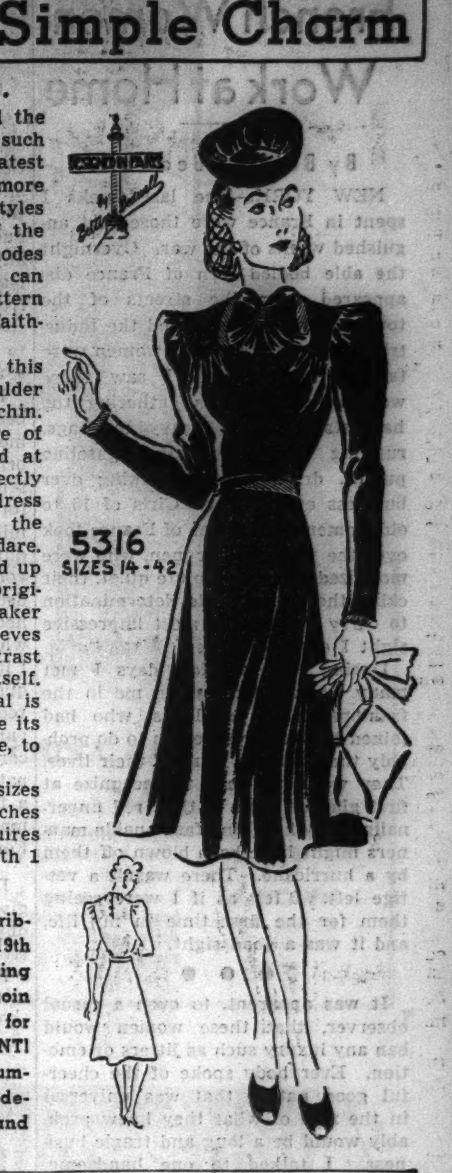
Style No. 5316 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of ribbon for bow.



Address orders to Chicago Tribune Paris Patterns, 119 West 19th street, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Not a very calm day universally, and particularly not free from irritation for those celebrating birthdays today. Tact will help smooth down the sharp edges. It may help to know that 1940 holds for those in a 2 year this year a promise of pleasanter prospects.

The 11s and 22s have had a tragic significance in this master 22 year, and especially in the 22 month of September. Great Britain declared war at 11 o'clock, and on the 22d there was the Rumanian purge and an earthquake in Turkey—just to mention a few incidences.

Men at Front, French Women Work at Home

By Bettina Bedwell.

NEW YORK.—The last weeks I spent in France were those first anguished weeks of the war. Overnight the able bodied men of France disappeared from the streets of the towns, from the fields and the industries. The next morning women were taking their places. I saw those women in the fields gathering the harvests, carrying heavy mailbags, running buses, working gasoline pumps, driving trucks, taking over business everywhere. Girls of 15 to old women, the women of France took over the jobs of their men, who were mobilized. Their absolute quiet, their calm, their implacable determination to carry on was the most impressive sight I ever have seen.

During the first few days I met many women, familiar to me in the fashionable life of Paris, who had joined the working women to do probably the first real work of their lives. They were not easy to recognize at first glance. Fine clothes, red fingernails, crazy hats, and fashionable manners might have been blown off them by a hurricane. There wasn't a vestige left. I felt as if I were seeing them for the first time in my life, and it was a good sight.

It was apparent, to even a casual observer, that these women would ban any luxury such as jitters or emotion. Everybody spoke of the cheerful good nature that was universal in the face of what they knew probably would be a long and tragic business. I talked to one handsome, white haired matron whose father was killed in the war of 1870 and her husband in the world war. And now her two sons had gone to the front. She said: "They're counting on me for something to come back to. I have to be a support to them until then." It is every woman's case. Somebody is counting on them. They're not going to fail.

And life in Paris didn't make calm and cheerfulness very easy to come by. Many nights we heard the air raid signals, a weird rising and falling sound that always seemed to come when one was in the best sleep. That meant getting up hurriedly and hastening to the nearest abri [shelter] to wait hours for the "all clear" siren. At first most of these shelters had no seats, so we stood crowded together in dark, airless discomfort. Sometimes we could hear the thud and boom of the antiaircraft guns. None of it was reassuring, but the next morning the work went on as usual, in spite of lost sleep.

At nightfall the blackout made getting around a hazardous business. Cars moving showed only the faintest blue light, as did buses and other vehicles. Bicycles, and there were many, had no lights, and pedestrians were dim shapes at two feet, so most of us carried sundry bruises from forcible contacts in the dark. Telephoning was as rare as ten carat diamonds, and all telegrams sent meant waiting hours at the prefecture of police for the necessary approval, then days to arrive. If one weren't in direct contact with his friends, he might as well have been shipwrecked, as far as news of them went. Travel reverted back to the dark ages as to speed.

But all this was small change, and accepted cheerfully. The strain that weighted us all was the waiting for news and the knowledge that the menace was there, perhaps not to be lifted for a long time. By the women of France that weight is going to be carried through to the end. For me, to get back to America meant escape from the heaviest part of it. Over here we've so much to be thankful for that Thanksgiving could be stretched for months without giving us enough time. You can go ahead and plan for your holiday celebrations without fear that bombardment, death, or sorrow will intervene. I'll now describe a few clothes that Paris dressmakers made for you to celebrate in, although they're not having any celebration.

Designed by Lucien Lelong is a night club ensemble for a no-blackout country. The silver fox bolero is worn over a black crêpe dress tucked almost to the knees, and then released into dancing width. A bright red sash and gloves make a splash of color. A red pillbox toque has silver fox ear flaps.

A model made by Mainbocher for the duchess of Windsor to wear in England has a black satin brocaded skirt and cape, the latter lined with mink. The waist is white satin brocade with long sleeves. Sober black with white or color is universally shown in Europe for any dress-up occasion.

The Chanel dance dress made of darkest Parma violet velvet has childish gathered sleeves and waist, set off by ruffles of white lace, down the sleeves and around the innocent neckline. A flaring peplum emphasizes a nonexistent hipline, and below it the skirt falls straight in the simplest manner. It is shirred at the front in two places, and the same at the back. Velvet gloves and hair ribbons go with it.

A wartime evening cloak from Mainbocher is made of rich black, curly surfaced wool, very warm and comfortable. The flower shaped buttons are of the same material, and the collar is white fox.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

About a year ago I stated in this column that answering bridge questions was no longer the sinecure it once had been. Years ago, I explained, the average question came from a dub and consequently was easy for any expert to answer. Now [meaning last year] the average question came from at least a near expert, hence the so-called master had to be on his toes to give an answer upon which he could not be tripped up.

I cannot say that my troubles have been lightened during the past twelve months. As every one now realizes, bridge is a game that constantly presents opportunity—necessity, rather—for split hair decisions. With fifteen million players in this country indulging at least weekly in their favorite pastime, the number of these decisions always arising and causing hectic arguments is something with which to conjure. Each morning when I inspect my mail and put aside those questions which I see at a glance will require huddles on my part, I invariably wish that I were indeed a conjurer. Perhaps as a bid for sympathy, I shall let my readers peep at a few of the "tough ones" that the mail man brought me this morning. For example:

Dear Mr. Culbertson: The hand given below was dealt in a neighborly duplicate pair play, neither side arriving at slam.

North-South vulnerable.

♠ 9 7 5 3
♥ Q J 10
♣ K Q 6 4

WEST	EAST
♠ A K J 8 2	♠ Q 10 6 4
♥ 8 7 2	♥ 9 5 4
♦ 10 5	♦ 8 3
♣ A J 5	♣ 10 9 7 3

♦ A K Q J 9 7 2
♣ 8 2

The first North-South team played the hand at three diamonds via the following bidding: West, one spade, North and East passed; South, three diamonds, followed by three passes. When the teams changed positions, the bidding was: West, one spade; North and East passed; South, two spades; West passed; North, two no trump; East passed; South, four diamonds; West passed; North, five diamonds, and three passes. The hand contains a six diamond laydown, but we can't see how the contract can be properly bid.—L. M., Pittsburgh.

Well, this is the sort of thing I have to contend with. Neither do I "see how the six diamond contract can be properly bid." I can offer improvements on the preliminary bidding that actually took place at both tables, but I freely confess myself to be stumped when it comes to South's taking the final leap. The two spade cue bid by South at the second table was distinctly better than the jump three diamond overcall at table one, but this does not get us very far. Also, North's response to the two spade cue bid should be three clubs, not two no trump—but even now we are hardly on safe slam ground. Suppose we start with the following sequence:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	Pass	2 spades
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds
Pass	3 no trump	Pass	4 diamonds
Pass	5 diamonds	Pass	?

Here, it will be observed, South does not "jump" when North responds with three clubs—he can bid three diamonds in the assurance that his previous cue bid forced the bidding to game. But exactly what good "going slow" does in this instance is another matter entirely. South inevitably reaches the point where he must make an arbitrary decision about his own losers. North's first three club response was no guarantee of the king-queen, nor even of the king—he could hold the Q J 10 x x. And even if North does hold at least a second round club trick, how about South's low hearts? Surely there is no assurance that North has the heart queen. Thus, it is reasonable to conclude, I think, that South, the possessor of the rock crusher, cannot safely or logically bid for a slam on his own account. Can North? I don't see how, nor at what point he can make such a brave effort. Let us take his responses one by one. The three club is obvious enough, so we can forget it. Next, when South bids three diamonds North has a problem. He has no real spade stopper, but he does have some length in the suit. He cannot support diamonds, nor can he mention a three card heart suit. The three no trump response, then, is merely the result of the process of elimination. Now, what can he do over four diamonds? Can he jump to six or take any other action that will lead to that contract? Hardly!

Thus, summing the whole thing up, it appears that this is just one more of those unfortunate hands with which the expert is as much stumped as the beginner. But do you think I enjoy giving this sort of answer? O, no, because I can always rely on some member of the foursome which originally wrangled over the hand, resuming the discussion by mail, pointing out to me how simple it all would be if I only used the Mesopotamian system.

Dear Mr. Culbertson: Both sides vulnerable and the opponents 80 on score, my partner dealt and bid three spades on this hand:

♠ A K Q 7 5 3 2 ♥ 7 ♦ K J 9 ♣ 8 2

The opponents doubled and we were set 800 points. Believe it or not, my partner made only six of his seven spades, and not another trick. Partner claimed his bid was correct. Please advise.—S. J. F.

Now, dear reader, do you begin to see what I am up against? Here I have to write and tell the indignant partner-victim that a bid which incurred an 800 point penalty was absolutely correct. I can just imagine the reception this opinion will be given! Nevertheless, undaunted and unafraid, I hereby submit that a bid for nine tricks on the given hand and particularly under the given conditions was not only correct, but was presumably very safe.

Either the adverse distribution was "something," or the declarer did not play his cards so well. One thing I know: No one will become poor, bidding three spades on such hands as this.

Dear Mr. Culbertson: Neither side vulnerable, my partner opened the bidding with one spade. Second hand overcalled with two hearts. I held:

♠ A J 9 7 ♥ 6 ♦ A K Q 4 ♣ A J 5 2

What was my correct bid? I might say that I bid three diamonds and when partner bid four diamonds, I jumped to seven spades. We do not use any slam conventions. Was I right or wrong?—J. L., Chicago.

I answered that since my correspondent and his partner were not using slam conventions, his bidding was eminently correct, and to my astonishment, received the following gleeful billet doux:

Dear Mr. Culbertson: I'm glad to hear that my bidding was correct! We were doubled at seven spades and went down five tricks! My partner had been "psyching" and had only the singleton eight spot of spades in his hand, with a flock of diamonds. Peace, it's wonderful!—J. L., Chicago.

Now, I ask you!

Dear Mr. Culbertson: Last night, I picked up eleven spades headed by the A 10 9 and also had the aces of clubs and diamonds. What was my correct bid?—K. E. J., San Francisco.

Naturally, both you and I, dear reader, would merely tell this gentleman to call for a new deck. But now you have a rough idea of what I'm up against.

L'envoi: My secretary just interrupted to ask, "Well, what do you bid on that hand?"

The contract is three no trump by South. West opens the spade ten. Can the contract be fulfilled; if so, how?

Answer: The contract can be fulfilled as follows: South's spade jack wins first trick. Heart six is played and West must duck, otherwise the contract becomes a laydown. [If West accepts first heart trick and returns a spade, declarer is assured of five diamond tricks, two hearts and two spades.] Dummy's heart jack holds and low diamond is led to ace. Declarer now leads the diamond jack, and West must discard. Obviously, he cannot let go a club. If he discards a heart, declarer retains lead in own hand with diamond jack, and then lays down the heart king. West's best defense is to win and return a heart, but now he can take only two heart tricks and two aces. If, on lead of diamond jack, West discards a spade, declarer overtakes diamond jack with dummy's queen and returns the spade queen, with the result the same as in the case of a heart discard by West.

Laundry Week Stresses Ease of Wash Days

National Laundry week, Oct. 14 to 21, will stress the substantial comfort and savings of new equipment for the woman who does her laundry at home.

New washers [and washers are usually the first of the major labor saving appliances to be installed in a home] do practicaly all of the hard work for you, excepting, of course, to put the clothes in the machine.

If you don't believe that washers have moved on, investigate just what dealers are offering. You can have your choice of a wide variety of types, for washers neither all look alike, or are alike. Hence the wide choice available.

New ironers will take hours of work out of every work week, and no matter how inexperienced you are it will only be a short time before you are sitting down at your ironing and guiding the articles while your machine labors on! No exertion; no weariness.

Modernized kitchens and new kitchens now have spaces included for laundry equipment, handsome equipment of which any kitchen can be proud.

You can have your laundry room in the basement or in a first floor utility room. As for your ironing: Ironers now come in so many types of cabinets that you really can iron almost any place in the house.

One general characteristic of many ironers now is a divided heating element. Only part of the ironer need be heated when small articles are to be pressed. Most ironers now have thermostatic control, too, so that the temperature can be set to suit whatever you have to press. All the better types of ironers, moreover, are protected from dust and soil with cabinet enclosure.

Child Doesn't Destroy Toys 'Just for Fun'

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I haven't a present for Jimmy this time. There's no point in buying him any toys," said his aunt as they settled in their seats in the train on the way to a summer visit to the seashore. "He's such a destructive child, and I can't understand it when he's so bright."

"O, all children are naturally destructive," said the boy's uncle.

A great many intelligent people believe this, then add, "And they have to be trained out of it."

Right here we could stop and say, "Well, it all depends upon what you mean by 'destructive.' Probably most people when they say, 'Children are naturally destructive' mean quite simply that children instinctively enjoy destroying things.

I do not agree. Children may, in the natural course of their benavior, break, or upset, or tear, or take apart some object, but it is usually done as an outcome of their activity, or curiosity, or because they are as yet not entirely skilled in the use of their muscles. That is, the breaking or tearing is not an end in itself, but is what you might call a by-product.

Destructiveness, which is really an abnormal or ugly motivation, is not in the least something to be expected of all children. Where it does occur in that guise—a deliberate intention to destroy—something's gone wrong somewhere.

Take the Jimmy who was going to get no present this time when his aunt and uncle arrived. Jimmy is destructive. He's past the little boy stage, yet most of his playthings are in pieces. He tries out the new chisel on the new coffee table, then disclaims it; he breaks his father's camera. That is, it's not just toys that he takes apart or wrecks, but he goes out of his way to destroy things.

Jimmy is really destructive — not naturally, but as a result of the way he's been handled and of other elements in his home setting such as a foolish adoration by his father when he was little and could do no wrong, plus a sharp change of front when he was expected to grow up suddenly, this being due to the advent of his baby sister, who was the first granddaughter among all the grandchildren and received a veritable accolade whenever she appeared.

To add to all this the boy was slender, sensitive, and high strung, while she proved to be a chubby, imperturbable seraph. Differently treated from the beginning, Jimmy would never at any time have needed to be destructive. But it's not the Jimmies I'm thinking of today.

Grownups' misundertsanding of what looks like destructiveness and their consequent reproof or even punishment of it are confusing to small boys and girls. When a little child bangs an object and it smashes or splinters and then he bangs it again and again with either absorption or delight, he does it because he's getting action and he likes the crack and crash of noise.

When he builds tall, tall towers of blocks and then with a sweep of his arm swishes them to the floor he gets a satisfaction from his sense of power and from the clatter that they make. It's the noise, movement, and sort of free hullabaloo that children enjoy. Haven't you seen them jump up and down and scream with delight over the wild shrieking of a fire siren? Some of these things satisfy that childish desire to "cut loose" which most often we have to restrain.

To be sure, children can easily become destructive if their energies are not directed or if they get started, perhaps accidentally at first, and then are allowed to go smashing along. But almost always what seems like destructiveness to the casual observer calls for another explanation.

For one thing, children who seem destructive are often extremely energetic children. In the process of letting off excess energy they break things. Such children, especially, should always be provided with materials that will allow them a legitimate outlet, and while sometimes this outlet may be of a big, free sort, it should at other times be definitely purposeful. Included in this purpose is the building up of muscular skills to forestall aimless banging and cutting.

Just as a suggestion, a mother might provide a hammer, board, and nails, wheelbarrows or wagons of sturdy built that can be loaded and pulled, blunt ended scissors and colored papers and cloth to cut, and wood and good tools when the children are able to do carpentry jobs. But besides and in between, children should be turned loose to run and shout and play actively as much as is possible. For pentup energy is rather a terrible force, even for grownups. It must go somewhere and if we don't watch out and provide legitimate ones it may escape through destructive channels.

Besides the energetic ones, there are other children who are frequently labeled destructive when they do not mean to be so. These may be children of inquiring minds or the occasional child who is a mechanical genius in embryo. These children sometimes like to take things apart; then, if they are not old enough to put them together again, the playthings are destroyed and may be allowed to lie around broken and neglected looking. It may be advisable when this happens for the child's mother to sit down beside him and help him assemble the toy again, or if it's worth it, to mend it before his eyes.

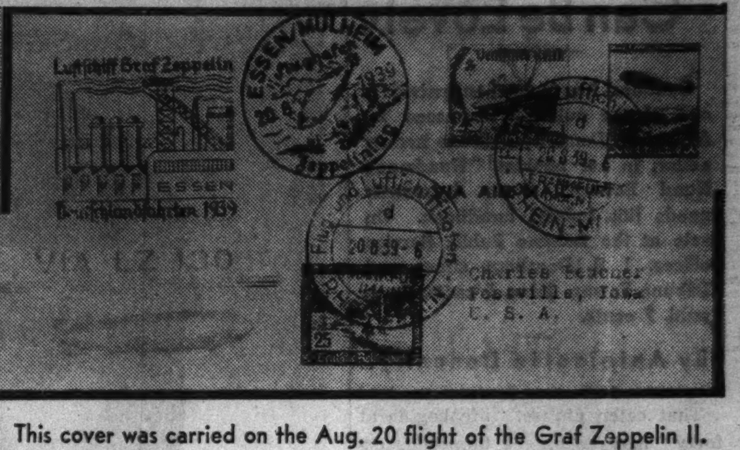
The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen



This cover was carried on the Aug. 20 flight of the Graf Zeppelin II. Under the present circumstances in Germany it is probable that this was the final mail carrying flight of this ship. The cover is from Charles Beucher of Postville, Ia.

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

The postal cards for international use which were issued during the 19th century have been described in previous columns. The first change in this card, after the turn of the century, was made in 1911 when the old Liberty head design was discarded in favor of one showing the portrait of Ulysses S. Grant. In some ways the new card, which was placed on sale on Oct. 27, is one of the least pleasing of all United States postal cards. It is printed in red on cream colored paper and is devoid of any frames or ornaments in connection with the inscriptions which seemed to give a finish to previous cards.

Near the upper left corner of the card are the inscriptions indicating its international character. The two pieces of information set forth in these inscriptions are given in English and French, following the prescription of the Universal Postal union that such information be given in the language of the country issuing the card and in Frnech, the official language of the union. The inscriptions are in four lines of small Gothic capitals and read, "Universal Postal Union—Union Postale Universelle—United States of America—Etats-Unis d'Amerique." The admonitory inscription is in line with the bottom of the stamp and is in small Gothic capitals reading "This side of the card is for address only."

This card is still in use to such foreign countries as are exempt from the provisions of the ruling of the Universal Postal congress of 1925, which requires a three cent rate on postal cards mailed within the United States for delivery in foreign countries.

Postmaster General Farley has announced that the central design for the three cent stamp which is to be issued in November in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the admission to statehood of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and Washington, will be a geological colored relief map of these states. The map was provided by the geological survey of the Interior department. The dates and places of four first day sales will be announced later. Alvin R. Meissner has designed the stamp, and the engravers are Mathew D. Fenton, for the vignette, and William B. Wells for the frame and lettering.

First day postmarks were applied to 230,975 covers bearing the three cent Panama canal commemorative stamp in the special postoffice aboard the U. S. S. Charleston. The first day sales of the Canal Zone commemorative stamps issued to mark the 25th anniversary of the Panama canal amounted to $21,729. Headlines in one of the philatelic newspapers give this figure as $481,000, which would break a record, but as a matter of fact the larger figure is the total value of the issue and not the amount of first day sales.

Additional printing orders of the Golden Gate commemorative stamp has brought the total issued and available to 115,000,000 copies. The initial order for the three cent printing stamp amount to 60,000,000 copies. The latter stamp was reproduced from a pen sketch by George F. Trenholm. The designer of the stamp was William H. Schrage, Carl T. Arlt engraved the vignette, James T. Vail the frame, and the latter, with Edward M. Hall and George L. Huber, handled the lettering.

The illustration in this issue shows a cover which may have been dispatched on the last mail carrying trip of the Graf Zeppelin II., L. Z. 130. This ship made its christening flight on Sept. 14, 1938, and succeeding flights, all of which originated at Frankfurt am Main, were made Dec. 1, 1938, to Reichenberg, Sudetenland; July 9, 1939, to Leipzig Fair; July 16, to Gorlitz; July 23, to Bielefeld; July 30, to Kassel; Aug. 8, to Wurzburg; Aug. 13, to Eger, Sudetenland, and Aug. 20, to Essen, Mulheim. A flight from Frankfurt to Koenigsberg was scheduled on Aug. 26, but this was canceled at the last moment and the covers which had already been struck with the regular "Flugund Luftschiffhafen" postmark and the Koenigsberg flight cachet were forwarded to their destinations by ordinary means. These covers bear a three line rubber stamp impression reading, "Wegen ausfalls der fahrt auf gewohnlichem weg befordert. Bahnpostamt 19 Frankfurt [Main]." No explanation of the cancellation of this flight has been given.

The Cicero-Berwyn Philatelic society will hold its fourth annual exhibition and bourse on Nov. 11 and 12 at the Olympic building, 2136 South 61st court, Cicero. The list of classifications has been prepared and is composed of four main sections which are further divided into 15 grounds. Suitable ribbon awards are provided for each group and there will be a silver cup for the grand award for the best display in the show. Every collector is invited to enter his material and entry blanks and the complete list of classifications, etc., may be obtained from Roman Reinowski, 1939 South Highland avenue, Berwyn. The final date for entering exhibits is Nov. 5.

Thirteen sacks of registered matter containing 267 pieces and ten sacks of first class mail matter originating in the United States were lost by the sinking of the Belgian M. S. Alex Van Opstal on Sept. 15. This mail accumulated in New York between Sept. 2 and Sept. 6, the sailing date. The mails were labeled to the exchange offices of Antwerp, Ostend and Brussels, Belgium, Matadi, Belgian Congo, and to Luxemburg.

The Evanston Philatelic society has resumed its weekly meetings, at 8 p. m., at the Nichols school, Greenleaf and Elmwood avenues. A popular feature of each meeting of this club is the "school of philately," in which a member gives a 15 minute talk on some philatelic subject of his selection.

Jack King, who with his wife, Mary, Don Hackett, a relief rider, and Kazan, the dog star, brought 2,500 pony express covers from the Golden Gate exposition to the New York World's fair in 121 days, is receiving orders for covers to be carried on the return trip. Mr. King expects to complete the westbound ride in 30 days, as there will be no public performances on this trip. Instead of establishing stations for relief mounts, the riders send their extra horses ahead by motor truck. Full particulars may be obtained by addressing a request to Jack King, Kew Gardens Inn, Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y.

To Relieve Bad Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

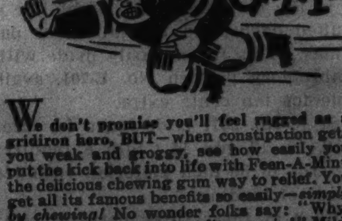
Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.



We don't promise you'll feel rugged as a gridiron hero, BUT—when constipation gets you weak and groggy, see how easily you put the kick back into life with Feen-A-Mint, the delicious chewing gum way to relief. You get all its famous benefits so easily—simply by chewing! No wonder folks say: "Why, Feen-A-Mint seems just like magic!" Mild. Dependable. Millions use it. Try it yourself.

New Playhouse Shares Honors with the Cast

By Cecil Smith.

With a mad, raucous new version of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne last week opened the new Wisconsin Union theater at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Designed by Lee Simonson and Michael M. Hare, the theater has been built without tapping state funds. A federal grant of $266,000 furnished a neat nest egg, and the rest of the money has been obtained through gifts and a loan to be repaid out of future student activity fees.

You can poke about the middle west pretty thoroughly without finding the match for the main auditorium of the new theater, either in beauty of decor or in audience comfort. The style is discreetly modern, plain in its surfaces but devoid of the hard angularities of an earlier modern style. The ceiling of the audience room sweeps in a gentle downward curve until it melts into the proscenium. Diffused lighting from unidentifiable sources illuminates the room softly, though more than amply. Nowhere is there a single obstruction to a complete view of the stage. No doors separate the audience room from the outer lobbies, yet the acoustical design is so skilful that no sounds from the outside can be heard within.

I did not have an opportunity to examine the stage equipment. Suffice it to say, however, that the Lunts never gave a performance more perfect or more unobtrusive in all technical details. Both the superior acoustics and the simple unity of architectural treatment bring the stage into so intimate a relationship with the audience that the theater seems much smaller in capacity than its actual 1,300. On occasion, special curtains may be employed to reduce the total of seats to 700. This shrinking device, added to the flexible construction of the stage apron, render the theater useful for concerts as well as plays.

The theater building, connected with the older Memorial Union building, contains more than the single auditorium. The foyers are unusually extensive, running off into inviting corridors. Art and design exhibits are hung on the walls. The ample space changes intermissions from massmeetings into opportunities for gracious, relaxed social exchange. A small experimental theater, rehearsal rooms, and recreation facilities are also included in the plant.

Without going into detail about the first bill it can be said that the Lunts were at the top of their form. Mr. Lunt had recovered from last summer's trying illness only to come down with a cold, which, however, did not reduce the boisterousness of his lusty Petruchio. Miss Fontanne's artifices were as infectious as ever. Settings composed of archaic looking drops created an atmosphere of whimsical unreality. Acrobats and clowns, interrupting the farce at intervals, gave a rowdy carnival air to the proceedings. The contributing cast was admirably selected, with Richard Whorf making a comic masterpiece out of besotted Christopher Sly watching the players from the sidelines; Philip Bourneuf saved in the nick of time from a musical comedy career [he gave the bicycling lecture in "One for the Money"] to reveal his real gifts as the lord in whose castle the comedy is performed, and a host of others behaving with the maximum adeptness—among them the inimitable rotund Sydney Greenstreet, Byron McGrath, Alan Hewitt, Albert Carroll, and S. Thomas Gomez.

For want of space, my opening night review of "Tonight We Dance," in which Ruth Chatterton has returned successfully to the stage at the Harris theater, omitted some important credits. The three children—Jimmy Roland, Tina Thayer, and Shirley Poirier, are all child actors of lovable naturalness and intelligent charm. [Jackie Ayres, whom I have not seen, alternates with Jimmy in the part of 9 year old Cappy]. Adelina Raotina, in a single character bit beginning with the curtain's rise, projects her Italian servant woman with ripe humor. Other valuable performers in a sound cast are Robert Wallsten and Roy Johnson. There are also two adorable baby dachshunds.

The comedy has caught on, as I think it deserves to, even though it still needs rewriting, and perhaps the total elimination of a gas man who loves the Berceuse from Stravinsky's "Fire Bird" [though it is mystifying that any one should have loved the offstage pianist's performance opening night]. Instead of two weeks, "Tonight We Dance" will remain at the Harris for four.

With the Harris confident of Miss Chatterton's occupancy for a longer period than originally planned, "The White Steed" will come into the Erlanger theater Oct. 23 instead of the Harris. Next Sunday I shall devote a juster allocation of space to this drama, which New York reviewers voted the most rewarding play of foreign authorship presented in New York last year. If you want to discover some lively information about Whitford Kane, the star of "The White Steed," obtain a copy of his memoirs, entitled "Are We All Met?" and published in London in 1931 by Elkin Mathews and Marrot. Immediate action at the box office is advisable in the case of "The White Steed." It is booked into the Erlanger for a single fortnight, and it falls into the subscription list—a large one—of the Theater Guild and the American Theater society.

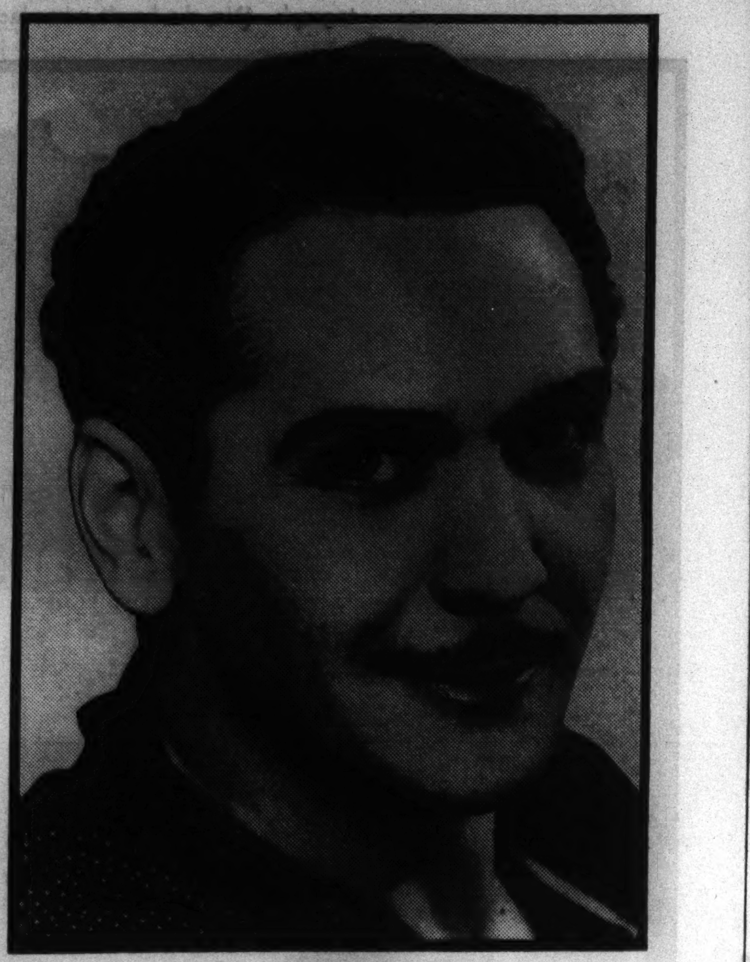
William Gaxton.

The newest definite commitment in the fall schedule is the musical "Leave It to Me." Cole Porter's tunes and the merry-making of Sophie Tucker, Victor Moore and William Gaxton will grace the big stage of the Auditorium theater for three weeks beginning Nov. 20.

The Goodman theater schedule this year calls for the production of one play each month, with casts composed of students in the school of acting. Each play will be presented for two weeks, with a matinée on Thursday of the first week. The first play, Philip Barry's "Holiday," completed its fortnight last night. Other plays promised for the autumn are Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" [beginning Nov. 6] and "Family Portrait," by Lenore Coffee and William Joyce Cowan [beginning Dec. 4]. All performances are open to the general public. Art institute members profit from a large reduction in ticket prices.

Tonight We Dance



Barry Thomson heads the supporting cast of "Tonight We Dance," the new comedy which brought Ruth Chatterton back to Chicago's stages. The play will stay at the Harris theater an extra two weeks, not closing until Nov. 4.

Popular Prices Extend Run of "Abe Lincoln"

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—Robert Sherwood, who wrote "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and Elmer Rice, who is one of his associates in the Playwrights' company and a Pulitzer prize winner among the dramatists on his own account [with "Street Scene"], were sitting in the lobby of the Adelphi theater in 54th street the night I wandered in to see what "Lincoln" was doing since it had been moved up from Broadway and offered to the citizenry at popular prices.

"Lincoln" had played at the Plymouth theater for two weeks short of a year at regular prices, which would be $3.30 as a top price. For seven months of that time Raymond Massey was the star. When Massey went west to duplicate his performance for the screen version of the play, the playwrights gave his understudy, Richard Gaines, a tall young actor from Texas, a chance at the part, and Gaines made so much of his opportunity that the Sherwood play continued right on through the summer—not always to capacity audiences, but to few audiences that were not of respectable proportions and to none that were not enthusiastic.

Then at the end of the year "Lincoln" was moved to the roomy Adelphi and the experiment tried to reducing the prices to the popular "dollar top" so dear to the hearts of the people.

As I say, Mr. Sherwood and Mr. Rice were sitting in the lobby. Inside there was an audience that practically filled the theater. There may have been fifty empty seats in the rear corners, but that was all. In the box office the ticket sellers had reported a complete sellout for Saturday night and a near sell out for Friday night, with orders still coming in.

• • •

"This thing is so exciting I can't get away from it," said Mr. Rice, who has been a fairly consistent campaigner for popular prices in the theater for several years.

"It is what will be happening in every legitimate theater town in the country in another five years," declared Mr. Sherwood, who also believes in a people's theater that shall be reasonably priced.

And then we all three went back into the theater to revel in the excitement that is engendered when a fine play is being seen for the first time by a happy and appreciative audience.

A natural query arises as to why Mr. Sherwood and Mr. Rice, feeling as they do about theater prices, did not produce "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" originally at popular prices. If they had been able to select a suitable theater, and could have controled its box office, they might have done so. But it happens that theater owners insist in their contracts that prices shall be maintained at a certain set standard. It also happens that when a production has cost $50,000 or $75,000 to stage, there is sound excuse for its promoters wanting to get their investment back as soon as the public will pay it. And there is no rule of business or common sense to induce any producer of plays to offer his attraction at a price that will not return its weekly expenses, plus a reasonable return on the investment.

But what all campaigners for lower theater prices are hoping for is a general cut in the expenses of the theater, a general adaptation of large auditoriums to the practical uses of the theater and, eventually, a general building or rebuilding of community theater auditoriums that will permit a reduced cost of operation.

The fact that the Lincoln play, after having played a year in New York, can still attract capacity audiences in a large theater with an unknown actor, no matter how able, in the titular rôle, is merely the latest in a long string of proofs that the chief handicap the legitimate theater faces is the cost of it.

Fay Templeton.

I have been reading the accounts of Fay Templeton's passing in San Francisco ten days ago. And wishing that the late Amy Leslie of Chicago might have lived to write the book of her old trouping companion's life.

Miss Templeton was 74 years old when she died, and most of her contemporaries have preceded her across the river. But her life was so marvelously mixed with the development of the early western theater, and then so picturesquely tossed into the eastern theater at the height of its success, that some one should write it.

Consider the excitements of the Templeton career at its highlights: She was 3 when her mother and father, John Templeton and Alice Vane, joined the James A. Herne-Lucille Western company in San Francisco because they needed Fay to play the child in "East Lynne." She was singing opera at 10. She was married to a handsome minstrel, Billy West, at 15, and divorced at 18.

She gave father a twist when she told him that she was leaving the Templeton Opera company and going to New York to work for Ed Rice at the Fifth Avenue theater, and she was pretty much on her own after that. She married Howell Osborn, and lived the easy life for awhile. When Osborn died, and lawsuits over his money followed, she had to come back to the stage. That was when she found the Weber and Fields company, or they found her, and a new series of successes started.

She married a third time and again thought to leave the theater for good and all and be a social somebody in Pittsburgh as Mrs. William J. Patterson. But the Patterson money took wing, too, and after his death there were numerous farewell guest star appearances as Buttercup in "Pinafore," and finally the last fling in "Roberta." And then the Actors' Fund home. And finally a room with a cousin in San Francisco—and lights out. What a life!

The Woman's Symphony orchestra begins its new season in Orchestra hall on Monday with a program featuring two familiar operatic artists—Edith Mason, soprano, and Mario Chamlee, tenor. The former will sing the "Jewel Song" from "Faust," and the latter will be heard in "Ah! fuyez douce image" from "Manon." Together the singers will offer the duet from the first act of "Madame Butterfly." As for the orchestra, it will for a second season be under the direction of Izler Solomon. For its part of the program the following numbers have been listed: Overture, "Comes Autumn Time," by Leo Sowerby; "Italian" Symphony No. 4, A major, by Mendelssohn; Capriol Suite for string orchestra, by Peter Warlock; Four Characteristic Dances, by Salta, and three dances from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride." This performance of Warlock's composition is the first in Chicago.

Alexander Gretchaninoff has arrived in this country to assist at the first presentation of his Fifth Symphony by the Philadelphia orchestra shortly. While he is here he will make a concert tour with the distinguished Russian soprano, Maria Kurenko.

Johnny Perkins, the jovial and rotund comedian, presents his own show on the stage of the Palace theater this week. His company of merry makers includes Masters and Rollins, eccentric comedy and dance stars; Rita Oehman and her brother Eddie; Vern Wilcox, the "polite inebriate"; Martin and Allen, athletes; the Two Bushers, puppeteers, and Billy Scott and his University of Indiana orchestra. The film is "Rio," with Sigrid Gurie.

That "Blonde Bombshell of Rhythm," Ina Ray Hutton, holds forth with her orchestra at the Oriental theater. A stellar supporting group of acts lists Will and Gladys Ahern; Allen, Stone, and Allen; the Twelve Rhythm Dears; William Weissman, and many others. Due to the elaborate stage show there will be only one film picture, "Hotel for Women," with Linda Darnell and Elsa Maxwell.

Both stage and screen shows are being held over by the Chicago theater for a second week. To be seen in the former are the newly organized Chicagoland septet, the Hild ballet girls, the Arnaut Brothers, Carroll and Howe, and others. On the screen is "The Rains Came," starring Tyrone Power and Myrna Loy.

W-G-N's Bill Anson is master of ceremonies at the State-Lake theater for the present show. The acts he will introduce will feature Lillian Barnes, Maxine and Clayton, the Hollywood Co-eds, the Jim Wong troupe of Chinese, the Dawn Sisters, George Lyons, and Bert Sloan and company. "Winter Carnival," with Ann Sheridan, is the motion picture.

Opera Company to Give 49 Performances During Season

Opening with 'Godunoff' Is 13 Days Away

By Edward Barry.

With the opening of the Chicago City Opera company's season only 13 days away, it behooves us to set down in compact form today as much general information about the project as possible.

The Chicago City Opera company, under the presidency of Jason F. Whitney and the musical directorship of Henry Weber, will present in the Civic Opera house between Oct. 28 and Dec. 17 about 46 performances of opera and three of ballet. Of the operas, 35 will be regular subscription performances and seven will be sponsored by the board of education. In addition there are to be at least four special performances of one sort or another.

The subscription performances will be given on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon. One may purchase single tickets for any performance at prices ranging from $1.10 to $4.40. Prices for the board of education series on Thursday night are 55 cents to $2.20.

Of the special performances, the most important—and the only one on which full information is available—is the preseason presentation of Moussorgsky's "Boris Godunoff" on the evening of Oct. 28. Prices for this gala opening night are somewhat higher—$1.50 to $5 for subscribers, $1.65 to $5.50 for nonsubscribers. The Littlefield ballet will not only appear with the opera company in many regular performances but will, in the course of the season, have three evenings of its very own. The dates are Nov. 12, Nov. 26, and Dec. 10.

The opera company's répertoire will be enriched this year with a few revivals. Besides "Boris Godunoff," not heard here in eight years, there is Verdi's "Falstaff," which had its last local presentation in the season of 1929-'30. Moniuszko's "Halka," Charpentier's "Louise," and Smetana's "Bartered Bride" are to be brought back after much shorter periods of silence. The regular répertoire will include not only the more familiar operas of Verdi, Puccini, and Wagner but also such off the beaten track items as Humperdinck's "Hänsel und Gretel" and Giordano's "Andrea Chenier."

Now to the artists. The roster of sopranos is headed once more by Kirsten Flagstad, the great Norwegian exponent of Wagner, who has been announced for "Lohengrin," "Tristan und Isolde," "Die Walküre," and "Tannhäuser." Lily Pons, Grace Moore, Helen Jepson, and Dusolina Giannini are all coming back. The second named is to sing the title rôle in "Louise" the afternoon of Nov. 4. Rosa Raisa and Edith Mason are returning after brief absences from the company. Other high ranking sopranos remembered favorably from other years, and who will be present this fall, are Rose Bampton and Hilde Reggiani. Elen Dosia is expected, but as this is being written no word of her sailing has come. She is in France with her tenor husband, Andre Burdino, who also is expected here this season. There is grave doubt about the ability of Maria Caniglia, who now is in Italy, to fulfill her engagements with the Chicago opera company this year.

• • •

We are to have the unusual experience of hearing an American Indian soprano in the course of the season. She is Mobley Lushanya, an Oklahoma born Chickasaw.

Gladys Swarthout.

The mezzo and contralto division will be headed by Enid Szantho and Gladys Swarthout. The former, who is Hungarian and Irish, has never before appeared in opera in Chicago. She has not yet reached America, but is expected to arrive shortly. The latter, an American, has been an almost complete stranger to the local stage in recent years. Eleanor La Mance, Sonia Sharnova, Elizabeth Brown, Ada Paggi, Elsa Soderstrom, and Margery Mayer remain on the opera's 1939 roster.

• • •

Among the men, Galliano Masini almost certainly will not be able to come. His place in "Andrea Chenier," on Oct. 30, is to be taken by Armand Tokatyan. Jan Kiepura, the Polish tenor, about whom some concern was felt earlier this fall, has arrived in America and will take part in the Chicago season. He will appear in the Polish opera "Halka," among other things. Giovanni Martinelli, Rene Maison, and Tito Schipa are other potent names in the tenor roster.

Ezio Pinza, Italian bass, is due to sing the name part in "Boris" on opening night. Other basses and baritones announced for the season are John Charles Thomas, Leon Rothier, Virgilio Lazzari, Mark Love, Frank Chapman, George Czaplicki, and Carlo Morelli.

The conductors include Henry Weber, Louis Hasselmans, Leo Kopp, Jerzy Bojanowski, Edwin McArthur, and Angelo Canarutto. Roberto Moranzoni, as far as present indications go, will not be able to leave Italy in time for the season.

Wednesday evening, Nov. 1: Verdi's "La Traviata," with Jepson, Schipa, and Thomas.

Thursday evening, Nov. 2: Verdi's "Il Trovatore," with Bampton and Baum.

Friday evening, Nov. 3: Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," with Reggiani, Schipa, and Thomas.

Saturday afternoon, Nov. 4: Charpentier's "Louise," with Moore, Burdino [?], Claessens, and Rothier.

With Woman's Symphony

On Monday night the Woman's Symphony orchestra will offer its first program of the season in Orchestra hall under the direction of Izler Solomon. One of the soloists will be Mario Chamlee, popular operatic tenor.

Notes of Music and Musicians

For its second pair of subscription concerts—played on Thursday night and Friday afternoon—the Chicago Symphony orchestra will devote itself to three Russian compositions. Liadoff's musical tableau, "Baba-Yaga," will open the program. Miaskowsky's Sixth Symphony, considered by Conductor Frederick Stock to be one of the outstanding Russian symphonies, will follow. After the intermission Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony will be played.

On Saturday night the first "pop" concert of the season will be played by the ensemble in Orchestra hall. Dr. Stock will also conduct this program. It follows:

Overture to "Euryanthe"	Weber
Symphony No. 1, "The Rustic Wedding"	Goldmark
"The Moldau"	Smetana
Prelude to "The Deluge"	Saint-Saëns
Suite, "Ruses d'Amour"	Glazounow

The success of last season's production of a Greek opera, "Marco Bozzaris," has inspired the production of a second. This time it will be "Peruze," the work of Theo Sakellarides, a 57 year old native and resident of Athens. His opera was first given in the Greek capital in 1911, where it met with exceptional success. In today's performance the title rôle will be sung by Marion Schroeder Booras, while other parts will be taken by Florence Edwards, Manuel Baroumis, Jean Fardulli, Minas Booras, George Raftis, Andrew Philiotis, Andrew Kanellos, and Christ Miaris. The whole production has been conceived and directed by Mr. Fardulli, and Nicholas Varzos will conduct the performance. St. Basil church, of the Hellenic Orthodox community of Chicago and suburbs, is sponsoring the event, to take place in the Civic Opera house.

A new music series, totaling three events for the season, is being sponsored by the Goodman Memorial theater. It will open on Thursday night with a program by the Negro Singers and Instrumentalists—the program to be repeated on Friday. This group of performers is composed of members of various local, colored musical organizations, and is under the direction of Ramone Girvin. Their program will consist of excerpts from Handel's "Samson," and groups of Negro spirituals in solo, octet, and quartet arrangements. In February the second concert of the series will be presented—Russian folk songs, sung by Walevitch. The Elizabethan Madrigal Singers will offer the concluding program, scheduled for April.

The first meeting of the season for the American Opera society will be held at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday morning in the ballroom of the Drake hotel. On this occasion the David Bispham medal will be awarded to Edward Collins, the Chicago composer and pianist, for his opera, "A Daughter of the South." The musical program will consist of a presentation of Charles Wakefield Cadman's opera, "The Garden of Mystery," in which the following artists will take part: Helen Freund, soprano; Constance Eberhardt, contralto; Robert Long, tenor, and Raymond Koch, baritone.

William Hughes will conduct the Central Church chorus in Orchestra hall this morning in anthems by Mendelssohn and Tschaikowsky. Evan Evans will contribute a tenor solo to the service and Archer Lambuth organist will play selections by Borodin Debussy and Salomé.

The Sunday Evening club service at Orchestra hall tonight will have its music supplied by a chorus under Edgar Nelson's direction. Sacred selections by Dvorak, Wagner, and Verdi will be sung. Prior to the service Stanley Martin will play Felix Borowski's Third Sonata for organ.

Another orchestra has been added to the considerable number already scheduled to play in this city during the season. It is the Minneapolis Symphony, conducted by Dmitri Matropoulos. It will make one appearance in Orchestra hall under the management of Bertha Ott on Wednesday evening, Feb. 7, 1940.

Fritz Kreisler.

One of the few musicians whose name and fame have become a part of everyday conversation is Fritz Kreisler. His fall violin recitals in this city now constitute an annual custom. He will play this afternoon in Orchestra hall, accompanied by the benign and faithful Carl Lamson, offering this program:

Concerto No. 4, D major	Mozart
Partita [for violin alone], B minor	Bach
Poème	Chausson
Cavatina; Shepherd's Madrigal; Malaguena	Kreisler
Three Caprices	Paganini-Kreisler

Winners of last season's scholarship contest conducted by the Chicago Woman's Musical club were four: Harry Swanson, baritone; Mary E. Coleman, contrabassist; Eddy Epstein, pianist, and Robert Spiro, baritone. On Wednesday night the club will present them in recital, each appearing in one group. Special interest centers on Miss Coleman, who won out in the string contest where the players included eleven violinists, two cellists and a harpist. Both the selections in her group are by Francis Simandl, a famous double bass player of the nineteenth century and one of the few composers for this particular instrument.

First Ancient Music Concert Tuesday Night

By Cecil Smith.

It is safe to predict that the entire year's music schedule will include no more inviting or valuable programs than the three concerts of the Chicago Festival of Ancient Music, to be presented in the Goodman theater Tuesday evening, Oct. 24, and Wednesday, Nov. 1.

The historical span covered in ordinary concert programs is much shorter than it needs to be. Johann Sebastian Bach, whose music fills half the first festival program, is one of the earliest composers represented in run-of-the-mine musical undertakings; yet he is one of the latest in the list devised by Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson for their festival. Who of us knows enough about such seventeenth century geniuses as François Couperin in France or John Dowland and Henry Purcell in England? Just what, apart from the famous madrigal "The Silver Swan," does the Elizabethan name of Orlando Gibbons conjure up? And how innocent we all are, for that matter, of any significant experience of the music of Jean-Philippe Rameau, the contemporary of Bach whom French musicians call their greatest classical master.

There will be many surprises in store at these three concerts. Works of Bach and Mozart will be heard Tuesday night. This looks familiar enough, to be sure. But their music will be as nearly as possible as it was in Bach's time, not overdressed in the sonorities of the modern symphony orchestra and the percussive, dramatic modern piano. Where a pianoforte is used at all, one made by Muzio Clementi in England in 1801 will be employed. For the most part the brittle twang of the harpsichord will replace the bolder tone of the 1939 piano.

On Oct. 24 the evening will be given over to works by Couperin and Rameau. It is not venturing too much to call these artists two of the greatest whose compositions are still virtually unknown here. If you have been misled by the fairly common assumption that most pre-Bach music is pretty primitive and thin, you will be knocked in a heap by Couperin, who not only wrote exquisitely for instruments, but who also developed a type of religious vocal music marked by extraordinary expressive richness. And Rameau, the father of modern musical theory, ranks alongside Couperin.

The final concert on Nov. 1 presents the most varied array of music, all of it originally composed and performed in London. The earliest composer listed is Gibbons, the most recent Clementi. In between, chronologically, are vocal and instrumental pieces by Dowland, Purcell, George Frideric Handel, Johann Christian Bach, Karl Friedrich Abel, and John Field.

Mr. Manuel and Mr. Williamson, long recognized for their distinctive contributions to our concert life, head the list of performers. The coöperating artists are Dorothy Lane and Dorothy Brown, harpsichordists; Leonard Sorkin and Oscar Chausow, violinists; Milton Preves, violist; Dudley Powers and George Sopkin, cellists; Ernest Liegl and David Van Vactor, flutists; Gladys Porter, Ruth Bassett, and Irene Olson, sopranos; Hazel Meisterling and Ruth Saleen, altos; George Bishop, tenor; Bruce Foote and John MacDonald, basses.

Trio Sonata No. 6 [played on two harsichords]	Bach
Duo, B-flat major, for violin and viola [Köchel No. 424]	Mozart
Concerto, D minor, for three harpsichords and strings	Bach
Fantasia, F minor, for four hands [Köchel No. 594]	Mozart
Song, "Mood at Evening"	Mozart
Air, "My Heart Now Is Merry," from "Phœbus and Pan"	Bach
Concerto for four harpsichords and strings	Bach

Serge Jaroff.

One of the most popular of all present day choral groups, the Russian Don Cossack chorus, returns to the Civic Opera house this afternoon for its twenty-third Chicago concert. Conducted by pint-size Serge Jaroff, the chorus was originally formed in a prison camp near Istambul fifteen years ago. Perhaps no male chorus in the history of the American concert stage has ever surpassed the bold intensity and the breathtaking flexibility of this group. Today's program includes church motets by Bortniansky, Tschesnokoff, Gretchaninoff, and Tschaikowsky; operatic excerpts and folk songs composed or arranged by Moussorgsky, Jaroff, Gogotsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Schvedoff, Napravnik, and Samoiloff; and some Cossack war songs.

The San Carlo Opera company's season at the Auditorium theater is short this year, since Fortune Gallo saw fit to reduce the usual three week engagement to two. Verdi's "Il Trovatore" closes the visit next Sunday evening. Before then three operas—Puccini's "Lo Bohême," Verdi's "La Traviata," and Wagner's "Tannhäuser"—will be presented for the first time this fall. The repetitions of the week are Verdi's "Aïda," "Rigoletto," and "Il Trovatore;" Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," and Bizet's "Carmen." All the company's chief singers will be heard during the week. Carlo Peroni conducts all performances. Detailed casts follow:

Drake Is Scene of Homecoming for Wayne King

It is homecoming week at the Drake, what with Wayne King again ruling the Gold Coast room and Frank Ahmstadt marshalling the King's fans. There is even "Deep Purple" to add a musically nostalgic note to the "welcome home" program for the popular maestro.

Opening with a medley of Strauss waltzes that demonstrates the musicianship which made Wayne famous as the "Waltz King," the floor show soon turns into an Art Jarret production. The former "street singer" of radio fame has forsaken his orchestral ambitions and returned to solo work—a move that Drake crowds approve with repeated demands upon the lyric Jarret voice. Most reminiscent of Jarret's heydey singing is his version of "Over the Rainbow." "It's All Yours," is Art's only descent into the corn fields.

There may still be a rift, as has been reported, in the De Marco family, but eyes and smiles that danced across the press table and feet that danced across the Colony club floor made it unimportant as the popular dance team opened last week at the Rush street café for four weeks. There is about the dancing of the De Marcos something of the autumn tang and the flying sparks of a gypsy campfire. Whether they are repeating their "Begin the Beguine" or introducing a graceful and feeling interpretation of Wienowski's "Mazurka," there is always on it the mark of the De Marcos.

Adapting with one rehearsal their flying routines to the slightly abbreviated area of the Colony floor, and to the unfamiliar music of Don Orlando's orchestra, Tony and Renee took up where they left off a year and a half ago, fresher for their vacation, more vibrant for the rest they had taken.

The De Marcos were first to praise the coöperative manner in which Orlando and his musicians played the show. The band was making its debut at the club, too. Fernand Caney's rhumba band continues to attract the conga-gationalists.

An entertainment highlight on the south side is being furnished by Ella Fitzgerald, young Negro singer who now fronts the band made famous by the late Chick Webb, crippled king of percussion. Miss Fitzgerald, co-author of "A Tisket a Tasket" and other songs in the swing album, devotes most of her energies to the vocal end of the Grand Terrace show. Supporting her are the band's own entertainments and a well selected floor show.

Recordings

The Victor company continues to bring out interesting musical items on 10 inch single records, which are always attractive because of their small cost.

One of the most satisfying in the new group is Strawinsky's quiet little Pastorale played by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia orchestra. The piece is presented with the gentleness befitting a pastorale, but with the cleanness and positiveness befitting the sophisticated, unsentimental type of pastorale which Strawinsky would write.

On the other side of the disc is a somewhat alarming orchestral version by Mr. Stokowski of Chopin's D minor prelude for piano. This piece has not the kind of power which profits by the addition of the trappings of a big modern orchestra. The structure of the little prelude simply cannot bear the tremendous weight.

Kirsten Flagstad, soprano, and Lauritz Melchior, tenor, are both represented among the new Victor single disc releases. Both artists have chosen songs far removed from their accustomed Wagnerian sphere. Mme. Flagstad sings the rollicking "Love Went A-Riding" [Bridge], and Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Mr. Melchior offers three beautiful Norwegian songs, two on one side of a disc, one on the other. The songs are Grieg's "En Svane" and Jordan's "Horer Du" and "Drick."

Good Morning!

Well, here's a beaker of youth! Effervescing with enthusiasm! Bubbling over with earnestness! It's the screen adaptation of the Richard Rodgers-Lorenz Hart Broadway hit of the same name, and is bound to be "box office." [I think.]

You never saw so many eager and capable young folks bunched together before in a production! Can you imagine "Babes in Arms" flopping with Mickey Rooney playing the lead —I almost said "leads," the lad has so much to do—Judy Garland furnishing fresh young feminine charm as his teammate, Betty Jaynes pouring out her ardent soul in a lovely voice, Grace Hayes facile and appealing as a one time child star trying to stage a comeback, Charles Winninger there as color and background, and BESIDES, a whole raft of talent young and old, WITH, in addition, stunning ensembles by Busby Berkeley AND plenty of hummable music? Nope. Couldn't be done.

The story is concerned with the failure of a group of old time vaudeville people—who have invested their savings in homes in a suburb—to stage a comeback, and the success of their devoted offspring—a new generation with swing ideas—in putting over a successful musical production. WHICH, in the long run, nets everybody plenty. . . .

There are, of course, setbacks and heartaches galore, but they fade and merge sweetly in achievement and one great, big, beautiful, patriotically inspiring finale. . . .

The two Rodgers-Hart songs used are "Babes in Arms" and "Where or When." Other musical numbers were furnished by Nacio Herb Brown, Freed, E. Y. Harburg, and Harold Arlen.

Pretty slick!

See you tomorrow.

St. Luke's Board to Give Fashion Show on Tuesday

By Judith Cass.

THIS week brings THE fashion show of the winter, the annual one given by the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital. This year's will be the 13th the women have staged and, as usual, it will be in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. If there were a larger place in Chicago in which a stage and runway could be installed, and where tea could be served, probably the women would reserve it, for there isn't a doubt but that twice as many women would like to see the show as can be accommodated in the Stevens ballroom, large as it is.

The show will be given on Tuesday. The afternoon showing will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock and the evening one at 7:30. Dinner is served at night. There are no reserved seats in the afternoon, except the boxes, but at night all tables are reserved. The price of an afternoon ticket, including tea, is $5, and at night three times that amount admits a couple.

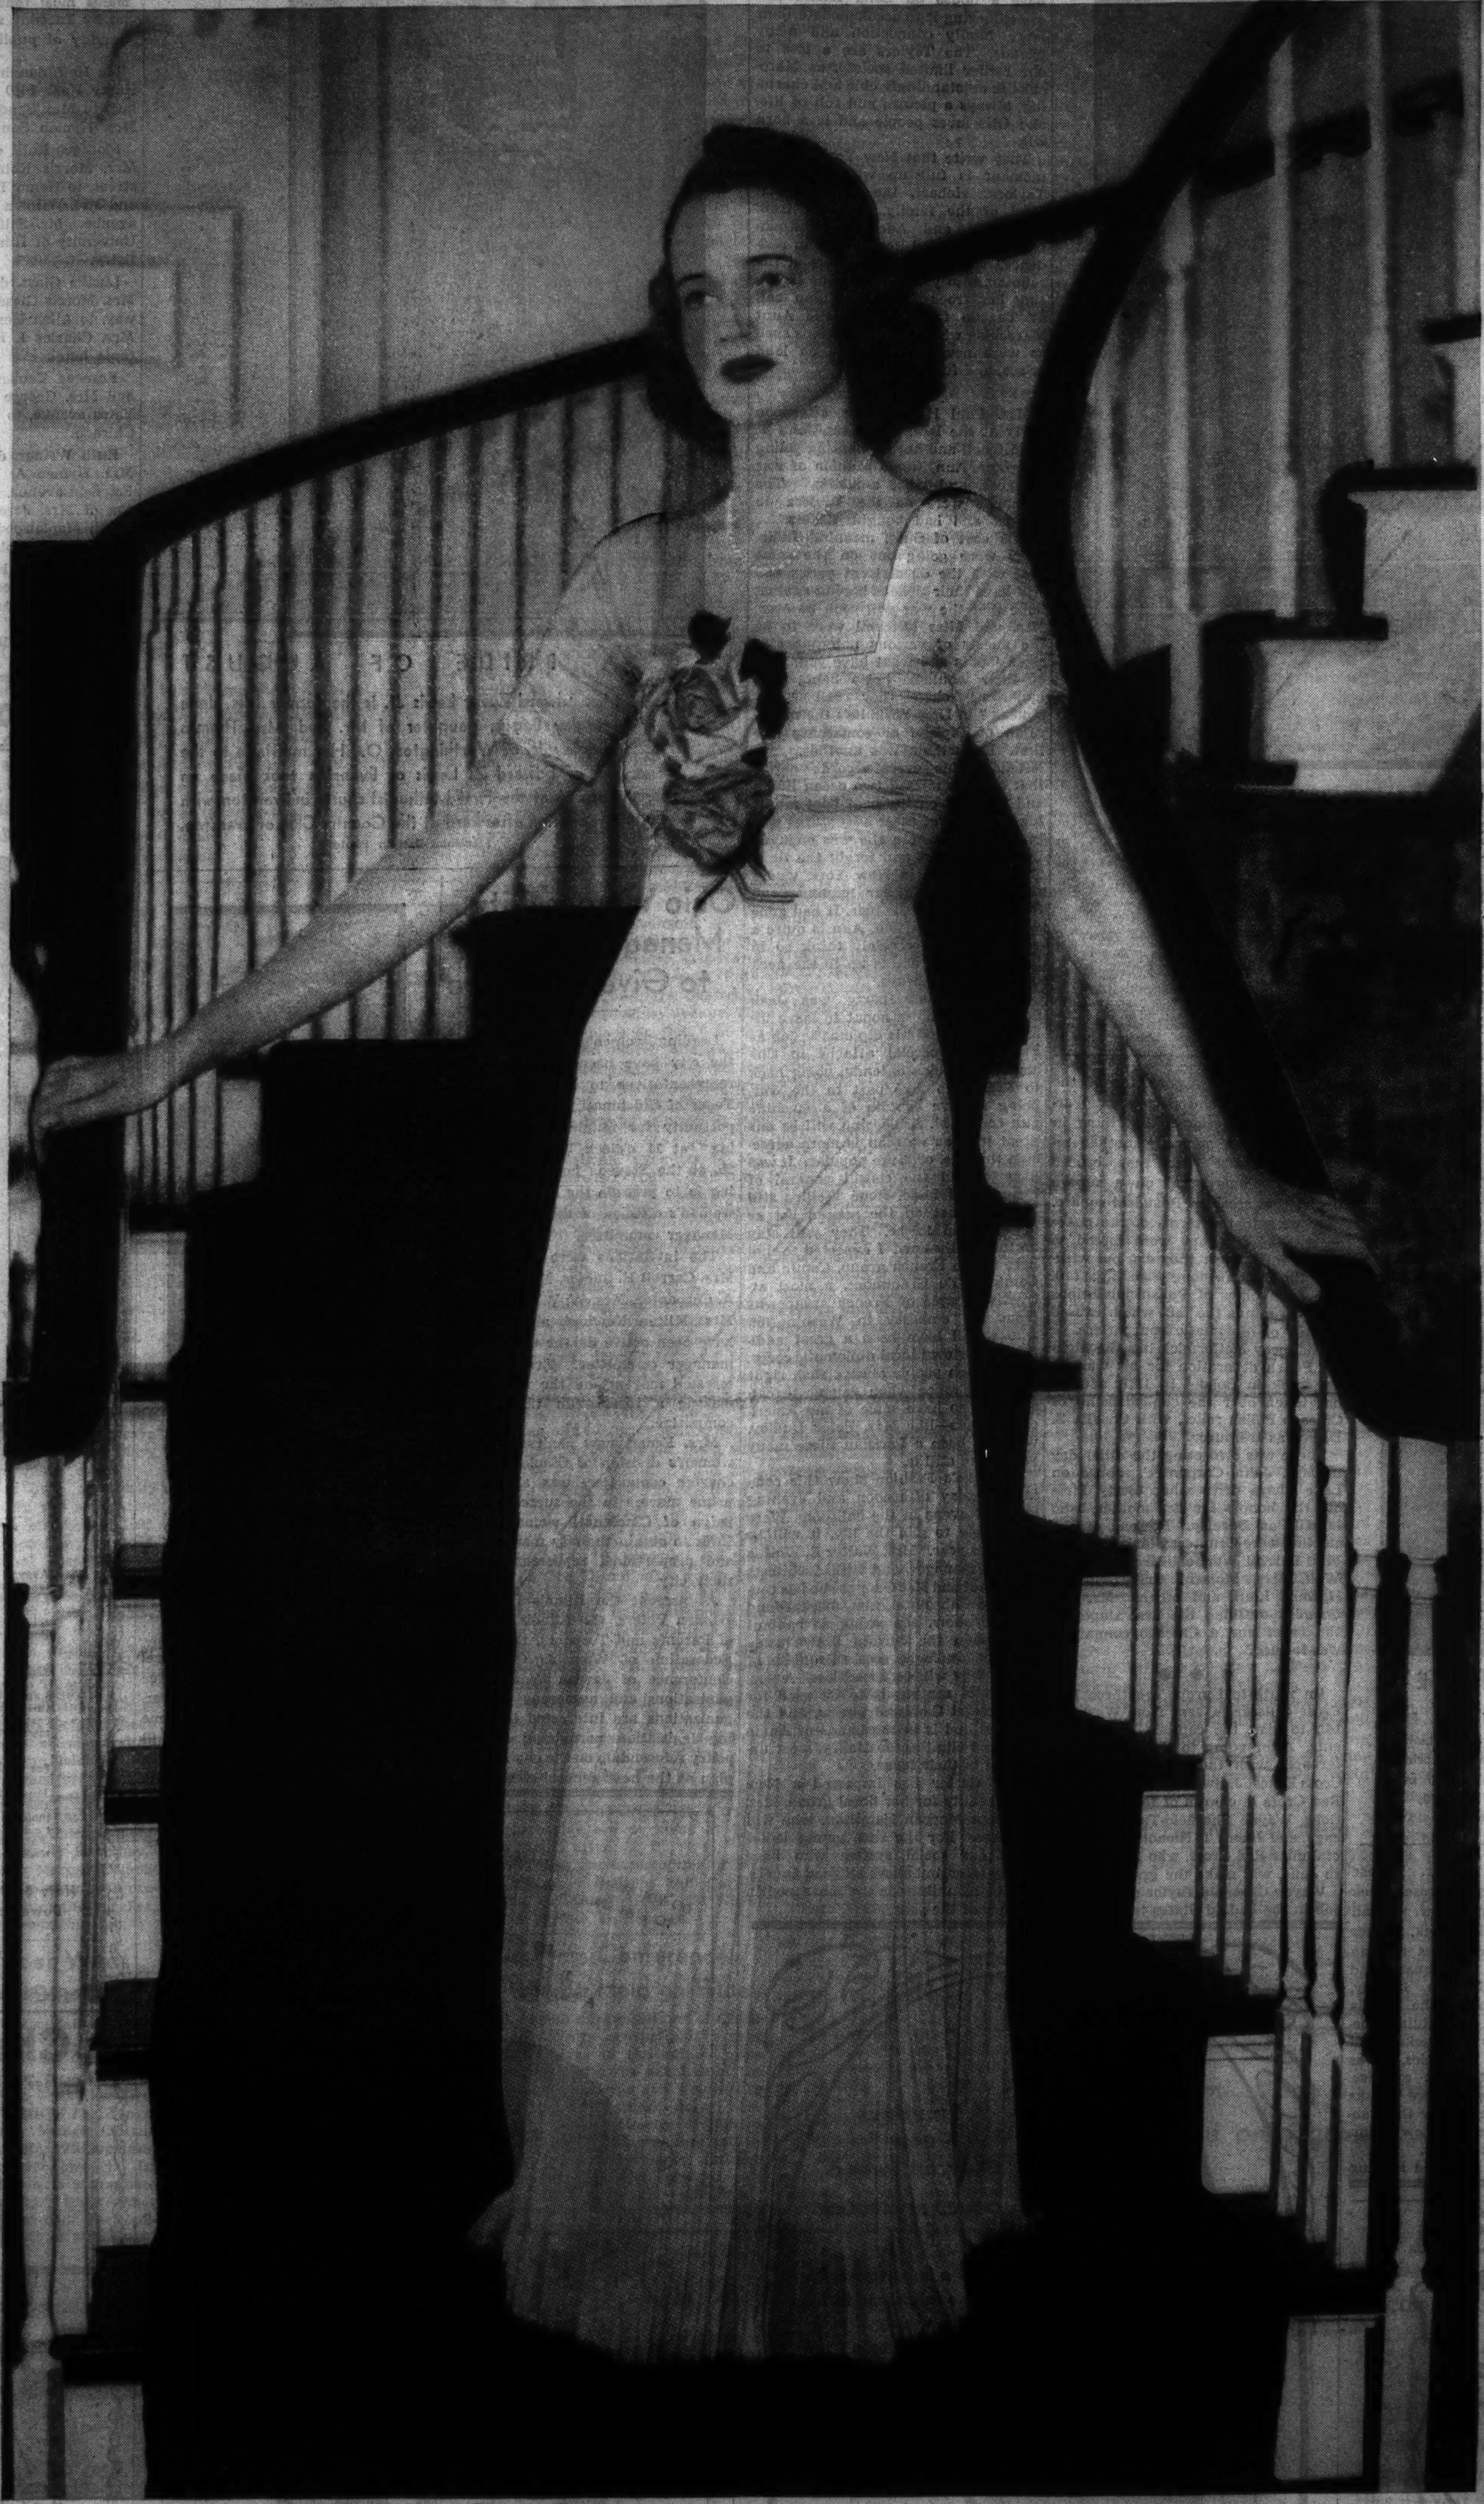
All but six of the debutantes will be selling flowers, programs, and cigarets during the afternoon and evening. The debs who will display their charms and some of the latest styles for winter on the runway are the Misses Alice Blair, Barbara Buchanan, Anne Stuart, Marie Louise Hulburd, Carolyn Harrison, and Barbara White. All the other buds are too short to be satisfactory models, so they will assist by wearing their own prettiest afternoon frocks and by helping to swell the proceeds by selling the wares from large trays hanging from their shoulders.

Once a real bride, but never one in traditional white until now, is Mrs. George S. Chappell Jr., who will be the bride in the show. [Mr. Chappell and Caroline Byron Smith eloped in March, 1932.] Katherine Littlefield and Prudence Johnson will be the bridesmaids. Georgia Bluford Spencer, Deborah Marie Washburn, and Mary June Du Shane will show juvenile fashions.

• • •

Too much credit cannot be given to the women who run the show, for they do a job that surprises any one who never has seen a St. Luke's show before. Everything runs smoothly, in front and in back of the stage. Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the woman's board, is general chairman of the show, and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf is responsible for the fashion revue itself. Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, and young Mrs. A. Watson Armour have arranged for the exhibitors; Mrs. Morrison Waud, Mrs. Richard K. Juergens, Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley, Mrs. Robert B. Upham Jr., and Mrs. John D. Ames selected the models. Properties are the responsibility of Mrs. (Continued on Page 3.)



Grand Duchess to Talk Here on European Affairs

By Cousin Eve.

OCTOBER 30 is a date marked off on my calendar with a nice little star. On that evening Grand Duchess Marie will be here to address the Northwestern university course on "Europe as It Is Today." And, furthermore, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. will add joy to the evening with his comments on various crowned and uncrowned heads whom he interviewed the past summer and his impressions of the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

Marie is a beautiful woman now and, as a young Romanoff grand duchess, cousin of the czar, and daughter of Grand Duke Paul, she married William of Sweden and went to Stockholm to live. The Swedes are the most ceremonious and punctilious people in Europe and their strictness seems to have irked Marie. History says that one night at some stately function she coasted down the stairs on a gorgeous silver tea tray from among the royal wedding presents. What she has to say about Europe is from the "inside" and will be brilliantly said.

Chicago is going full steam ahead this autumn with the usual sturdy shoulders at all the wheels.

We're all so glad to be Americans that maybe we'll settle down to work for our own country. Apropos of that they tell me there's a school of politics going forward at 2800 Sheridan road, which ought to be interesting. And there are groups of women forming all over the country to keep America out of the present mêlée in Europe.

The flock of wedding cards in my mail seem to testify that matrimony has been speeded up by war. It was nice to be under the wire for the Harris-Symington wedding at St. James', a ceremony breaking all records for pageantry. Twenty-seven bridal attendants preceded the bride. They wore yellow and the red of autumn à la Gainsborough, in frocks and hats copied in color and style out of the Art institute.

It helped to warm and brighten up the old church where Fay Carter had done even better witchcraft than usual. The chancel was hidden by high green, clipped hedges, yellow chrysanthemums in tall urns, and fat ecclesiastical candles.

Valeria wore her mother's satin wedding gown, the sort of lustrous rich satin extinct as the dodo. With sleeves and a round train, it was covered by the wedding veil of tulle and point lace, a marvelous creation. At the house the crowd surged, yet one struggled aloft for a look at the wedding gifts, beautifully shown on built-in shelves. The gorgeous display was startling in its variety. Since the wedding scores of gifts (Continued on Page 2.)

Mrs. George W. Whitehurst is a member of the committee in charge of the Ridge Service Guild auxiliary's third annual Monte Carlo ball, to be held on Nov. 4 at the Stevens hotel to aid the Morgan Park Home for Dependent Children.

have arrived for the Virginia house, Hillcroft near Leesburg. The young Symingtons are going in for peach orchards, I believe.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Harris are moving soon to an apartment at the Racquet club. This has recently changed its spots and been rebuilt to house the wives of members. The Racquet says it is remodeling on the lines of the River Club of New York, placed so entrancingly on the East river, with its colossal bridges and varied river life.

In February the Harrises will occupy their Leesburg house, not far from the Pat Hurleys on the high road to Washington. They have the site of a battlefield on their property and a much larger dwelling than the original plan.

Also leaving us forever and aye are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cabell, who came to Chicago from London three years ago. Since Mr. Cabell's retirement last month from active business the British government has taken over the Cabell house 20 miles from London, and is filling it with children evacuated from the great city. So the Cabells have gone motoring to Virginia to find a house that pleases them in America.

Late letters from England are full of this remarkable game of moving populations. Lady Burney, the beautiful and accomplished Gladys High, younger daughter of the George H. Highs of Chicago, has taken 100 London children.

Sir Dennistoun and Lady Burney have a beautiful place in the environs of London, great wealth, and a young son of their own, off at boarding school. One hears from another source that many of these London children are frightfully bored with provincial life and would relish being in on a few bombardments.

The estate of the Charles S. Deweys in France, at a quiet village by the sea, has been stretched and expanded to contain fifty Parisian enfants and the guardians sent along for their upkeep.

They say these moving populations, uprooted from their birthplaces and their occupations, are the outstanding feature of the hour in Europe. By the tens of thousands they are being shunted from the homes they know, to lands and pastures they know not, like so many heads of cattle, in the destruction of the Versailles treaty.

The Poles, great lovers of home and country, are a pathetic spectacle. The peasants and the very poor are in flight, and many of the landowners and aristocrats as well. The vast estate of the Potockis, Lancut, northeast of Cracow, a great palace standing in 90,000 acres of forest and field, has been untouched in the war. Countess Betka is there, and her son, George, who was Polish ambassador at Washington. Count George Potocki was appointed some years ago as ambassador to Rome. But he refused the brilliant post, knowing full well that Mussolini was working overtime to upset the Versailles treaty and most of its works. Foremost among these were the Polish frontiers.

Countess Helen Potocka and her sister, Countess Betka, were by birth Princesses Radziwill, daughters of Prince Roman Radziwill, whose estate on the Pripet marshes was an old feudal one of great historic interest and beauty. At the outbreak of hostilities Sept. 1 Countess Potocka and her two daughters-in-law, Countesses Joseph and Roman Potocka, who were also born Princesses Radziwill, traveled up to the estate of their forefathers. The news from there is very bad. Prince Radziwill, uncle of the younger women, was reported killed, and the magnificent property divided up among the peasantry by Russia, a part of its share in the great split-up.

There were many magnificent solid gold treasures of all kinds, lamps, table services, ewers, bowls, saddle trimmings, swords, spurs, belts, helmets, and whatnot seized from the Turks centuries ago at the battle of Vienna. These were superbly effective in Polish palaces. In Warsaw it is reported that the Stare Miasto, a wonderful old square of the early 15th century, with every house a vision of beauty in gold and polychrome, has been reduced to powder. These houses were vivid green, rose, black and gold, purple and yellow, and all absolutely lovely. Mr. Patek, former envoy to the United States and an old man, lived in this square and stayed home during its ruin. Nearby, the president's palace on the Vistula has been smashed, too. Ruined before by the Russians who sacked it of marbles and ancient tapestries, it was restored latterly at great expense. There were two log cutters in the Carpathians who well knew their ancient art and supplied the new beams for the quaint pink palace.

One of the items returned by Russia was a set of Canalettos of the ancient streets and palaces of Warsaw, historic treasures that hung in a room of the palace. Another returned treasure was that bronze statue of Poniatowski on a superb horse, that stood in Pilsudski square. According to the terms of the peace treaty, the Russians were forced to return this, which they did, but without the horse's long swishing tail. The ceremonies of Polish jubilations went on minus the tail, which caused months of diplomatic pourparlers.

Chauncey McCormick has the highest Polish decoration for his war relief work in Poland in 1918, and he has taken over the chairmanship of Chicago Polish relief, with Charles S. Dewey as treasurer.

There was a meeting the other day in Mrs. John Carpenter's house on Lake Shore drive when Betty Pirie did the honors for her mother, who is still at Beverly. Present at the meeting were Countess Gloria Potocka, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Moisant Griffiths, Mrs. Howard Linn, and others. Mr. McCormick outlined the first stages of the relief and a Chicago committee was formed.

Wayne Chatfield-Taylor resigned his job in the United States treasury last spring, but his family stays on in Washington. They have a delightful house overlooking the grounds of the British embassy, and a second lovely daughter, Rose, will make her debut this season. Rose was named for her beautiful grandmother, the late Rose Farwell of Chicago. Otis and Marochka Chatfield-Taylor have left us flat and gone back to New York to live. They have a house on Long Island and are enlarging it to accommodate their large family connection and many friends. The Taylors are a loss to our rather limited society, as Marochka is outstandingly chic and charming, always a picture and full of life, and Otis loves people and is a born wit.

They write that New York for the moment is full up with Chatfield-Taylors. Hobart, the bland, genial head of the family, is there from California, and Adelaide Whitman from Boston, and Robert now in residence. Wayne and Adele were at the reunion, also young Rose. She is getting her frock for the autumn ball at Tuxedo from her artistic Aunt Marochka, who designs creations such as were never seen before on land or sea, and full of charm.

Mrs. Paul Healy's late afternoon party at the Drake for Mrs. John T. H. Mitchell and her enchanting young daughter, Ann, was a reunion of war refugees, and most amusing. The Mitchells were on the Riviera in August and had bought tickets for points east of Suez, meaning India. They were going out on the same boat with the ducal Kent party, and still have their tickets, hoping against hope that the war will soon be over. Mrs. and Miss Mitchell were to be the guests of various potentates at tiger shoots and what have you. One of their would-be hosts being that handsome chap they call "Pip-Squeak" in New York, he's the maharajah of Pipiala, or something like that. Kapurthala was another. Ann Mitchell holds several records—one is that she has missed two ocean liners and followed on the next boat minus luggage. One of these adventures was in Australia, where she was engaged in eating grapes and forgot the time. The other was in New York where she arrived with her mamma and found no ship at the pier. It had gone and left her. All told, Ann is quite a girl, and they certainly think so in London, where she is up to the neck in invitations always.

At the Healy party was Jean Schloesing, who is about to leave us, having resigned his diplomatic job as French commercial attaché in Chicago. He is, bien entendu, going back to France to take part in the war, being reserve captain of a machine gun corps. M. Schloesing will be our great loss, as no man is more agreeable than he, or more popular. It was nice to find the consul general of France and Mme. René Weiller still here and not on the retired list as he expected to be. They will stay on indefinitly now. I expected to find here in the French group, Comte and Comtesse de Grammont, a most attractive couple of French aristocrats from the embassy in Washington, who would have been a great addition to our own local diplomatic corps. But French people always rush right back to France when danger threatens, and so have some of my American friends—like Mrs. Peter Dudley, who has been a Parisian these many years, and still is.

St. Luke's Fashion show this coming Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Stevens in the ballroom. Were it possible to gild the lily, it will be done this year. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf is general manager, and with Architects John Root and Nat Owings she has contrived an absolutely new background for the show, something so epatant that when the curtain draws aside and the audience sees this blaze of glory, they will be speechless. A new system of seating is to be used for the several thousand guests, and the musical end is in the hands of Annie May and Huntington Henry, most up-to-date in their ideas.

Fay Carter has imported a New York beauty for her floral group, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton, who will fly here. For the rest, young ladies from our social system who have pretty faces, but above all good figgers, will be mannikins in the most modish clothes of the year.

Ohio Woman City Manager Backer to Give Talk Here

Leading women's organizations of the city have been invited to send representatives to hear Mrs. Mark Feder of Cincinnati, O., discuss "Opportunity for Municipal Housekeeping" at 11 o'clock Wednesday, Oct. 25, at the Steven's hotel. The meeting is to precede the formation of a woman's division of the Chicago City Manager committee.

The invitations were sent out by Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. W. W. Ramsey and Mrs. Milton Yondorf, all of whom have been active on the Chicago city manager committee. Every one interested may attend the meeting by making a reservation through the committee.

Mrs. Feder, now chairman of the women's division of Cincinnati's city charter committee, was among the prime movers in the successful campaign of Cincinnati women in the 1920s to obtain the city manager plan and proportional representation for their city.

At present the Illinois League of Women Voters, the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations and numerous other organizations are interested in obtaining legislation permitting a public policy referendum on the city manager plan at the next general election.

Woman's Club Asks Museum Evening Hours

By Betty Browning.

Why should Chicago's museums be closed in the evenings, the time when the majority of Chicagoans can visit them?

This is the question the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago will propound to the directors of Chicago's leading museums and similar institutions at a luncheon Wednesday at the Chicago Bar association.

At the same time the alliance will make two proposals: That all the museums be open until 10:30 o'clock each evening, and that entrance fees be eliminated. It will also be suggested, as a test, that for one week all the museums be open each evening free of charge. This experiment, the alliance believes, will prove that Chicagoans will avail themselves of the priceless resources of these institutions if such an opportunity offers.

All this is simply a matter of business, the alliance contends, pointing out that the museums are not giving the return they should, considering the investment they represent.

Mrs. Anne V. Zinser.

To back up this statement, Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, president, quoted figures prepared by Prof. Arthur J. Todd, chairman of the department of sociology at Northwestern university, from a survey made for the Chicago recreation commission.

Chicago's museums, including the Brookfield zoo, represent a total investment value of over $165,000,000. Yet last year the total attendance for all institutions was less than seven millions. Of these 6,543,036 visitors only 432,565 paid admissions.

"A revenue of less than $110,000 annually from any business with an investment value of $165,000,000 would soon put the concern out of business," said Mrs. Zinser. "That is, unless some quick adjustments were made."

"These total attendance figures speak for themselves. If we were to deduct the unknown figure for out of town persons and repeat visitors, I'm afraid the total attendance figures for Chicagoans themselves would be little short of shocking."

Admission charges now received by the institutions, Mrs. Zinser argued, are negligible, and from a strictly business point of view, could well be eliminated, and substitute revenues found.

The alliance has made a preliminary check of popular interest in its plan through the personnel directors of major companies. The response was altogether favorable, Mrs. Zinser said. Again quoting Dr. Todd's survey, Mrs. Zinser pointed out that of 2,200 companies employing a total of more than 750,000 persons, more than 47 per cent foster recreational activities tending toward constructive use of leisure time.

Among the leaders whose support the alliance already has enlisted is Dr. Philip L. Seman, chairman of the Chicago recreation commission. "There is no question," Dr. Seman said, "but that cultural and historical institutions should remain open and free of charge in the evenings."

Generally speaking, Chicago's institutions now are open from 9 until 5 o'clock, according to Mrs. Zinser's figures. The Adler planetarium is open Tuesdays and Fridays until 9 o'clock. The Museum of Science and Industry and the Academy of Science charge no admission; the others have three free days. On Sunday the Feld museum, the Museum of Science and Industry, and the Shedd aquarium maintain their weekly schedule. The Art institute opens at noon, the planetarium at 2 o'clock, and the Academy of Science and the Chicago Historical society at 1 o'clock.

"It seems, offhand," Mrs. Zinser summarized, "that these agencies could easily change their hours to conform with those of most potential customers—employed persons and busy housewives."

The alliance's plan is an outgrowth of its program to advertise Chicago to Chicagoans this year.

Mrs. Jean Smith Evans.

"Women judges for Chicago," is the principal plank in the platform of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois this year, so far as the new president, Jean Smith Evans, is concerned.

"I have become tired of going to conventions in other parts of the country and having delegates ask me, 'Where are your judges?'" Mrs. Evans declared with a smile. "Almost every large city in this country has women judges—even so-called conservative old Boston. But Chicago has had only one woman judge, Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court."

Mrs. Evans has held practically every major office in the association since she became a member in 1928. She edits the Women Lawyer's Journal for the National Association of Women Lawyers, and is in partnership with her husband, also an attorney.

Next Thursday the Woman's Bar association will visit the Dwight woman's reformatory.

The Woman's Advertising Club of Chicago will devote its October meeting to a consideration of color and its place in the advertising field.

Guy C. Smith, former president of the Association of National Advertisers, will speak at the dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Chicago Woman's club. A film, "Color Harmony," will be shown. Miss Margaret Ghobman, new program chairman, will preside, and will introduce the speaker. Miss Helen Vance heads the club.

Alumnae Mark Vassar's 75th Year This Week

The 75th anniversary of Vassar college will be celebrated at a joint dinner of the Chicago and North Shore Vassar clubs Saturday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Morris Hadley of New York, president of the board of trustees, will speak on "Vassar Today." At 9:45 o'clock President Henry Noble McCracken will address this and similar meetings throughout the country on a coast to coast broadcast.

Vassar is one of the oldest women's colleges in the country. English born Matthew Vassar, who started in business with an ale and oyster saloon and made his fortune as a brewer at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., founded the college in 1861 at the suggestion of his niece, Lydia Booth, a school teacher.

Actually, it was four years later, in 1865, that Vassar Female college was opened just outside Poughkeepsie. The 353 pupils were under the supervision of a president, a "lady principal," 8 professors, and 20 instructors. The four young women in the first graduating class, that of '67, were given temporary certificates admitting them to the "first degree of liberal arts" because it was not considered suitable to award them a bachelor's degree. But the next year diplomas bestowing the A. B. degree were awarded. The "Female" survived in the college's title a scant year.

On founding the college Matthew Vassar gave $400,000 and 200 acres to a board of trustees of his own selection. After his death another $400,000 from his estate went to Vassar. His nephew, Matthew Vassar, was treasurer of Vassar's board of trustees until his death, and gave the college some $500,000.

A New Supper Club Is Formed by Californians

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL.

Pasadena and southern California are interested this week in the emergence of an exclusive new supper club which will go by the musical, Spanish name Tres Cenas [pronounced as though "tray saynas," which means simply, "Three Dinners."

Growing out of the select but now extinct organization which called itself the Supper club, Tres Cenas has as its nucleus the same committee which guided the destinies of the Supper club and is headed by Mrs. Ransom Chase [Virginia Sevier] of Los Angeles.

Pasadena's first interest is in the three young matrons who comprise the membership committee: Mrs. William Wilson Jr. [Geraldine Birks], Mrs. J. Stanley Mullin [Flora Hollingsworth], and Mrs. John Bancroft [Dorothy Coffin], who reside here.

On the general committee, too, are Mrs. John Rogers [Celeste Durand of Pasadena], Mrs. Joseph Harper [Cecilia De Mille], daughter of Cecil B. De Mille; Mrs. Paul Gardner, and Mrs. Warren Pallette.

Nov. 10 marks the debut of Tres Cenas which will have a restricted membership and number of guests. Victor Hugo's has been chosen as the focal point for the triad of formal dinner-dances, second of which will be late in January; the third early in May.

Chicago will shortly have a visit from the Thomas Wolfes [Ethel Ashley] who fly east this week and on to the fair. They will pick up a new car and, after a visit with her brother, John Ashley of Evanston, Mrs. Wolfe will drive home, her husband coming on ahead. She will bring with her for a winter sojourn her mother, Mrs. Catherine D. Ashley of Evanston and they will come by way of Robbers' Roost, the Wolfe ranch at Medicine Bow, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe make the Pasadena-to-Wyoming jaunt so often, by auto or plane, that it is scarcely more of an undertaking and takes little more planning than running over to Los Angeles. But to their friends, it is still a delightful adventure. Last month they entertained a train load of guests from Denver and another from Cheyenne at an all-day rodeo at which the governor of Wyoming and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Smith, were present. Two hundred fifty were served at lunch time and afterward the party engaged in cowboy polo, with broomsticks and basketballs, and the game of "choya," which involves trying to rope gigantic "jacks" which in their smaller form are used by school girls. Calf roping topped off the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Werder [Henrietta Findeissen of Chicago] are now residing in San Marino and have opened a restaurant for their son, Frederick Werder. The young Werders also reside in San Marino, having come recently from Denver. It was in Colorado, by the way, that Mrs. Werder and her sister, Mrs. Frank M. Pebbles of Chicago, first thought of a food business. They started a model town in the northeastern part of the state and built there an inn which was designed by a nephew of Chicago's Frank Lloyd Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mothershead are at home again after a pleasant vacation trip to Del Monte and San Francisco and are beginning to look forward to the annual winter visit of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, whom they expect from Chicago in December.

Mrs. Theodore White Smith of East California street will leave early in November to visit her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. Calhoun Smith in Lake Forest.

Art for Every Taste Hangs in City Galleries

By Eleanor Jewett.

There are exhibitions to please every taste in the galleries this month. Probably the most publicized exhibit is that at the Arts club, Wrigley building, where in the center of the large gallery the "Guernica" by Picasso is hanging. In the smaller galleries are details of the composition, sketches, drawings, and studies which put together make up the incredible whole.

Picasso has made his name. He is known the world over as the world's [shall we say?] first modernist; not, you understand, in point of time, but in contemporary rating. Whatever Picasso does is valuable and important in the eyes of Picasso fans. With the present painting, which is more like an unfinished cartoon in black and white than a painting, Picasso had an heroic theme for subject. The little Spanish town of Guernica had been completely wiped out thru air attacks and the 7,000 inhabitants and 3,000 refugees had been liquidated in the hail of missiles from the air.

Picasso, we are told, was deeply affected by the tragedy. He painted his mural in a passion of anguish. With this in mind, the picture itself becomes the more extraordinary, for where is anguish in this composition, where terror, horror, pain, shock, havoc, and ruin? Where the noise and weeping of war? Perhaps a modern intelligence keyed to the modern symbolism will find more than the grotesque and fantastic in this painting; for myself, a little war sketch by Goya, just a tiny scrap, six inches of Goya canvas, conveys more of the irresistible, overpowering horror of war than this entire huge fantasy by Picasso.

Goya dealt with men and death; Picasso is submerged in the weeds of surrealism. Goya strikes straight at the heart; Picasso freezes emotion. Goya is tangible; Picasso intangible. Goya's art is so human one cannot see death for it, but the art of Picasso, as represented in this which has been called "his masterpiece," seems to me to be stillborn; it will not die, perhaps, but chiefly because it has never lived.

From the Picasso one turns with something like relief to the various American shows in other galleries. At the O'Brien gallery, 820 North Michigan avenue, there is a delightful first showing of child portraits and studies by Shirley Friend, a pupil of Oskar Gross. The portraits are in pastel, a medium which the artist considers the most suitable for catching the elusive quality of children's features. Whatever her reasons, the results are amazingly attractive. The portrait of "Hayden O'Brien," the young son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vincent O'Brien Jr., is fascinating, an exact likeness and a living portrait. In fact these children of Miss Friend's are all alive; there is none of that china-doll quality about the pictures which usually is the bane of the child portrait viewer.

The flesh tones are particularly arresting in these likenesses, and the eyes and hair are brilliantly done. You will enjoy "Kathy," "Meg and Nancy," "Carol," "Portrait of My Son," and "Georgia." You will also enjoy the studies of children of different nationalities. Miss Friend got interested in this work rather unexpectedly and found herself painting at Hull House nearly before she knew it. The results of her work have been so unusually interesting and worth while that she plans to continue enlarging her portfolio of "melting-pot" types. It is hard to resist the natural charm of the girls and boys whom she has chosen as representative of Mexican, Italian, Creole, Filipino, Swiss-German, Polish, and the rest. The studies make a most interesting group of pictures.

At the Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue, there are paintings by three well known Chicago painters. Landscapes by Karl C. Brandner hang in the first room. They are very lovely. Mr. Brandner gives us Illinois and Indiana landscape and a gorgeous stretch of cloud-hung mountains from the Smokies. He paints the seasons equally well. He is one of our accomplished artists, successful in rendering the American scene in all its beauty.

In the large gallery are recent flower paintings by Bessie Helstrom and landscapes by Carl Hoerman. Mrs. Helstrom is undoubtedly one of the leading American women flower painters. In fact we would be hard put to it to name another who measures up to her in technique, composition, quality, and color sense. Each of her flower arrangements differs from the next; she keeps to no pattern, but each is unmistakably hers.

The thin delicacy of petal, the transparent beauty of the white peonies, the rush of color in the autumn bouquets, the grace of leaf and stem, the delicious abundance of exquisite, contrasting shades in her flower groupings and above all her own inimitable touch, that technique that lifts her still life into a class outside of the usual dull study of flowers, these are the qualities for which one must rank Mrs. Helstrom high. She is rarely gifted. The success which her paintings have met with, here in the south, is not hard to explain; her paintings are stunning.

Carl Hoerman is another painter who is developing strength and vigor in his work. His landscapes are more fluent than they were, more colorful and more solid. In the current exhibit he shows us paintings from Indiana, the dunes, Michigan, and Mexico. There are some new paintings from California, too, and one is hard put to it to name favorites. Perhaps the brilliant interior of a crowded church in Mexico will win your approval, or the steep, winding road through a Mexican village, or a desert scene from California, or sand dunes along Lake Michigan, it scarcely matters. You cannot go wrong in a show like this. There is brilliance in each of Mr. Hoerman's paintings. Another important American painter is found in him.

In direct contrast to this work is the exhibit of landscapes by Richard Richard at the Ackermann galleries, 408 South Michigan avenue. These are little, exquisite, tranquil, perfect, beautifully drawn and as imaginatively composed as any sonnet. They are the expression of a Whittier in paint. The landscapes are of so rare a genius no one should miss an opportunity to see them. It is not often that contemporary art offers so perfect a thing.

In the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building, the one-man exhibition of prints by Bertha E. Jaques is another "must" exhibit for October. Mrs. Jacques is well known in Chicago, as an etcher and as a person. She has done more than any one we can think of to promote and develop public interest in the fascinating art of etching. This is her first one-man show of her own work, though Chicago has been privileged through the years to see many examples of her skill in many exhibitions. Her nature studies have been the delight of many thousands of appreciative persons.

Paintings by Will Vawter are on view at the Hoosier gallery, 211 West Wacker drive. The exhibition opened last Tuesday to continue through Oct. 31. It is well worth seeing for those who enjoy beauty in landscape.

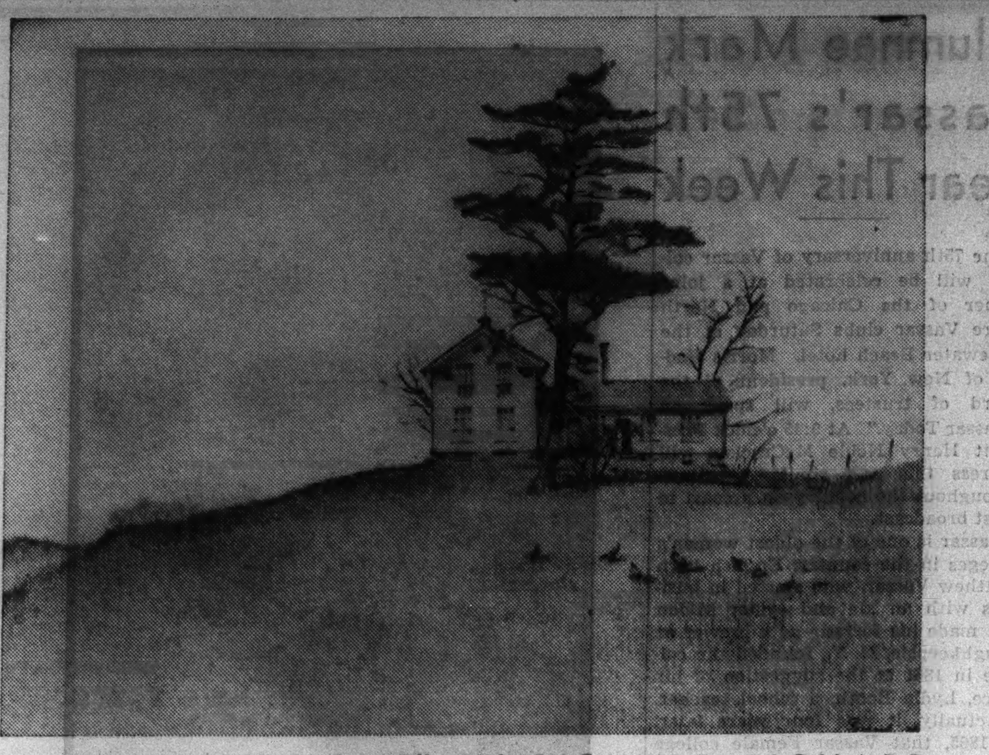
The annual fall exhibit of the Northwest Art league opens Oct. 29 to run to Nov. 10 at the Edgewater Beach hotel. This is always a pleasant, informal show of the type that serves to cement the friendship of artists and public.

The third annual miniature etching exhibit will be held during the month of November at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. This is one of the most delightful shows the year brings; do not miss it.

An exhibit which also ranks at the top is that of recent paintings by Nina K. Griffin at the Lake Shore Athletic club, under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts. Mrs. Griffin is noted for her brilliant work in water color, but lately she has turned her attention to oil, with what result we may see in the current show.

There are many fine things in the exhibit, particularly the gorgeous study of white calla lilies and the row of sturdy, little children's shoes. Several decorative flower still lifes catch the eye, particularly the one at the far end of the left wall as you enter the room, and the little landscape of water and house and thin-spring trees is captivating. There are a number of landscapes hung, one in particular of a bridge, but they seem to us more or less the usual run of exhibition picture and not as warmly or richly personal as the "Callas" and "When the Sandman Comes."

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts is sponsoring an exhibit of paintings by Marie Lilliston and Kathryn Yager Lewis, Oak Park artists, at the Drake hotel this month, and an exhibit of recent paintings by Dolly Helweg and her daughter, Patricia. Stevens, in the All-Illinois' third floor corridor gallery at the south end. It is another pleasant exhibition; one that is filled with attractive and decorative work.



"A COUNTRY HOME" BY RICHARD RICHARD

AT HOME

The former Miss Ruth Doering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Doering of River Forest, became the bride of Edward C. Reynolds on Aug. 30. The ceremony was performed in Grace Lutheran church in River Forest and was followed by a reception at the Carleton hotel. Mr. Reynolds and his bride are at home at 2136 Lincoln place.

At Dinner

By Eleanor Jewett

Said I to Leigh: "It's a matter of waste,
This not eating things that are not to your taste."
Said Leigh to me: "They must ALL go to waste,
Till I have had time to catch up with their taste!"
Said Leigh to me firmly, and out went her plate,

Home Owners' Queries

CHICAGO [Home Building Editor]. —Just what are plywood panels? Are they strong? Are they expensive or not? MRS. J. P. S.

Answer: Plywood panels are made of layers of wood which are cut thin and welded together under high pressure with potent glues. They are light in weight, and yet have great tensile strength. They are comparatively inexpensive.

CHICAGO [To the Home Building Editor].—What is meant by a "sabine" rating for a house? I have heard of it somewhere, but can't seem to trace it down. HENRY LANE.

Answer: The sabine is the engineer's unit to measure the sound absorbing power of materials, such as walls, ceilings, floors, and even furniture and carpets. It means that selection of much that goes into our houses of the future may be governed not only by their good looks and efficiency, but also for their sound absorbing qualities.

Answer: Yes, a chimney that's too short or too tall, or too large or too small, can have its draft interfered with. And a leaky chimney flue is one of the most expensive and trouble breeding ailments you can harbor in your house. If you suspect your chimney has some ills, have it attended to in short order, before cold weather gets under way.

Beauty Lands a Suitor, but Talk Holds Him

By Doris Blake.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Boy meets girl. Man meets woman. Boy and man give her the once-over. If she pleases the eye, conversation will ensue. And right here is where her big conquest scene is staged.

It's banal to recall that old-timer about charm destruction with the opening of the mouth of the fair one. Some fair ones, that is. Not all, by a long, long parade to the altar! The girls in that parade destroyed none of the already created eye-allure with what issued from their pretty lips. They knew the right thing to say and when to say it, obviously, or they'd be sitting on the sidelines watching the parade go by.

Yes, it isn't what the girl wears, how she tints her lips and cheeks, who her hairdresser is that counts one-half as much as the charm with which her vocal expressions are attuned to the masculine eardrum. And we're not talking today of vocal quality, tone, resonance or other voice mechanics. We're talking of what the fair one says into that listening ear.

Let's assume that all young women are charming pictorially. They have little excuse today, it would seem, for not being so. Then, let's assume that if all are of a pictorial standard, for a special impression one must have something additional. We think you can put your finger on it in the simple phrase, "What she says." No doubt on earth but that is why the funny figured, snub nosed, freckle faced lass gets a crowd around her while other girls sit back and ask why.

An enormous amount of advice is administered to young women on impression-making bent to tune to concert pitch the personal qualities of appeal, such as smart dress, good grooming and so on. The young woman is left standing in the doorway waiting, so to speak, for her next cue, which isn't given her so generously. But it is that next step, and the one after, and the one after that, that is going to determine the young man's liking for another and another encounter. What she says and how she says it will have far more to do with winning the coveted "date" than what she has on.

You have sat back and wondered how Mrs. So-and-So has been able to hold that attractive mate of hers. You say: "She isn't chic!" Maybe you've been heard to say: "She's positively dowdy!" Well, she's held her man enthralled and there's a reason. She knows when to talk, what to say, and when to keep quiet; in other words, a perfect conversationalist, from that man's point of view, anyway.

Think this over, you young women, especially, who write and tell us you are good looking, dress well, dance well, yet after a second date or so the man's interest has fled. Now, if one is reported as easy on the eye, it's fair to assume that the ear appeal has been neglected. Isn't that a reasonable thought?

One of the handsome bandleaders, Jack Jenney, who claims to have been around a lot with eye and ear both wide open, is in full accord with our theory of beauty serving up to a certain point only. Conversation, after that, is the test of appeal. Jenney says that men are attracted to witty girls, repelled by inane conversation. They don't like conversation that is too highbrow. They adore conversational response that betrays sympathy and a tolerant understanding of their problems. To make it a bit more concrete, Mr. Jenney lists a few types of conversation that aren't popular with the gentlemen:

Woman talk is one, interpreted as conversational subjects that are of exclusive interest to the distaff side, that is, furniture, draperies, the new corset line, furs, clothes in general.

Biological talk coming from women is anathema to the ear. They're shocked when they hear girls discussing sex with intimate frankness.

Catty talk always has struck a sour note in masculine hearing. There's been so much said about this unpopular conversational phase that men wonder why women go on practicing it.

Gush is something that makes men uncomfortable, which is a fatal state to get a man in.

Battle of the sexes theme is boring to men's ears. This is when the young woman argues in favor of the superiority of feminine prowess, unfairness of her position in a man's world, and so on.

Movie star talk gets under the skin when the girl raves about the Robert Taylors, Bob Montgomerys, Ronald Colmans, and their celluloid kin.

Past romance recitals are voted by the men as about as irksome a way to spend an hour with a young woman as anything she might conjure up for his entertainment.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, June 3, 1891.

Dear Julia: Sandy and Martha have just decided on their summer plans . . . a somewhat difficult decision when such a large family is involved. . . . Papa, mamma, four children, two nurses, a cook, a waitress, and the new coachman, Jenkins. They are to go to Mackinac Island, a favorite resort of Chicagoans. Will and I are going, too, though we shall not live in the cottage Sandy has taken, for large though it is, it will hardly accommodate us, with the Macleods. With us on the boat [for we go up on Lake Michigan] will be the two horses, which will be needed up there, and a cow which Sandy has lately bought. The latter is kept in a small pasture on the edge of town and the milk is brought in each day to them, for, living on Dearborn avenue, they couldn't have the cow in their stable. Sandy thinks they won't need it more than a year or two. Many people do this: keep their own cow, to be sure of the quality of the milk given delicate children.

Edward VII.

Will and I shall not stay the entire summer, probably, but I feel I can help Martha get settled in the cottage. We shall be near by them at the Grand hotel [that name, by the way, was the choice of your friend Chauncey Depew, who was a stockholder in it . . . probably owns stock now]. Commodore Vanderbilt was first president of the company that built the hotel, only four years ago, and it has had a fashionable clientele. From Chicago there are such guests as the Potter Palmers, the Swifts, the Cudahys, the Armours. Detroit people I have met there are the Whitneys, the Algers, and the Newberrys. The governor of Michigan, whoever he happens to be, usually spends a part of the summer there.

Mackinac has a romantic atmosphere, with its old fortifications and the ruins of missions founded by the French fathers. Then the air is so fine. Sandy calls it the best in the world and says that if a doctor can get his patients up here, they have a good chance to get well. Our young friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Harts, always go up to the island, where they have a cottage. So does the family of Dr. L. L. McArthur, rising young surgeon, one of Sandy's best friends. Another family we expect to meet is that of the Rev. Meade C. Williams of Princeton, Ill. Jesse Lynch Williams is his son . . . the young fellow in Princeton college who is writing college stories. If you can tear yourself from Newport, I believe you'd enjoy a stay here. The hotel has such excellent food, I know you would be satisfied from that standpoint.

How unfortunate it is that the prince of Wales is involved in that baccarat scandal and had to testify in a public court that he was playing at the time Sir William Gordon Cumming was detected in cheating! Queen Victoria has tried to uplift high society and then to have this happen! Will thinks I make too much of the prince's gambling propensities, for all the persons playing were presumably able to lose the sums wagered. But he does think the prince, as well as the other men, were at fault in not exposing Sir William's cheating at once. Indeed, says Will, it is the duty of an army officer to do this. One can understand, however, that it would have been hard for the prince to complain of it, in a private house. Perhaps it needn't have come to light if Sir William hadn't sued his hostess, Mrs. Wilson, for libel. Now that he has lost his case, five persons having testified to the cheating, he will have to resign from his clubs and will be dismissed from the army.

Oddly enough, the sympathy of the public seems to have been with him during the trial. It was interesting . . . as showing how times have changed . . . that a juryman, a butcher, I believe, boldly questioned the prince about his testimony. Two centuries ago that would have meant the Tower for the questioner, I suppose. A prince, however, wouldn't have been summoned as a witness in court, probably, two centuries ago.

This is all. Let me know if I may reserve rooms for you at the Grand hotel.

Your loving friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

The libel suit brought by Sir William Gordon Cumming against his hostess in 1891 made newspaper headlines and brought criticism on the prince of Wales, later King Edward VII., for not bringing the matter to light immediately.

Fire Babies.

Those who have written us of having been born in Chicago at the time of the great fire of 1871 are: Mrs. Charles S. Mack, Barberton, O.; Mrs. S. Oehme, 1921 South Jefferson street, Chicago; Mrs. Anna L. Smith, 1935 North Dayton street, and Mrs. S. Berkowitz, 4451 Malden street. In addition, Mrs. Charles A. Towne, 6754 North Oxford street, writes that, while she was not born in Chicago, but rather, in Willoughby, O., yet, on the morning of her birth, Oct. 9, 1871, her family saw the reflection of the Chicago fire in the sky. Mrs. S. J. Kuflewski, 2224 South California avenue, tells of the birth of a baby brother on that tragic day, but our list must include only those now living, so that we cannot enter his name.

The letter of Mrs. Smith, mentioned above, is particularly detailed. She writes:

"At the time of the fire, my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eckebrecht, were living at North avenue and Orleans street. Before their home was burned to the ground, they started to flee northwestward through the city. Carrying infant Me—my mother was forced to walk a mile before she gained wagon transportation. She and I were taken to the home of relatives at Clybourn and Fullerton avenues." In spite of the hardships of that day this brave mother lived to the advanced age of 87 years.

Birdie Farrell, 5313 Flournoy street, sends the story of her grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Adcock, who had probably the first millinery store, at Randolph and Wells streets, trading ribbons for the Indians' beadwork and selling the feminine pioneers one summer hat and one winter hat apiece. Mrs. Adcock lost heavily in the Chicago fire, which destroyed her store, then at Polk and Halsted streets.

Some Pointers on Daily and Weekly Floor Treatments

In the daily and weekly care of floors, it's well to keep in mind that too much wax is likely to make a surface dull and too much oil will hasten the collection of dust.

With rugs and carpets, frequent use of carpet sweeper and vacuum keeps away accumulated dirt which in time will wear out fibers.

To keep clean those modern smooth surfaced floors which have been covered with linoleum, varnish, or other finish, remove dust with dry mop and take up any spot at once with a slightly dampened mop. Wash only when necessary, and if your floor is waxed, touch up worn spots whenever needed.

Make repairs when need arises, avoid strong soaps, and too much water. Be careful that a too stiff brush doesn't wreck a nicely polished surface.

When it comes to removing a surface finish, use a cleaner which is especially recommended for the purpose, and follow directions. Different finishes require different treatments. Use the right treatment on your floors.

Greene, former United States consul in South America and the orient, and former vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation in China, and Mrs. Marguerite Harmon Bro, secretary of the people's program for peace, and former secretary of the Congregational church's council for social action.

The Chicago Peace council and the national and international affairs committee of the Chicago Woman's club are coöperating in sponsoring the symposium.

ESCORTED TOURS

Porto Rico Has Both Climate and Proximity

By Anson Brown.

Each country boasts of its tourist meccas. The selling points generally are the climate and the scenery. For Americans a new "discovery" is forging ahead—the United States' Porto Rico in the Caribbean. Tourist trafic here has increased 200 per cent in the last three years. Why?

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO.

First, this island is virtually in our own back yard. One can get here in four and a half days from New York for a minimum round trip steamship fare of a bit less than $100. The second factor is the climate, statistics of which are rather astounding. R. W. Gray, senior meteorologist of the United States weather bureau, says San Juan has never in 41 years had a temperature lower than 62 degrees, while the highest recorded last year was 89 degrees. The average winter temperature in Porto Rico, says Mr. Gray, is 28 degrees higher than at Nice, on the Riviera, and 19 degrees higher than Cairo, Egypt, and Los Angeles. It is seven degrees warmer in winter than Miami and four degrees warmer than Honolulu.

Such a climate, with a fluctuation of a scarce 27 degrees—and a warm 27 degrees at that—naturally is ideal for travelers [especially if Chicago has any more February snows so deep that one has to walk to work on a pair of tennis rackets!] Porto Rico has a perpetual springtime. Orchids and gardenias bloom profusely in February, March, and April. Here it is the unfortunate Don indeed who has to buy flowers for his lady, for most homes support their own gardens. Then in June the flaming flamboyant trees [poinciana] commence blossoming, until the whole countryside is ablaze. Such a fiery festival as that lasts until late August, but the roses, zinnias, and gladioli never tire of producing for 12 months on end.

But now it is October. The natives are preparing for winter. The señoritas have hauled their dark lace and dresses from the mothballs, and the gay colors are being relegated to closets until next May. White dinner jackets have disappeared. Then in comes an American cruise ship and upsets all this. Rightly, too, for in sunny San Juan the "whites" should prevail the year 'round. So the visitors are distinctly out of style from the local point of view, yet they are much more comfortable and will find plenty of company among members of the large American colony.

There is another peculiar winter habit. Swimming terminates in September, for a superstition, in reverse to the one about oysters, says swimming is no good in months containing "r." This does not deter the Americans. They will tell you the sea is no colder in December than in July.

The factor of rain is interesting. Being tropical, Porto Rico is naturally dampened down a bit each day. Its mountains are high enough to be almost continually in dense masses of rain clouds. The hot sun sucks up vast quantities of water from the surrounding sea. The water condenses in the cool strata of air over the interior. The resulting rain comes down in such swift torrents that small streams are turned into roaring rivers, but only for a few moments.

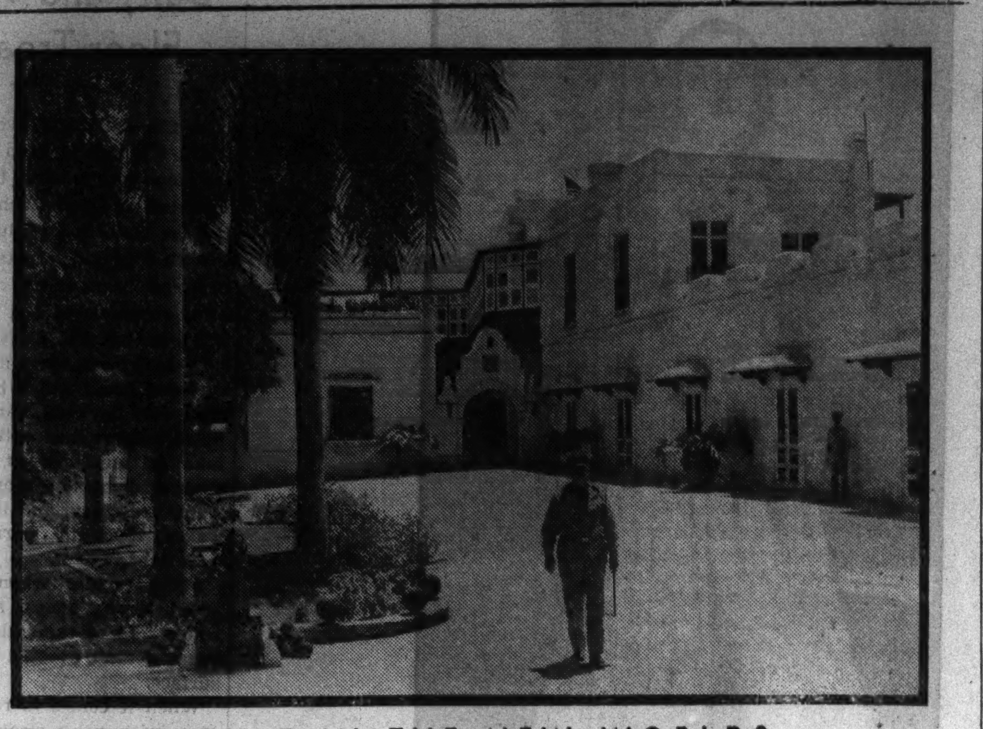
The sky clears, small puffy clouds again bump over the mountains, and the jungles steam in their humidity. The average yearly rainfall in varying localities ranges from 60 to 150 inches. No wonder the island's bananas, pineapples, and grapefruit are of the best in the world!

Porto Rico means rich port, but not only in produce is it rich. There's a wealth of sunshine that is yours for the taking, the waves reflect golden doubloons from every sunset and dance them into pieces-of-eight in the moonlight, the flame trees cluster along roadways, lining them with rubies, and the water spills in liquid silver over the mountainsides.

Orient Subject of Travelogue

"Traveling Through the Orient" is the title of the travelogue to be given at the Fair store at 11 a. m. Friday. The film will be shown by the American President Lines, and the talk will be by Roy P. McNair, traveler, writer, and authority on the far east.



OLDEST STRUCTURE IN THE NEW WORLD?

Porto Rico's Casa Blanca, said to be the oldest continuously inhabited building in the western hemisphere. Built in 1523, it was occupied by descendants of Ponce de Leon for several generations. For more than 300 years it has been the official residence of the commanding officers of troops—first Spanish and now American—on the island. The house has been restored without losing any of its original grandeur.

It's Color Tour Time Again in Wisconsin

By Alden Powell.

"Color tour" time once more has arrived in Wisconsin.

MADISON, WIS.

With maples brandishing torches of flame, the sumacs a blaze of scarlet, the birches masses of flickering yellow, the state's rolling landscapes are panoramas of bright hues.

Wisconsin has an almost endless variety of color tour routes, many of them within easy week-end or Sunday drives out of Chicago. One of them leads up the Old Lead road [highway 69] from Monroe through Monticello to New Glarus, the first Swiss settlement in this state. [Be sure to stop at New Glarus woods, a state park, for a short tramp through the painted oaks and maples.]

Then there is highway 11, west of Monroe and past Gratiot to the junction with highway 23. A turn north here leads one on to Mineral Point, settled by Cornish lead miners. [There you will want to visit, in Shakerag street, the 100 year old Pendarvis and Polperro houses.] Mineral Point, with hardly a level street in it, is one of the interesting towns of southern Wisconsin.

The valley of the Wisconsin river, reached via highway 14 west of Madison, is never more beautiful than in October and early November. Here, near Spring Green, you may visit Taliesin, the estate of Frank Lloyd Wright. [Movies and coffee on Sunday afternoons, with a tour of the estate.]

If you continue west along the Wisconsin river, on highway 60, you can drive up the quaint Kickapoo valley on county trunk M, which joins 60 just before you reach Wauzeka. And if you are not afraid of gravel, M will take you 65 delightful miles up the valley, through the Gays Mills Apple orchards and to valley's end at Wilton. Travelers who like little bridges will find this route a seventh heaven—there are scores of them.

• • •

Over on the Mississippi, the duck paradise, is Wyalusing state park, now at its peak of brilliance. Here color sweeps along the palisades and pauses to glow in folded coulees. Many travelers insist this is Wisconsin's finest autumn scene.

In the eastern part of the state the Kettle-Moraine hills along highway 83—including the religious shrine at Holy Hill south of Hartford—are splashed with color.

But any road you choose—although the little ones and by-ways are more satisfying—will carry you through lands glowing in maroons, golds, wines, saffrons, and chromes.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

Please tell me something about Grandfather mountain, near Linville, N. C. E. J. B.

It was first climbed by a French botanist, Andrew Michaux. In 1794 he scaled the peak and recorded this: "Climbed to the summit of the highest mountain of all North America, and, with my companion and guide, sang the Marseillaise hymn and cried: 'Long live America and the French republic! Long live liberty!'" His exuberance was unwaranted, but the mountain, 5,964 feet high, probably was the tallest in America at one time. Geologists say it is one of the oldest in the world—possibly more than 140 million years old. It was created by a westward crumbling of the earth's surface. Subsequent erosion wore down the surrounding territory, leaving the igneous rock high above the valleys. The mountain is so named because from certain angles its ridges suggest the upturned face of a sleeping giant.

How long does it take to cross the Pacific by steamer? H. H.

Approximately two weeks.

Until mid-November.

What are the best state parks to be visited in Indiana at this time of the year?—M. F.

That's a matter of personal preference. Among the best are Turkey Run, Spring Mill, McCormick's Creek, Brown County, Clifty Falls, Lincoln, Shakamak, and Pokagon.

I have been told that the calabash tree under which Tom Moore reclined when he wrote his poem to Nea is still standing in Bermuda. Is that true? If so, where is the tree?

Yes. At Walsingham.

Is it true that there is a North Carolina community named Thanksgiving? —W. A.

Yes. This year it is showing its independence by refusing to change its Thanksgiving day. The people there explain that Thanksgiving is always Thanksgiving in their town.

Millions Spent to Lift Face of St. Petersburg

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 14—[Special].—This resort's returning tourist throngs are seeing the results of millions spent publicly and privately here last summer.

Almost completed is a new causeway extending Central avenue, St. Petersburg's main thoroughfare, across Boca Ciega bay to the gulf beaches. It is the third span between the mainland and the keys.

At the spa, bayfront recreation center at the foot of recreation pier, a new clubhouse has been built by the Young Winter Visitors Beach club.

Other improvements include a large addition to Albert Whitted airport and the dredging of a deep sea channel, cutting seven miles from the route of ships entering this port.

A new city hall and public utilities building, erected at a cost of $400,000, will be ready Nov. 1. Scheduled for completion next spring is the junior college building in Eagle Crest. New steel and concrete stands have been installed at Stewart field, scene of gridiron and track events.

Hotel, apartment house, commercial, and residential construction in the city and on the beaches this year totals approximately $5,000,000. Outstanding are scores of new winter estates in the Snell Isle and North Shore districts adjacent to Coffee Pot bayou.

New College for Miami.

MIAMI, Fla.—Miami has been selected as the site for a new college for girls, to be established this fall by the Dominican order of Adrian, Mich. A 40-acre tract of land has been acquired and from 10 to 12 buildings will be built at a cost of about half a million dollars.

Isolation Ends for Carolina's Mountaineers

By Frederic Babcock.

America's No. 1 isolationists are—or were until recently—the mountain folk of western North Carolina. But the opening of Great Smoky Mountains National park is changing all that. The hordes of tourists are disrupting the peace and quiet of the remoter regions.

Anticipating the time when the mountaineers' life of isolation will disappear altogether, national park service officials are scouring the area for authentic water wheels, spinning wheels, hand made furniture and tools, and rustic mills, clothing, and firearms. The collection is to be housed in two museums, one on the Tennessee side of the park, the other on the North Carolina side. Thus posterity will get a cross-section view of the native American culture down there.

Word from Waynesville, N. C., says the collection already has some valuable pieces: millstones that have been in use for two or more centuries, dishes and utensils carved out of wood, and primitive implements reflecting the life of colonial days. The Gillespie rifle, oldest and most accurate of Kentucky firearms, is there. So is the gun that belonged to, and reputedly was used to kill, the Cherokee chieftain who sacrificed his life so that his people might remain in their eastern home.

North Carolina's museum will display relics of the Indian civilization that once flourished in that section. Plans call for the rebuilding of a Cherokee village nearby—perhaps on the site of an Indian mound. Seven large dioramas are to depict the history of the tribe.

• • •

The new park, situated in the "Land of the Sky," astride the border line of the two states, is by far the largest of the national playgrounds in the southeast. It is particularly attractive at this time of the year, when the leaves are beginning to turn.

America's greatest forest of virgin red spruce and unspoiled hardwoods lies within the park. There is an impressive floral display from early spring until late autumn. Bears, deer, smaller animals, and 180 varieties of birds find sanctuary there.

Many of the upper reaches of the preserve are accessible only by foot or on horseback, but in the lowlands there already is a network of improved roads open to sightseeing buses and private autos.

At this season purple mists lie over the Great Smokies' valleys and coves. But those mists fail to hide the region's beauty. The whole playground is a fascinating region of heights and depths—and colors.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

RIOTS OF COLOR.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 11.—To the Travel Editor: For days we have been driving thru such breath taking beauty of autumn coloring that I can't resist the impulse to tell you about it, in the hope that some day the artists will come up to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and paint these riots of color. Such beauty should not go unimmortalized!

Lake Michigan, Lake Superior, and the hundreds of smaller lakes are banked with reds and yellows, and the greens of the pines. The highlights are the Clift drive, near Ishpeming, with three small lakes that are mirrors of flaming color; the Copper Harbor drive of 40 miles near Houghton, with Lake Superior on the one side and a deep ravine on the other; the Golden Sunset and Chicagoan lakes, near Iron Mountain; the Ford forest, between Michigamme and L'Anse, and the 70 mile drive from Menominee to Escanaba and Gladstone, thru the native forest and along Green bay.

Many of these places are beyond description. They have colorings that only Jack Frost could paint. There is an unexpected vista at almost every turn.

MRS. G. W. MCCORMICK.

PORTO RICO.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—To the Travel Editor: Allow me to correct some of the statements about Porto Rico in your travel section article by Anson Brown.

In the first place, the vernacular of the islanders is Spanish, and the island was a Spanish colony for four hundred years. Mr. Brown says that Spanish has been spoken there for only two hundred years.

He also says the upper class is composed of Spanish families living on the island. Nothing could be more erroneous. Both the upper and lower classes are made up of native Porto Ricans of Spanish descent.

True Sisters Change Plan of Children's Aid

This is the season when ideas become new enterprises. Sarah Greenebaum lodge No. 16, one of the three Chicago lodges of the United Order of True Sisters, announced last week that henceforth it will maintain the medical and dental service for children under the jurisdiction of the Jewish Children's bureau.

Equipment and medicine will be provided for the 900 children cared for by the bureau, and members will work as volunteers to aid the physicians and dentists who give their services. Clinics are maintained at the neighborhood centers of the Jewish Social Service bureau. When necessary, the children receive special treatment at Michael Reese hospital or at Mandel clinic.

Since the United Order of True Sisters, oldest of national Jewish women's organizations, was founded some 90 years ago in New York, it has been dedicated to philanthropic purposes. Younger members of Johanna No. 9, the first Chicago lodge, founded Sarah Greenebaum lodge 32 years ago, naming it for an early Chicago member, the mother of Mrs. Hannah G. Solomon.

Mrs. Solomon, who herself founded the National Council of Jewish Women, second oldest Jewish national women's organization, is a charter member of Sarah Greenebaum lodge.

Two years ago Sarah Greenebaum lodge undertook a careful survey prior to adopting this new project. Mrs. Robert Frank, former president, heads the committee which made the survey. Previously the organization had helped to maintain Rest Haven, the Prairie avenue home for convalescents which it was instrumental in founding a quarter of a century ago.

When various auxiliaries took over more and more responsibility for the support of Rest Haven, the lodge decided to turn its efforts to other work. Temporarily, funds were contributed toward the vocational guidance of refugees. Mrs. Max E. Berkenfield is the present president of this organization of 400 women.

Awards to be made through the Hannah G. Solomon scholarship fund, providing for graduate training in the field of social service, will be announced formally at the eleventh national biennial convention of the National Council of Jewish Juniors, beginning today at tht Palmer House. The 120 sections of the junior council throughout the United States, Canada and Australia, maintain the fund in the name of the senior council's 82 year old founder.

The scholarship winners are Bernard D. Perelson of Brooklyn, N. Y., for one year at the graduate faculty of political and social science of the New School of Social Research at New York; Leah Seligman of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Pearl Herschberg, of New Orleans, La., each for one year at Tulane university, and Vida Strugo of San Diego, Cal., Anne Gussack of Toronto, Canada, and Harriet Salinger of South Bend, Ind., each for one year at the University of Chicago.

Miss Beatrice R. Hahn of New Haven, Conn., national president, will conduct sessions of the convention, which will continue Thursday. Her report on the juniors' activities in the fields of peace, religion, education, legislation, social welfare and service to the foreign born will be submitted Tuesday morning. A dinner Tuesday evening with Mrs. Maurice L. Goodman, national president of the National Council of Jewish Women, as speaker, a luncheon Wednesday for Mrs. Solomon, the gala election and installation of officers Thursday afternoon and a ball that evening will be outstanding events of the meeting.

• • •

A "parade of opera stars," with many of the singers now rehearsing for the approaching opening of the opera season, is in store for the Infants' Aid society at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Palmer House. Mrs. Bud Singman, social chairman, who has charge of arrangements, has invited feminine sponsors of opera in the pre-depression days, and Mrs. Jason Whitney, wife of the president of the Chicago City Opera company, will be a special guest. In addition to the opera singers, a chorus of 25, dressed in silver in deference to the society's 25th anniversary, will be presented.

Infants' Aid will celebrate its silver jubilee with a dinner dance Sunday evening, Nov. 12, at the Hotel Sherman. The paper bearing the organization's $65,000 pledge to build and maintain a premature station at Michael Reese hospital will be burned then in token of the completion of this project.

Another important November event, for which preparations already are well under way, is the musical revue of Ruth lodge No. 139, Free Sons of Israel. The organization, in conjunction with the affiliated Ruth league and Ruth Juniorettes, is presenting "Swingapore," with a cast of 175, at 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening, Nov. 5, at the Civic Opera house. This annual show is the chief source of revenue for the lodge's work in behalf of crippled children. Among numerous other contributions over a 17 year period the organization has endowed a two bed ward at the Sarah Morris hospital and a three bed ward at the Mount Sinai hospital; has built a four room hospital at the Outing Association for Crippled Children camp at Brown's lake, Wis., recently supplied the camp with 40 beds, and has provided thousands of dollars in scholarships to crippled children. Mrs. Minnie Meyers heads the lodge, and Mrs. Grace Solovey is in charge of the show.

The Jacob Spitzglass chapter of the Women's American Ort will open its season with a public meeting tomorrow afternoon at the Congress hotel. Rabbi Morton Berman will speak on the work of the ort in providing industrial and agricultural training to the Jews of Europe. Plans for a membership drive will be discussed by Mrs. Samuel Perlstein, membership chairman. Tea will be served. Mrs. J. A. Kohn heads the chapter.

The third season of the G. Dorothy Miller club will begin with an open meeting tomorrow evening at the Morrison hotel. This organization was formed by young University of Illinois women to establish an annual scholarship to the university in memory of their friend, G. Dorothy Miller. Miss Patty Mincer has received the award for two years.

The grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman will be the scene of the fifth annual dance of the Margaret Slutsky Memorial club this evening. Proceeds will be contributed to the Margaret Slutsky blood disease clinic maintained by the club at the Michael Reese hospital in memory of a friend. Miss Beulah Tapper is chairman of the dance.

More than 10,000 Tokio Nurses Refuse to Work

More than 10,000 qualified nurses in Tokio, Japan, prefer to marry, remain idle, or take other work rather than practice their profession, according to an official investigation. They are doing this, in spite of the great demand for their services, because they consider that their wages are too low. Of the 33,205 nurses qualified in the Tokio area, only 22,618 are practicing.

More than 8,000 couples take out marriage licenses in New York City each year who never use them.

Vary Mantle Treatment to Suit the Room

By Claire Winslow.

At this time of year readers write me, asking for suggestions for fireplace mantle treatments. They say they are tired of using the same old ornaments, and the same old arrangements of them. They'd like something new and different for a change.

If your living room is a period room you will, of course, be guided by its dictates. If you have Chippendale and Sheraton furniture you can hang a beautiful copy of a Chippendale or Adam mirror over your mantle, or a fine oil portrait, and on the mantle shelf you can use a pair of silver candelabra or urns filled with huckleberry.

If chairs, couch, and rug are modern your accessories should harmonize. You'll avoid crystal drop candlesticks, for example, and ornate little figurines. Instead, there are stunning modern Swedish glass vases and urns from which to choose, there are modern prints, water colors, and oils, and there are wood carvings and heads in plaster and terra cotta in the modern style.

On the other hand, if your living room, like thousands in homes all over the country, is of no special period, it will help you in making your mantle attractive to determine whether you want to carry out a colonial atmosphere or a French Provincial one, an early American, or a Victorian one. Do you have several Victorian chairs, or perhaps a little settee or couch in the room? Then you can have those lovely Victorian candelabra made up of a central figure in brass holding the crystal pendant ornaments for the candles.

Or gold and white china urns in the Victorian style, filled with flowers or ivy or huckleberry will be suitable. On the wall hang a handsome oval, gold framed mirror, or an oil painting. The photograph today shows a treatment that could be used in this type of room or in a colonial interior.

In a colonial room it is pleasing to hang a large Chinese embroidery over the mantle. In harmony with it would be a pair of Chinese white porcelain covered jars on teakwood stands, or one of the lovely pairs of blanc de chine figures of the goddess of mercy.

In a living room furnished in maple keep the mantle treatment informal. Use pewter or brass candlesticks and a low bowl filled with garden flowers or with gourds or fruit. Or try copper bowls filled with green plants, or a row of old china pitchers or plates, or several handsome old china platters. Both plates and platters make interesting wall decorations when hung like pictures over a mantle.

If you have a plain painted wall above your fireplace and an unframed mirror you can apply a wall paper border around it, like a frame. The border is pasted to the wall, not the mirror.

Another suggestion for an informal treatment is to hang wooden brackets, step fashion, on the wall above the fireplace instead of using a mirror or picture. On the brackets place your favorite figurines, or old plates, or old fans, or your collection of lusterware pictures. They will show to great advantage.

If you haven't a single large painting or print to go over the mantle you can gain the effect of one by hanging a row of botanical or bird prints, all the same size and all framed alike, a few inches above the mantle. Map lovers like to have an unusually handsome map framed and hang it, instead of a painting, over the mantle.

Famous Ayer Estate Feels Hand of Time

By Rose Cour.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

The famous Edward Everett Ayer collections of American Indian, Egyptian, and Philippine relics and curios had gained international recognition before they reached the Field museum, in fact while they were still housed in the Ayer private museum—an erstwhile bowling alley—near the Ayer summer home, the Oaks, at Lake Geneva.

Incidentally a portion of the collection assembled at the lake, including a fine library, has traveled but a few miles from its original home and is now housed at the Northwestern Military and Naval academy. These items were bequeathed to the academy by Mr. Ayer before his death in 1927.

The Ayer summer home, however, the great rambling old gray mansion, now the property of Mr. Ayer's only child, Mrs. Frank S. Johnson of Pasadena, has taken on a shabby, half ruinous air of neglect, although in the full glory of autumn coloring the 316 acres of its setting has a beauty that compensates somewhat for the decay of the crumbling old house.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayer, nature lovers both, would revel in the present rainbow hues of the trees and shrubbery. They would love the bright pink of the maples, the molten gold of the hickories, the deep wine of the oaks, and the flaming red of the sumach that almost fills the gateway in that famous Ayer native fieldstone wall, which is still regarded with awe by the natives who remember the army of masons employed in its construction and the fabulous amount, running into many thousands of dollars, that the wall cost.

The wall, 4 feet high and 3 feet wide at its base, surrounding the estate on all except the lake side, where a strip of tended lawn still stretches from the house to the water's edge, is stanch and sturdy although the big house, the charming guest house always filled to overflowing in the old days, the museum building and even the big old stable are slowly succumbing to time. Day by day nature is claiming the estate for its own. A veritable jungle surrounds the playhouse, once the favorite rendezvous of Mrs. Johnson when she was little Elizabeth Ayer, and the once well-marked path is completely overgrown and unrecognizable. The enormous oaks, for which the place is famous, seem trying to take over the house bodily, laying heavy branches on the warped, mossy shingles of the roof. Most impressive of all are the bittersweet vines that were trained in the long ago days to clamber up the railing of the veranda. Those once slender vines have grown to be thick, gnarled ropes that have twisted and twined themselves around the wooden balusters of the porch, forcing them apart. In places even the larger porch pillars have been dragged askew by the weight of these huge vines.

• • •

The estate has always been famous for its wild flowers and each year in the Lake Geneva Garden club flower show its exhibit of ferns and wild flowers is given a special award.

The Ayer house was among the first of the lake shore homes, the first part of it being built in 1875. This was a large one room summer cottage surrounded by porches. Later the porches were removed and the cottage became the main dining room of the big house while many other rooms and wings were added, including a second floor and servants' quarters of vast proportions.

From the beginning Mr. Ayer's American Indian collections were part of the furnishings of the house, with tomahawks adorning mantelpieces, and blankets and pipes of peace, arrowheads and skin scrapers displayed wherever there was an available shelf. A great part of his first Indian collection was found on his own land near the lake shore. The largest of the Potawatami Indian villages, under Chief Big Foot, had been located within a short distance of the Ayer estate.

As Mr. Ayer's collections grew and overflowed first the library, then the living room, the music room, and even his bedroom, he decided that he would either have to build another house to live in or move out the collections. It was then he bethought himself of the long, low building near the house that was used as a bowling alley by himself and his guests. As a choice between bowling and collecting, he chose the latter and transformed the bowling alley into a museum.

The next year Mr. and Mrs. Ayer, who were inveterate travelers, went on a trip to Egypt and brought back an amazing array of Egyptian curios. A partition was built in the museum and an Egyptian room added. This was only the beginning. Every journey meant many new items for the museum—costumes, ornaments, weapons, paintings, porcelains, pewter, tapestries, etc.—from all over the world. In addition to these articles Mr. Ayer collected rare books and manuscripts on every conceivable subject. Even as early as 1887 when he built his big house in Chicago, he had a special library room 20 by 30 feet included in the basement for his books on ornithology and the American Indians.

Mr. Ayer claimed to have visited Lake Geneva as early as 1845, when he was only 4 years old. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Gerry Ayer, were among the early pioneers who came from the east to Wisconsin territory in 1836. They settled first at Kenosha, then called Southport. Edward's older sister, Mary, was born there and is said to have been the first white child born in Kenosha. A few years later the family moved to Big Foot Prairie on the Illinois-Wisconsin state line, several miles south of Lake Geneva. In 1855 they purchased a large tract of land where the town of Harvard, Ill., now stands. [Mr. and Mrs. Ayer are buried at Harvard.]

Here Are Some Tips on the Care of Your Fine Dinner Ware

From a long established firm known for its enormous assortment of fine dinnerware come the following suggestions on the care of your china:

1. Wash or rinse china directly after the meal. This will do much to preserve the luster of its decoration.
2. Wash china in warm water.
3. Use only the purest soap, flakes, or powder.
4. Wash raised decorations—enamel, gold, silver, or embossing—with a soft brush.
5. Put rubber bumper on faucet and rubber pad on drain to avoid chipping.
6. Place felt pads between dishes to protect the glaze from scratching.
7. Use cellophane covers over your china so that it will not get dusty and will always be ready to use.

Home Economists from Over Illinois Will Convene Here

Home economists from all parts of the state will attend the annual meeting of the Illinois Home Economics association Friday and Saturday at the Palmer House. Representatives of high school home economics clubs will convene at the same time and place.

She will speak at a "women in business" luncheon Saturday. Miss Barber is president elect of the American Dietetic association and vice president of the American Home Economics association.

Prof. William F. Ogburn of the sociology department of the University of Chicago will address the banquet session Friday evening on "What the Future Holds for Education." "Consumer Education in the Secondary School" will be discussed at a consumer education breakfast Saturday morning with Viola M. Bell of James Millikin university, Decatur, as leader.

Safety Survey Shows Bathroom Accused Unjustly

Here's good news for the bath! It seems that it has been unjustly accused of being one of the most dangerous spots in the home when it comes to accidents.

In fact, according to the National Safety council, the bathroom is responsible for less than one-half of 1 per cent of all our household accidents.

Stairs and steps come first, causing 23 per cent of all home accidents. Nineteen per cent occur around the yard, 18 per cent take place in the kitchen, and 9 per cent in the living room. Porches and bedrooms rate 7 per cent in hazard risk, and the basement, where you might expect almost anything could happen, rates only a 6 per cent. Then come the other rooms, including dining room, bathroom, pantry, vestibule, and hallway.

Though, speaking of safety, if you want to reduce that less than one-half of 1 per cent risk still further, grab bars over the tub are a good investment, particularly if you have a shower.

The Clark Gables down on the farm.

Private Lives of Hollywood

World's No. 1 Honeymooners: The Clark Gables!

Hollywood.

ON THE road maps it is route 101; the Los Angeles natives refer to it more familiarly as Ventura boulevard, the ribbon of concrete which meanders north to San Francisco thru the hot and fertile valleys and foothills of California.

I have identified Ventura boulevard at some length because if you followed it for ten miles out of Hollywood to the town of Encino and turned left on an informal country lane which goes under the formal name of Petit avenue, and then turned right and passed thru a gateway, you'd find under the trees the house where "Pa" and "Ma" live.

On this 15th day of October in the year of our Lord 1939 Pa and Ma are celebrating the 200th day of their marriage. Today they have been married exactly seventeen days and six full months, because it was on March 29 that they eloped to Kingman, Ariz., for the most discussed marriage of the year.

• • •

The Gables live in a home that is a copy of a Connecticut farmhouse on twenty acres of lush and hilly land. Gable bought it from Director Raoul Walsh for a reported price of $40,000 cash, and if he got it for that comparatively small sum of dough Gable won one of the A1 bargains of all time. Other movie stars who live in the San Fernando valley, and who paid as high as $150,000 for their properties, will tell you that the Gables must have paid Walsh much more than $40,000, a form of envy that is understandable. If your wife buys a dress for $75 and then sees a copy of it on another girl who paid $18.95 you don't blame your wife for sniffing her disbelief in the other girl's story. The mechanism is purely defensive.

Living on the grounds with Pa and Ma is a heterogeneous collection including chickens, turkeys, ducks, two cows, four horses, three cats, three dogs (a pointer, a dachshund, and a boxer), and a mule which (Continued on page three.)

● The most discussed marriage of the year was the elopement of Carole Lombard and Clark Gable. On this, the 200th day of their marriage, Mr. Sullivan takes you into the Hollywood home of the newlyweds to tell you for the first time the true story of their elopement. He describes their home life, their plans for the future, their likes and dislikes, their hopes for happiness. This is the first of a notable series on Hollywood private lives by the ace reporter of the film colony. Read them in this section.

ROAD TO WAR

America Finds Herself Involved in War Trade

This is the second instalment of the amazingly timely revelations of the events that drew America into the World war more than two decades ago. The author has traced the growth of Wilsonian idealism as a factor in our foreign policy and how it involved us with Mexico, and with the Allies upon the outbreak of war in Europe.

By WALTER MILLIS

(Copyright: 1935; By Walter Millis.)

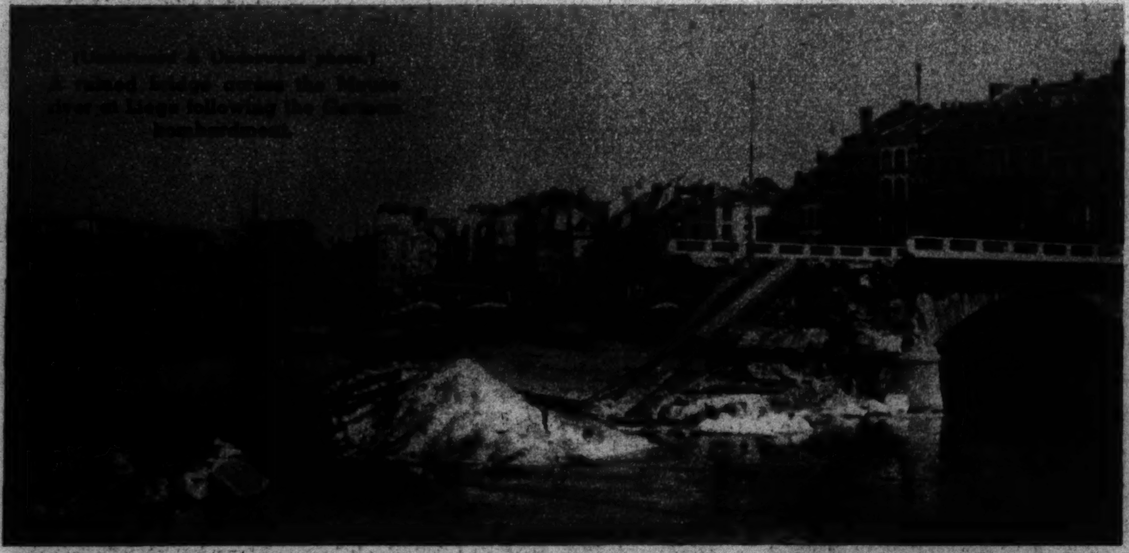
I.

IN THE capitals the first joyous excitement of war still reigned; but on the border lines of Europe there was already war itself. In Brussels, our minister, Mr. Whitlock, had been passing the most exciting fortnight of his life. Liége, they knew, had fallen on Aug. 7, but the communiques said it didn't matter. The streets were full of glamorous, anachronistic uniforms; the flags fluttered bravely in the unusually perfect weather and Brussels was "lovelier than ever." Everybody was in a fever of enthusiasm and patriotism and activity; everybody, suddenly, was in the army. To the east, of course, men must be fighting; but even when a whole squad of American war correspondents—Richard Harding Davis, Frederick Palmer, John T. McCutcheon, Irvin Cobb—miraculously appeared out of the blue, it was still more like Kipling than like war. They dashed cheerfully about in big automobiles, innocent of passes or credentials, reporting skirmishes, reporting Uhlans, trying to guess where the "big battle" that every one anticipated would be most likely to take place.



But then there were rumors. The Liége gateway had fallen; what might in fact be coming thru it? What was really happening? All at once the government was gone from Brussels, and in the street Mr. Whitlock ran into a troop of Belgian cavalry that was not gay. They were "weary, haggard men, unkempt, with grimy faces, their uniforms gray with dust." Then suddenly all the flags began to flutter down; the Germans were at the gates of Brussels.

For three days and nights on end it flowed thru Brussels without a break or pause—the mightiest torrent of armed power that any of them were ever likely to see—and disappeared into the silences of the south. With what result? The flood had passed; it was swallowed up in space and time, and nothing penetrated the thick veils of censorship to show the outcome. Battering her way with the great 42-centimeter howitzers—engines of the new warfare more irresistible than any one had dreamed of—Germany had overrun nearly the whole of Belgium and deployed one million of the finest fighting men on earth along the northern frontiers of France. The rest was mystery. There was no "big battle." This was war.

II.

Our public had received from its own newspapers in the very first days of the crisis the basic elements of what was to be perfected as the Allied thesis of the war. Americans were now to be surprised, shocked (and naturally pleased) to discover how everything that they read as the war progressed simply confirmed their first judgment. What they overlooked was the source of nearly everything that they read. No one paid much attention to the disappearance of the German side of the story with the cutting of the cables; no one stressed the possible influence of the Allied censorship upon the color of the news, all of which now had to pass thru these controls.

Few, indeed, even realized that the Allies, because of the ownership and routing of the cables, could edit the news coming from Germany by way of the European neutrals almost as readily as they could edit that originating in their own territory. According to an Associated Press representative on the continent, it was possible to get neutral dispatches to the American papers for only a week or two after the outbreak of the war, "after that it was entirely a matter of hazard, or one of writing from the British point of view."

By early autumn an editor of The Chicago Tribune was beginning to suspect that the British censors were not only eliminating what they did not like from the continental dispatches but interpolating their own material. Our public, however, for a long time thereafter still naively assumed that it was the suppression of only military secrets in which the war censorships were interested.

There were many things that the American people never understood about the reporting of the war. At the outset [some] American newspapers ran into the difficulty that no American correspondents were allowed upon the Allied front. Their recourse was to utilize the services of the British newspapers. From September the New York Times, Tribune, and World regularly bought the advance proofs of the London Chronicle, Morning Post, and Daily Telegraph, using this material in their own news columns and syndicating it thruout the United States. The British for their part early assigned their ablest and most effective popular writers to the reporting of the war, and American editors were eager to print the work of such men as Philip Gibbs, H. M. Tomlinson, or H. W. Nevinson. Nor was the "informing" of American opinion left to any such casual arrangements as these.

"Practically since the day war broke out," as Sir Gilbert Parker cheerfully admitted afterward, "I was responsible for American publicity."

Sir Gilbert soon had a large propaganda office at work near Victoria station—under the aegis, it was vaguely supposed, of the foreign office. He distributed propaganda material broadcast to American libraries, educational institutions, and periodicals; he was particularly careful to arrange for lectures, letters, and articles by pro-ally Americans rather than by Englishmen; while he himself established relations "by personal correspondence with influential and eminent people of every profession in the United States, beginning with the university and college presidents and scientific men and running through all the ranges of the population."

The overwhelming effectiveness of the allied propagandas in the United States is not to be explained by any particular superiority in technique or subtlety in misrepresentation. Rather is it to be found in the predisposition of the American public to receive the propaganda, in the nearly absolute allied command over all channels of communication and opinion and in the passionate and sincere conviction of the allied propagandists. One of the greatest of the qualities which have made the English great people is their eminently sane, reasonable, fair minded inability to conceive that any viewpoint save their own can possibly have the slightest merit.

As the terrible gray tide came rolling across the Belgian plain a vast fog of atrocity stories rolled and spread before it, drifting rapidly thru the allied countries and over the allied cables into every quarter of the world. From the first moments of the war our legation at Brussels had been hearing the most dreadful rumors—stories of old men, women, and children brutally shot; of nuns violated; of the most frightful savageries perpetrated. Mr. Whitlock, of course, had no way of verifying the stories, but he clung to his skepticism for only a day or two and then yielded wholly to conviction.

August yielded to September; the idea of a world actually at war began slowly to sink in, but about the progress of the war itself there was singularly little news. As the Allied armies fell back the correspondents were naturally debarred from reporting what was really going on. The atrocity story filled the void. One group of the American newspaper men in Belgium had been overtaken by the German advance and had continued thereafter with the German armies. Early in September a bundle of allied and neutral newspapers fell into their hands; they were astounded and shocked by what they read concerning the operations they had just been witnessing. Harry Hansen, Irvin Cobb, John T. McCutcheon, Roger Lewis, and James O'Donnell Bennett dispatched a joint cable to the Associated Press:

"In spirit of fairness we unite in declaring German atrocities groundless as far as we were able to observe. After spending two weeks with German army, accompanying troops upward hundred miles, we are unable to report single instance unprovoked reprisal. Also unable to confirm rumors of mistreatment of prisoners or noncombatants. . . . Numerous investigated rumors proved groundless. . . . Discipline German soldiers excellent as observed. No drunkenness. To truth of these statements we pledge professional personal word."

But it was no use, either then or later.

When the appeals for aid for the starving Belgians began to come in, offering a sudden practical outlet for the overwrought American emotions, the response was immediate—and the allies found themselves in possession of still another incomparable propaganda weapon.

Robert Lansing

Sir Gilbert Parker

Month in and month out thereafter American millions were to flow into the Belgian relief, every penny doing its part to cement the emotional alliance with the entente powers.

The prompt organization of the spectacular Lafayette Escadrille worked powerfully to the same end. Ambassador Herrick had been showing his sympathy with the French in many grossly indiscreet ways. When a very solemn and earnest group of young Americans filed into his office to ask if they might enlist in the French army the ambassador read and explained to them the laws of neutrality, then closed the book and burst out:

"That is the law, boys, but if I were young and stood in your shoes, by God, I know what I would do."

They cheered, shook hands with the ambassador, and went out to enlist—and to be killed, most of them. "Their influence upon sentiment at home," as Mr. Herrick later boasted, "was tremendous."

Secretary Bryan almost alone seems to have been worried as to the correctness of Mr. Herrick's neutrality, and on one occasion sent a query as to whether the American hospital service was taking care to succor German wounded as well as French. By a remarkable coincidence it was discovered that there was not a German in the hospital; but the ambassador rushed out one of his military attachés with a searching party and by good luck they found three mangled but still living Germans. One died on the way in and was dumped unceremoniously upon the roadside; the other two survived and Mr. Herrick was able to telegraph

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Brian Aherne

Dear Miss Tinée: I always read your columns and keep a scrapbook of your Sunday columns. Just the other day I was looking thru that scrapbook and came across a letter from a certain Willemina Phillips. Who does she think she is, anyway, to call "Captain Fury" an awful picture? It was swell, just plain swell, and Brian Aherne, in my opinion, is one of the swellest actors I've seen. Maybe Miss Phillips doesn't know a good picture when she sees one, or maybe she was just too young to understand it. Anyway, here's hoping to see more pictures like "Captain Fury" and more actors like Brian Aherne.

Could you please find room for a picture of Brian and a little about him? Wishing you the best of luck, GINGER JONES.

Editor's note: "What's one man's meat is another man's poison," you know. Yes, we have a corner we can tuck Brian into. He was born in Worcestershire, England, May 2, 1902. He's 6 feet 2 inches tall and has brown hair and blue eyes. Educated Malvern college. Went on the English stage in 1924. First came into prominence in pictures playing opposite Marlene Dietrich in "Song of Songs." Married Joan Fontaine, film actress. Thanks, and good luck to you.

Barbara Stanwyck

Dear Miss Tinée: Please settle a strong argument between a friend and myself. In which picture did Barbara Stanwyck sing "I Hum a Waltz"? Was it "This Is My Affair" or "His Brother's Wife"? I say in "This Is My Affair," but my friend holds a strong argument. She firmly suggested we turn to you. If you have room in your column please print a picture of her as she appeared in "This Is My Affair." Sincerely yours, ESTHER TRIBO.

Editor's note: We're strong on settling strong arguments. Barbara Stanwyck sang "I Hum a Waltz" in the motion picture "This Is My Affair," in which she was co-starred with Robert Taylor. Here's a photo of her as she appeared in that film. You're welcome.

GUILTY BYSTANDERS! Who are they? Why are they guilty? What of?

They are the characters Rupert Hughes has chosen to enact the thrilling drama of real life that began last week in the Graphic Section. You saw Hugo Ryder, drink-cruel, leave his wife and child for a night of drinking. You saw Edith Ryder go to Martin Yorke, her sympathetic and still romantic exfiance, for comfort, only to be discovered by Hugo. You saw Kirke McKeel, young district attorney, and Murray Bentle, often his successful rival in the courts of law, and his rival as well for the affections of Phoebe Lockwood, go with her to a party at Lakemeadow Country club. You saw Martin Yorke and Edith in a moonlit tryst there, and Hugo Ryder, in a drunken stupor, hunting for them, gun in hand.

Tragedy stalks near. Turn now to pages six and seven and watch it unfold in pictures before your eyes!

MRS. JOE CRESSY, played by Doris Larson.

KIRKE McKEEL, played by Jack Barrick.

MURRAY BENTLE, played by Stanley Waxman.

Visiting the Gables at Home!

goes by the name of Judy. The second cow is a recent addition. Fred, the farmer who acts as caretaker, recently became the father of a baby, so Gable told Mrs. Fred that he would buy her a cow so that the baby would have ample supplies of fresh milk.

There is no swimming pool on the heavily wooded twenty acres. With complete sanity Farmer Gable and his wife Carole determined that it would be wiser to safeguard their happiness by anticipating the thrill of luxuries. Next year, therefore, they will build a swimming pool below the house.

Farmer Gable, when he engaged Fred and his wife and built a nice home for them on the property, told Fred that he would be required to put in a full day's work. At 6 a. m. the two of them are up and at work taking care of the live stock and tending to the citrus trees, the walnut trees, and the grapevines. There was one acre that was sterile. Gable called in the government farm experts, and they prescribed a chemical to mix with the earth after it had been plowed up. Gable is prouder of the reclamation of that sterile acre than he is of his performance as Rhett Butler.

You may well suggest that in this set-up Carole Lombard Gable, as the wife of Farmer Gable, has no apparent point of contact. Carole's department, however, is the poultry. No one else can make any decision regarding the turkeys, chickens, or ducks without Carole's okeh. While the government farm aids were showing Clark how to improve his trees and the good earth, they also showed Carole certain tricks of diet and cooping guaranteed to add pounds to her birds, and the results have been little short of astounding. Immediately the chickens started laying eggs in such quantities that it appeared Carole had a corner on the market.

Most of the eggs are given to hospitals. The Gables now plan, in addition, to have a box made up so that they can send their friends a dozen eggs at a time. "We can call them Parnell eggs," ad-libbed Gable, "in memory of the egg I laid in that picture."

This home of the Gables, hidden away from Hollywood, and the exact antithesis of glamor, is part and parcel of a definite psychological pattern. Carole has been in pictures since 1915; Gable has been a star for the last ten years. Neither has had any degree of privacy, and this farm gives them privacy. Additionally, remember that Carole Lombard was Carol Jane Peters of Fort Wayne, Ind., and that Gable was the son of a Pennsylvania Dutch farmer who had settled at Ravenna, O., near Atwater, and this Encino farm becomes completely understandable. Two midwestern youngsters, one from Indiana, the other from Ohio, first earned money enough to go from farms to the big cities—then earned enough money to go back to the farm.

Understandable, too, is their reluctance to let Hollywood intrude on their property. It was with the greatest of difficulty that the M-G-M and RKO studios persuaded the Gables to admit photographers to their grounds following the marriage. "We'll pose for pictures at the studio," they countered, "but no pictures out here." The studios finally won them over, but there was one point on which the Gables were adamant—no pictures were to be taken within the house itself.

No amount of studio argument changed that. No pictures were taken in the house, so let me describe it to you. Keeping in mind the low, homey lines of a Connecticut farmhouse, let us go to the door and ring the bell. It is a white door, and in an upper panel there is a door knocker made out of the brass figure of an American eagle. In response to the metallic rapping a maid regards you thru a square slit in the left upper half of the door—just such a peephole as owners of speakeasies used during prohibition. As the maid opened the peephole and surveyed me I was tempted from force of habit to say, "It's okeh—Joe sent me."

You enter a Connecticut farmhouse that the top squire of the countryside might have owned. A farmhouse streamlined by every modern ingenuity that good taste and money make available. Directly in front of you is the staircase that leads to the two bedrooms on the second floor. To your right and left are the barroom, the office, the den, the living room, and the dining room. Thru the windows you see the charming patio that has been laid out under three giant pepper trees, and to the left and beyond can be seen the stables which Horseman Raoul Walsh constructed when he built the place.

It is a home which impresses you at once with its livable character. The chintz drapes, the kerosene lamps attached to the walls, the hurricanes that guard the candles, the old English prints, the rugs—all contribute to the warmth of a real home in excellent taste. In Gable's den one wall is covered by a large glass case thru which can be seen his collection of arms. Just for fun I counted them—nine revolvers, eleven guns.

On the wall above Gable's favorite armchair is a print of the Sayers and Heenan bare-knuckle fight; another print of the "Five Courts." On the stand, compressed by book ends, were five books—Noel Coward's "Present Indicative," "The Citadel," Asbury's "The French Quarter," "Cosmopolitans," and "Absalom, Absalom." A tiny gold dust scale such as was used in the early days of this state is an interesting museum piece.

The arsenal of guns is not for effect pictorial. Gable is one of the best gunners out in this neck of the woods. He is a duck hunter par excellence, and he is a better than average trap shooter. So is Carole. Gable's favorite rifle is one that has telescopic sights. He plans to use it some day on an African trip.

This is the home in which Clark Gable and his Carole are working out their happiness, such a happiness and such a home as neither of them dreamed of when they played opposite each other in "No Man of Their Own" in 1932. Their romance didn't start in that picture. It started when they met for the first time at a Mayfair dance out here. Gable thought that she was too fresh; she thought he was too conceited, and they had a spat immediately. The next day humorous Miss Lombard sent him by special messenger a white dove in a cage as a flag of truce. The next time they quarreled Gable sent her a white dove. By the time the romance was well under way they had quite a collection of caged doves.

Gable at no time ever enjoyed the social demands of Hollywood, and a contributory factor to his previous marital difficulties was grounded in his reaction to Hollywood parties and soirées. If he went he went under compulsion, and to get even for his inconvenience he would get "high." The amazing fact—amazing to him—that Carole abhors Hollywood parties and night clubs just as strenuously as he dislikes them made for a sympathy of interests that presaged their marriage at Kingman, Ariz.

Much has been written about that important elopement on the 29th of March, and the fan magazine writers really knocked themselves out in their saccharine reports. In ten stories I read that Gable piled Carole into his roadster and drove nonstop to the judge's chambers. That is fiction. The elopement of a Gable and a Lombard never could have been accomplished so easily.

First it was necessary, above all else, not to use his car or Carole's car, both of which would be spotted in a minute by the news hawks assigned to a twenty-four-hour patrol. Gable, who was then living at Rex Ingram's house in the valley beyond Universal City, picked up Carole at her Bel-Air home at 7 o'clock on the morning of March 29. He then drove directly to the Hermosa beach home of Otto Winkler, M-G-M publicity man assigned to Gable for press and magazine contacts. Gable and Carole left their Lincoln Zephyr parked in Winkler's garage and climbed into his De Soto, which had only temporary cardboard license plates because it was a new car. As it would have been unwise for them to stop to eat along the road, Jill Winkler, herself a bride of two weeks, made up a parcel of sandwiches to provision the elopement party.

Gable and Winkler took turns at the wheel on the 450-mile trip, and they reached Kingman at 4 o'clock. As they drew up in front of the marriage license clerk's office Winkler spotted a local newspaper man emerging from the building. He came right next to their car to climb into his own and looked directly into Winkler's car. If he thought that it was suspicious that the three occupants of the car averted their heads he didn't register. He climbed into his car and drove away. Winkler, after getting the license clerk to fill out the marriage license, took no chances of a leak. He took her along with them. The clerk left a memento of her justifiable astonishment on the marriage license. When she looked up to find Gable and The Lombard standing in front of her she screamed and spilled the ink. The blotch of ink is on the license, because it was the last one she had, and it was numbered, so she had to use it.

Winkler then drove to the home of Methodist Minister Kenneth Engle, a neat little house surrounded by a picket fence. The Rev. Mr. Engle was out making some sick calls. It took almost two hours to find him. When the young minister walked into his house, his arms full of bundles from the store, his pretty little wife said casually: "Kenneth, dear, come in here. I want you to meet Miss Lombard and Mr. Gable." The Rev. Mr. Engle reacted quite naturally. The bundles spilled out of his arms and all over the floor.

"When I saw 'Good-Bye, Mr. Chips,'" says Gable, "Donat's characterization of the young professor reminded me forcibly of young Rev. Mr. Engle. And his address to us in the church was one of the finest impromptu addresses I've ever heard." Gable and Carole have an extremely high impression of the youthful cleric who married them. They were most impressed by his refusal to let the photographers take any pictures of him or his wife, who hurried over to the church to play the organ.

The simplicity of the wedding in the tiny church at Kingman, Ariz., has keynoted the conduct of Gable and Carole since then. The twenty-acre farm off Ventura boulevard is an extension of the spirit in which they pledged allegiance in sickness and unto death.

Both of them appreciate the fact that their careers in the movies must come to an end some day in the future. So Pa and Ma found a substitute for glamor back on a farm. Like the characters they so often have impersonated, Clark and Carole intend to live happily ever after.

Stalin Dodges Death!

How Russia Protects a Dictator

● This is the third of a series of articles revealing the way in which Europe's dictators protect themselves from murder clubs and assassins. Previous articles told of the methods used in guarding Hitler and Mussolini.

AND SO we pass on to another grim scene, that of the Kremlin, with the dour personality of Stalin looking forth upon the Red square of Moscow. Many Russian exiles, who in cafés in Paris, Barcelona, and Lausanne plot the assassination of Stalin almost daily, confess bitterly that the dictator of soviet Russia is more carefully guarded than was the czar of all the Russias.

Force and secrecy are the protective walls built around the Red chief. No stranger knows where Stalin lives, except that it is somewhere in that medieval labyrinth, the Kremlin, with its private garrison drawn from the picked troops of the commissariat of the interior—the former OGPU. Actually he has a small flat below the Kremlin, where he lives with his two children. He seldom goes out. Occasionally he permits himself a visit to the theater. The chances for an assassin are small indeed.

It must be remembered that Stalin has been a revolutionary all his life. He has been imprisoned, has flitted thru the underworld, talked and plotted with anarchists of all nations, and has himself battled against the secret police. There is not a move in the terrorist game that he does not know. Therefore he is well prepared to checkmate the many attempts to take his life.

"During those years," writes Walter Duranty, "it might be said that Stalin, like other revolutionaries in Russia, 'made the sacrifice of his life'; and the fact that, unlike many of the others, he came thru that cruel period with a whole skin does not mean that he failed to appreciate the dangers and dismissed from his spirit any fear of them. Today in consequence Stalin takes only the precautions for his own safety which are forced upon him by his advisers.

"I myself have seen him walking back from a congress meeting in the Grand Opera house to his Kremlin apartment unattended. It was in the summer, and he wore a simple white drill suit very much like that of the average Russian functionary in warm weather. It may well have been that he was followed by vigilant guards, but there was nothing overt to indicate the fact that he was more than a simple citizen strolling across the Theater square down past the Grand hotel, which is one of the foreign tourist hotels, and across the Red square to the Kremlin."

Nevertheless the numerous plots that are unearthed and the severe sentences that are promulgated prove that the life of Stalin is very much a matter of chance. The man who was powerful enough to seize power after the death of Lenin and drive Trotzky into exile is still at the mercy of the determined assassin with bomb or gun. And, realizing this, the secret police, whose business it is to guard Stalin, are only at ease when the dictator is at home in that fortress which dominates Moscow.

The Kremlin itself is the most difficult place in the world to get into. Sentries pace the top of its walls, and every gate is closely guarded. Foreign visitors have to present their names days in advance. And they are counted in and out again on the occasion of their visit. It is said humorously that Stalin himself must present his identification card on entering the Kremlin, lest some one should have made himself up to look like the Red leader.

When Stalin makes his public appearances at reviews and demonstrations in the Red square he emerges from a gate of the Kremlin which is just behind Lenin's tomb. Then he ascends a high balcony overlooking the Red square. Officers with automatics group themselves in his immediate vicinity. You can see that guarding group of officers in pictures taken of Stalin in the Red square. The only one who permits himself to smile is Stalin.

But even the secret police can be thwarted, as was proved by the assassination of Sergei Kiroff, Stalin's personal friend, in Leningrad. The crime, which occurred in December, 1934, took place in the old Smolny institute, Lenin's citadel in 1917 and now the government headquarters for the Leningrad region.

Kiroff, who was 48 years old, had experienced the usual vicissitudes of a revolutionary before coming into power. Prison, Siberia, and the knout had failed to tame him. He was in prison when the revolution broke out in 1917, and rapidly came to the head of affairs. At the time of his death he was one of the ten leading bolsheviks in Russia. A two-line communique was issued telling of the assassination and adding that "the murderer was immediately arrested." It also mentioned briefly that the murderer was "a secret emissary of enemies of the working class."

Kiroff had been shot at his desk. The terse announcement caused the usual outbreak of Red propaganda and a demand for wholesale executions. Leningrad factories called for the strengthening of the Red army and pitiless punishment of the assassin, finally urging the authorities to "use more care in recognizing the enemies of the working class." These outbursts were caused by the mysterious circumstances of the crime. No one could understand how an assassin managed to penetrate into the closely guarded Smolny institute, where the murder was committed, and how he managed to reach such a big man as Kiroff.

When Stalin announced that he intended to visit Leningrad and walk in the funeral procession behind the coffin of Kiroff the secret police were more than worried. They realized, as do most people in Russia, that if ever Stalin is murdered it is likely to be in a funeral procession. These are the occasions when Stalin walks humbly thru the crowded streets. Probably the greatest risk Stalin ever took was when he walked five miles behind the body of his young wife. He was a humble, defenseless figure on that occasion. Bowed down by human sorrow, he strode over snow behind an all-red hearse drawn by six black horses. Thousands watched him, and there were rumors that his wife had been poisoned. But Stalin emerged from the ordeal unscathed by bullet or bomb.

Unlike Hitler, he does not use an airplane for his journeys. Always he goes by train. The announcement, therefore, that he was to attend the funeral of Kiroff sent the secret police scurrying to make all preparations against any incidents. The station at Moscow, as at Leningrad, was packed with troops. The funeral went off as arranged, and Stalin returned to Moscow. The secret police breathed their relief, but they were immediately set to work by Stalin to unravel the underworld plot that had caused the death of one of his best friends.

The trial of Leonid Nikolaev, assassin of the soviet leader Kiroff, and thirteen others, accused with him, was heard before a military court in that same Smolny institute where the crime was committed. No one without an official pass was allowed in the courtroom. The prisoners were chained by the wrists and ankles and two guards with fixed bayonets stood on either side of the men during the trial.

"Do you plead guilty?" asked the judge, addressing Nikolaev.

"I freed Russia from a low-down scoundrel. Others will follow me and finish my work," shouted Nikolaev, and then burst into harsh laughter.

The judge then addressed Shatsky, the eldest of the prisoners.

"Do you plead guilty to having transgressed paragraph 58 of the constitution?"

Shatsky tried to reply but collapsed in a faint. Nikolaev continued smiling defiantly. He was only 30 and was once an employé of the Leningrad branch of the former workers and peasants' inspection department.

But as the trial proceeded Moscow agents had been very busy. As a result of secret investigation a huge and widespread plot against the life of Stalin was unearthed. Stalin himself was determined on no half measures. He had made of soviet Russia a dictatorship. He now decided to behave like a dictator and indulge in a blood purge. A series of wholesale arrests were ordered on the strength of the secret reports that came to his hand.

Sergei Kiroff

Zinovieff, Kameneff, and many other members of the bolshevist "old guard" were brought to trial. Immediately after the murder of Kiroff the leader Zinovieff was almost automatically sent into exile. Within a few weeks he was facing a capital charge of "moral responsibility" in the murder and was sentenced to a long term of imprisonment. Then he and his associates—several of whom, incidentally, were Jews—were charged with direct responsibility for the murder and with planning the assassination of Stalin himself with the aid of the German secret police.

Then some 1,500 of the army of the OGPU secret police who guarded Stalin in the Kremlin day and night were transferred to other parts of soviet Russia. This followed upon the execution of the leaders of the soviet concerned in the plot against Stalin's life. It was believed that the finding of a wreath bearing the inscription "In memory of the old guard communist leaders, Zinovieff and Kameneff" leaning against the wall of the Kremlin close to the Lenin mausoleum was responsible for this wholesale move of the guards. The more likely reason was that Stalin doubted their loyalty and his own safety.

Further, Grigori Yagoda, chief of the OGPU, was visited in room 101 of the drab stone Lubianka, his headquarters, and informed that he had been dismissed from his post. This dark, wiry little man, who had acted with great energy and ruthless severity during the Stalin régime, gladly accepted the minor job of commissar for post and telegraphs which was offered to him. Stalin chose M. Yezhoff, a pure Russian, as his new chief of personal bodyguard and secret service.

The plot against Stalin was a real one. Ever since he assumed power after the death of Lenin the internationalists in soviet Russia had never ceased their criticism of the man whom they contemptuously termed "the Asiatic." These critics still hankered after world revolution and had no use for Stalin's purely nationalistic program. The time came inevitably when they decided upon Stalin's murder. They saw in him just another dictator.

The plot was outlined at a secret meeting held in the woods near Moscow with sentries posted to insure against interference. The secret meetings were continued in cellars. Underground printing presses began to flood the country with seditious pamphlets. One of these pamphlets, in the form of a newspaper called For Russia, came into my hands. It was the official organ of an anti-bolshevist terrorist group which called itself the Union of the New Generation.

The Union of the New Generation had its headquarters in Jugo-Slavia. It still has ramifications in other countries and claims to have a working organization in Russia itself. It is composed entirely of young men and believes not in dead past but the future. Its slogan is "Killing no murder." Here are extracts from the leading article of its pamphleteering newspaper:

"The chief hangmen and murderers of our country fear death. Their extermination is our first aim. These cowardly dogs do not all live in the Kremlin. They can be reached at meetings. Many of their addresses are in the telephone directory.

"To get at Stalin, Maxim Gorky and Demian Biedney must be removed. Kiroff in Leningrad and Kocciora and Postysheff in the south must be finished off. The deathless echo of this great deed will spread over all Russia. The hour of revenge is rising about the hungry fields of our tortured country."

The significant fact about this issue of For Russia was that it was printed three weeks before the murder of Kiroff.

• • •

In the meantime those hated executioners were busy. Somewhere in the secret labyrinth of the Lubianka, Zinovieff, Kameneff, and the fourteen others found guilty of plotting against the life of Stalin were shot in the small hours of the morning. From outside the Lubianka prison the police headquarters was wrapped in silence at the time when the executions were taking place. No one is likely to reveal whether the men died alone or together. The general belief was that they were executed singly, being shot in the brain. Thruout the week the Moscow papers had been displayed with posters bearing photographs of the heavy, listless faces of the convicted men. The posters carried the caption "Shoot the Mad Dogs — Every One of Them." The end must have been horrible.

According to one account Kameneff was the first of the principals to die. In silence he was taken to an underground washhouse in the depths of the prison. At the first volley he fell with a sigh, but he was still alive. The officer who commanded the squad drew his revolver and put a bullet through Kameneff's head.

Smirnov was next. Before being taken away he asked for pencil and paper. Hardly had he begun to write, "Comrade Stalin——" when the officer snatched the paper and tore it to pieces. Smirnov was then marched to the washhouse and killed.

During the night four of the other conspirators died in the washhouse. They were marched into a small annex with a screen near the door. As they passed the screen the executioner stepped out and shot them thru the neck from behind.

Zinovieff, it is said, died blubbering and screaming for mercy. In spite of the hot August night he wore a pullover and thick

Prunes, Glorified

Jack Horner Rolls Use Them

HE STUCK in his thumb and pulled out—a prune! Yes, there's a fat prune in the middle of each of these "Jack Horner" rolls. It's a surprise that will tickle the youngsters when they come upon it while eating their school lunch or after-school snack. And these prune-filled frosted sweet rolls will delight the adult members of the family, too.

A plump apricot could take the place of some of the prunes for an added surprise.

JACK HORNER ROLLS

Soften 2 cakes of compressed yeast in ¼ cup of lukewarm water. Scald 1 cup of milk and add ¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, and 1 teaspoon salt. Cool this mixture to lukewarm and add flour enough to make a thick batter, say about three cups. Add softened yeast and 2 beaten eggs. Beat well and add enough more flour, approximately 2 cups (there are about 5 cups of flour altogether) to make a soft dough.

Turn this soft dough out on a floured board and knead until elastic and satiny. Place in a greased bowl, cover, and let rise until double in bulk, about two hours. When light, punch down and shape into large buns. Flatten each bun, place a prune in the center, and pull edges together, pressing firmly. Place buns rounded side up on a greased baking sheet. Let rise until double, about forty-five minutes. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for twenty to twenty-five minutes. The recipe makes three dozen rolls.

Food to Whet Fall Appetites

Stuffed Onions, Peppers Are Two Easy Dishes.

By MARY MEADE

STUFFED onions, stuffed peppers, and casserole dishes of meats and vegetables are economical and satisfying main courses for fall meals. If the portions are liberal enough you won't need to accompany them with more than bread, beverage, and dessert.

Choose the largest onions you can find to stuff with salmon. Then prepare them this way:

SALMON-STUFFED ONIONS

For six persons, assemble six large Burmuda onions, a pound can of salmon (pink salmon is less expensive than red and just as nutritious), a sprig or two of parsley, and a green pepper. Peel the onions, cut off the tops, and boil onions twenty minutes in salted water without a cover. Drain and remove centers, saving them for onion soup at another meal.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, and blend. Add 1 cup milk gradually with ½ teaspoon salt and stir until sauce has thickened. Add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, and the flaked salmon. Fill mixture into onion cups, sprinkle each stuffed onion with fine bread or cracker crumbs, and dot with butter. Bake in a greased pan in a 350-degree oven for half an hour.

BAKED STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

To prepare peppers for stuffing, slice off tops, remove seeds, and parboil in salted water (uncovered) for eight minutes. Drain and stuff. For the stuffing pictured combine 1 can concentrated cream of mushroom soup with 1¾ cups cooked rice, 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento. Stuff the peppers, top with fine crumbs, dot with butter, and bake at 375 degrees for half an hour. This amount of mixture will stuff four peppers.

CASSEROLE OF MEAT BALLS AND VEGETABLES

Mix together ½ pound ground beef and 1 pound ground ham. Season to taste and shape into little balls. Brown in a little hot fat. Sauté in the same fat one bunch green onions, sliced, and four or five stalks of celery, sliced (use tops of both onions and celery), and one green pepper, chopped. Add one No. 2 can of corn and one No. 1 can of tomatoes, or 1½ cups fresh tomatoes, cut in pieces. Season vegetable mixture, place in greased casserole with meat balls on top, cover, and cook twenty to twenty-five minutes at moderate heat. Serve from casserole.

The hammered-effect aluminum casserole used for the photograph is a top-of-the-stove cooker.

ROAD TO WAR

Washington that they were caring for Germans.

Mr. Herrick was at last pried out of the Paris embassy at the end of November, altho the French did their best to retain so useful an ally, and many in the United States likewise urged that he be allowed to remain. As it was, he sailed loaded with honors and compliments from the entente governments; he was enthusiastically received at home; Theodore Roosevelt lamented that he was not President of the United States, and a movement to make him so was instantly set on foot.

• • •

It was scarcely a state of mind to qualify the United States as an impartial mediator. Yet the bright vision of a neutral intervention by a humane and pacific America to rescue the old world from itself would not down.

Only the much despised Mr. Bryan seems to have had the common sense to understand that "the responsibility for continuing the war is just as grave as the responsibility for beginning it," and that if the United States was to play the mediator at all it could only do so by bringing both sides to negotiation before a crushing victory had been won by either.

Even President Wilson in those days was accepting House's conclusion that "if Germany won it would change the course of our civilization and make the United States a military nation," and showing himself, to the eyes of his adviser, "as unsympathetic with the German attitude as is the balance of America." But he still seemed not fully to realize that a "mediation" in this spirit must inevitably become an intervention on behalf of the entente. No one realized it except the shrewd spokesmen of the entente itself, and they continued earnestly to implant the idea of this sort of "mediation" in Mr. Wilson's mind.

It is hardly strange if Mr. Wilson, as the long months dragged by, did not begin to suspect that he might be almost as great a man as the allies told him that he was.

III.

Our first peace offensives were not wholly disinterested. American business had been slack enough in July; by October it was prostrate. The stock exchange was still closed. With the first thunderclap of war our maritime trade had disappeared. Presently the sea lanes were reopened, but the first efforts to rebuild our economic machinery only brought the dawning realization that nearly the whole of our lucrative trade with Germany and Austria-Hungary had somehow gone, and gone for good, in the disaster.

It took time to grasp the fact that this had occurred; it took even longer to understand how it had been brought about. Everybody knew, of course, that under international law the allies were free to blockade Germany if they could. Unfortunately for the allies, however, geography and the German navy combined to render this impossible, and no "blockade" in the precise legal sense of the word was ever declared against the central powers. It was also understood that the allies had the right to seize "contraband" destined for the enemy wherever they might find it upon the high seas. "Contraband," however, was supposed to mean actual munitions of war—guns, shells, artillery carriages, infantry equipment, and so on. The ordinary articles of commerce, even food, might also be seized as "conditional contraband" in cases where it could be proved that they were directly destined for the use of the enemy's armed forces; but otherwise they could only be interfered with thru the institution of a blockade of the enemy's ports, not only regularly declared, but also effective in fact.

The state department had begun (to protest against the British blockade) with the attempt to settle the whole question by securing acceptance of the declaration of London. This would have solved the problem at the outset; unfortunately it would also have made the throttling of Germany quite impossible. Sir Edward Grey countered skilfully on Aug. 22 by accepting the declaration in its entirety—save for one or two slight "modifications." They were such, it is hardly necessary to say, as to render the instrument valueless for the protection of American commerce.

For a special reason the state department was goaded to fresh efforts. The war had caught us just as the great southern cotton crop was coming upon the market and Germany was normally the second largest taker of American cotton. To the south the blow was prostrating, and the solid south was a chief pillar of the administration's political power. Before the end of August influential southern senators were imploring Mr. Bryan to arrange in some way for the shipment of raw cotton to the central powers. The industrial northeast, already passionately pro-ally and always slow to understand its dependence upon the hinterlands, dismissed such cries as only the perennial wailing of the agrarian; to the south, however, it was a matter of desperate earnestness. Yet cotton was not even on the contraband lists. The state department found itself simply fighting the air.

Nor was Mr. Page of much assistance. On Sept. 15 he reported cheerily to House that "everything is going well here, I think. The British government is most considerate of us in all large ways. The smaller questions of ships and prizes, etc., are really in the hands of the admiralty . . . and they are conducted on a war basis." The italics are not Mr. Page's.

Autos of newspaper correspondents assigned to cover the war ready for shipping to the front.

But there was one American official who was more alert. Robert Lansing, the counselor for the state department, remained unimpressed by Great Britain's "consideration."

In the absence of Secretary Bryan, Mr. Lansing had devised a note in protest against the British "modifications" of the declaration.

Col. House happened to be visiting at the White House when Mr. Lansing submitted it, on Sept. 27, to the President. Its terms made Col. House's hair rise; instead, however, of merely recommending that it be toned down, he conceived the more remarkable idea of submitting it first to the British ambassador.

The next day he was in secret session with Spring Rice over the formidable document; the ambassador (who confessed to Sir Edward Grey he was "really astonished at the tone in one or two of the paragraphs") was naturally loud in his alarms. If the note went as drafted there would be a "big catastrophe"; it would be "almost a declaration of war." Such a crisis, Spring Rice skilfully suggested, "would never have arisen if the state department had talked the matter over with him frankly in the beginning."

House hastened to submit the note to the British representative for revision; together they devised the cable which should actually be sent, and agreed, as House innocently noted, "to be absolutely frank with one another" in the future. Thus was the first important American diplomatic effort of the world war secretly watered down by the intended recipients. It finally went off to Mr. Page in the revised version.

Sir Edward gracefully temporized and went on expanding the contraband lists. Mr. Lansing responded with fresh protests and further insistence upon the declaration of London; but Great Britain flatly declined to accept the declaration even in slightly compromised form. On Oct. 22 Mr. Lansing gave it up; our request was formally withdrawn and the United States retreated to the previously existing rules and precedents of international law, without reference to the London codification.

Great Britain had won easily in the first, and therefore the decisive, skirmish. After that, with the exercise of only a little care and skill, the foreign trade of the United States might be made to wait upon the military necessities of the entente powers; and it is a fact that from that time on every issue which arose between the United States and Great Britain was settled in accordance with the British view.

IV.

By October it began to appear that the sudden plunge into the economic abyss had been, in some miraculous fashion, arrested. Southern cotton farmers might still be destitute; great numbers of unemployed might still be on the streets. In New York, however, an "outlaw" securities market had developed upon the sidewalk before the closed doors of the stock exchange and its prices "caused surprise." Presently some faint hint, even, of a recovery was discernible in these "outlaw" quotations, while foreign exchange began to turn in our favor as the allied governments came heavily into our markets for food, raw materials, commodities of all sorts.

As the autumn days shortened toward that first winter of the war, H. P. Davison, a leading partner in the great house of Morgan, was distressed to observe the "helter-skelter and at times almost frantic" fashion in which different allied purchasing agencies were bidding against each other in the American markets. At once Mr. Davison perceived it to be the Morgan company's patriotic duty to undertake the purchasing job for itself, thus rescuing American industry from the "demoralization" of too sudden wealth. On Nov. 26 he sailed to lay this inspiration before the British government.

There were many other American bankers, manufacturers, and promoters who discerned the opportunities for high (and highly profitable) service to humanity and the entente held out by the immense scale of the new warfare. Nor was it solely a matter of food and raw material, even in those early days. In September Ambassador Bernstorff had heard of a French military mission at the Bethlehem Steel works (happy name!) and by early November its head, Charles M. Schwab, was climbing stairs in "evilly lighted" London offices, arranging fat contracts for war munitions. In November the dollar rose again to par with the British pound, and on Nov. 13 Spring Rice was happily reporting that "every one is talking of booming trade and increasing exports. This all depends on our keeping the sea open and consequently it is the rule of England on the sea that is preventing a financial catastrophe here."

Richard H. Davis

Rep. Towner

As early as Aug. 28 Representative Towner of Iowa, speaking on the floor of congress, had clearly foreseen the danger. To ship "food and clothing" to the allies, he had warned his countrymen, was "to aid them in their great struggle with Germany and Austria." At best we would be fortunate if we could avoid being drawn into the war; but to encourage even commercial exports to one side, when the other was debarred from our markets, would be "to invite our own entanglement." His fate was that of other Cassandras; few saw the relationship between these lucrative new markets and our own neutrality, and the allies' commercial purchases mounted rapidly. The sale of munitions, however, was another matter. When congress convened in December it was to meet a flood of bills calling for an embargo upon the export of munitions.

The leading bill was introduced by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, a pillar of the Democratic majority. Unfortunately the movement was presented as one of humanitarian idealism rather than as a severely practical way of preserving the United States from involvement in the war. Even more unfortunately, it at once enlisted the enthusiastic support of the pro-German minority. They plunged into a propaganda campaign which made it only too easy to discredit the whole idea as mere Teutonic treachery; besides, the sale of munitions was lucrative. Even so Spring Rice, always nervous, took instant alarm. On Dec. 11 he "unofficially" suggested that the Hitchcock bill "would be special legislation passed while war is in progress, making a radical departure from a long established custom" and so a definitely "unneutral act." Loudly the allies and their American sympathizers reëchoed this view, and Mr. Bryan soon reassured Spring Rice that the Hitchcock bill was without administration indorsement.

Thus Mr. Wilson missed a valuable opportunity (in not supporting the proposed Hitchcock arms embargo bill). To have supported the measure would, of course, have opened the President to a furious attack from the pro-ally Americans and from the gentlemen who were getting the munitions contracts.

Hence, ignoring practical as distinguished from formal neutrality, our earnest seekers after contracts were allowed to continue unchecked. The Allies could buy from us; the Germans could not, and could not prevent the Allies from doing so, and that seemed all there was to it. That they might invent a way occurred to no one.

Yet back in the first week of September Mr. Whitlock at Brussels had encountered our naval attaché from the Berlin embassy. "They have an invention at sea," this officer told him, "that will create the same staggering sensation that the 42-centimeter howitzers have."

V.

On Nov. 4 Secretary Bryan received official notice from the British government that thereafter "the whole of the North sea must be considered a military area."

The British went on to warn all merchant ships of the danger they ran, not only from mines, but also from allied vessels searching for "suspicious craft," unless they proceeded in "strict accordance" with admiralty sailing directions. These required all neutral merchant vessels to enter the North sea only by way of the Straits of Dover, where they could be conveniently searched in the Downs.

The truth was that it was practically impossible to search large modern vessels for contraband in the open seas; the only way of making an effective search (and of coercing shippers by imposing long delays upon the vessels) was by bringing the ships into harbor where they could be unloaded and examined at exhaustive leisure.

On Nov. 11, 1914, when something like a hundred merchantmen were collected in the Downs meekly awaiting their turn for inspection, S. M. S. U-12 stole calmly into their midst, picked out the old gunboat Niger lying off the Deal pier, and blew her up. The submarine left unscathed. Perhaps it is not surprising that the enthusiasts of the German navy began to press the great project which had been forming in their minds. So on Dec. 15 the chief of the naval staff laid before Grand Admiral von Tirpitz "the draft of a letter to the foreign office, in which he requested their approval of the opening of a submarine campaign at the end of January, the English channel and all the waters surrounding the United Kingdom to be declared as a war zone."

If the United States permitted the English to do it she surely could not raise difficulties when the Germans followed their example? Von Tirpitz was not convinced even so; "our experiences," he truthfully observed, "have unfortunately made it clear that Germany must pay more respect to the commercial interests of the neutrals than England." But the foreign office (according to Tirpitz) was bolder; it believed it could justify such a declaration, and the plan went forward.

NEXT WEEK—Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare achieves its most dramatic and unwise triumph—the sinking of the Lusitania.

Make Lipstick Stick!

Spare Your Escort Agony of Watching Repairs

By ELEANOR NANGLE

BRILLIANTLY rouged mouths on women are as commonplace as airplanes nowadays. Even the least observant find that the feminine face sans lipstick looks curiously unfinished.

But men still hate to see women going through the process of applying lipstick. Maybe it's vanity. We've often wondered whether it was the motions of wielding the stick that offended them, or whether it was that withdrawn, distracted air a woman immediately assumes when she stops listening to a companion's conversation and devotes all her attention to applying a brighter and better paint job.

In any case it still seems to annoy the poor dears exceedingly. If you want to spare them the horror of seeing you remake up your mouth every forty minutes, learn how to do it well, so that frequent repair jobs are unnecessary.

• • •

Choose your lipstick with care. Few manufacturers now claim indelibility for their product, but it is still true that some lipsticks cling longer than others. The women who literally eat lipstick off should shop for these.

For that lip makeup you want to last, use a brush, at least for the first outline. It will give a cleaner line and a more lasting one. Have the lip surface perfectly dry. If you like you may fill in the outline with your usual stick, but if you are really painstaking you'll dig your brush into the creamy stick and use that as the applicator. Always make up the upper lip first—and apply the rouge generously inside that carefully drawn outline. Then roll the upper lip gently over the lower lip.

Put on plenty and rub it in, not just over the surface. When your mouth outlines are what you want them, press a bit of tissue against the mouth, biting down on it gently. Do this several times.

A theatrical trick is to apply a light dusting of powder over the first heavy coat of lipstick before pressing down with the tissue. This does away with sheen, however, and isn't so satisfactory for street wear. You can, if you're deft, apply a little more rouge or a little cream over the powdered surface.

The whole trick is in applying it properly the first time. When this is done the need for those frequent repairs that so offend the masculine onlooker is eliminated.

Apply plenty, then remove the excess by blotting with tissues. Repairs won't be necessary so often.

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Men and boys learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the nineteenth of the series.

JAMES ABRAM GARFIELD was the twentieth President of the United States of America. He took office March 4, 1881. On Sept. 19 of the same year he died at Elberon, N. J., as the result of having been wounded July 2 in the railway station in Washington by Charles J. Guiteau. On the occasion of his taking the oath as President on the east portico of the capitol on that March day in 1881 Mr. Garfield said:

"We stand today upon an eminence which overlooks a hundred years of national life—a century crowded with perils, but crowned with the triumphs of liberty and law. Before continuing the onward march let us pause on this height for a moment to strengthen our faith and renew our hope by a glance at the pathway along which our people have traveled.

"It is now three days more than a hundred years since the adoption of the first written constitution of the United States—the articles of confederation and perpetual union. The new republic was then beset with dangers on every hand. It had not conquered a place in the family of nations. The decisive battle of the war for independence, whose centennial anniversary will soon be gratefully celebrated at Yorktown, had not yet been fought. The colonists were struggling not only against the armies of a great nation but against the settled opinions of mankind; for the world did not then believe that the supreme authority of government could be safely entrusted to the guardianship of the people themselves.

"We cannot overestimate the fervent love of liberty, the intelligent courage, and the saving common sense with which our fathers made the great experiment of self-government. When they found after a short trial that the confederacy of states was too weak to meet the necessities of a vigorous and expanding republic they boldly set it aside and in its stead established a national Union founded directly upon the will of the people and endowed with full power of self-preservation and with ample authority for the accomplishment of its great objects.

"Under this constitution the boundaries of freedom have been enlarged, the foundations of order and peace have been strengthened, and the growth of our people in all the better elements of national life has vindicated the wisdom of the founders and given new hope to their descendants. Under this constitution our people long ago made themselves safe against danger from without, secured for their mariners and flag equality of rights on all the seas. Under this constitution twenty-five states have been added to the Union, with constitutions and laws framed and enforced by their own citizens to secure the manifold blessings of local self-government. The jurisdiction of this constitution now covers an area fifty times greater than that of the original thirteen states, and a population twenty times greater than that of 1780.

"The supreme trial of the constitution came at last under the tremendous pressure of civil war. We ourselves are witnesses that the Union emerged from the blood and fire of that conflict purified and made stronger for all the beneficent purposes of good government.

"And now at the close of this first century of growth, with the inspiration of its history in their hearts, our people have lately reviewed the condition of the nation, passed judgment upon the conduct and opinions of political parties, and registered their will concerning the future administration of the government. To interpret and to execute that will in accordance with the constitution is the paramount duty of the executive."

Speeches of inauguration belong in a class by themselves—for they have as an audience the entire nation. A division may be roughly made between inaugurals which are delivered in peaceful years and those spoken in times of crisis. Lincoln's first and second inaugurals were definitly of the latter type. These speeches were powerful, enormously important affairs—dramatic pronouncements delivered at zero hours in our history. Garfield's is a speech of the other sort. It is designed to impress the nation with the rightness of the democratic ideal, with the inevitability of our national development toward the finest sort of government. There is neither doubt nor fear in this speech. Measured words and rhythmic sentences give an impression of dignity, of faith in America's future under the forthcoming administration.—Comment by Martin Maloney of the Northwestern university school of speech.

Milk—One Food That Has No Substitute

By GREER WILLIAMS

ARCHÆOLOGISTS, digging in the desert caves of North Africa, have found rock paintings of dark-skinned humans worshiping a milk cow. The drawings show that mankind has known the value of the milk cow for at least 10,000 years. Today man is more devoted to the cow than ever—in a utilitarian way.

He has expended great effort as scientist and as farmer to encourage the cow to produce more milk. The value of milk arises from the fact that it is the one food whose sole natural function is to serve as food. There is no satisfactory substitute for it. Milk contains more of the essential elements of diet, in proportions more nearly adjusted to body needs, than any other food.

MAJOR	MINOR
Carbon	Iron
Oxygen	Copper
Nitrogen	Zinc
Hydrogen	Manganese
Potassium	Iodine
Calcium	Aluminum
Chlorine	Fluorine
Phosphorus
Sodium
Sulphur
Magnesium

These combine in 19 amino acids, 11 fatty acids, 6 vitamins, 9 enzymes, 1 sugar, 5 phosphorus compounds, 14 nitrogen compounds, and from 10 to 15 miscellaneous elements and compounds found in the water content of milk.

Milk may be defined as an emulsion of fat in a water solution of casein, albumin, sugar, and mineral ash. The fat floats in microscopic globules in the water.

Every one is acquainted with the capacity of these fat globules to rise as cream on the top of the milk. This natural division of the milk into lighter and heavier portions (the fat is lighter than the water solution) enables the cream to be separated from the milk. The cream is largely butter fat and becomes butter when churned.

Most people also know that the remaining skim milk divides into curds and whey when it sours, and that the curds can be made into cheese. But few persons know the nature of the cream, curds, and whey which comprise whole milk.

A better understanding may be had if one remembers that the three essentials of food as a whole are proteins, carbohydrates, and fats.

The proteins are nitrogen-containing substances which supply the material from which muscles are made. They contain what are known as amino acids. These acids give nutritive quality to the elements of the protein. Casein, derived from the Latin word for cheese, and albumin, which is found in all blood serum, are the proteins of milk. They are found in the curd.

Carbohydrates are carbon-hydrogen-oxygen compounds which furnish most of the energy for the body. They are commonly known as sugars and starches The sole carbohydrate in milk is lactose, or milk sugar, which has the same chemical formula as cane sugar but different characteristics (less sweet, for one) because its molecules are arranged in a different pattern. Lactose is dissolved in the whey of the milk.

The fats furnish the body its most concentrated form of energy as well as a tissue which insulates it against loss of heat. They are composed of fatty acids which form cream and thence butter.

Various fermenting agents known as enzymes enable the body to digest these foods.

Minerals, known to dietitians as ash, are also important in the structure and functions of the body. With some exceptions, milk supplies an adequate quantity. The minerals are distributed throughout milk, but are most abundant in the proteins, which contain sulphur and phosphorus, and the whey. The most important of the minerals is calcium, all-important in the formation of bones and teeth. Milk is the best food source of calcium.

Milk is said to contain all the vitamins known to be important in the diet. It is the most important source of vitamin G (also called B_2), which is the growth essential. Butter fat is rich in vitamin A, important in maintaining body strength and resistance to disease. Vitamin A is closely associated with the rich yellowish color of milk, both the vitamin and the coloring being supplied by the plant substance caretone.

Vitamin B_1, the "nerve tonic" and remedy for beriberi, and vitamin C, the anti-scurvy vitamin, are present in milk, but are less stable—particularly vitamin C, which may be lost thru exposure to light, heat, and copper containers if not carefully handled.

Milk is low in D, the "sunshine" vitamin, which prevents rickets, but this is remedied in "vitamin D milk" by feeding cows yeast or by exposing milk to ultraviolet radiation. Milk is a good source of vitamin E, important in reproduction.

The United States' 25,000,000 milch cows produce approximately 48,770,000,000 quarts a year (1934-'36 average), about 20,000,000,000 quarts, or 41 per cent, of which is consumed in fluid form by humans. The annual per capita consumption is 153 quarts, second to Switzerland's 232 quarts. The accompanying chart shows the principal uses of milk in America and how it is divided. It may be observed that the total of milk used in butter is more than the amount as fluid.

Cheese, evaporated and condensed milk, and ice cream, as the chart shows, are the other principal uses of milk. More than 1,629,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, 600,000,000 pounds of cheese, 120,000,000 pounds of cottage cheese, 2,600,000,000 pounds of evaporated and condensed milk, 1,900,000,000 pounds of ice cream, and 349,000,000 pounds of dried and powdered milk are manufactured annually.

Butter consumption is about 17 pounds annually per capita, ice cream 7½ quarts, and cheese 5 pounds.

The most important nonfood use of milk is in the production of casein. This protein can be made into a plastic resembling ivory, amber, or tortoise shell for use in combs, beads, buttons, vanity cases, poker chips, etc. It is used for sizing and waterproofing paper and cloth, and as a cement and glue for porcelain, woodwork, and in plywood for airplanes. It also forms a base for cosmetics and ointments. The annual production is upward of 20,000,000 pounds.

How Stalin Dodges Death

woolen socks, for he was shivering all over. "Prepare yourself," he was curtly ordered. "We are going to take you away."

The shaking man did not budge. A guard seized his boots and forcibly put them on. Zinovieff still did not move. One of the guards left the cell and returned with a jug of cold water. He threw it over Zinovieff, and it seemed to quiet him. Then, sobbing and screaming, he was carried down the corridor until they came to the door of a cell.

A guard flung the door open and pushed the blubbering Zinovieff in. He fell across the entrance. An officer grabbed his hair with the left hand and with the right drew a revolver. He put the revolver to Zinovieff's neck and pressed the trigger. That was the end. Next day the Moscow crematorium received seven corpses. What happened to the others is not known.

And so Russia was made safe for Stalin. It has since been noticed that Russian propaganda is concerned with praise of Stalin. The object, it appears, is to build up Stalin as a national leader, following the German example in relation to Hitler. All that is left for his enemies is to spread rumors that Stalin's health is seriously undermined.

They hope that disease, and this time it is said to be angina pectoris, will accomplish what the murder clubs and assassins have failed to do.

But in his sixtieth year Stalin is still the supreme dictator in Russia. He has by no means relaxed the guard over himself at the Kremlin. An army of his fellow Georgians, who have sworn to protect him, keep day and night watch. A network of high-tension wires around his quarters, which he seldom leaves, means death to any intruder.

Even the doors in his apartments have no handles. They open and close automatically, operated by electric buttons on Stalin's desk. The dictator of Russia is looking tired. This constant guarding and shadowing is telling on his nerves. He used to be an expert revolver shot. It is whispered now that his hand is not so steady as it used to be. When the day comes to a close Stalin goes to bed. It is doubtful whether he sleeps much. There must be nightmares. And as the small man with the dour face who has been proudly called "the man of steel" goes into his bedroom twelve soldiers with fixed bayonets take up their stand outside the door.

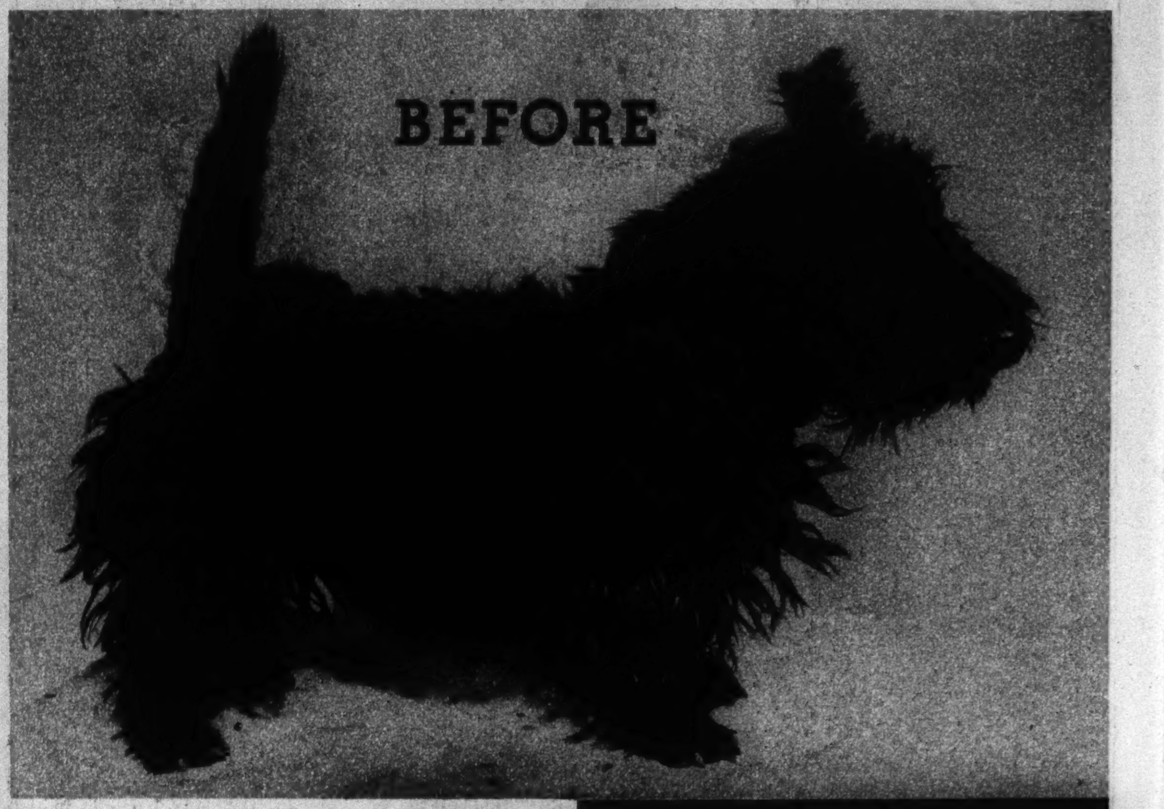
Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER



1 Blackscot Dark Secret, a Scottish terrier, as it looked before it was plucked, combed, and brushed.

A Strip Act That Aids Pets

THE OLD phrase "from rags to riches" might well be changed to "from rags to style plus" to describe the remarkable change in those terriers that are groomed correctly several times every year. A Scottish terrier, wire-haired fox terrier, or Airedale which rarely is groomed adequately, and therefore has a thick, unkempt coat, looks like a neglected dog wearing "rags." Its appearance tells the world that the owner apparently isn't much interested in his pet. The terrier that gets a nifty hair trim several times a year is the personification of canine style.

The remarkable transformation of a little Scottish terrier named Blackscot Dark Secret from a ragged, unprepossessing specimen to a neat, good looking dog is shown in the accompanying pictures. When Owen Craighead, professional handler and terrier authority of Northbrook, Ill., placed Dark Secret on a table and got out his stripping knife, comb, brush, and scissors the Scotty looked like something the dog catcher overlooked!

The stripping knife or dog dresser is the important accessory in grooming. In the hands of an expert it removes the dead hairs in a dog's coat, trims the new ones, and gives the animal the finish that conforms with the established standard of the breed.

The number of pluckings or hair trims that a terrier may need during a year depends on how neat and good looking you wish the animal to look and also how fast the coat grows. The average terrier may get along with about three a year.

2 Using a stripping knife, Owen Craighead, professional handler, is starting to work on the head of the dog.

5 At right: The last step in grooming is to file down the nails. The nails of the average house dog usually grow too long.

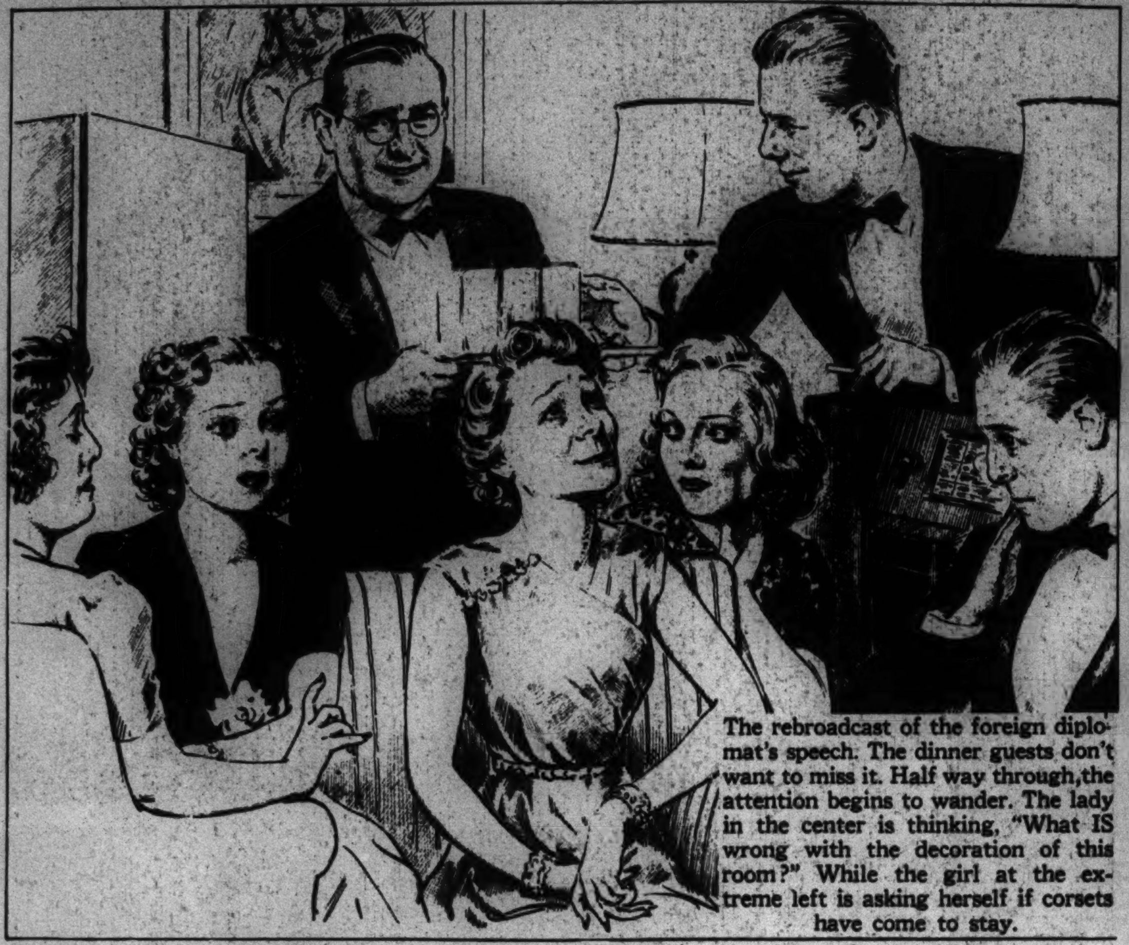
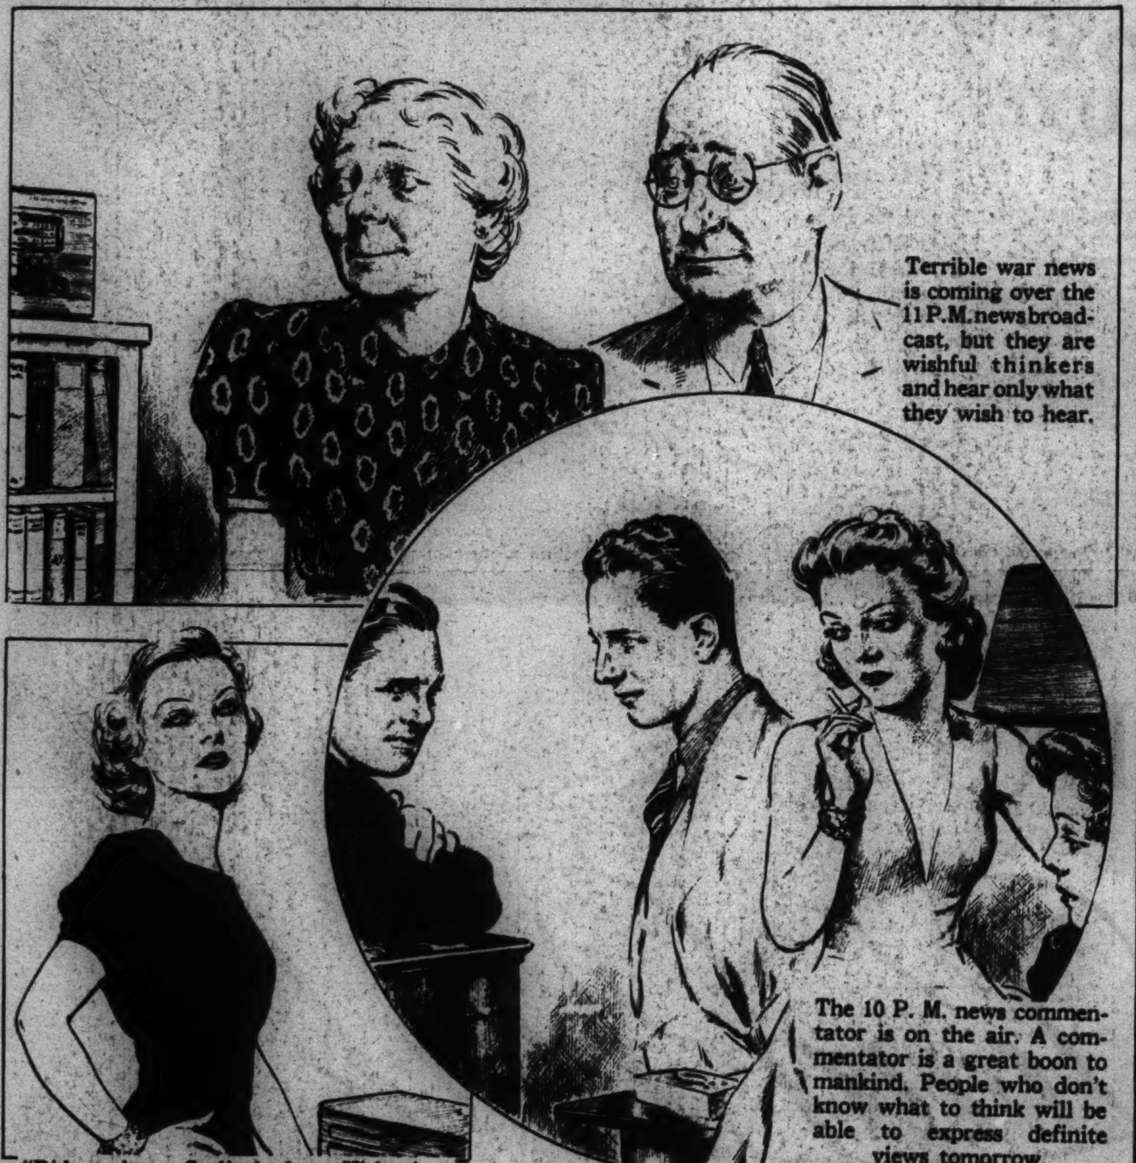
WAR NEWS BROADCAST

By W. E. Hill

Copyright, 1939, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.



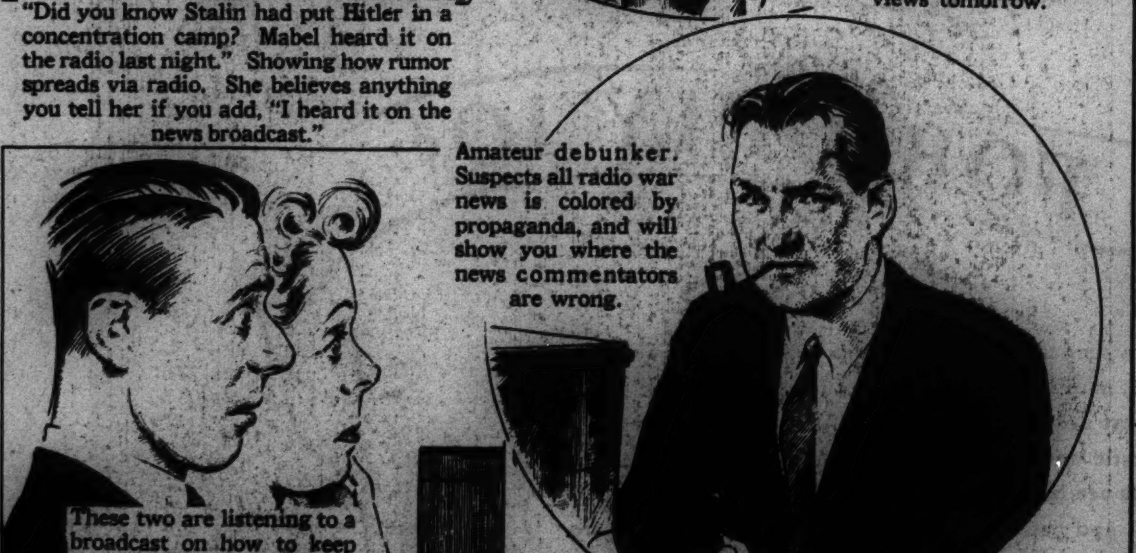
The rebroadcast of the foreign diplomat's speech. The dinner guests don't want to miss it. Half way through, the attention begins to wander. The lady in the center is thinking, "What IS wrong with the decoration of this room?" While the girl at the extreme left is asking herself if corsets have come to stay.



Terrible war news is coming over the 11 P.M. news broadcast, but they are wishful thinkers and hear only what they wish to hear.

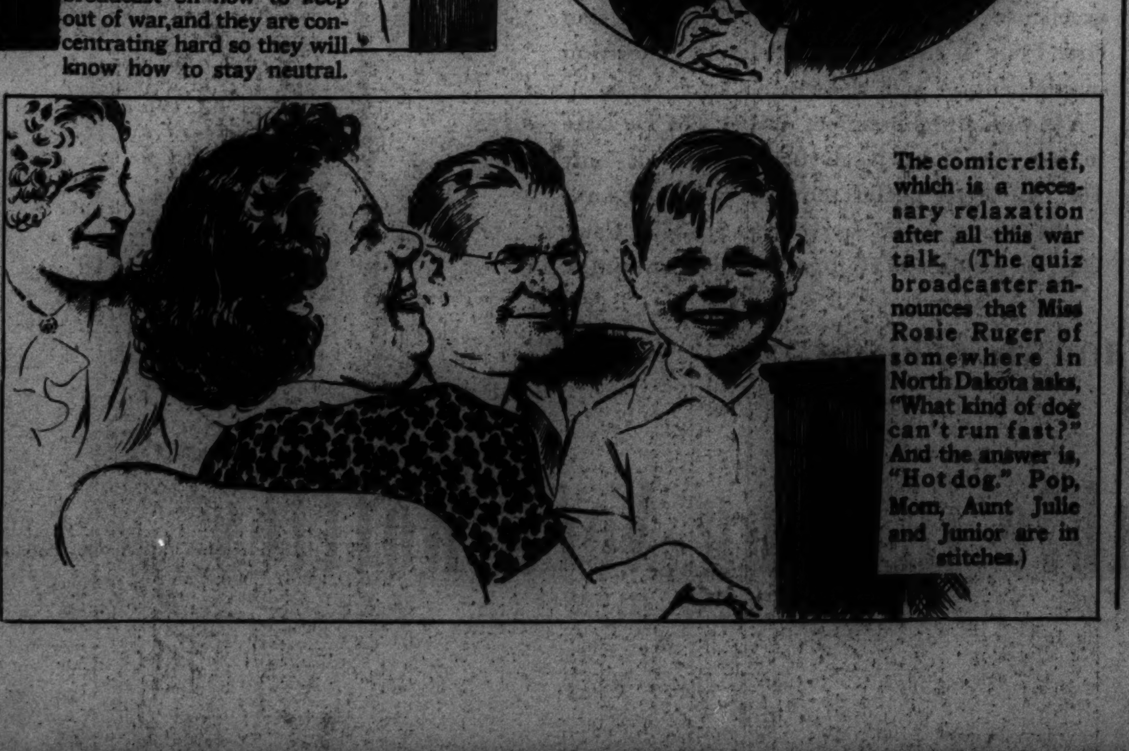
The 10 P. M. news commentator is on the air. A commentator is a great boon to mankind. People who don't know what to think will be able to express definite views tomorrow.

"Did you know Stalin had put Hitler in a concentration camp? Mabel heard it on the radio last night." Showing how rumor spreads via radio. She believes anything you tell her if you add, "I heard it on the news broadcast."



Amateur debunker. Suspects all radio war news is colored by propaganda, and will show you where the news commentators are wrong.

These two are listening to a broadcast on how to keep out of war, and they are concentrating hard so they will know how to stay neutral.



The comic relief, which is a necessary relaxation after all this war talk. (The quiz broadcaster announces that Miss Rosie Ruger of somewhere in North Dakota asks, "What kind of dog can't run fast?" And the answer is, "Hot dog." Pop, Mom, Aunt Julie and Junior are in stitches.)

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

Dainty leaves of celery look like a huge tropical plant when magnified by the camera without the aid of a microscope.

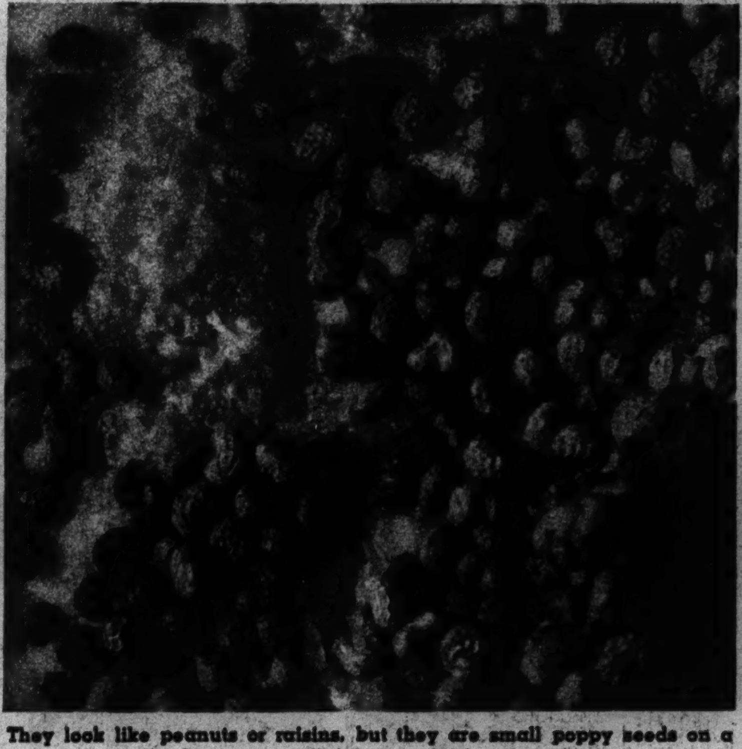
Macrographs an Amusing Pastime

ONE OF THE most amusing fields of photography is the making of "macrographs," enlarged pictures of everyday objects which assume a strange appearance when magnified. You can baffle your friends with pictures of such common things as table salt, which in a macrograph appears as an interesting pattern of good-sized crystals, more like a rock formation than like grains of a fine powder.

With a collection of such pictures you can work up a fascinating puzzle game, learn a number of interesting things about the structure of the things that surround you, and at the same time get many a pictorial print. You can achieve all this with your own camera and without the use of a microscope.

There is no limit to the subjects that lend themselves to making such puzzle pictures. Needles, screws, nail files, rubber sponges, coins, paper, textiles of all descriptions, most kinds of foods, small insects, leaves, and hundreds of other objects give macrographs which are difficult to identify and interesting to guess.



They look like peanuts or raisins, but they are small poppy seeds on a roll. Strong cross lighting made them stand out.

To get such pictures by purely photographic means, without the aid of microscope, you can employ one of two methods. You can either photograph your subject at the closest range your present camera lens permits—augmented perhaps by a portrait attachment—and then enlarge the image as far as possible. Or you will have to slightly revamp your camera by considerably increasing its bellows expansion. This can be done by removing the lens, putting a light-tight extension tube in its place, and fastening the lens to the end of this tube.

Your camera in its present form gives you an image which is smaller than the object photographed. If, with the aid of an extension tube, you move your lens to twice the distance of its focal length from the film, your image will be the same size as the "original" you photograph. Incidentally, the focal length is marked on your lens. By further increasing the distance between lens and film, and by moving closer to the object to be photographed, you can increase the image on your negative considerably beyond the size of your original.

Focusing with such a makeshift setup is most practicable if you do not try to focus with your lens, but move your subject until it appears in focus. The long bellows extension will require greatly prolonged exposures. Open up the diaphragm and disregard the f markings on your lens, as they have become invalid under the changed conditions. You can figure out the new f values of your lens if you divide the distance between the lens and the film by the actual diameter of the lens opening. You will find a much smaller f value than your diaphragm indicates and must give a correspondingly longer exposure.

In all of your macrographs you will want to record as much texture as possible. This calls for careful lighting of your subjects. If it is a matter of recording surface texture—for instance, the texture of white paper—place a strong light to one side of the subject to create shadows behind the slightly raised portions of the subject and thus accentuate the texture. In other cases you may have to use front lighting and in still others a combination of one strong light to one side and a somewhat weaker light to the other. If your subject shows the most interesting detail when held up against the light, place a light behind it.

To hold small objects in place for photographing, paste them to a clean glass slide with transparent rubber cement or Canada balsam. If the object is light, put a dark background behind it; if it is dark, use a light background.

You can get interesting macrographs of transparent objects even without a camera. Place them on a glass slide directly in the enlarger and project their image on paper as if they were negatives. The pictures you get will be, of course, reversed in tone values.

Whole series of macrographs can be prepared in this manner, centering around a group of related subjects. The most striking of these are pictures showing enlarged images of the things we eat, while pictures of silk, cotton, rayon, and wool fabrics are equally amazing.

Try to make a few of these puzzle pictures and you will soon find out that they are interesting from more than one angle.

LENS NOTES

The best place to record your exposure data is directly on the camera. Fasten a piece of thin cardboard with print mounting corners to the back of your camera. When the card is filled or you change to a new roll of film you can slip a new card into the mounting corners.

Another way to eliminate camera motion is to use the delayed action device, if your camera is equipped with it. Set the shutter and release the delayed action. By the time the shutter opens the vibration caused by manipulating your camera will have stopped. This method works only if you use your camera on a tripod.

The direct vision optical view finder on your camera acts as a small telescope if you look through it the "wrong" way. This telescope may come in handy when photographing small or distant objects. Its field covers the same picture section as the lens of the camera.

She can give you the "right number" for soothing jangled nerves

SITTING at a telephone switchboard eight hours a day is far from the world's easiest job. You must be fast and accurate . . . ever on the alert. You can't lose your temper nor your poise even though you're called upon to put up with all kinds of people.

So you'll find that telephone operators, during their 20-minute rest periods and also at luncheon, usually drink coffee. And for these very good reasons—scientific reasons:

Coffee brightens the mental faculties . . . improves judgment and self-control. It takes the strain off taut nerves . . . increases physical endurance by removing the very cause of fatigue.

So apart from the fact that there's sheer pleasure in a cup of coffee, there are excellent reasons why you should make it a part of every meal. Research shows that coffee's pleasant pick-up lasts only two hours with 97 out of 100 people.* So you can enjoy coffee in the evening and enjoy a good night's sleep too.

START YOUR CHILD OUT with a real chance in life! Many doctors say that nothing takes the place of cod liver oil in helping children to build strong bones and good teeth. And in aiding grown people to recuperate after illness. And now there's A BETTER WAY TO GIVE COD LIVER OIL—SCOTT'S EMULSION.

1—Scott's Emulsion has all the values of cod liver oil and is four times more easily digested.

2—Easily digested—The exclusive method of emulsifying the oil permits digestion to start in the stomach, whereas digestion of plain cod liver oil does not begin until the oil passes into the intestines.

3—Easy to take—Scott's Emulsion has a pleasant taste. Easy to take and retain by children and adults.

4—Economical—Scott's Emulsion is an economical way to obtain the Vitamins A and D so necessary to strong bones and sound teeth.

TO ALKALIZE EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS FAST

Quick relief from Acid Indigestion, Nausea and Headaches this remarkable Phillips' Way.

No need now to be afraid to enjoy the food you like. If you expect acid indigestion after meals, follow this simple routine.

Take two teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia a half hour after you leave the table. Or, if you're not at home, take two Phillips' Tablets, which have the same neutralizing effect.

This gives you a thorough "alkalization" just at the time excess stomach acids are developing . . . and does the job in a few minutes. No nausea or embarrassing "gas", none of that uncomfortable fullness, or stinging heartburn. You're surprised at how wonderful you feel.

Try this way—especially if you have been using some slower or less effective way to overcome acid stomach. The Phillips' Method may be a revelation and solve your problem.

SIGNS OF ACID INDIGESTION

Heartburn	Sour Stomach
Nausea	"Acid" Headache
No Appetite	"Logginess"
"Gas"	Tired feeling in morning

When you buy ask for and make sure you get the real Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Note the words "genuine Phillips'" on both bottle and tablets box.

HELP... FOR MOTHERS WHOSE CHILDREN REBEL AT TAKING Vitamins

You needn't force your children any longer to take vitamins in a way they don't like. For now delicious COCOMALT comes fortified with vitamins A, B1 and D!

Best of all—COCOMALT, with its new vitamin fortification, sells at its same old price. Three glasses a day provide the average child's minimum daily requirements.

IMPORTANT for men who shave with ELECTRIC RAZORS

IF YOU'RE ONE of the two million moderns who use an electric razor, these facts will interest you and help you get a perfect electric shave every time. No experimenting. No white scuff.

The problem with an electric razor is to dry the oily film off whiskers so your shaver can clip them off crisply and closely. That's why many men need this kind of preparation for a proper electric shave.

A dash of Aqua Velva before electric shaves dries off oily sebum and sweat. Whiskers are left in position for your shaver to "mow 'em down." Try a cool dash of Aqua Velva before your next electric shave. Thousands agree there's nothing like it to remove gritty oils from your face . . . bring each bristle smartly to attention. A second dash of Aqua Velva after shaving leaves your face smoother, cooler, more refreshed—and free from all white scuff.

We'll set you up to a FREE bottle Find out for yourself (at our expense) how Aqua Velva simplifies shaving with any electric razor. Just send your name and address to: The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. CR-4, Glastonbury, Conn., and we'll send you postpaid a generous free bottle of Aqua Velva.

Irene Rich, past 40, still has her lovely slenderness of 16. She recommends the easy Welch Way to reduce.

Lovely IRENE RICH says:

Don't Be Fat

Here's surprisingly pleasant way to lose excess weight without strict diet lists, exercises or drugs

FROM coast-to-coast, you now hear women singing the praises of a thrilling new reducing method. A method, which Dr. Damrau of New York demonstrated in tests among a group of intelligent and cooperative people, who followed directions implicitly, was responsible for an average loss in weight of 7 pounds per month. Most important, this method does NOT call for special diet lists. You never suffer a hungry moment. Nor is it necessary for you to take strenuous exercises, or drugs.

All you have to do is eat sensibly, which means that you avoid over-eating, and drink ¾ of a glass of Welch's Grape Juice, mixed with ¼ of a glass of water, before meals and at bedtime. Thus reducing the caloric intake considerably.

How This Pleasant Way Takes Off Excess Fat!

Nothing could be easier, or more pleasant. Yet!—this is what happens:—First, this delicious drink satisfies your craving for rich, sweet foods. You have less desire to over-eat fattening foods—but you do feel comfortably full. Second, the grape sugar in Welch's is quickly consumed, and by this process helps nature to consume excess fat.

Thus weight is lost naturally and safely. And this remarkable method is just as beneficial and effective for overweight men, as it is for overweight women.

Watch One Thing Carefully

Follow this proved way to take off excess fat. Eat sensibly, which means that you avoid over-eating—and be sure to use Welch's pure, aged, full-strength grape juice before meals. Always made from the pick of the grape crop. No water added; no artificial coloring. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. Insist upon genuine Welch's Grape Juice for the results you want. For economy's sake—buy Welch's by the case.

New Type Tomato Juice Thrills Nation

If you think all tomato juice is alike, what a thrill awaits you the first time you try Welch's new vitamin-rich tomato juice. Welch's is so smooth and full bodied, it can actually be diluted with ⅓ water or ice and still be thrillingly delicious. According to tests, conducted by noted chemists, Welch's Tomato Juice is proved to contain as much Vitamin A as milk—and also is rich in Vitamin B. Insist on genuine Welch's Tomato Juice. Its garden fresh flavor is sealed in glass. Double your money back, if you don't say it's the finest tomato juice you ever tasted.
